Western Washington COLLEGIAN

Vol. XLVII - No. 31 Western Washington College, Bellingham, Washington May 20, 1955

New Valkyrie Initiates Chosen

Valkyrie initiation will be held for 25 girls at 4 p. m. next Tuesday in the Edens Hall Club room. The girls were chosen by the club for the following qualities: loyalty, dependability, interest in activities, appearance, sincerity, co-operation, and personality.

The new junior members are Carol Muffly, Liz Carlson, Dalene Twing, Emarlyn Repanich, Mary Starr, Carol Diers, and Pat Lunde.

Sophomore girls to be initiated into the club are Janet Glass, Elaine Rathbone, Sandra Hall, Nancy Tate, Nanette Ottness, Rosalee Swedberg, Mitsu Yonekawa, Charlene Philliber, and Marion Rice.

Freshman initiates are Sharon Andreasen, Beverly Bergum, Hisa Hayashida, Phyllis Bower, Julia Hostman, Margaret Peterson, Donna Rhodes, Barrie Brownell, and Diane Pemberton.

Over 80 girls were nominated by the members of the club. Eliminations were made because of grade points below 2.3 before the 25 girls were chosen.

Installation of next year's officers will also take place at the meeting.

Preregister for Fall Quarter Soon

Pre-registration for fall quarter will take place between May 31 and June 7. Next year's seniors will begin on May 31, next year's juniors on June 1 and sophomores and advanced freshmen on June 2.

All are urged to pre-register prior to June 7 in order to avoid closed classes in the rush next fall. A considerable expansion of enrollment is expected fall quarter. Thus to insure a proper choice of classes, students now attending Western are given the first chance at pre-registration.

No further opportunity to enroll after June 7 will be given to present students until September 26.

Klipsun Nearing Completion; Distribution Date Approaches

The 1955 Klipsun will be ready for distribution Monday, May 30. The 152 page book may be picked up in the Klipsun office, room 128, from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. until June 4.

Ruth Britt, business manager, and a staff of assistants will be handing out the annuals starting May 30.

All students who have been regularly enrolled for three quarters of the school year are entitled to a Klipsun. Students who have been enrolled less than three quarters may receive a book by showing a

DIDO'S LAMENT "How could Aeneas return my love?" laments the heart-sick Queen of Carthage. Dido (Joyce Brose) and her train appear above as her attendants urge her to believe that, "the hero loves as well as you."

New FTA Officers Elected; State Convention at Western

Highlighting the Future Teachers of America convention held on Western's campus last weekend was the election of next year's officers and group discussions of mutual problems.

Replacing Bill Moores, Western

senior and last year's president of the Association, is Bob Schwager from Eastern Washington college, Jim Hamilton, Western freshman, is vice president; Kay Nuckolls, Gonzaga, now holds the secretary's responsibilities; treasurer's duties go to Ron Johnson, Seattle Pacific college.

The problem of getting more active people into the various FTA groups was one topic under discussion by the nearly 100 people present. Another topic, criticism of education was presented along with the motives of individuals who choose teaching as a career. A list of recommendations was drawn up from these three discussion groups, which the delegates took back to their respective colleges for future reference in making decisions.

OFFICERS GUESTS

All of the Oregon state officers of the FTA came as special guests. Faculty guests were Helen Hostetter, Bellingham junior high school

WWC Operas Promise Good Entertainment

The house lights dim . . . A hush falls over the audience . . . The strains of the overture swell . . . And this year's spring operas begin their two-day run.

Yes, tonight and tomorrow night, the WWC Music and Speech departments present "Dido and Aeneas," and "Trial by Jury." The shows, which start at 8:15 p. m. in the College auditorium, run from the sublime to the ridiculous, according to Dr. Gerald Kahan, Speech department.

A good time that doesn't cost a thing is in store for all Western students and faculty members who attend the shows.

"DIDO" TRAGIC

"Dido," the tragic story of the Queen of Carthage and her lover the Prince of Troy, is a story written by Nahum Tate, and English poet. His libretto was set to music in 1690 by Henry Purcell. It is felt by some that Purcell's musical genius is the thing which has given the opera its effectiveness.

BEAUTY, HATE COMBINED

The production combines the malignant hate and evil of witches who seek to destroy the royal love, with the beauty and pageantry of the Grecian court.

Arias, recitatives, choruses, and dance sequences help create the desired moods in Dido's palace, the weird cave of witches, and on the waterfront of Carthage.

"Trial," on the other hand, is a satirical commentary on the stiff, stuffy, formal 19th century court of law.

ANGELINA CAPTIVATES

Angelina, the beautiful and tearful plaintiff, captivates the usher, jury, and judge.

"Dread our fury," exclaim the spectators and jurymen to the "Monster" defendant. The latter ignores their carryings on while flirting with numerous women in the courtroom.

JUDGE COMICAL

The comic judge is a laugh-provoking effort by Gilbert and Sullivan to poke fun at the stately Victorian magistrates.

About 100 students are participating in these productions which are the seventh in Western's Spring quarter Artists and Lecturers series. Admission for non-college students will be 50 cents while adults, with the exception of Western faculty and staff will pay one dollar to attend the event.

STUDENT TO PRESENT MOVIE

Stan Lilian, sophomore, will present a movie "Plants and Animals of Tropical Islands," at the Thursday, May 24 meeting of Science club. The meeting will take place at 4 p. m. in room 201.

Manager Needed

Any student interested in the business side of putting out a newspaper is urged to apply for the Business manager's position of the Summer quarter WW Collegian.

Those wishing to apply are asked to see Mr. James Bliss, journalism adviser, as soon as possible for information regarding requirements and qualifications.

Summer BOC Positions Open

Some ten positions are open on the Board of Control for the Summer quarter. Interested students who will be here for both terms of the quarter may file until May 25.

In filing, students must write a brief outline, telling of their qualifications and past experience. The outline may be given to Ray Cohrs, ASB president, or placed in the ASB mailbox in room 116.

To be eligible for a BOC summer position, students must have at least a 2.3 accumulative grade point average. He must be enrolled for a minimum of 12 credit hours during the two terms. The candidate must have completed at least two quarters of residence work at Western.

Students for the summer BOC will be chosen by the present board.

Pink and White Tolo Tonight

Tonight is the night the AWS tolo is being held in the South room of the Hotel Leopold.

All of those who attend will dance to the music of Don Poole, his bass and string five as they set the mood for the "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" theme.

Those going to the college opera will have plenty of time for the tolo afterwards, as dancing lasts from 9 to 12 p. m. Girls will wear dressy cottons and heels; boys, suits or slacks and sport coats.

Dateline . .

Friday, May 20—Rheba D. Carwash, IA blacktop, all day. College Operas, "Dido and Aeneas" and "Trial By Jury," auditorium, 8:15 p. m.

Saturday, May 21—College Operas, auditorium, 8:15 p. m.

Monday, May 23—Campus day assembly rehearsal, auditorium, 7:30 p. m.

