

CHURCH MOUNTAIN

It's Easier Than It Looks!

Climaxing the Independence day week-end will be the Church mountain climb, Saturday, July 5. The group will leave the Physical Education building at 7:00 a. m. and will ride to the foot of the mountain where they will begin the six mile trek to the 6,250 foot summit.

On the summit they will be greeted by an affable government fire warden and a panoramic view of a large portion of the Pacific Northwest. This hike is meant to condition the prospective Mount Baker scalars. Bring a lunch to eat on the trail; also a cup for drinking.

Around The Campus

With Eric Phillips

THAT BUMP Mr. Kibbe's wearing wasn't received from sticking his head in from behind a carnival tent—he attempted to raise one of the many logs on the Chuckanut mountain trail last Sateve. Speaking of trails—that one up Chuckanut looks like the back alley of a logging camp. . . . A certain portion of some girls' anatomies took a beating as they slid down the mountain in the dark.

"FOLLOW the birds to Victoria" seems to be the theme of the holiday with over 400 WWC-ites taking to the water for the annual cruise.

A NEOPHYTE among the publications at WWC is the new Recreation committee's YODELER—According to Rec boss McGee, it will be published just before each trip or about once a week.

HEARD ELSEWHERE. The Germans are on their way to Moscow, Siberia, and all points EAST—which could mean Alaska! Though this sounds rather fantastic, it could be, and is possible. With Hitler running thru the USSR at a rather speedy pace it wouldn't take too long to get to the islands which Russia has fortified a few miles from the American territory of Alaska. Even though the Nazi couldn't concentrate a large force there for an attack on the Western hemisphere, they could make it mighty uncomfortable for Canada and the United States.

FOLLOW THE BIRDS TO VICTORIA

EMPRESS HOTEL, VICTORIA, B. C.

SIR EDWARD BEATTY CHALLENGE TROPHY

VANCOUVER ISLAND TYEE SALMON

College Cruise Highlights July Fourth

With the idea of "following the birds to Victoria," approximately 400 Western college students will embark aboard the Princess Alice at the municipal dock tomorrow for the annual "trip abroad in a day."

Tickets for the different side trips that may be taken in and around Victoria will be sold aboard the ship.

"In Victoria one may visit the Astrophysical observatory. Mr. Butchart's sunken gardens, as well as many places right in Victoria," according to Dean L. A. McGee, who is in charge of the WWC party.

The course of the Princess Alice will take one through the beautiful San Juan islands; a cruise of about three hours. About six hours will be spent in Victoria before returning.

Saturday, a large party of WWC students will leave the campus at 7:00 a. m. for the pre-Baker trip to Church mountain. Cars will carry the hikers to the trail at the foot of the mountain from whence they will begin the six-mile climb.

A songfest atop Sehome hill has been planned for Tuesday evening. The group will gather just before sunset.

Luncheon Ends Conference

With Mrs. Pearl Wanamaker, state superintendent of public instruction, presiding, the two-day conference sponsored by Western Washington College will close today with a luncheon at Edens hall. At this time a summarization of the entire conference will be made by Mrs. Wanamaker and Dr. Hanna of Stanford University.

The conference opened yesterday morning at 10:00 o'clock in the college auditorium with Dr. W. W. Haggard presiding. Dr. Hanna began the meeting with his address, "The School Uses the Community as a Learning Laboratory," in which he showed how school environment, daily community vocations and affairs could be used as a learning laboratory without the use of textbooks. His address was followed by a panel discussion by several prominent educators, including Tillman Peterson, Bremerton; E. F. Bloom, Aberdeen; Roosevelt Basler, Tacoma; Oliver Hazen, Renton; Mrs. Beryl Bruff, Bellingham; and R. S. Raven, Marysville.

"The School Service as a Creative Force in the Community" was the afternoon address of Dr. Hanna. Those taking part in this panel were William Gurney, Mount Vernon; Miss Marcella Lawler, state department of education; Ivan Nelson, Burlington; Frank Brock, Seattle; DeFore Crablitt, Anacortes; and T. H. Muncaster, Sedro-Woolley.

