

'Empty Victory Great Danger,' Charles Wells Tells Assembly

Artistic Newspaper Traveler, Journalist Illustrates Lecture With Chalk Sketches

By MARILYN TURNER

As he illustrated his lecture with chalk sketches, Charles A. Wells, world traveler and journalist, thoroughly interested his audience in assembly Tuesday, February 23.

Mr. Wells, who has been drawing cartoons for newspapers since he was in high school, said in his modest manner, "Drawing is really very simple." He also told the group that in Europe or Asia it is not so unusual to be an artist as it is in the United States, probably because of the manner in which they write—by means of small pictures or figures.

The speaker attended Friends university and the University of California, both in his home state, before going to Europe to study art in Paris and Italy. The artist now has the largest collection of propaganda pictures in the world.

As he has traveled most of his life, he has many thrilling experiences to relate, of happenings in the present conflict including the first blitzkrieg in Poland.

Mr. Wells, a tall, slender man of Quaker ancestry bent over the blackboard to illustrate his lecture. As he talked of war and its horrors, his deft hands were busily sketching. Finishing, he stepped back to reveal a picture of factories, airplanes, and men and war machinery falling over a precipice.

With hands behind his back, the cartoonist then went on talking, "Defeat is not the only danger of the present war," he said, and then expressed the greatest danger as being an "empty victory."

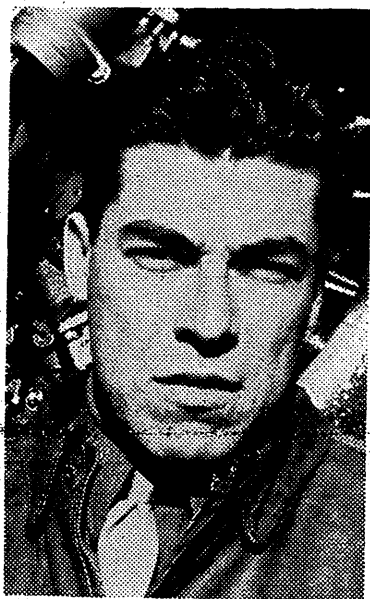

He also told the assembly that he believed it impossible for anyone to conquer an Asiatic country.

"Racial snobbishness," he said, "Nearly lost the war with the Japanese for the United States."

Mr. Wells then ended the interesting chalk talk and lecture by sketching a picture of Abraham Lincoln and in turn re-making it into a picture of Christ and placing him in a position so that he fills the precipice made previously.

"God has brought us to a great day, are we going to be big enough for that day?" was the thought-provoking note on which he ended.

He Drops Bombs

Edward B. Fitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. James I. Fitch, 1638 James street, was recently commissioned as a second lieutenant, upon his graduation from the Douglas Air Base Advanced Flying school, Douglas, Arizona. Before receiving his wings as a pilot, Fitch attended Western Washington college. He enlisted seven months ago.

Spring Registration Underway Today

Pre-registration for spring quarter got underway yesterday and will be carried on until March 5. "Fees will not be paid, however, until March 29," according to Dr. Arthur C. Hicks, registrar. The program for pre-registration has been posted on the bulletin board for reference.

Dr. Hicks urges that the studying program of all students be carefully worked out to suit immediate plans. "Those who plan to teach should arrange a program to finish in the shortest possible time," stated Dr. Hicks, "and those entering the service soon will find that their selections now will have a direct bearing on their opportunities later."

Cummins 'Wakes' Women's Club

"Wake up, America," was the theme of the talk given by Miss N. Cummins last Tuesday night for the Business and Professional Women's club. The address had to do with the war in general and post-war organization. A definite plan has been followed by the business and Professional Women's club this year, dealing with the war and post war organization.

World Service Fund Drive Next Week

"We've got it; they need it."

The big drive for the World Student Service Fund will begin next Monday with Soup and Salad as the first dishes on the International Menu. The plan is that each student and every faculty member will forego a dish of soup and a salad next week and give the price of these dishes to the World Student Service fund.