Tuesday, May 24—ASB election assembly, auditorium, 10 a. m. Campus day skit rehearsal, auditorium, evening.

Wednesday, May 25—Campus day. No classes! Assembly in auditorium at 10 a. m., followed by picnic and recreation and beard judging at Whatcom Falls Park.

Monday, May 30—Memorial day. Classes suspended.

Tuesday, May 31—Thurgood Marshall, official from National Association for Advancement of Colored People, address, "The Problem of Race Segregation," auditorium, 10 a. m.

Interest Needed

Before another Collegian is published the election of four Board of Control members for next year will be over.

There has been heard the usual undertones of school spirit deficiency because of the lack of participants in this quarter's Board race. Many of these comments are made by people who lack themselves the get up and go to apply for a position.

If we take a more optimistic outlook on the forthcoming election there can be seen much hope for a first class Board of Control next year. Every one of the candidates, as is the case each quarter, stands alone, with no real helping hand to see that he gets elected. Every candidate stands on his or her own reputation and determination to do a good job of handling the vast amount of thankless work the BOC does. Every candidate this quarter is capable of this stand.

Usually, each quarter an editorial is written about the student's duty to "get out and vote." Instead of coming out and saying something that is obviously implied, let this be a suggestion for those who take a dim view of the lack of candidates this quarter to be thankful there were six and not three, and for those who do not hold any view at all to formulate one. There is no better way to become an adequate citizen in any democratic community than to take an active interest in the people who govern that community.

Why Seven Percent?

At the book store window in the lower hall early this week, a variety of comments were heard when Co-op receipts were redeemed by Western students.

The remarks ranged from exclamations of delight to moans of discontentment.

Some background into this year's dividends should be known by each participant in the student Co-operative.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Control a proposal by the Lounge-Co-op committee was read, and after some discussion was moved and unanimously passed. The proposal stated that only seven percent dividends be paid to receipt savers this year; the balance of the dividend money to be put into a fund for new fixtures in the book store of a proposed Student Union building which may be built by 1964.

Had the Board decided not to withhold any of the money, each person who received dividends this year would have picked up approximately 40 per cent more cash.

One of the questions raised at the Board meeting was whether all the money could or should be withheld. This question was soon answered by the consensus of opinion on the Board that if all the profits were used for the new bookstore fund this would, in effect, be nullifying the co-op system of the present set-up.

Many students buy things in the bookstore with future dividends in mind rather than go shopping elsewhere. If the dividends were removed there would be nothing to attract some people to the bargain basement.

The BOC is the Board of directors for the student Co-op and Lounge. Mr. Louis Earle, Co-op manager, is hired by the Board. As in any corporation, which the Co-op is, in effect, funds can legally be taken from the dividends to pay for expansion and improving the business. The Co-op board of directors, (the BOC), has taken the first step in putting a bookstore into the future Student Union building.

Letters To Editor

The Collegian welcomes letters to the editor on all subjects of general interest. No anonymous letters will be printed but names will be withheld on request. Preference will be given to signed letters when space requirements dictate limitations.

The editor reserves the right to edit or cut where necessary.

Letters do not necessarily reflect the policy of the Collegian, nor is the Collegian responsible for opinions expressed therein.

OPEN LETTER

To the Board of Control:

Last week-end Blue Barnacles, with the assistance of several men from the swimming team, presented their annual water show.

Those who attended the show will recall the finale was simple, but beautiful and very effective. Over the ripples of the water the girls unfurled the stripes and a field of stars—in the dimmed silence strains of our national anthm could be heard.

Afterwards, I remembered parts of a speech I heard in Speech 100. The students had inquired, "How long has it been since you have heard or given the flag salute?"

If the students of Western were asked this question, I fear most of the answers, many of them from prospective teachers, would be as negative as mine.

Something so American as the flag salute has been cut from the program of this college.

Many students probably can recall the flag salute opening assemblies in other schools they have attended. This act of patriotism takes only a few moments, yet is such an impressive way to open student assemblies.

Thus, I place these two questions before the Board of Control and the Associated Student Body president: How long has it been since an assembly has been opened here at Western with our national flag salute? Can this be made a standard procedure here at our college?

Sincerely,
SHIRLEY GRAHAM.

Across the Board by Simon

An interesting problem was presented to the Board this week. It was able to pull a hand out of the ASB pocket.

In the past, it was relatively easy for departments and organizations to obtain money to stretch meager funds. This week the Board enforced their policy of non-contribution to organizational plans. They voted a resounding "nay" to a request from the Music department for funds to fete the 100 or so people involved in the opera production at an after-the-show party.

In the controversy, arguments on both sides have merit.

On the side of the group seeking the funds, there are two points which caused them to seek aid. First, the people involved in the production have already been assessed "all the traffic would bear" to pay for previous commitments.

Secondly, the money made on the opera goes to the ASB to become part of the funds for next year's budget. Thus, having no control over the funds, the players cannot direct any portion of them to the celebration. After many weeks of stringent, exhausting work it is felt by many that the workers need some semblance of a reward.

The Board, on the other hand, as guardian of the ASB funds, must cease the constant pocketpicking. It has been the policy to deny request for funds from groups who have represented only a small portion of the student body. But, in some instances, they have been moved to grant aid. At long last they put teeth into the policy.

It is unfortunate that the cast of the opera was caught in the bite of the jaws. However, after a moment's thought, to release the money to one group would establish a precedent for requests from other groups. It takes but a small hole in dike to eventually destroy it. The ASB has a reserve that it should maintain, that it must maintain, to remain in the black.

Campus organizations should take into consideration the policy now in effect. It is a waste of everybody's time to clutter the Board's schedule with requests that they cannot and should not grant. The stringent policy has been enforced. It should be continued.

From the Easy Chair . . . by Stan Lilian

Well, I've had some interesting reactions on the suggestion about having political parties. Lots of discussion, and some people really seem to be thinking about it.

Another aspect of party politics that wasn't discussed much originally is the part a party plays in keeping the politicians "in line" on accomplishing party aims.

For an example, I'll pick on the poor old long-suffering BOC again. This is not a criticism of the board as a whole, or of the individual membership or their actions—it is just a matter that might be controversial, and it can be used to point up a few facts.

Last week the Collegian reported the the board decided that the students should get a seven percent dividend on the Co-op receipts. Money was available for about 10 per cent, but that differential three per cent was to be "plowed back" into a fund for the Student Union building.

Now that is fine. Several members of the Board of Control have campaigned on a platform supporting a new Student Union building, and most of us agree that we most certainly need one. Just about all of us would like to have a new building if it didn't cost anything—but that's the rub—that extra three percent.

Suppose that one political party favored a new Student Union building, and favored this means of financing it. The other party may want the building, but wishes other means of raising the money. That party wants the students to have the whole 10 per cent, or whatever it is, of the dividend.

Well, whichever party wins out in the decision of the Board of Control, the opposition party, at least, will certainly view their actions with alarm and let all and sundry know about it. Thus we disseminate information. The actual fate of the few cents represented by the extra three percent per person dividend is of no great individual moment, but we would know who favored what, and why.

