Foreword

The school year is heavy with responsibilities and resplendent with accomplishments, each accompanied by sorrows and joy. This volume embodies an attempt to interpret a chapter of school life; to picture things as they were in nineteen twenty-eight and nineteen twenty-nine.

Dedication

All the bright successes and darker shortcomings of present students may seem to future students but idle play. Today's students here offer a challenge to the class assembled twenty-five years hence to surpass the achievement of today. To that class of 1954 we respectfully dedicate this yearbook.

Library

Embodying the ideal of beauty and utility, the attractive new library ranks among the best school libraries in the United States. The building is beautifully designed in the Romanesque style of architecture to harmonize with the main building. It was constructed by the best of workmen during the year 1927-1928 and was open for use on June 5, 1928. Dr. James I. Wyer, Director of New York State Library, formerly Director of New York State Library School, dedicated the building on that day. To Bellingham Normal School, this day was one of its milestones, marking the realization of a great dream of her students and faculty.

A spacious reading room covers almost the entire second floor, seating some 300 students. Here twenty thousand volumes are on open shelves, accessible to students at all times. The coverings on the books have been selected in such a way that, on entering the room, one does not seem to see the books but perceives a room hung with ancient tapestries, blending beautifully with the walls and ceiling. Although it is mainly a reference and professional library for teachers, a comprehensive collection of books on subjects related to a liberal education are found on the shelves here.

On the second floor, too, is situated the delivery hall and the charging desk serving the reading room and the closed stacks where choice volumes and bound magazines are kept. The catalogue is located in the left alcove of this hall. Nearby are a work room and the offices of the head librarian, the cataloguer and the reference librarian. Students may drop into these offices any time and the librarians are always ready to help them solve their problems.

In the reserve book and periodical room on the first floor, books are found that the instructors require to be read. Current magazines and newspapers are accessible, in this room, at all times. The size of this room in comparison with the large reading room is indicative of the extent to which independent work is being done by the students.

The children's reading room across from the periodical room provides a pleasing contrast with the large reading room on the second floor. Here the furniture is designed and arranged to meet the needs of three sizes of children, varying from the smallest tots of the primary to the upper grade children. Shelves and wall spaces are so arranged that interesting and valuable accessory material and displays can be brought before the eyes of the children. Some three thousand books are found on the shelves in the children's room. Courses in children's literature are given in every curriculum and it is here that the students find the books and contacts that make these courses worth while. The prominent location of the children's reading room symbolizes what the school primarily stands for, the preparation of teachers of children.

Sophomore Class

The Class of 1929 has reached the end of its two year Normal career. In its Freshman year the class, under the leadership of a capable group of officers and committees, won a laudable recognition. Every class function was a marked success.

This year the officers have been the same for the three quarters, with one exception. They are:

CHARLES ERICKSON	President
ALICE SUNDQUIST	Vice-President
JEAN MARQUIS	Secretary
KELLIE HAMMITT (replacing Jean Marquis)	Secretary

The class has been well directed, with Miss Hilda Rosene as class adviser.

The two outstanding class functions of the year were the fall quarter dance, featuring the "Jingle Bell" Idea, and the spring quarter dance, with a "Sea-Going" motif. The dances were held December and April respectively.

Now, as the class looks forward to new fields of endeavor, it looks back with fond memories upon two years of co-operation and accomplishment.

The Freshman Class

STANLEY CRAFT	President
BERNICE GNAGEY	Vice-President
JEAN PHILIPPI	Secretary
MARY ELIZABETH FOWLER	Treasurer
LEONARD RODLAND	Frosh Representative

The Freshman class, under the leadership of the Executive Committee, comprising the class officers, was very prominent in school activities.

The first function for which the Freshmen were responsible was the bonfire for the Pep Rally, which was the beginning of the Home Coming Celebration. Tradition has it that it shall be the duty and privilege of representatives of the Frosh class to build and keep intact from outside invasions, the Home Coming Bonfire. This class did well to keep up this old tradition and the right spirit was shown when called upon to help.

Each quarter a party was given to which all Freshmen, and Sophomore men were invited. For each party there was a general chairman, under whom was a committee that worked with the aid of the Executive Committee.