Last night Dr. Hanna gave an illustrated lecture on South America, in the auditorium. During this morning's session, Dr. Hanna gave an address on "The School and the National Community." Those in the panel were Vernon McDonald, Blaine; J. A. Reeves, Everett; Miss Agnes Perry, Bellingham; H. L. Squibb, Monroe; Miss Blanche Pennick, Grays Harbor schools; Wendell Iverson, Pe Ell; and Mrs. Pliny T. Snyder, Bellingham.

Students Begin Training

Ground school instruction and flight training started Tuesday for the nine students who are taking the Civil Aeronautics course offered this summer. Previously the course required twelve students before it was given, but this quarter it is given to a reduced number.

Those of the nine applications who have fulfilled requirements and passed the physical examinations are: Ed Fitch, Ray Barnes, Justin Simonson, Orville Brownlee, Walter Wilkinson, and George Moscrip. There may be additional students from Mount Vernon.

Ground school instruction will still be under the leadership of John Griffith, but William Southern will replace Herbert Haley as flight instructor.

For those who are interested in the ground school instruction only, such a course will be available for three credits. Any student interested in taking such a course should inquire immediately at the registrar's office. Courses included in this instruction for three credits are navigation, meteorology, civil air regulations and a course called general service of aircraft.

YOUR LAST WARNING!

All students who are applicants for certificates, degrees, or renewals this summer should make application at the registrar's office today if they have not already done so.

No degrees will be ordered until the fees have been paid. Applicants have until 4:00 p. m. today to pay their degree, certificate, or renewal fees.

Dr. Paul Hanna Makes Flying Trip To Attend WWC Conference

By Eric Phillips

Coming directly by plane from Palo Alto, California, rather than from the Boston National Education Association convention as he had planned, D. Paul Hanna, professor of Education at Stanford university and principal speaker at the Western college of education conference yesterday and today, made one of those much heard of "flying trips" in order

Summer Students Travel Distance

China, Alaska, Canada, and sixteen states of the United States are represented at WWC this summer.

From the greatest distance comes Mrs. Helene Taylor of Tientsin, China, who is residing in Bellingham for the duration of the Chinese-Japanese war.

The Territory of Alaska accounts for seven women and three men in this summer's enrollment. They hail from such cities as: Fairbanks, Petersburg, Juneau, Skagway, Ketchikan, and Port Grahame. British Columbia, Dominion of Canada, is the home address of two women students.

Oregon leads all the other states, outside of Washington, with the largest number of enrollees—fifty-seven in all.

Nineteen students from Montana preferred to spend their summer in the cool Pacific Northwest.

Eight students have come from Idaho, eight from North Dakota, five from South Dakota, five from California, four from Wisconsin, two from Kansas, Minnesota, and Texas, and one from Colorado, Missouri, Florida, Iowa, and Arkansas.

to be in Bellingham for his first address Wednesday. Leaving California Tuesday, Dr. Hanna made a quick flight to Burlington, Washington, from whence he was whisked to the campus by automobile.

Continuing his remarkable pace, Dr. Hanna has given three addresses and an illustrated lecture thus far in the conference. Particularly outstanding though not originally included in the conference program was Dr. Hanna's account of his trip last fall and winter to South America. Sponsored by the government of the United States for the purpose of discovering the attitude of the South Americans as a whole to the United States, the trip proved very worthwhile and interesting, according to Dr. Hanna.

"The people in the rural districts of the South American countries do not know anything about the United States," he said. Continuing, Dr. Hanna remarked, "We always have, or at least until just recently, exploited the countries to the south of us; the Europeans, and especially the Germans on the other hand have tried to help these peoples though, of course, ultimately for their own good."

"The Germans, especially, are liked by the South Americans because they have always helped; thus we will have to help them

Have You Forgotten?

Tomorrow is the Fourth of July. It's your privilege to celebrate it as you will. Many Americans will celebrate this day in a traditional matter but how many will stop to wonder why this day is a holiday? How many will realize that a 165 years ago, our forefathers fought a war in order that we might have this day of fun?

Today we are in a world crisis faced with the danger of a possibility of losing this day of days. How we will protect this holiday for generations to come is a matter of opinion. But tomorrow when you are shooting your firecrackers, taking a boat trip, or enjoying a group picnic, stop and think that the Fourth of July means FREEDOM. Stop and think what the United States would be without its Fourth of July and then be glad that you can still celebrate.