This money goes to help students, including Americans who are prisoners of war, refugees, or internees in occupied countries.

Although the W. S. S. F. drive is sponsored by the Blue Triangle club, it is in every respect an all-student challenge. Containers to receive contributions will be placed in convenient places. Don't miss them!

Reserves May Finish Quarter

According to information just received by Arthur C. Hicks, registrar, students in the V-1 branch of the Naval reserves now in college will complete their sophomore year before taking qualifying tests.

Those in the V-5 program may complete the current college year before being called to active duty for flight training. Present V-7 men who have more than one term to complete for a degree will be placed on active duty and ordered to colleges under contract with the Navy, on or about July 1, 1943. Those V-7 students who have one term or less to complete before receiving a degree, may remain in the college which they are attending and finish their course.

Lounge Drapes Here

Lola J. Smith has extended an invitation to all students to visit the Student Lounge and see the new drapes which arrived this week. Just part of the drapes ordered have arrived, but those are being put up.

Popular Vancouver Pianist Guest Artist Tuesday

Ira Swartz, one of the youngest and most popular pianists in Vancouver, B. C., will be a guest in assembly Tuesday, March 2.

The well-known teacher of piano has accompanied the best artists in Vancouver and has broadcast over CBR. He just recently finished a very successful appearance playing Bach's concerto with the Vancouver Symphony orchestra.

Mr. Swartz also teaches in a Vancouver boys' school two days a week.

Western Washington College has played host to the pianist once before when he appeared as a soloist and accompanist.

Miss Edith Strange, Music department, said, "He has chosen a very beautiful program," and also stated that he will play some works of Chopin, Hadyn and varied delightful moderns.

Tea Drinkers Donate Books

Winding up the Victory book campaign on the college campus was a tea Thursday afternoon sponsored by the AWS, admission to which was one book.

To publicize the drive, the AWS commission made posters for the main hall and displayed the types of books that the American Library Association, the American Red Cross and the USO are aiming to collect for boys in service.

President Cheryl Smith of the Alkisiah club announces that at a meeting last Monday, the organization decided to purchase a book for the cause from money in the treasury.

The Valkyrie club recently drew on their funds to buy "Our Timeless Land" by Eleanor Dark, as their donation to the servicemen.

Publications Move Into New Offices

Room 208 is undergoing some drastic changes. It has been divided into three separate offices, and will be turned over to the publications staffs as their new home. The larger of the offices will be the main news room of the WV Collegian, and the other two will belong to the Klipsun staff and Mrs. Ruth A. Burnet, publications adviser.

When the old WV Collegian office has been deserted, it will be reclaimed by the Science department. Social science offices in the north wing of the Administration building are also being improved at the present time.

Waffles Coming Up

Friday, March 5, is the new date set for the Valkyrie waffle supper. Elaine Shintaffer, social chairman, will be the hostess at her home in the Myrtle apartments. After the dinner the club members will attend the Cheney game in a group.

Critical Game Series Brings Savages Across Hills

Eastern College Hauls 13 Men to Bellingham For Last Home Game Tournament

A last minute telegram sent to Coach Brumlay of the Eastern Washington Savages set the date for the last two games of the Viks for Monday and Tuesday of next week, March 1 and 2.

Cheney brings to town as a starting lineup: the Leifer brothers, Lothspeich, Oleson, and Perrault. I. Leifer is a slender lad, playing almost all the instruments in a band, tap dances, and can hit the basket like nobody's business. Lappy contends that if Leifer is going to score he'll have to rough it plenty. The Lothspeich brothers hit the basket from the corners exceptionally well. Oleson and Perrault are both speedy boys and can handle the ball with much deceptiveness. Jones, Woodworth, and Smith are three other good men that the Savages are including in the road trip. Jones is the son of the Superintendent of Schools at Castle Rock, and Smith is a red headed boy whose brother was a former star for Cheney.