In all the activities the responsibility was divided among those who were believed capable to carry out the work.

The Northwest Viking

The Northwest Viking, founded in 1900 under the name of the "Weekly Messenger," is essentially a student activity, in full charge of the students, with the active interest of the entire student body following its columns weekly. There was a change of management at the end of the winter quarter when Barney Chichester succeeded Harry Appleton as business manager, Dolly Anderson then taking Barney's place as editor.

This year a much sought-for honor was accorded the Viking, when it received recognition in a nation-wide contest for school papers. The editors may be justly proud of their work, and the school proud of both.

Red Arrow

The Red Arrow is a literary magazine published quarterly by the Scribes' Club and outside contributors. It gives the students an opportunity for criticism of one another's work, and, for those who write, the chance for expression of those fleeting thoughts that may only be caught now and then, and are so seldom found on paper.

This year the "Whoopee" number, published in the winter quarter, was very popular with the students. The material in the magazine is of several types—prose and poetry, serious and humorous, of varying excellence, but of interest to all fellow-students.

DOROTHY STRONG, MARION SNYDER Managers

WINTER QUARTER

BERNARD CHICHESTER Editor
LLOYD BECKES, KRISTINE THORDARSON Managers

Contributors to the fall and winter publications were: W. A. Cram, Marion Snyder, Phil Davis, Irene Schagel, Arthur Kolstad, Jane L'Eveque, Mary Elizabeth Fowler, Norman Burchette, Pelagius Williams, Victor H. Hoppe, Barney Chichester, Leonard Keppler, Bennett Howard, Joy Efteland, Mark Jarret, J. G., Paul Booth, Frances Gladwin, George Sherman, C. D. E., Margaret Sheppard.

Self-Starter

The "Self-Starter" is a booklet published by the Standards Committee of the Women's League, and distributed to the entering women each fall. It is to the women what the "Blue Book" is to the entire school. It tells them about the League, it gives suggestive wardrobes and expense accounts, it explains the house rules, and it lists the social activities. So, by telling the girls about the League and its work, it helps them to become accustomed to Normal life.

Directory

The "Student and Faculty Directory," with its refill, is an effort to keep the students identified as nearly as possible, with their respective addresses and telephone numbers, which is sometimes a rather difficult task, as some students seem to change their residences every quarter. The Directory lists the faculty, the women, and the men of the school separately, thus giving greater facility in looking up the person desired.

Blue Book

The "Blue Book" is a necessary part of our school equipment, indeed, many of us would be literally lost without it. It is published during the fall quarter, and contains information on practically every subject that could come under the head of a normal school, from the Faculty through the Student's Association, down to songs and yells. It contains information that every student should read and know, for it is of value during the entire year, and to everyone. The foreword says, "Consult this volume first, ask questions afterward," for, if you read intelligently, you may answer most of your questions for yourself.

"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE"

Drama

A most successful dramatic season at the Bellingham State Normal School was presented by Victor H. Hoppe, chairman of the department of speech. Four outstanding productions, illustrating a great variety of situations, were presented during the year by the Normal Drama Club, under Mr. Hoppe's direction.

A greater interest in dramatics than has ever before been shown was indicated this year by the increased activity of the Drama Club and by the many students who turned out for the quarterly drama productions. All of this year's dramatic achievements are examples of outstanding plays, enviably acted and excellently staged and directed.

"The Merchant of Venice"

"The Merchant of Venice" was given in the summer quarter on August 8 and 9. The leading role of Shylock was an unforgettable portrayal as interpreted by Mr. Hoppe. Carrie Ann Tucker as Portia, the heiress, played her role exceptionally well. The setting was a stylized suggestion of the Elizabethan stage and costumed in the stage style of Shakespeare's Globe Theatre.