In order that your day will be a safe and sane one, Governor Arthur B. Langlie has sent the Collegian a list of do's and don'ts which are printed in entirety below:

BE ALIVE ON THE FIFTH! This message is being broadcast to motorists throughout the nation. Traffic accidents take many lives on holidays and usually reach a peak on the Fourth of July. Many Americans assert their independence on this great National holiday by throwing caution to the winds on our streets and highways. Safety officials throughout the country are determined to curb the holiday death rate this year in spite of prospects of greater traffic congestion than ever before. In Washington, the State Patrol will be continually alert for any evidence of unsafe driving on our rural highways.

Last year the Fourth of July vacation brought death to eleven motorists and injury to many more. The Patrol asks the motorists cooperation in preventing a recurrence of such a death toll this year. To this end, a few hints on what not to do are presented for the consideration of pleasure-bound highway users.

- Don't drive if you've been drinking.
- Start early, so you won't have to speed.
- Don't take chances by passing on curves, hillcrests, or in heavy traffic.
- Drive safely and sanely on this holiday, so you'll be alive on the next one.

Goss, Baritone Here Friday

JOHN GOSS

John Goss, English baritone, will appear in concert in the 11:00 o'clock assembly next Friday. First winning his reputation as a singer in this country about a decade ago, Goss has since sung in almost every important city in the United States and Canada.

His program includes selections by Purcell, Schubert, Liszt, and Warlock as well as a group of Shakespearean songs.

An evening of magic is scheduled for Monday evening, with the appearance of Paul Fleming and his company. This performance will take the place of the usual Tuesday assembly. Versatile in performance, Fleming creates mental phenomena, pseudo-spiritualistic manifestations, stage illusions, and sleight-of-hand feats.

A Message to Garcia

My Dear Sir:

How would you like to become a U. S. Army trained aviator? The best aviation training in the world is now available at Government expense to a selected group of qualified young citizens as U. S. Flying Cadets. Army flying training prepares a young man for a career in aviation, and while he is undergoing that training he receives pay at the rate of $75.00 per month, uniforms, dental and medical attention, and board and lodging. He actually earns while he learns. Comparable training is not obtained elsewhere. The best full-course training available in civilian schools costs from $2,000 to $4,000 and up for tuition alone.

Upon graduation as a flying cadet, the graduate is tendered a commission as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Reserve and becomes eligible for three years of active duty with the Regular Army Air Corps under his reserve commission, with the same pay and allowances as an officers of the same grade and length of service on flying duty in the Regular Army at a minimum total monthly rate of $205.50, when assigned to Government quarters, or $245.50 per month when not assigned to Government quarters. During the three-year period of active duty there are opportunities to compete for appointment as a second lieutenant in the Regular Army Air corps.

If you have not already done so, the War department recommends strongly that you complete your collegiate training. However, in case you are prevented from continuing your studies, successful completion of at least one-half of the necessary credits leading to a degree exempts you from the educational examination for appointment as a flying cadet.

Postcards to indicate your desires may be secured at the Registrar's office.

Charles Vaughn's Cheerful Personality Pleases Feminine Reporter

By Marilyn Manuel

"He was sitting in his office just a minute ago," said a tall, medium built gentleman with a twinkle in his eyes as your reporter inquired the whereabouts of Dr. Charles Vaughn, new summer instructor of the Education department.

Still wondering if this youthful and energetic individual was a guide for the Research department or the Ed. measurements teacher, I suddenly found myself in his office.

Pointing out in the general direction of Bellingham bay, he said, "Isn't that some scenery?" This is the first time I've been in Washington and I think it is fine for a vacation."

Questioning what he meant by vacation, he replied, "Well, this fall I have to go back to the University of Arizona where I started teaching in September, 1940, and I like it there in the winter but you do have nice country here."

In relating his most interesting occupation before going to Arizona, Dr. Vaughn told of his work in the psychopathic clinic of the Recorder's court at Detroit, Michigan.

"I was there as a psychiatrist, not as a patient," he laughed. "Before my job in the criminal court, I did work at the Wayne County Training school for mental defective children at Northville, Michigan. That dealt mostly with remedial reading," he concluded.