Lappy said the only way to beat Cheney is by expert checking and having the physical stamina to stay in there and fight for forty minutes.

WV's team on the whole is in good shape. Captain Ernie Ludwick has been suffering from a bad cold, and Rich Wittren still has a bad knee but both boys will be raring to go in their starting berths.

"The team is improving over last week," the Doc commented, "and have a special desire to be in good shape to beat Cheney because there has been some real competitive spirit fired in our boys after the last encounters." Both the coach and

Radio Class Play Presented Soon

Rehearsals are now progressing in Ramon T. George's Radio Broadcasting class on a radio play to be presented over the local station next week. "The Old Oaken Bucket" is a comedy, and concerns the will of an old lady who had a sense of humor.

Heading the cast are Betty Yorkston and Eddie Hickenbottom, who play the young lovers, anxious to be married. However, Betty's father thinks Eddie is too scatterbrained to take care of his daughter. Supporting members of the cast are Bill Hatch and Floyd St. Clair. In charge of sound effects are Georgina Voris and Lorraine Pickering.

A special guest in the studio during last Tuesday's "College Newsweek in Review" broadcast, was Doc Washburn, former WV Collegian staff member, now on leave from Fort William Harrison.

Faculty Bulletin Ready For Press

Most of the material for the faculty bulletin is ready, according to Dr. C. C. Upshall. It will be complete and ready for press next week.

Distribution of the bulletin will be made at the beginning of next quarter. Chiefly, it will be sent to graduates who are now in the teaching field.

Contents of the bulletin will contain interesting news about the college and many informative articles by the alumni and faculty.

The bulletin will be printed with the same kind of type as formerly used and will be approximately the same size.

Foolosophy...

Tis Spring

Da Boid is on da wing.

But dat's absoid.

I thought da wing was on

Da boid.

As a sequel to last week's feature on Spring fever, we present (very reluctantly) the following feat—the following arti—the following it—well, the stuff printed below.

It was very difficult to find anything to write about this week. We thought about calling your attention to all the amusing things that happened at last week's games. We thought you might be interested in knowing about Jimmy Ennis's grin after he would get mad, and someone from the audience would holler, "Aw, come on Jimmy, smile." Or did you see that bit of comedy when Fred (Punchy, my hero) Strankman was dribbling the ball and bounced it into a St. Martin's player's hand, looking at what he'd done, reached over and took it away from him, and went merrily on to win the game.

But we thought you had probably seen all this anyway.

Then we thought about writing an article on men, as that seems to be uppermost in everyone's mind, (including the men's). But we decided the most trivial things were the hardest to write about, so we banished the thought from our minds.

ODE TO UNCLE SAM

We girls of WWC,

Oh, we do so respect thee.

But you'll soon cease to be our fren,

If you don't soon cease to take all the men.

Our war duties we do not shirk,

At the filter center we work.

While at home we sit and sit,

For your soldiers we knit and knit.

But, Believe me, Uncle Sammy,

Even though this poem's hammy,

It's in all seriousness we say,

Please don't take any more men away.

After writing that we thought maybe after all it would just be best to toss the whole thing in a waste paper basket. It might have been best to forget about it. But the editor probably will forget about it anyway, and if she doesn't, and it does get printed, we sincerely hope that our readers (hi mom) will forget about it.

Camp Candid's

● In a recent letter, Warren Becroft, now stationed at Atlantic City, relates the woes of his life in the signal corps. The shoe shortage may even hit the army if the rest of the boys are as hard on their shoes as "Pinky" for in one month he has completely worn out a pair of G. I.'s. If anyone cares to write to him, his address is: Pvt. Warren Becroft, Group XI, Wing A, Flight D, Atlantic City, N. J.

Aviation Cadet Walt Wilkinson is now completing his advanced flight training at Minter Field, California. As soon as this training is done he will receive his commission as a second lieutenant.