"SUN UP"

"Sun Up"

The 1928-29 dramatic season at the Bellingham Normal was opened with the presentation of "Sun Up," by Lula Vollmer, in December. The action occurs in the interior of Widow Cagle's rude and isolated cabin in the North Carolina Mountains. To these mountaineers the only known justice is found in "A life for a life," the law of the feud. Circumstances under which Widow Cagle receives news of her son's death overseas bring a new outlook to these mountain folk. "Sun Up" is a serious drama, which displays an unusual characterization of life in North Carolina mountains.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate"

The winter quarter presentation of the Drama Club was "Seven Keys to Baldpate," a melodramatic farce, by George M. Cohan. The winter solitude of lonely Baldpate Inn was weirdly interrupted many times, as one by one the possessors of the seven keys disclosed themselves. Franklin Lock, Joy Efteland, and Florence Kern in the leading roles were supported by a clever cast. Mr. Hoppe's direction of the melodrama was highly appreciated by the many who attended the productions.

"SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE"

Outside Drama

This season the Normal School has presented five dramas by three excellent outside companies of players.

The Moroni Olsen Players presented "Expressing Willie," a comedy by Rachel Crothers; "What Every Woman Knows," by James M. Barrie, and "Autumn Fire," an Irish folk tragedy by T. C. Murray. Moroni Olsen was seen at his best in the role of Owen Keegan in "Autumn Fire."

The Ongawa Japanese Players presented an unusual and varied program from a repertoire of Japanese folk lore. The program included songs and dances of old Japan as well as a quaint playlet.

The Charles Rann Kennedy Players produced the drama, "Old Nobody," by Charles Rann Kennedy. "Old Nobody" is a play for male-factors. The setting and action made it a very unusual type of drama.

Icebound

The last offering of the dramatic season was "Icebound," by Owen Davis. In an isolated New England farmhouse both the selfish and kind motives within the Jordan family are developed. A strange and surprising turn of events leads Jane Crashy to pull Ben, the son, out of his former self and force the rest of the family to release their selfish thoughts. Florence Kern as Jane Crashy, and Barney Chichester in the role of Ben Jordan, made the play an unusually fine piece of drama.

NORMAL WOMEN'S CHORUS

Visiting Musical Artists

Presenting varied programs of the finest types of musical art, the Bellingham State Normal School annually brings many famous artists to its students.

Katheryn Meisle, contralto, presented the first concert of the year. As one of the most outstanding contraltos of the present day, Miss Meisle enchantingly held the admiration of her audience throughout her entire program. The mastery of interpretations and her colorful tones were completely perfected. The ability of Miss Meisle as a singer and the quality of her beautiful program set a standard that will be difficult for any contralto to surpass.

As the second concert artist of the season, Louis Graveure appeared on his first concert tour singing from a new repertoire in the tenor range. Renowned as a recital baritone, he abandoned his position last year and immediately became a leading tenor. With a well rounded voice of concentration and quality Mr. Graveure gave a concert which will be long remembered by the school.

Outstanding among the concerts of this season was the delightful recital of Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, pianists. Words cannot truly express the quality of their playing. The two pianos played not as if they were separate but rather as one immortal instrument. Possessing every noble quality of artist and actor, Mr. Maier and Mr. Pattison held their audience spellbound with their interpretations. Responding with many encores, the duo was accorded an ovation that is never to be forgotten.

The London String Quartet, among the finest in existence, appeared on the next program. The four instruments perfectly portrayed each human voice and in the hands of their masters produced marvelous harmony. The listener could not be but enthralled and charmed while hearing the beautiful "Andante Cantabile" movement from Tschaiikowsky's Quartet in D. The entire program was one of exquisite art, and the praise which was accorded the quartet distinguishes it as the finest that has ever appeared before the school.

Quite in contrast to the preceding presentation was the program of the Kedroff Quartet. Singing many Russian folk songs and selections by Russian composers, all in their native language, the Kedroffs gave a program of rare quality. Their interpretations were as realistic as could be possible for human voice to portray. Perfectly matched and blended tones came not from individuals but from a matchless ensemble.

Florence Austral, soprano, who gave such a superb performance a year ago, returned as the last number of this year's Musical Artists Course. Mme. Austral has a dramatic soprano voice of exquisite power and quality. In the same manner that she put her soul into each selection her personality extended throughout the audience. Mme. Austral was accompanied by John Amadio, flutist, who, with the piano, formed a rich background for the brilliant soprano voice. This program was most fitting as the closing number of the season.