Not offering a great deal of information about himself, the man with the friendly smile that would put anyone at ease, had to be questioned further.

"What about my private life? Well, I'm married and have two children, both boys. One is age four and one-half years and the other is two. My wife and children are both here with me." Then as if by the power of suggestion, he continued, "We came by freighter part of the way. It was our first time on the water."

"I'm going fishing while I'm here," he said suddenly, changing the subject. "I just bought some new trout equipment and I'm going to use it up there on the Nooksack."

Asked if he might go salmon fishing, he agreed that he might find time to go out on the bay also.

June Weddings Continue To Occupy Social Spotlight; House Officers Elected

June weddings continue to take the social spotlight, with many former WWC students married. Organized houses elect officers for the summer term.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH F. IRBY

Irby-Chandler Nuptials Solemnized

Evelyn Clarita Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clayton Chandler, of Bellingham, was united in marriage with Mr. Joseph F. Irby, son of Mr. E. C. Irby, of Edmonds, in the Garden Street Methodist church, Sunday afternoon, June 22.

Vivian McGrath, organist, played the wedding march.

Mrs. Irby, graduate of Western Washington College, the University of Washington and the Chenard Art School in Los Angeles, taught art in various schools, including the city schools in Seattle. Mr. Irby is a former student of WWC.

Mr. and Mrs. Irby are on their honeymoon in Eastern points and Florida, and will return by way of California. They will make their home in Seattle.

Robbins-Knight Married

Betty Lou Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Knight, and Mr. Daniel Miller Robbins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Robbins, of Seattle, were married in the Garden Street Methodist church, Saturday evening, June 28.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Knight home.

Attendants of the bride were Peggy Jo Smith, as maid of honor, and Alice Gooding, Eloise LeValley, DeLayne Miller and Mary Helen Provanche, as bridesmaids.

Mrs. Robbins is a former student of WWC, and attended the University of Washington. After August 1, the couple will be at home at 3033 Kulshan street.

Green-Bell Wedding Held

Jessie Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bell, of Snohomish, week-end were: Betty Jean Bayley, Lake Samish; Mildred Beers, Tacoma; Alice Byrnes, Port Townsend; Naomi Chase, Seattle; Harriet Dickens, Seattle; Mae Englehart, Seattle; Laura Hein, Langley; Eunice Johnson, Vancouver; Georgia Kayler, Vancouver; Evelyn Lingg, Seattle; Lois Lowery, Edison; Ellen Patterson, Vancouver, B. C.; Elizabeth Vallentgoetd, Mount Vernon; Rose Waters, Vancouver, B. C.; Marjorie Wicker, Renton; and Rose Works, Marysville.

MANY WWC STUDENTS GET POSITIONS

Many WWC graduates have been awarded teaching contracts this month. Miss Hopper, of the appointment bureau, has issued the names of twelve placements. They are: Zilda Baker, second grade, Mount View school; Mildred Twedt, grades four to six, Everson; Walter Brodniak, sixth grade, Conway; Dorothy Fox, third grade, Port Angeles; Virgie Boal, grade one and two, Mount Vernon.

Parker Pratt, grades five to eight, Van Zandt; Lydia Bishard, primary, King county; Leslie Jones, fifth and sixth grades, Pe Ell; Laurel Schenck, grades five and six, Brooklyn; Betty Purnell, third grade, Meridian; Zelda Bergquist, intermediate, Hoquiam; and Geraldine Mankey, grades one to three, Suquamish.

CAMPUS SCHOOL LARGE

Judging from the number of people enrolled in the campus training school, it seems that summer school at WWC appeals not only to the grown-ups but also to the youngsters.

In the first six grades which are being taught this quarter, there are 165 children plus 21 pupils who are doing remedial work. Teaching these students are 26 student teachers. There are 21 remedial teachers for those students needing special help.

HANNA MAKES FLYING TRIP TO WWC

Dr. Hanna and Mrs. Pearl Wanamaker, state superintendent of public instruction, will conclude the conference with a summary at the luncheon in Edens hall this noon. Leaving the campus of WWC soon after, Dr. Hanna will go—oh, maybe, to another educational gathering for which he is in demand.