Presently, the proceedings of the Board of Control are open to any who wish to read them—but very few people do read them.

I am interested in a bill to bar the wearing of purple socks with orange polka-dots. My friend on the BOC, Joe Doaks, brings the matter up at a meeting. It is duly referred to a committee, people are happy and confident, and promptly forget the matter. Three months later, try and find out what happened to our proposal to ban painter's nightmare socks.

Who is to blame? Well, everyone cannot attend every Board meeting. Reporters for the paper write up only what happens at the meetings. Someone could look in the B.O.C. minutes, and find out what happened to the disputed matter in committee. A political party favoring the bill would see that the committee at least reported back on the matter, and that the report was in the minutes.

So next time you want to clobber a couple of Board members for not passing your pet notion on to the school, as they promised in the campaign, just remember what they are up against, too. Here again, a political party might be the answer. It's something to think about.

"PRETTY PLEASE with Apple blossoms on it," says Carol Morrison to Don Mitchell, "come to the tolo with me." "Nope," says Don, "I'm going to the opera." Julie Horstman and Rich Weinbrecht, seated at the table don apprehensive smiles for they know the rugged opera-goer will soon succumb and take his girl to both.

Campus Day Slated for Wednesday; Features Assembly, Picnic, Recreation

Paul Bunyan will leave the "forests tall" next Wednesday to join Western students in the activities of the annual Campus Day.

The kick-off for this year's Campus Day will be at 10 a. m. on Wednesday in the College auditorium as five groups give their skits in attempt to win the skit trophy. Floyd Jackson, senior, will be MC for the hour and a half program.

The groups which are tentatively planning to give their impression of Paul Bunyan's Campus Day are Western Players, Harborview Hall, Edens Hall, Spencer Hall, Wesvets, and Forensic. Men's Glee will also enter on a non-competitive basis.

In-between acts will feature Don Lyle, freshman, and John Sundquist, sophomore.

Taking charge of the assembly are Charlotte Rolie and Pliny Allen, sophomores, and Gene Langill, junior.

Any bribing of judges for the skit award will have to be done through Doctors James High, Keith Murry, Sene Carlile, or Lucy Kangley.

Helping to keep the judging on the level are student wives Mrs. Cal Clemmer, Mrs. Bob Hughes, Mrs. Bruce Randall, Mrs. Arthur Runestrend, and Mrs. John Start.

The winner of the trophy won't be able to claim the prize until the Campus Day mixer when the winner will be announced.

After the assembly students will caravan out to Whatcom Falls Park for the picnic-lunch and the afternoon's activities. Buses will also provide transportation to the park.

Tickets for the lunch went on sale yesterday for 60 cents in Old Main and are also being sold today. The menu for the lunch will probably remain a surprise to everyone, including the food committee. (Miss Baldwin planned the menu.)

Margaret Peterson, freshman, and Lucille Grace, junior, are in charge of the lunch.

Trophies will be awarded at the to the winners of the games and contests. Students who wish to practice before hand should work on such games as egg throwing, sack racing, three-legged racing, pie eating, pop guzzling, and musical knees.

"The eggs should be good and rotten," slyly remarked Bill DeJong, of the games committee, "they've been fresh for four months now and do they ever smell."

He also mentioned something about special pies and pop. (It's got extra carbonated water so that no one will be too thirsty.) Marilyn Scribner, senior, Dorothy Leaf and Pat Gerspacher, freshmen, must be the guilty persons who dreamed up the extra carbonated water, along with other gags, as they are the chairmen of the games committee.

Talk of a couple of baseball games is being whispered among men faculty members. Seems they're trying to find a big man who isn't too soft to pitch a winning game for them against the men students.

The women students will also be matching muscles with the women faculty members out on the diamond.

Of course the big event of the day, at least for over a 100 Viking men, will be the judging of the beard growing contest.

A number of fair young damsels may possibly be seen waiting to shave the beard off her favorite beau after the judging is over.

Judging will be done by Charlotte Rolie and her panel of judges Bev Bergum, Lorrene Bergman, Nancy Lange, Betty Faye, Doris Mason, Lorraine Stromberg, and Jean Groom.

In case anyone still has any energy left, the Campus Day committee, under the direction of Walt Kauzlarich, general chairman, is planning a sack hop.

The stylish dance, which will be from 8:30 to 11 p. m., in the Main Gym, will feature jeans, peddle-pushers, and plaid shirts—the louder the better. Music will be sounded out by Ron Simpson and his band.

The group with the least amount of imagination and talent will be awarded the trophy for the best skit—it always happens that way.

Six young men and "junior" will be awarded trophies for having the wooliest, curliest, scroungiest, fanciest, reddist, and blackest beard. Junior will receive a trophy for the leastest for the mostest effort.

The fellas will have to get their dates in by 12 p. m. or Paul Bunyan's libe to get them.

Leading Lawyer Nest Speaker In A&L Series

One of the nation's leading lawyers in the fight against race segregation, Thurgood Marshall, will be the speaker on the May 31 Artists and Lecturers series program.

LED CAMPAIGN

"Problems of Race Segregation," is the title of the address Marshall will deliver at the college auditorium. The program is free and open to the public.

Marshall led the campaign to outlaw segregation in the schools, which culminated in the Supreme Court decision that "separate but equal" has no place in education.

As special Counsel for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, he is in charge of legal cases to secure and protect full-citizenship rights for Negroes. Since 1938 the lawyer has appeared as chief legal officer of the association before the Supreme Court.

One of the most significant victories he won before the U. S. Supreme Court was the right for Negroes to vote in the Democratic primaries in the South.

Marshall also gained the right for Negro passengers to travel freely between states.

In 1951 he went to Japan and Korea to make a first-hand investigation of courts martial cases involving Negro soldiers.

WON AWARD

The National Newspaper Publishers Association Resswurm Award was presented him in 1949.

It was given him "in recognition of outstanding achievement in making possible a richer conception of democratic principles and in tribute for upholding these highest traditions considered as the ideals of the American way of life."

Mr. Marshall will be on the last program of the Spring Quarter Artists and Lecturers series.

Grad Receives Award at Banquet

Mrs. Emma Jean (Mattson) Weber was named outstanding teacher of the class of 1953 by the award committee at the Alumni Banquet last Saturday night. She was selected from more than 100 1953 graduates.

Mrs. Weber is teaching in her home town, Battle Ground, Washington.

BOC Election Assembly Set

An Associated Student Body pre-election assembly will be held next Tuesday morning, May 24, at 10 o'clock, in the Auditorium-Music building.

Donna Wray, election committee chairman, said, "This assembly will take the place of the formerly planned ASB Talent Show."

During this assembly the platform of each candidate that is vying for a Board of Control position will be given.

Barrie Brownell, Walter Kauzlarich, Larry Richardson, Donald Six, Bob Teshera, and Dick Walston are the six candidates from which four will be elected.