Lectures

Many interesting lectures are given before the student body during the year. Although many subjects are presented, generally the ones of the greatest interest have been those from foreign lands.

Joan London, daughter of the famous writer, while speaking on the subject, "Thru the Looking Glass of Literature," offered a thorough explanation and criticism of our modern literature. Miss London's clear insight into the works by contemporary writers was greatly appreciated by the student body.

The Orient contributed two of this season's speakers. From Japan came Dr. Roy H. Akagi, who explained in a most interesting manner the social advancement of his country during recent years. Dr. W. T. Locke, for many years a missionary in China, spoke not only of China and her national conditions but more of the greater subject of world brotherhood.

Contessa Marie Loschi, during her brief tour of the United States, gave a most interesting lecture to the students of the Normal School. The theme of her address was the rapid change and improvement of the Italian people since the World War.

Two men came to the school as representatives of the great continent to the south of us. Edward Tomlinson revealed many of the great future possibilities of South America. Harold O. Fish brought to the student body a lecture, "Experiences Near a Jungle Laboratory," which was accompanied by many beautiful picture slides.

Among the most enthusiastic of speakers was John Langdon-Davies, from England, who spoke on "The New Age of Faith." Many interesting student questions followed the lecture and Mr. Davies answered each in a most brilliant manner.

Early in the fall quarter a schoolwide interest in debate was reawakened by the intramural debate series. All of the leading clubs and a number of independent groups organized debate teams to represent them in the elimination tournament.

Thru the partial replacement of the customary style of debate by the no-decision and cross-examination type, the participants must be unusually familiar with the subject in order to refute direct questions. The cross-examination method of refutation has gained the increased approval and popularity of the student body as, by this method only, the true cleverness and wit of the debaters are shown.

The men of the school participated in five debates, winning three, while the other two were no-decision contests. The women debated three times and lost but one decision.

Extemporaneous Speaking

The extemporaneous contest, in the third year of its existence, has continued to gain an increasingly stronger place among school activities. With but a short time to prepare, the contestants are allowed to speak for five minutes before the student assembly upon any of many topics of current interest. Each quarter two contestants are chosen to compete in the finals which are held near the middle of the spring quarter. The increased popularity of the extemporaneous contest is indicated by the large numbers of students who have turned out each quarter for the activity.

The greatest number of students entered the contest in the fall quarter, making the competition keen. Edith Dyer and Stanley Craft were chosen as the two successful aspirants. A great spirit of enthusiasm which was also shown in the winter quarter resulting in the selection of Arthur Cram and Ray Craft by the judges for later competition. In the spring quarter preliminaries Joy Efteland and Maurine Lind were chosen to compete in the finals. In the final contest, held on the twenty-sixth of April, all of the aspirants gave excellent speeches on subjects of universal interest. Joy Efteland was selected as the guardian of the beautiful extempore loving cup, while Stanley Craft was adjudged the winner of second place.

The extemporaneous contest has served to secure a new spirit in the school towards public speaking which has resulted in a valuable type of educational development for many students.

Edens Hall, the women's dormitory,—what it means to a girl who has been there, cannot be measured. There are the parties, the interesting goings-on, and above all, the association with so many girls who are all studying, working, and playing together.

Each quarter the girls of the organized houses compete for two banners, the Scholarship and the Achievement. The house awarded a banner for three consecutive quarters is allowed to keep it permanently, but as the amount of play is not considered in making the awards, the banners change hands frequently.

With a number of veterans back in school to fill their old positions, the Normal football squad held great promise of being one of the best of Viking grid machines in several years. The new material also showed to good advantage, and prospects were bright for the 1928 season.

Though the Vikings won only one of the six games played, they came through the season heroically and the Normal is proud of the way in which the fellows took their defeats and won their lone victory.

Following are the schedule and scores of the season's games.

Ellensburg Game

In the first Tri-Normal tilt of the season, the Viking grid machine was defeated at Ellensburg on October 19.