● If you were wondering why Hazel Anderson looked so happy last Friday here is the answer, "Doc" Washburn, her fiance, arrived here to spend a week's furlough.

Washburn, who is convalescing after a four week's siege of scarlet fever, is a former student and member of the WWCollegian staff. He is at present stationed at Fort William Henry Harrison near Helena, Montana.

Ed Hickenbottom has received his call for induction into the Army March 2.

No Winter Play The Latest News Says Hoppe

● Due to many circumstances which have arisen during the quarter, there will be no winter quarter play this year, according to Victor H. Hoppe, of the department of drama.

Mr. Hoppe has selected several plays, and has written to the publishers to get permission to stage one of them. He has found it increasingly difficult to obtain the rights to present stage plays, mostly due to the increasing costs of royalties.

AWS Undertakes Red Cross Drive

● Making convalescent robes is a new drive recently undertaken by the AWS for the Red Cross. These robes go to the army and navy hospitals and are used as small robes to throw over the patients' knees.

Some are made of knitted squares and are easy for a group to work on as one person can work on a few squares at a time and later sew them together.

The making of these robes has been going on in Bellingham for about two years. Many clubs and various groups in town have contributed time and materials. This is a direct way in which we can help the servicemen.

All girls in school are asked to come in and contribute their bit. The group meets in room five in the home economics department on Tuesday and Wednesday at 10 and 1 o'clock.

Ed Muscutt, Howard Wright, and Frank Zurline leave Saturday morning for Fort Lewis after finishing their seven day furlough.

First Lieutenant Harley Fixx is now stationed in Cairo, Egypt, with the army air forces, has been in contact with the enemy several times. According to word received by Mrs. George Stearns, housemother at Hospice, Harley is doing fine and says "hello" to all of his friends.

Riding in the clouds above Olympia, and points west, is Second Lieutenant Jim Hollingsworth sporting the wings of Uncle Sams air forces. He is now stationed at the state capitol.

Is Red Right? Not in this case.

"Hey, Bud, when do we get our orders?" calmly inquired Red Wright.

"Here's one order now," replied the soldier with the silver bars on his shoulder. "Don't ever address a Captain as Bud again." Red was at home (Montesano) this week, but planned to return to Bellingham today. He will report to Fort Lewis next Saturday.

Harley Huhta, clothier, has been doing OK by himself at cards this last week. First, he picked up that pinochle hand of all hands, 1000 aces, and then came through to win the Hospice cribbage tournament. He defeated Dick Denis two to one to win the championship. (A feat somewhat comparable to Harley's 1000 aces is the unprecedented 100% scored by Mike Smith in a recent math test). Edwards hall has challenged the winner of the crib tournament to a series. The report we have give Les Winders and "Hoot" as the two contestants.

Three men from Hospice Inn were given the honor of playing on the intramural all-star team which played the supervarsity in the opener of the Viking, St. Martins game last Saturday. The all-star team, picked by Sam Carver, included Art Stenson, Don Brown, and Mike Smith. Cale Campbell, also of

Faculty Party Theme Secret

● Thursday, March 11 is the date of the winter faculty party. As yet the theme of the party is being carefully guarded by the committee, headed by Dr. C. C. Upshall of the Research department. It is a custom that every quarter the instructors of WWC have a party. In the fall there is usually a formal dinner to welcome the new guests. In the winter it has been tradition to have a humorous costume affair. Last year the theme of the winter party was an "air raid" and everyone came dressed to the party covered with pots and pans. Baked salmon is enjoyed by the staff at their spring picnic.

From Houses

Hospice, coached the All-stars.

Aw, gee, listen fellas, the deadline for the house news is Tuesday afternoon at 4. How about that, please?

College Catalogue Undergoes Change

● "To make the college catalogue more useful and informative to students, faculty, and prospective students," is the object of the committee revising the catalogue, according to Dr. Arthur C. Hicks, chairman.