Tiffany Plays Leading Role as Prior In Vane's "Outward Bound"

Bill Tiffany, who has been selected to play the leading role of Tom Prior in Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound," the summer college play, is an old hand in the world of dramatics.

Coming to WWC, he has worked as an assistant to Dr. Cotton in the Speech department. Being very much interested in radio, he has directed all college radio programs as well as sweeping and cleaning out the studio. Among his other claims to college fame are positions such as secretary of junior class, member of the board of control, scholarship society, Klipsun and Collegian staffs. He also is a member of the International Relations club but rates himself as a member in poor standing.

He plans to go to the University of Washington in the fall to major in speech in the college of arts and sciences. He hopes to get into radio eventually, if the army doesn't get him first. Last Tuesday he went to the draft board and declared, "At last I am a man!" "Outward Bound" will run two nights, July 31 and August 1.

Tiffany's first dramatic attempt was made in the campus training school in the eighth grade when he played the part of Aegeus, father of Hermia, in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." On entering Fairhaven high school, he sweated through his first oration entitled "Why I Am Thankful To Be a Freshman at Fairhaven." Transferring to Bellingham high school, he entered politics and gave a rousing campaign speech for a candidate for student body president—the candidate lost.

HICKS GETS RECOGNITION FOR GUILD PRODUCTION

Recognition has come to the Theatre guild and Arthur C. Hicks for the latter's essay, "An American Performance of THE CENCI," recently published in Stanford Studies in Language and Literature. Among those heard from are Carl Grabo, author of THE MAGIC PLANT and other important studies of Shelley's thought; Frederick L. Jones, Frederick A. Pottle, John Lindsay, all specialists in Shelley; Sally Leighton of the University of British Columbia; Maurice Evans, the great Shakespearean actor; and Hallie Flanagan, former head of the Federal Theatre project. Professor Jones writes: "You and your Theatre guild deserve great praise from all loves of Shelley for the successful presentation of Shelley's great drama . . . Henceforth you and your guild are a part of the Shelley tradition."

The College library has ordered a copy of the Stanford Studies which contains the article on THE CENCI. Also recently added to the library is a copy of Dr. Hick's study, THE STRUCTURE OF MEREDITH'S NOVELS AND THE COMIC SPIRIT, published in 1939 in the University of Oregon Thesis series.

Junior High Workshop Speeds Along

The junior high school curriculum workshop is finishing its second week of intensive study and varied activity. The workshop provides an opportunity for teachers, counselors, and administrators to come together and work on current school problems. Each participant brings a specific interest or problem which has arisen out of his teaching experience and the workshop affords him an opportunity to make an intensive study of that interest or problem.

For example: three participants are working out the objectives, and teaching units for the new state course of study on Washington, its history, government, industries, and resources. This research is being done in collaboration with the University of Washington workshop and will be incorporated in the new state course of study on social science to be published this coming fall by the State Department of Education at Olympia.

Forty Enrolled

Forty people are enrolled in the workshop. With nearly forty different problems, it was necessary to separate them into groups in which problems of similar nature could be handled. These groups are: language, fine arts, music, industrial arts, science, mathematics, and social studies.

The participants work together in groups and also individually on their specific problems. The findings of each group will be mimeographed at the close of the session, so that each person may take home the specific information that the workshop has accumulated.

A rather strenuous program is conducted each day in the workshop, with various study groups meeting, individual conferences with advisers, special interest get-togethers, and luncheon meetings at Edens hall.

Last week the group enjoyed a picnic at Gooseberry Point and on July 9 will picnic at Larrabee State park. While there collections of marine life will be made for the seashore aquarium, soon to be a feature of the workshop.

Monday, July 1, a tea and art exhibit of the water colors of a noted Northwest artist, Miss Venessa Helder was sponsored by the Art department for the workshop and art classes.

Bond Speaks

Three or four special educational features will be sponsored by several of the groups in the workshop. Dr. Elden Bond, professor at Yale and son of WWC's own Dr. E. A. Bond, will address the entire group on Monday, July 7, at 11:00 o'clock, on "Problems in Reading." Later the same day, he will be the luncheon guest and at that time will lead a discussion on the same topic.