The weather, unlike that on the western side of the mountains, was hot and dry, with a chilling dry wind blowing across the field.

All through the first three quarters of the game the Vikings played a defensive brand of ball, and it was not until in the latter part of the fourth quarter that there was any chance for the Bellingham team to cut loose with anything besides straight football. When they did it was too late to do more than threaten the Ellensburg goal, but this was accomplished, for had there been a few more seconds to play it is quite probable that Bellingham would have returned home with at least a score to her credit. They had lost all but their fighting spirit and their desire to win, and these two qualities they clung to until they at last relieved their pent up feelings on the unsuspecting St. Martin's eleven.

Cheney Game

"Home-Coming"

For one to invite a man into his home to help him celebrate the renewal of old time friendships, is a very highly commendable thing to do. But for that man to leave one's home after the celebration, taking with him all the glory of the occasion, while his friends all stand around and wonder what is the matter with their host, is quite another thing.

Yet such was the case when the Cheney Savages were invited to participate in the annual homecoming event at Bellingham Normal. The Savages, casting aside all consideration for their host, proceeded to beat him at his own game in his own home, and make him like it.

The game was so close that at almost any minute the score might have been changed into a Viking victory instead of a defeat. The Savages had not forgotten the six to nothing defeat that the Vikings handed them the season before at Cheney, and they were only "getting even."

St. Martin's Game

Of Viking victories we long to read, more than anything else. Here is the story of the only Viking victory in the 1928 football season.

The Norsemen invited the St. Martin's College football team to play in the Viking backyard, again this season and they accepted the invitation. The rangers came all the way from Lacey to play a nice little game of football, and the Vikings didn't seem to care a bit. The Normalites tramped on the boys from Lacey so much that the visitors began to think that the home town boys did not play fair. The Vikings teased the visitors along for a whole quarter and a half before they made a score. Then in the closing minutes of the second period of play, Odell ran wild to make a 55 yard gain before he was forced out of bounds on St. Martin's four-yard line. "Red" Williams then took the ball for two plays and put it on the one-yard line, and Chuck Erickson put it across on a hard line smash, for the only score of the game.

Super Varsity Game

Sand is often one of the prime requisites of a football player, but the game at Seattle with the U. of W. Super Varsity eleven was the "sandiest" game this writer has witnessed. It was on a wind-bleached, rain-swept field of sand that the Normal Vikings went down to defeat to the tune of 6 to 0.

The first few minutes of the game saw the loss of two star men, Erickson and Moe. But despite the loss of these two men, the Norsemen fought on and were glorious even in defeat. The Viking spirit was as undefeated as ever.

Frosh Game

On the seventeenth of November, the U. of W. Frosh invaded the Viking home and walked off with the Norsemen's goat to the unpleasant score of 13 to 0. The locals were out-weighted and out-played in every department of the game. When the Norsemen had the ball, they could not penetrate the Frosh defense. Line smash and end run alike were turned back repeatedly for no gain. The Viking aerial attack was as a kite before a March wind. Only once did the Norsemen come within scoring distance of the goal and then the Frosh line was akin to the rock of Gibraltar.

Varsity Basketball Resume

Beginning the twelfth of January, 1929, the Viking Varsity cagers opened one of the most successful hoop seasons that they have had for several years.

The first game was with St. Martin's College, when the Norsemen trounced the Rangers with a 41 to 15 score. Then the Rothchild's team from Seattle visited the Normalites and nearly walked away with the contest. However, in the closing minutes of the game the Normal boys came to the front and took the mix from the visitors, 33 to 30. The game was one of the fastest ever seen on a Bellingham floor.

The first of the Tri-Normal series came with Ellensburg at the home of the Wildcats. They trampled all over the Norsemen and won the fray by a large score.

On the following night the Vikings invaded the town of Yakima and left a defeated quintet of Generals. The Norsemen outpointed the Generals by ten counters, and went on their way across the state and tackled the Cheney Savages in the second Tri-Normal contest. This was another victory for the fast Viking cagers.

From their victory over the Savages the Vikings went into Spokane and walked all over the quintet of the Spokane College. Thence the Norsemen, from a successful trip, returned to the home courts where they met a hard defeat at the hands of the University of Washington Freshmen.