The election of the Board of Control representatives will be held Thursday and Friday, May 26-27. Any student may vote upon the presentation of his student body card. There will be polls set up in both the Main building and the Auditorium-Music building, lobby.

Miss Muffly Quits To Take Elementary Teaching Position

Miss Marjorie Muffly, a member of the Physical Education faculty at Western Washington College of Education for 11 years, will resign in June to enter a new field, the college announced today.

Interested in outdoor education for elementary students, Miss Muffly will return to a university, possibly Michigan State, for graduate work in this expanding field. She plans then to work in an elementary school with an outdoor education program.

Miss Muffly is a graduate of the University of Michigan, and received her Master of Arts in Physical Education at Columbia university. During her years at Western she has taken hundreds of students on week-end hikes and skiing trips in addition to teaching her regular classes.

Scholarships Given By Eastern Star

A $150 scholarship will be awarded at Western by the Order of Eastern Star in the state of Washington. Following are the specifications:

1. Mother or father an active member of Eastern Star and/or a Masonic Order in the state of Washington.
2. High scholarship.
3. General promise in terms of leadership qualities, personality, breadth of interest, etc.
4. Need.
5. Sophomore, junior, or senior status.
6. Age—not over 21.

Any eligible student who is interested should so indicate at Dr. Kuder's office immediately, and in any case not later than Wednesday, May 25.

500 Spectators View Water Show

The new bleachers around the swimming pool had a good workout last Thursday and Friday nights as 500 spectators jammed the east wing of the Physical Education building for the 1955 Watershow.

The people who attended the show remarked how the show has improved over the years. They also commented that Miss Nelson and the entire cast and crew should be congratulated for their performance.

Coach John Kulbitski left with 13 men yesterday morning for the annual Evergreen conference track and field meet. This event, which is being held in Spokane, will produce the conference champion for this year.

Today the preliminary events are being run off. This will leave the top contenders in each division for tomorrow's gala climax.

Making the trip from Western are Jerry Johnson, Gerry Swan, Ken and Bob Swalwell, Ted Whan, Rod Maxwell-Muir, Dave Langley, Bob Barker, Gary Okerlund, Jim Hall, Bob Rainwater, and Willis Ball.

The boys from the Blue and White have several men that should be first place contenders. Leading the pack is Ken Swalwell. The veteran Viking has topped all opposition this year in both the discus and shot put events. Unless something unexpected happens "Big Ken" should gather a couple of firsts for Western.

Next on the "win" parade is "Mr. Desire," Gary Swan. The lanky star took a bad fall last weekend but he should be back in top condition for the east side meet, Swan can be expected to pick up a first in at least one of the long distance events.

Jerry Johnson's showing will depend on which sprints Coach Kulbitski wants him to run. The fleet-footed ace might be entered in the same event with his teammate, Ted Whan. If this happens it should be another "battle royal" like last Saturday's Whan-Johnson clash. This race ended with Whan beating Johnson by only one tenth of a second.

While the subject of Western's versatile sprinter, Ted Whan, it might be pointed out that this speed merchant has finished several events this year way ahead of the opposition. If this holds true tomorrow, the likable junior will add to Western's score by winning these events.

Jim Hall, pole vaulter, can boast of more bad breaks than any other Viking cinderman. If the little man with springs in his legs can fight off the tough luck, he should be amongst the finalists tomorrow.

Western's fine freshman hurdler, Dave Langley, will have to be in top form this weekend if he is to gather the coveted blue ribbon. The outcome of the high and low hurdles races might spell the difference between victory or defeat for the hilltoppers.

Coach Kulbitski makes very few comments on the team's chances of winning the "big one." However, considering the high caliber of the men displaying Western's color this year, the Vikings should walk off with enough points to win the Conference crown.

SPORT SHORTS

Here is a tip for Western's lake fishing populace. Several fine catches have been reported from Lake Whatcom near the college owned property, Lakewood. The rainbows seem to be hitting the trolling gear best.

Intramural softball may not be played for the highest stakes but it has been causing a "high" amount of excitement the last few nights. Several fine performances have been displayed by the teams.

If you get the studying "blues" why not drop over and watch one of these hard fought games? It might not be played on a professional baseball standard but it lacks nothing in the excitement bracket.

Vik Tennis Squad At Whitworth Next

This weekend the Viking tennis squad is competing in the Evergreen Conference Tennis Matches at Whitworth College in Spokane.

Coach Lappenbusch took the following four boys with him; Terry Whalen, Roger Barnhart, Ken Moffett and Francis Vance.

The winners of the matches at Spokane will go to Renton on May 27 for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics matches.

Male Chefs Host President Haggard, Board of Trustees

Playing host to Western's Board of Trustees and Dr. W. W. Haggard yesterday were members of Miss Dorothy Ramsland's men's cooking class. The nine fellows planned, prepared, and served the luncheon during their weekly laboratory period.

Pies, baked by the men, highlighted the meal.

On Monday, the class held a coffee hour. About 75 guests came to the affair, which was managed by Art Bridge. Cookies, baked by the men of course, and coffee were served.

Along with planning meals, cooking, and baking, the men learn practical lessons in entertaining as well. Their supreme adventure will take place near the end of the quarter when they will prepare and serve a complete party dinner.

As an added lesson this quarter, Dr. Irwin Hammer, Education department will demonstrate the proper technique needed for carving a

Camp Leaders' Class Takes Week-end Trip

Miss Nelson's camp leadership class spent last week-end camping in Bowman Bay park, on the east side of Deception Pass bridge, putting into practice some of the things talked about in class, such as cooking outdoors, erecting tents, and fire building.

Much time was spent on the menus. They planned unusual meals and used different equipment. The students worked in groups of four, each making the same thing.

An evening program was enjoyed by singing, putting on skits and playing campfire games.

"George," a chicken carcass, brought much amusement as he was escorted around the camping grounds on a stick. It seems that George fell from the frying pan into the fire and was literally burned up about the whole affair. Since he became quite obnoxious it was necessary to establish a minimum boundary between him and his escort, whence came the stick.

Something New for Women PE Majors

The girls in the Physical Education department are showing considerable interest in the styles of the new physical education costumes, which were shown by Miss Dorothy Drayna, a representative of one of Chicago's leading costume manufacturing company's.

Some of the girls purchased bathing suits, which will be used for student teaching and other activities.

Viqueens Explore Cottonwood Island On AWS Outing

At 5 p. m. next Friday Western co-eds will board the sea explorer ship Discovery, and head for Sinclair Island, locally known as Cottonwood Island, where the annual AWS weekend outing will be held.

Over the weekend the gals will feast on baked salmon and other delicious food planned by and through Edens hall.

The girls will be "roughing it," since they will cook on open fires and slumber outside in their sleeping bags. The trip costs will be $1 for transportation and about three dollars for food.

A four hour hike around the island has been planned, and cameras should be taken since there are many scenic spots on the trip.

turkey. This unique cooking class for men only (Home Economics 252, 2 credits) is now in its fifth year. However, it is offered only Spring quarter each year.