There was no new catalogue last year, but merely a supplement. Other members of the committee are Miss Charlotte B. Richardson and Miss Ethel Church. They are being assisted by the curriculum committee. Plans for the revision have been underway for several years.

Last Chance For Klipsun Photos

"This last week was the final date for all Klipsun pictures," was the statement of Hazel Anderson, Klipsun editor.

She also said that the 1943 Klipsun was nearly ready for the printers.

Edens Hall Mothers Entertained With Luncheon

● Eden shall girls will entertain their mothers the week-end of February 26. Twenty-five mothers are expected to be present.

A tour of the campus will be conducted early Saturday afternoon. At 3:30 a tea will be given in the Edens hall Blue room for the girls and their mothers.

A candle light dinner is being planned for Saturday evening. Childhood will be the theme with a pink and blue color scheme. The program will consist of a solo by Mabel Odegaard, a reading by Alice Marie Anderson, a piano solo by Cheryl Smith and a trio selection by Louise Estergreen, Rachel Biekink and Crystal Ackerman, Zosia Nowogroski will be the toastmistress of the evening.

The following committees have been appointed: Tea, general chairman, Faye Stiles; table decorations, Maybelle Bodey, chairman, Margaret Moyer, Gordon Nell Kendall; refreshments, Margaret Richards, chairman, Carol Hanify, Betty Dodge; entertainment, Betty Moles, chairman, Lorraine Juvet, Phyllis Artley. Dinner, general chairman, Betty Hayes; decorations, Melissa Persons, chairman, Jean Knutson, Alice Marie Anderson, Marian Lyttaker; program, Zosia Nowogroski, chairman, Crystal Ackerman, Nancy Douglass; placecards, Mabel Ode-Persons, chairman, Jean Knudson, Louise Estergreen, Mary Louise Burke.

● The steps from bum to a hero or vice versa is probably the shortest step to the sporting world. This old axiom was never more clearly shown than by our own "Punchy" Strankman in Saturday night's game. With the Viks leading 33 to 32 and with one minute and forty seconds left to play, the obvious strategy was to protect that slim lead by stalling. Instead, Mr. Strankman elected to shoot. The Rangers recovered the ball off the backboard and scored a field goal to lead 34 to 33. This makes Strankman a bum. Then, with about fifteen seconds remaining, he was fouled and awarded two gift tosses. While the crowd awaited breathlessly, he calmly toed the line and nonchalantly sank both shots. Thus, by coming through when the chips were down, he became a hero, all in less than a minute and a half—Q.E.D.

Eddie Hickenbottom will be the next addition to Uncle Sam's ranks... He is to report on March 3... Baseball leagues are folding right and left due to the transportation and manpower shortage... The latest additions to this list are the Mid-Atlantic and Penn State leagues... However the Appalachian League, a class D organization, will operate with a full schedule of 114 games... An effort is being made to send Greg Rice to Sweden to race Gunder Haegg, the record breaking Swedish fireman... Seattle's Rainiers saw $25,000 go down the drain with the induction of Earl Torgeson into the army today... They turned down an offer of twenty-five grand for him this winter...

Cliff Johnson, of the Renegades, is to report to the Army Air corps today... This should be a hitter's year in the professional baseball ranks as the pitchers won't be getting into too good shape in the frigid north... They should be getting warmed up along about June... Very few of them will be able to go nine innings for the first month or so... Ken Penner, former Bellingham skipper, may pilot the Sacramento Solons in the Coast League... The army called up fourteen members of the Georgia Tech football team who were in the reserves... Among them are seven first stringers including their sensational young star, Clint Castlebury... Nate Richardson, Don Packard and Dick Mock are to report for induction tomorrow...