July 10, Mr. Clark Frasier, director of the training school at Eastern College of Education at Cheney, will address a general meeting of the workshop at 9:00 on the topic: "Teaching of Conservation." Mr. Frasier is representing and sponsored by the Progressive Education association and will be guest of the Men's Thursday Luncheon club. Again at 1:30, Mr. Frasier will address a general meeting on "The Challenge of Progressive Education."

By Frank German

After a rather intrepid start, the Seattle Rainiers seem to have found themselves. From this corner it appears that much of the credit can be given to the sensational playing of rookie shortstop Ned Stickle. A recent Whitman college graduate, he was inserted into the line-up in a moment of desparity by Manager Skiff. Thus began the upward surge of the Rainiers. Pepper Martin's Senators still look like the team to beat but with the brand of ball that Seattle has been dishing up, they can't be counted out.

To date there are eight players signed to make the trip to Seattle and compete with University in basketball. However, the gym is open to all students between 4 and 6 p. m., whether they desire the rigid competition or not. All basketball equipment will be issued with the exception of shoes.

Jack Torney, University intramural coach, wanted to play the basketball and softball game on the same day, but Lappy had to refuse because of better judgment. In the first place because of a small number of participants, there would not be enough players to go around, and in the second, the motive is to make men and not break them.

... Big Vaughn Weber has taken over Leon Alpaugh's head coaching job at Tenino... While brother Wayne Weber has moved from Conway to assistant head coach at Foster.

Chet Orloff, former WWC tennis ace, retained his city net title for the second straight year by besting George Livesey on the local courts... Livesey is a former training school student, who, though losing to Orloff, won the city junior title for the second year... No names can be mentioned but it is rumored that Coach Chuck Lappenbusch is on the trail of a couple of de-Athertoned Pacific Coast conference freshmen who he would like to see on the campus next year... Among the few more than a hundred men seen on the campus is Danny Gagnon, former Viking speedball in the 100- and 220-yard dashes...

Intramural Golf Equipment Available For WWC Women Students

Golf equipment is available for women for intramural use and may be checked each day from the basket room in the PE building. This equipment is made available so that the women might take advantage of the special arrangement with the Lakeway golf course whereby the students only pay a ten cent fee to use the course. The remainder of the fee is paid by the school funds.

Students will receive the reduced rates at the golf course upon presentation of their ASB card. Any woman in school may check out the golf equipment for intramural use, however, not for class use. Those wishing to check out golf clubs are asked to note the schedule in the cage room of the hours when equipment is checked.

Equipment should be returned at ten o'clock of the following day on week days, and at ten o'clock on Monday if the equipment is checked out on Friday.

Badminton equipment, also, is available for women, and may be checked out and used at any time when the gym is not being used for a class.

Recreational swimming for women is also a part of the summer program, and is offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4:15 till 5:30. Suits and towels are furnished by the department.

TWELVE WWC STUDENTS REGISTER FOR DRAFT

Twelve men students of WWC registered last Tuesday at the draft board in the Luther building for the Selective Service Act. Those registering were Walt Brodriak, David Clarke, Herman Hendricks, Jim Junkin, Lyle Pettyjohn, Eric Phillips, Al Rivord, Brian Robson, Howard Spaan, Bill Tiffany, Fred Weihe, and Justin Simonson.

The cards of the second registration were considerably different from those of the first. Both the places of residence and mailing address of the registrant were taken and also his occupation and his citizenship together with other information.

Selective service headquarters, according to an Associated Press dispatch, has worked out a system of interspersing the new registrants in the list of those who enrolled last October, under which plan it is expected a big percentage of those called during the last half of this year will be men 21 years of age.

Court Games Arranged With U of W

Summer basketball schedules with the University of Washington have been announced this week by Coach Charles Lappenbusch. The Portland Beavers will be playing the Seattle Rainiers on that date and the local players will be given a chance to see the game.

On July 16 the Washington Huskies will play a return game here on the local floor. Playground ball will be played the second half of the summer term and games with the University have been arranged for July 31 and August 7.

Players who have signed up for intramural basketball and are already turning out are Jim Hollingsworth, Lyle Pettyjohn, Delbert Boulton, Hugh Hassell, Walt Brodriak, Pete Gudyka, Walt Brisiki, and John Lund.