Hike for Tomorrow To Kulshan

Kulshan Cabin located in the beautiful Mount Baker range is the destination of the WWC students tomorrow according to Miss Marjorie Muffly, physical education.

8:30 a. m. has been set as departure time for the hike. The party will leave via private cars and will return early in the afternoon.

Kulshan Cabin will be the last regularly planned trip of spring quarter. Those who have not participated thus far and want to do so, are asked to sign their names on the Bulletin board in Old Main.

Western Thinclads Meet in Spokane; Prospects Good

The Western Viking thinclads are in Spokane this weekend for the Evergreen conference track meet. Coach John Kulbitski's trackmen are expected to make a good showing in the middle and long distance races as well as in the weights.

The winner of each event is eligible to compete in the preliminaries of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, which will be held at Renton on May 27. The best efforts in that track meet will go on to the finals of the NAIA in Abilene, Texas, on June 3 and 4. Last year, Western sent Jerry Swan, Ted Whan, and Ken Swalwell to the NAIA finals at Abilene.

Victorious Vikings Sight Top Spot

The Viking baseball team came home victorious Monday from a double win over College of Puget Sound in Tacoma.

The Vikings in their top defensive performance of the season took the double header 6-5, 6-3.

The wins clinched the Western division Evergreen conference baseball crown for the home team.

The Conference playoffs will begin next week, starting Wednesday. Central Washington College, the Eastern division champs, will meet the Vikings at Battersby field for the conference playoff which will be a best of three trial. The games will be played at night.

Baseball coach Joe Martin says, "The Wildcats are good but we've got a good chance to beat them."

'W' Club Dinner At Cedar Chest

The Cedar Chest on May 24 will be the scene of this year's "W" Club Smorgasbord. The dinner will be for the men who fought in the "W" club smoker, the Faculty Athletic Committee and invited guests. Guest speaker of the evening will be Hal Arnason Jr., who earned his letter for two years at the University of Washington. During the evening, the election of next year's "W" Club officers will be held.

Science for Children

By JOEL CARLSON

Because many of you are hoping to become teachers, you will probably, somewhere along in your experience, teach science. Probably many of you will teach in the primary and intermediate grades, but even here there is a place for science. Of course, one can't divide science into biology, chemistry or physics for these younger children.

INTERPRETS SCIENCE

My idea is that the teacher should present science as an interpretation of the environment that the child knows. On the biological side of this interpretation the teacher may let the children have goldfish, or a bird, or possibly bring into class a kitten, a puppy, or a rabbit.

Let them take turns at handling and feeding the animals and observe the different habits and customs of the animals as a class group. Possibly the teacher could point out specific mannerisms and may be suggest different things which would lead to discussion.

BIOLOGY IN WINTER

The idea of bringing leaves to class during the fall is a good attempt, but the season is short. Then what? Should we forget about plants until the blossoms can be brought into class the next spring? There is no need for that.

The teacher may have the children bring in a sweet potato, or a carrot top, or an avocado pit and let them put it in water. After a while it will grow with leaves or vines and roots, and they will realize that they have accomplished something. Put some food coloring into the water containing cut flowers, and let the students observe that the petals change colors. Let the children tell the class why they think it happened, always steering them in the right direction.

The continuity of time is hard for the teacher or anyone else to get across to primary children. Probably the best way would be through a constant association of the children's activities with the actual time. The dates of the month and the halves of the moon associated with the different times of the month show the child the greater division of time.

DEMONSTRATE EVAPORATION

The physical sciences in the elementary school present a wide opportunity for the teacher. Evaporation can be demonstrated simply with two glasses, a cover on one and no cover on the other. One will evaporate; the other will not. A discussion with good class participation can be developed around the question "Where did the water go?"

Electricity can be shown easily with dry cells, a one and one-half volt light bulb, and light wire. The light bulb sockets can be spread over the room. Simple switches can be cut out of tin cans and introduced into the circuit. Show the young students that a complete circuit is necessary for the light to work. Let them connect the lights and get used to working with batteries. They can also build model towns and install a system of lights.

BUILD SIMPLE FUSE

The simple fuse (small piece of tin foil; aluminum foil won't work) can be introduced into the circuit to show its function and what too large or too small a fuse will do. This fuse can be a strip of tin foil with two wires connected on one end and one on the other end.

Short out the circuit and blow out the fuse. One advantage to demonstrating electricity is that if you don't connect it correctly, nothing happens.

The main thing, I believe, in teaching science to primary students, is to let the children get in and do the different things. Kids can't, don't, and won't learn by sitting and listening to the teacher talk. Let them do the work and learn.

SCIENCE PUZZLER

Two spheres are the same size, same weight and are painted the same color. One is solid aluminum, the other one is hollow and is made of lead.

Without in the least marring their surfaces and without the use of special instruments, how can you tell which is which?

Faculty Ready For Big Game On Campus Day

By HOWARD ROBINSON

A surprise visit was made by this reporter last Tuesday into the deep dark depths of "Leo Durocher" McDonald's training camp. The faculty "Bombs," according to "The Lip," have been practicing for some time during secret workouts on campus for the Campus Day baseball game.

Excellent possibilities were viewed as they went through their maneuvers prior to the big game. Seen making a desperate bid for a starting position were: "Killer" Paige, "Canny" Kahan, "Slugger" Atteberry, "Hopalong" Hovde, "Slippery" Saunders, "Rapid" John Kulbitski, "Blissful" Bliss, "Legs" Lappenbusch, "Statistics" Budd, "Violent" Van Wingerden, "Smiley" Panches, and "Shifty" Haggard.

The manager, Mr. "Durocher" MacDonald, chased this student reporter all over the lot finally catch-

Faculty Plan Carver Dinner

The college faculty will honor Sam Carver, chairman of the Men's Physical Education department, at a dinner to be given in his honor at Johnson's on Tuesday, May 31 at 6 p. m.

Miss Marjorie Muffly, Physical Education department, said the faculty wishes to show their appreciation for everything Mr. Carver has done for the school. The P.E. department is making the arrangements for the dinner.

Carver, who will retire at the end of summer quarter, has served the college for 42 years, both as a coach and as a teacher. He came to Western in 1912 as a baseball coach. For approximately the first 10 years he was the only coach at Western. He has coached the five major sports—football, basketball, baseball, track, and golf.

"I don't know much about the dinner," said Carver, "but I do appreciate it."

Publication Banquet Planned

Recognition of a year's work done by journalism students and a review of their work will be the keynote at the annual Publications Banquet beginning at 7:30 next Friday evening at the Cedar Chest.

The first completed copy of the 1955 Klipsun will be presented to Dr. W. W. Haggard. Nadine Schilling, editor of the year book, will present the president of the College with his book which has his name on the cover in gold.

Richard Bibler, cartoonist will be the guest speaker. Many Western students will recognize Mr. Bibler as the author of "Little Man on Campus," which appears in the Collegian weekly. Mr. Bibler's accounts of "Professor Snarf" and "Worthal" appear in college papers throughout the nation.