Hickenbottom Leads Edwards to Upset

Bowling a cool single game of 222 at the 20th Century Bowling alley Thursday of this week, Ed Hickenbottom the pride and joy of the Edwards hall bowling team, broke Hal Loop's former record by two pins. Hickenbottom also collected honors for the high double game with 355 pins.

The high flying Collegian five were swamped by the Edwards Hall boys and lost all three points. The PE Department was defeated by the lowly Independents. Hospice luckily won a forfeit from the Faculty.

With the WRA ...-

By ALICE FJELLMAN
● With only a hope of a little good weather last Saturday members of the WRA dug out their gay-ninety scows and climbed aboard the Lakeway Drive bus. When they reached Whatcom Falls park they got off and proceeded on to the Boy Scout cabin. There were about 17 girls who participated. The next jaunt will be held Saturday, March 6, and from all reports it really is a dilly. All amateur sleuths are asked to join the ranks and try their skills as a blood hound... The almost invisible trail will be marked by broken twigs, scraps of paper and stones. Town Stuff Bows to Edens

A sizzler was played last Wednesday evening when the EDENS sextet went out to invade the TOWN STUFF. When the final whistle blew the score stood at 16-13 with Edens on the top.

Swimming Meet in the Making
Plans are progressing for the annual swim meet to be held some time in March. Remember girls, Thursday night is an excellent night to practice.

WRA Is On Its Toes
According to a bulletin received by Miss Virginia Hawke, the physical education instructor, the WRA has been carrying on all programs necessary to fit in the physical fitness program for some time. Every night of the week is a busy one for our organization and there is something to please everyone. This meant very little adjustment to have a program that physical fitness requests. The latest program that has been added to the WRA activities is the regular physical fitness night and is scheduled for Monday night. Any college woman and faculty members are urged to come.

the team figure that Cheney isn't any better than we are, and if the team is in as good shape for these home games as they were at the Savages lair then, we will prove it to them.

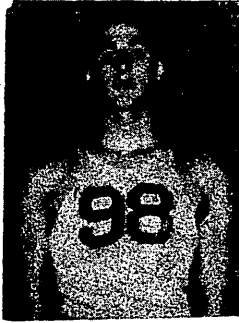

A record crowd is expected to see these rivals battle it out once and for all.

The Supersvarsity's opponents for the two nights have not as yet been picked but these games will start at 7 o'clock and the Varsity games at 8.

The Savages arrive here late Sunday by train and will spend three nights at the Henry Hotel. The coach is bringing thirteen players on this trip and Coach Lappenbusch, with a twinkle in his eye, said his boys are going to pull the feathers out of the Savages' bonnet and even up an old score.

Nate Richardson will miss the PLC and Cheney series as he left for home last night after receiving home last night after receiving Army Air corps on Saturday.

Strankman Sparks Viks to Two Wins

● It was "Punchy" Strankman who pulled the Vikings out of the holes against St. Martins College and brought two much needed wins to the Viks over the Rangers.

Both nights Strankman led the team in the clinches and gathered a total of 26 points in the two games. Bob Gaston, Ennis's smooth southpaw guard, was the main spark plug of the Ranger attack.

Friday night the Vikings held the lead all the way except for the first 45 seconds when the Rangers dumped in the first basket of the game. It didn't take the Norsemen long to get the lead and hold it although they had some pretty nervous moments toward the end of the battle. At no time during the game did they manage to hold more than a six point margin.

Saturday night it was a different story with the Rangers getting the jump and holding the lead until six minutes of the second half had gone by. They had gone quickly to the front when Erickson counted on two fast breaks to give them four points before the Vikings even started. At half time though, they had come back into the tussle and trailed 15 to 16. As Lappy put it later, "We played a good man to man offensive against a zone."

Tonight and tomorrow night the Vikings invade the domain of the Pacific Lutheran college quintet for a two game Winco conference tussle.

The Lutes so far this season have suffered defeat in all their games, but Coach Lappenbusch, the Viking mentor, issued a warning to the team that the Lutheran's losses had been close ones and if a team lets down just the least bit the Lutes would break through for a win.

The Vitamin kids this week have been brushing up on low checking on defense and foul shooting.

The ten men making this trip by cars are: Captain Ernie Ludwick, Norm "Bones" Lowery, Fred Strankman, Rich Wittren, Gale Gregg, Sid Van Sinderen, Larry Munizza, Roy Wark, Les Winters, "Butch" Fuller, Dale Jacobs, and Bob Ludwick, will leave on the 12:30 bus, Friday for Tacoma.

While at Tacoma the Varsity five will sleep at the college and the remaining team members will stay at a hotel. Again this season, to cut down expenses, Coach Lappenbusch and the team members are going in cars and are taking their own bedding on the trip.

These games will be the last for some of the PLC boys and Lappy received some bad news last night. Nate Richardson has received his call for the Army Air corps and will be unable to play in either of the two games. Don Packard of the '42 football squad, received his call at the same time and both boys will leave together.

WE WELCOME FREE SPEECH

Petitions and Letting Off Steam letters are two forms of freedom of speech. We're all for it and we will welcome any evidence of free speech that does not abuse the privilege. The above petition was handed to me Friday, February 19. The petition is in reference to two jokes which appeared in the mimeographed edition of the Prom Extra on Friday, February 12. It is a college custom to use current jokes with local names. No "petty jealousies" were involved.

WE WELCOME NEWCOMERS

As for the suggestion that the WV Collegian be more carefully edited, may I say that each issue of the paper IS carefully edited. It is true that two people's judgment of careful editing may differ, but that is the beauty of being on a paper staff. If your judgment is not fully expressed in petitions or Letting off Steam Letters, come on up, and join the staff. We will welcome you.

Edens Hall Girls Miss Ice Cream

● Rationing has been the major topic of discussion at Edens hall this week. The girls have been assured that no one will starve, and that three meals a day will still be served.

With Ration Book 1 clutched firmly in their hand the girls will go to the ration boards to apply for Ration Book 2. Stamps will not be taken out at the Ration Board as the quota for Edens hall is based on fifty per cent of the amount used in December, 1942.

So far, ice cream has been the item most missed on the daily menu in the dining room but the girls are convincing themselves that now is the time to go on that diet they have been planning for the past year.

Former Student Publishes Book

● Sverre Arestad, graduate of WWC in 1927, is the author of an article titled "The Norwegians in the Pacific Coast Fisheries," published in the January issue of the Pacific Northwest quarterly. Mr. Arestad is an eminent authority on the Scandinavian people and their customs. At the present time he is an instructor of Scandinavian Languages and Literature at the university of Washington, and the secretary of the Scandinavian Historical Research committee.

Mr. Arestad, a former WV Collegian editor and active in school activities while attending WWC, spent a year in Europe just before the beginning of the war.

War Reserve Books Here

● Browsing through the library one afternoon, I wandered into Mr. Hearsay's office and there on his desk was a set of very interesting books. I noticed the books in particular, as their covers were of bright blue, orange and red, trimmed in large silver letters. "What Every Citizen Should Know About Modern War" was the title of this set of books. Most students do not know much about our armed forces, and thanks to the Norton Publishing Company it has been made very easy for us to know more. Well-informed authors have made it easy for us to better understand our Army, Navy, Air Forces, Marines, and Coast Guard, also what the citizen should know about our Arms and Weapons, Army Engineers, and Submarine Warfare. Perhaps some of the fellows would be interested in reading about their own particular reserves. If so, just trot over to the "lib." The girls will be interested, too. After all, this is a people's war; not just the fight of the men in the service.

Invitations Issued

● The College Christian Fellowship has issued an invitation to all students of the college to attend the "Getting Acquainted" party to be held Saturday, February 27, at 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Hanson, 1212 Indian street. Mary Skillman is chairman for the evening and she promises an evening of fun after which refreshments will be served.