Collegian staff awards will be presented to outstanding students of the department. The Nora B. Cummins award will be given to the Collegian staff member who has contributed the greatest amount of time and effort for the least amount of recognition.

IA Club Banquet

The date of the Industrial Arts club banquet has been changed to May 24. The banquet was originally scheduled for an earlier date but due to an error on invitations which have been sent out, it was necessary to change the time.

Annual Publication Requires Hard Work, Much Time

The 1955 Klipsun of "Friendship" is almost complete—only trimming and placing the book within its covers remains. Students will be receiving their books in a couple of weeks. (See story on page one.)

Deadlines have come, been met, passed smoothly, and left behind for others that follow, until now only a couple of weeks of waiting remain.

The first completed book will be presented to Dr. W. W. Haggard, president of the College, next Friday at the annual Publications Banquet. Presenting the book to Dr. Haggard will be the last official act of the year's annual editor Nadine Schilling. Dr. Haggard's name will appear on the cover of his book in gold.

Using the thought of "Friendship," the theme is carried from cover to cover by showing Western students in the way they work, play, and live together.

The theme picture on the title page portrays the Peace Arch at Blaine, a symbol of lasting friendship between the United States and Canada. "We picked this theme," remarked Miss Schilling, "because Western is known as the friendly school, and what could be more appropriate?"

Several changes have been made in this year's book including the addition of eight more pages and the use of a larger page size.

Many unusual layouts will be seen on pages with wallpaper backgrounds. There is also more art work this year and the use of colored section pages has been added.

Students will find four pages of snapshots of themselves this year, and may get a chuckle out of the two pages of faculty snapshots.

All new pictures of the faculty will be shown in this year's book.

Also there will be more student pictures than usual.

Photographs of some of the assistants in offices will also appear in the Klipsun.

Ruth Britt, who was business manager for this year's book and is now planning distribution of the book, has often been seen working along with Miss Schilling to finish the annual.

These two girls along with members of the staff will also receive books with their names in gold on the cover.

Editing the classes section pages was Pat Hawk along with the help of Marilyn Peoples and Dave Johnson.

The index was edited by Carol Holstine with the help of Gail Gustafson.

Editing the art work was Ben Doyle, who was assisted by Pat Gibson, Al Swanberg, and Rod Maxwell-Muir.

The photography was taken care of by Ann Meurer, Gail Gustafson, Ron Camfield, Stan Lillian, and Art Maffli.

Editing the section for the administration was Lynda Samuelson. She was helped by Sandra Yotsko and Jim Hamilton.

Co-editors for the section on organizations were Carol Morrison and Margaret Peterson. Marilyn Ogdon and Janet Frankie also worked on this section.

The section on campus life and organized houses was planned by Bill Baumgart with the assistance of Shirley Baumgart, Maxine King, and Janet Soine.

Pat Gerspacher was in charge of planning the sports section. He was assisted by Don Tackett and Tom Romerdahl.

There will be no spring supplement put out by these people this year, as everything except Campus Day, Spring Sports Informal, and commencement exercises and activities appears in the book.

"We hope that the pictorial and written record of this year's events will be correct on every count, and that in years to come, this book will help the students at Western recall old memories of college days at Western," commented Miss Schilling.

Although this year's annual is not quite completed, work has already begun on the 1956 Klipsun. Next year's editor Margaret Russell along with the help of Janet Soine the new business manager, and James Bliss, publications advisor have already started the plans for the 1956 edition of the Klipsun.

Vik Band, Faculty Participate May 22 In Arch Ceremony

The Western Viking band will be the official band at the International Peace Arch celebration at Blaine May 22.

This celebration is the only one of its kind along the 3,000 miles of unguarded border between the United States and Canada. This observance commemorates more than a century of peace between the two nations.

Richard Paige, Music department, will direct a chorus of school choirs, while Paul Herbold, Speech department, will narrate the parade and program. Dr. Don Walters, also of the Music department, is chairman of the music committee and will direct the college band.

Poll Conducted By Sociologists

Would it be feasible to reopen the Fairhaven Community Center? This is a question that members of Dr. Manzer J. Griswold's three sociology classes have attempted to answer.

The center, a no-dues club for children and adults, featuring dances, sports, and home demonstrations, was burned out of its Twelfth and Harris Street location in the summer of 1953. Since then, it has not functioned for lack of a suitable building.

Last fall, The Women of Fairhaven, one of the center's clubs, asked Dr. Griswold to help them to determine whether southsiders were interested in seeing the club reopen so they would know if they could conduct a fund-raising campaign.

It was decided that the sociology students would, through a survey, poll South Bellingham residents.

Dr. Griswold's Population class formulated questions for the survey which was conducted during the last two weeks. A 20 percent random sample of South Bellingham's population was asked what organizations they belonged to, whether they participated in the center's programs before the fire and if they'd be likely to if it reopened. Several other questions were asked.

If the survey is successful, Dr. Griswold plans to conduct quarterly public opinion polls of Bellingham residents next year.

Painting Exhibit In Art Building

An exhibit of paintings by 11 students at Western Washington College is on display this week and will be next week in the hall of the college Arts department.

APPEARED AT FESTIVAL

The same water colors, pastels and oil paintings appeared in an outdoor exhibit at Lee Memorial park Saturday. They were among 65 paintings viewed by about 1,000 people in connection with the Blossom Time Festival.

The artists, students of Miss Ruth Kelsey and Miss Miriam Peck of the WWC Art department, are Dick Dye, Duane Forslow, Norma Gibson, Barbara Blowers, Betty Harvey, Mrs. Marianne Vander Griend, Pearl Din-

Scribblings . . . by Scrib

IF THE ELEMENTS would ever wise up to the fact that it's spring maybe we could have a sports trun-out of some kind. Especially today—as Margaret Peterson so beautifully put it—"today is just ullggghhh!" Four teams have been organized for playing some rooty-tooty softball, but it's amazing how discouraging those hard pellets of rain can be. Last Tuesday the gals just had no desire at all to be a bunch of wet-heads.

IT WON'T BE long now (surely you know that's what the monkey said about his tail when he backed into the fan) until all the scuttlebutt around the PE building will be about knapsacks, sleeping bags and what not. Such fond memories we hold of last year's Sinclair Island trip. But this time girls, let's break those backs in easy—to the sun that is. Just get a little more exposure every day (yike!).

IT COUNLDN'T HAPPEN. It simply must not have happened. Reported to our big fat floppy ears was the news that Jan Hall and Tyke Gustan were seen riding on the—not the timid octopus, nor yes! that fierce, wild and wicked the wishy washy loop-de-loop, but merry-go-round! I say it takes nerve.

BY THE TIME THIS weekly blab has been printed, the WRA picnic is a thing of the past. Hope many of you went and done had a good time.

GADZOOKS! SEEMS THAT the camping class had a terrific time last week-end, but we just sorta wonder about Nancy Tate and her friends. Tying your sleeping bag to a tree is well and fine, but when that same tree is hanging over and growing out of the side of a bank—weelllll.