Campi

Definition of a reporter: One who pries into the crevices of old mother earth for your amusement. In other words, he digs up the dirt.

What letter in the alphabet is drunk?
I'll bite, which one?
The wobble-you!

I want to buy a pencil.
Hard or soft?
Hard, it's for a stiff exam.

She sat on my lap for two hours.
Quite a lapse of time, eh?

Do you know Poes' Raven?
No, what's he mad about?

They marked the exams so strictly, they flunked him for having a period upside down.

Tell me, pretty maiden, why are your cheeks so red?
'Cause!
'Cause, why?
Cause-metics.

What do you do when in doubt about kissing a girl?
Give her the benefit of the doubt.

And then there was the cat who joined the medical corps to see if she could become a first aid kit.

Spring Brings Back Cutting Urge

● Last week it was so warm and nice outside that about all of us dreaded to go inside to our classes. Some of us were lucky, we didn't have any classes to go to, or some, we didn't go to. Peggy Benton and Pat Murray went reefering around the campus with cokes and unopened books. Of course they intended to open them as soon as they found a comfortable place to sit and talk. Jean Borchardt and Lois Hilton were sunning themselves on one of the stone benches. That bench must have had quite an attraction because several grade school youngsters were sitting there too. It could have been the young man at the other end, though. Their fancies were already turned but Clara Summerlad and Jack Duranceau went strolling about arm in arm. Chris Diede was an exception. He went tearing into the building but it couldn't have been a class. More than likely it was a blonde. It wasn't long before the balmy weather took its effect on me and I was—, too.

Vittles Vicious, Vitamins Void

● Do you get all your vitamins? Some do, some don't. Let's take a peek into Edens hall and see what that hungry horde of students waiting in line assemble on their trays. Oh! What a variety.

First in line we find Don Neal. On his plate there is a fruit salad and a lone bottle of milk. It seems he is on a diet. "Oh, I'm not hungry, anyway," says Neal as he eyes the baked hash.

Next in line we see those famed "Vitamin Kids," Rich Wittren, Nate Richardson, Ernie Ludwick, and Dale Jacobs. They are carefully examining the food, determined to get every vitamin, but they seemed a bit puzzled as to exactly which vitamins are contained in the baked hash. Hmm, I wonder?

Stepping along we come to those two big gals, Peggy Benton and Pat Murray. Heaped on their trays we find baked hash, peas, carrots, beets, bread, fruit salad, milk, vegetable salad, pie, cake, pudding, and a little ice cream to top it off. When asked how she does it, Peggy replied, "Oh, this is only the first helping." Such stamina!

Finally, along the late stragglers we find Virginia Girard, with a balanced and sensible array of foods piled on her tray. Complimenting her on her choice she replied, "Oh, I don't eat the food this way, I mix it." It seems the final concoction turned out to be "hamburger hash a-la-corn."

Suddenly the bell rings and yours truly remembers she hasn't eaten and has a one o'clock class. Oh, hash it all!

Vasit Chu?

● For the last week, in fact ever since about last Friday you have been probably the happiest girl on the campus.

You are small and very blonde and look to us very much like a little girl, although on you rests lots of responsibilities and you are an excellent manager of a college edition to be put out soon.—Do you recognize yourself?

You have become the hero in our lives within the past week. Many people are very grateful to you for the excellent ability you displayed. If you are modest and don't recognize yourself yet we'll continue.

You are one of those tall, dark, and handsome guys that look well in their W sweaters, and we don't think your nickname is all that it implies.

You are also tall, dark and handsome, (girls, don't get excited, this guy is already taken care of by one of those carbon copy gals around school).

If anyone we knew was down in the dumps, we would recommend you to cheer them up with your winning ways and conversational ability. We've seen you quite a bit lately working on your sweeping beat somewhere around the Collegian office. Does this acquaint you with yourself?