SQUIRTENLY HOPE YOU didn't miss the Blue Barnacle Swim Show. Comments of "wonderful" . . . "terrific" . . . and "really great" have been trailing the gals every since their performance Friday night.

STARTED TO LIST the most outstanding acts and ended up with the whole program on our hands. In this humble person's opinion it was a sight worth seeing—in fact several sights worth seeing. Towels were served to those unfortunate spectators who eagerly grabbed the edge seats.

SPEAKING OF BLUE Barnacles, there's a little gal in there that's turned out to be quite a character. Won't mention any names, but her initials are Sandra Jo Meyers. She was, by the way, the choreographer for the grand finale of the swim show. Well, we're just wondering how come her parents sold her brains to science at such a young age? (friend Sandra?)

THAT'S IT FOR this time. Now if only I were Loretta Young I would say, "See you next week?" Yeah, if only.

What do you think about Edens Hall food? Should there be receptacles for cigarette butts at the front entrance? Voice your opinions on these and other subjects of student interest through "Letters to the Editors."

By SHIRLEY GRAHAM

Last Saturday morning a few of the more ambitious maidens from SPENCER HALL arose a little earlier than usual and wandered down to watch the parade. Sally Joubert was out in front of the Viking band twirling her baton.

The girls gave a surprise shower for Carol Mulford and Jamie Cobb last Wednesday evening. Both of the girls are planning late summer weddings.

Some of the girls are so fond of Western that they apparently couldn't leave even for the summer. Fran Kane, Gay Clemens, Lois Lingberg, Carol Mulford, Anita Jahn, Peggy Abrahamse, and Lorraine Stromberg will be here summer quarter.

Marilyn Young has been in a daze the past few days. She is frantically making last minute plans for her marriage on June 12.

After a disastrous week of deficiencies and a busy week-end, things seem to be back to normal at HOSPICE INN.

Terry O'Brien was the only successful carnival-goer. He returned with a huge Pinocchio doll which he won at the ring pitch.

If Ed O'Leary didn't break a record last week-end, he certainly tried. He jaunted down to his home in Mount Vernon three times.

All of the girls from COLLEGE INN spent Sunday evening attending a birthday party in honor of Gerald Todd. Besides eating and dancing, the girls spent some time shooting pool.

Linda Ford came home from the carnival with a big panda bear which Guy Cauthers won for her.

They have been writing their HALL finally found out what was the matter with Joann Rozman last Tuesday. It wasn't and deficiencies—just an appendix that had to come out. Just goes to show P.E. majors can get sick too.

The girls seem to think that they have the laugh on Senior Hall. They started collecting stamps the week after the drive started. They have already filled four jars with

Student Recital Tuesday, May 24

Advanced students of applied music will be presented in recital next Tuesday May 24, at 4 p. m. in the auditorium.

The program features a particularly interesting variety of numbers including organ, violin solo, and duo, cello, flute, voice and piano duo.

Listed among the performers are Donald Andrus, Franklin Nielson, Donna Nugent, Rosemarie Oldow, Jack Ryan, Raymond Smith, Gayle Sparks and Marilyn Tucker.

UW Transfers

Students planning to attend the University of Washington next fall must have their applications and grade transcripts on file at the institution no later than June 15, according to Mr. Don Ferris, registrar.

Students should file their transcripts requests with the registrar before the end of the quarter. All requests filed before commencement will be honored before June 20, provided financial accounts and fines are cleared.

stamps and are working on the fifth.

The girls have been writing their friends to get more stamps and think that Senior Hall will lose in their challenge.

The rain got the SENIOR HALL girls this week. Their picnic last Tuesday was rained out, but the girls enjoyed themselves inside and had a gay old time.

Looks as if the Army is going to let Arlene McKinney get married after all. Mickey has had to change her wedding plans several times because the Army can't decide where they need her fiancé, Em Richardson, the most. Before being drafted Richardson was a senior at Oregon State.

Several showers have been given Mickey this last week, including one by Senior Hall last Sunday night. Lorrene Bergman, who plans to marry Maurie Halleck in July, was also a guest of honor at the shower.

The girls all watched the Blossom time parade. All, that is, except for the five who participated in the two hour march.

FTA, ACE Hold Picnic Tuesday

The FTA and ACE joint picnic will be held Tuesday, May 24, at Larrabee State Park, on the Chuckanut Highway, south of Bellingham. Today is the deadline for signing up for the affair on the FTA club bulletin board.

According to FTA president Janet Hansen there will be an opportunity to play baseball and other spring sports. Equipment will be furnished.

Transportation will also be furnished. A bus will leave the A-M building at 4:15 p. m.

Jim Hamilton is the general chairman for the picnic and his assistants are Carolyn Munch, Joel Carlson, Dorothy Peth, Janice Kliensorge and Janet Hansen.

Members not boarding at Edens hall will be charged 85 cents.

Festivities Chairmen Chosen

Bill Elwood and Marilyn Scribner were chosen as next year's Homecoming co-chairmen at Wednesday's Board of Control meeting.

The Board met first in executive session to discuss the Candidates for the position. Upon opening the meeting secret balloting determined the Board member's choice. Elwood was elected on the first Ballot as the male co-chairman, with Scribner and Rosalie Swedberg tied for the female half.

On the second ballot, Scribner was chosen with 10 votes to Swedberg's seven.

Others applying for the position, were John Boling, Gaye Caton, Pat Hollingsworth, Lois Lindberg, and Sally Knapp.

Writer Awards Given May 26

Highlight of the annual Writer Banquet Thursday evening, May 26, will be the awarding of cash prizes for the top material of both Winter and Spring issues. The smorgasbord-style dinner will be held at Brownie's Cedar Chest, south of town on highway 99.

Winter Writer editor Bob Carey will be on hand to present the 85 dollars in prize money to the top writers of his magazine. The present Writer editor, Clara Longstreth, will distribute a like amount to the Spring issue. As yet, these winners have not been announced.

Mr. Mark Harris of the University of Washington has consented to be guest speaker for the affair.

All staff members and contributors to both issues of the Writer are reminded by Mrs. Longstreth to check their names from the list posted in the Collegian office by Monday if they plan to attend the banquet.

Piano Recital Next Monday at Leopold

A piano recital will be held Monday, May 23, at 8:15 p. m. in the south hall of the Leopold Hotel.

Four pianists from Western and two from Bellingham High School will be presented in an interesting program of solo and ensemble numbers. They are Marilyn Tucker, sophomore, Rosemary Oldow, sophomore; Donald Andrus, sophomore; and Pat Havens, freshman, of Western. Janet Hanson and Marjorie Zoet are from Bellingham high.

The program will be assisted by young artist, Carol Milan, soprano. Miss Milan was the winner of a $300 music scholarship given by the Bellingham Women's Music Club in 1954.

The instructor for the piano students is Miss Edith R. Strange, a faculty member of the Music department at Western.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

CCF Spring Picnic To be at Lakewood

The College Christian Fellowship will hold its Spring picnic at 1 p. m. tomorrow at Lakewood.

This beach picnic will take the place of a Cruise which has been cancelled.

Ruth Tenneson, a CCF member, is furnishing a motor boat. Miss Tenneson's boat, along with the row boat on the Lakewood property, will furnish an enjoyable time for boat-lovers.

A variety of other recreation has also been planned. Providing the weather is favorable, there will also be horse shoes, hiking, and volleyball.

This picnic is not only open to CCF members but to anyone who is interested.

According to Don Higley, vice president of CCF, there will be plenty of free food and a good time for everyone.

Anyone who thinks he's indissoluble should stick his finger in a bowl of water and then notice the hole it leaves when he takes it out

SHE'S ENGAGED—The engagement of Miss Elaine Kelly to Mr. H. Gordon Jensen was recently announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kelly of Vancouver, Washington. Mr. Jensen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jensen of Portland. The bride-to-be is a junior at Western while her fiancé is a graduate of Oregon State college.

PE Department No Host Dinner

The Physical Education department is sponsoring "No Host" dinner, May 31 for the members of the Western Washington College of Education faculty and staff in honor of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Carver. Mr. Carver is retiring this June after being on WWC's faculty 42 years.

The men's and women's department staff are having a picnic Monday Eve, May 23, at the home of Miss Nelson on Lake Whatcom in honor of Mr. Carver and Miss Muffly, who is resigning from school at the end of this quarter.

Music Teacher Has New Job

Miss Edith Strange, Music department, has recently accepted an appointment for the State Department of Education to act on the state examining board for the certification of piano teachers.

The purpose of the board is to grant high school credit to their students for piano study.

Experience, Interest, Listed By BOC Candidates Running In Spring Quarter BOC Race

Candidates for the four open positions on the Board of Control will be introduced at a campaign assembly at 10 a. m. next Tuesday in the College auditorium. Six students are running for the four four-quarter positions on the board.

Voting will take place Thursday and Friday of next week by the front door of Old Main and the lobby of the Music Building. Since there will be two voting booths, students will need to present their student body cards.

The candidates with their qualifications and platforms are as follows:

Barrie Brownell

The job of a BOC member is both a great honor and a large responsibility. Although I have only attended Western for one year and therefore have had no previous experience with its Student Government, I feel that my committee work and activity participation have helped me to gain familiarity with the workings of the board. My activities include Blue Barnacles, Ski Club, Pep Committee, and the ASB Insurance Committee. I make no rash promises but I do have a definite program in mind for consideration as a BOC member. My platform is:

Each group must realize the responsibilities and privileges of the other so that government may function efficiently.

1. Improved student-faculty relations.

2. Better coverage of the BOC meetings by the WWColegian.

In order that people may know what is on the agenda and the action taken on measures, I advocate a column, written by an unbiased observer, in which the Board's action on proposals could be stated. A partial agenda should be published in the daily bulletin preceding the Board meetings.

3. Improvement of the Artist and Lecture Series.

Although the choice of performers is somewhat limited by funds and time, I feel that the committee in charge should be urged to select more vivid types of programs.

As a Board member, I will do to my part to continue improvement of Student Government. Serving as an unbiased representative of the students, I will strive for the continuance of efficient and effective student government at Western.

Walt Kauzlarich

I am a third quarter freshman, a member of the Wesvets, and this year's chairman of Campus Day.

I think that more should be done on a program for a Student Union Building. I also feel that in view of the fact that the Co-op and the Lounge are student body operated that the student could get more benefits from both. I also feel that student government should be brought down to the student level, for the students. I would try my best to represent all factions of the students if elected.

Larry Richardson

The Board of Control is the board of directors for a very large business. That business is devoted to the offering of moral and financial assistance to individuals, smaller groups, and to the whole group. I feel that my function on the Board would be to work for the establishment of additional services for the betterment of our situation as students.

1. We should put our student lounge to work. A program of diversified interest should be developed to enrich our student lives. Such a program might consist of faculty-led group discussions of all kinds, recreational activities, and attractions such as jam sessions, chess tournaments, etc.

2. The students of Western Washington can perform a real service to our society and to worthy students and leaders by establishing a scholarship program. As you know, Western has few scholarships to offer. At a cost of 33½ cents per quarter per student we could have a fund of around $1600 per year. These scholarships at present to help both entering and returning students.

Don Six

My name is Donald Six, and I am from Boise, Idaho. I am a sophomore, majoring in Education as well as math and science in the Arts and Science program. I am active in the newly formed Science club, and I participate in the College String... orchestra, String quartet, Bellingham Civic Symphony, and the Men's Glee club. I enjoy sports even though I'm not proficient in them.

I believe that persons elected to the Board of Control should show no partiality to any one group or department on the campus. Since I have a wide range of interests, I feel that all organizations would be equally considered during my representation on the B.O.C. Improvements can be made only by a strong legislative body, and I feel that efficiency in organization can obtain this goal.

I would like to help maintain a strong legislative body that endorses not only student leadership but also cooperation with the faculty advisors. I would also like to help create a greater interest in the student government and assist in the financial affairs that the BOC is concerned with.

I can assure you that I will voice my opinion, participate on committees, and support the proposals that give the greatest satisfaction to the students.

Bob Teshera

Because of my experience as chairman of the Student Finance committee, I am convinced that student finances need more mature direction than can be given by a student group. As a result I have filed for the Board of Control to work for the selection of a graduate business manager. I think a majority of the finance committee and of the Board itself are convinced that yearly expenditures of over $60,000 demand more than amateur direction.

As chairman of the finance committee, I have had opportunity to work closely with the Board and have more than a casual acquaintance with BOC problems. My hope is to utilize this experience and background in giving Western "more for its money."

Dick Walston

It has been said before. Western is in a period of growth that could be called transitional, from being a small college to becoming a large college. I would like to play an active part in that growth. My goal is to work toward keeping the practical, worthwhile precedents set in the past and moving forward with new ideas from the students for student government. Western's ASB has to keep pace with its students.

I can make no specific promises other than to do my best as a member of the Board of Control.

COLLECTION COMING

A collection of pictures by Japanese junior high school students will be displayed in the art gallery, second floor of the Arts building at Western Washington college next week.

The pictures, made of torn paper glued to a background were sent to Miss Hazel Plympton, head of the College Art department, from Japan.

This is my junior year at Western. I graduated from Kelso High School in 1952. I attended Lower Columbia Junior College. My freshman year activities there included membership on the Student Council, and president of the Ski Club.

I transferred to Western last year. Activities here include president of MRH, Decorations chairman of the Junior Prom, member of ASB Social Committee, FTA and Ski Club.

ing him for this remark, "Quote me as saying, 'We'll murder the bums! They'll be crying for mercy at the end of the first inning. My hopes are resting upon the shoulders of my superior battery combination of Kulbitski on the mound and Paige behind the plate.'"

As the bostful manager departed he muttered, "Don't worry about us, we'll be more than ready on Campus Day 1955."