The week following the Frosh game was one of victory and defeat for the Vikings. The Cheney Savages visited in the early part of the week and were sent home a beaten bunch. Later in the week, the Ellensburg Wildcats invaded Bellingham and marched triumphantly away with the Viking goat. Then in Seattle the next week the Vikings lost another hard game to the Frosh. After this they traveled to Lacey and won from the St. Martin's quint. The next week they closed the season with a win over the Spokane College quintet. Thus closed a successful season.

Super Varsity Basketball

Riding rough-shod over nearly all competition in the City Class A Basketball League for the season of 1928-29, The Normal Super Varsity Basketball Team came out on the top of the scramble for the Class A cup.

In the final contest, the Supers trounced the Roland Wreckers, 47 to 38, and were in a position to claim the trophy for their own.

The Supers were up against as hard a schedule as any team would want to face at any time, and all of their games were hard fought and close. Not only did the Supers have a tough schedule to buck, but they had to give up the best of their players to the Viking Varsity squad, when it started out in the collegiate race. Thus weakened, the Supers did honor to themselves and to the school by coming out ahead in the race for the cup.

In winning this year's cup, the Super quintet set a precedent for the teams of the future seasons to follow, that will tax the fortitude of many a hard working lad.

The Supers had a hard path to cut in the wilderness of competition and they did their job as only Supers could do it.

Junior Varsity Basketball

The Normal Junior Varsity Basketball Team finished its third successful season in the Class B League of the City of Bellingham.

The Juniors started the season with a win over the Junior Mechanics on November twentieth. The game was an easy victory for the Normalites, being won by a score of 65 to 17. The next game the Junior quint did not fare so well, for they dropped their contest to the Independents by a narrow margin.

Followed a series of Jayvee wins that carried them through to a tie with the Y. M. C. A. quintet for the first half of the split season.

The Jayvee squad was a team of all forwards, and every man on the squad had to be a good shot. While the Junior team won most of its games by a large margin and big scores, it is singular to note that the players from the Normal were not listed in the ranks of the high score men of the season. The fact that all of the Jayvee players were good shots probably accounts for their staying right up in front most of the time.

After coming out in a tie for the first half honors, the Jayvees went out and grabbed off all of the first honors in the second half of the season, and refused to share them with anybody else.

BELLINGHAM VS. U. OF W. FROSH AT SEATTLE, MAY 4TH

TRI-NORMAL MEET—BELLINGHAM, ELLENSBURG, CHENEY, AT CHENEY MAY 25TH

FROSH MATCH

On Saturday, May 4, Coach Carver took a four-man squad, consisting of Thal, Erickson, Keplinger, and Church, down to Seattle to meet the strong University of Washington freshman team.

Four singles, and two doubles matches were played, with the freshmen holding the edge over the Normalites.

TRI-NORMAL MATCH

May 25th, the Viking's three-man team will journey to Cheney, scene of the Tri-Normal meet, with high hopes of bringing back the Tri-Normal championship which they lost to Cheney last year. Two singles and one doubles match form the schedule.

Although this year's squad, at the date of writing, does not appear as flashy as last year's team, it is believed that they will take a stronger combination to Cheney than the one which represented Bellingham at the Tri-Normal meet of 1928, which was held at Ellensburg.

Varsity Baseball

Wet weather was one of the greatest of the features of the 1929 baseball season for the Viking pastimers.

Rain hindered the early season practice, just when the early work would be of the most benefit. Rain caused the Viking coaches to postpone the first game of the season with St. Martin's College on April 13. On April 20, the game with the University of Washington Varsity had to be dropped because of the crying tendencies of Old Jupe Pluvius.

During the following week, good weather prevailed until Saturday, April the twenty-seventh, when the weather again threatened to stop the game between the Norsemen and the Freshman team from the U. of W.

Following the Frosh game, the Viking schedule was all shot to pieces due to the cancelling of two games with Centralia Junior College, and the games with Cheney Normal.

With the Freshmen out of the way, St. Martin's was next on the list.

After disposing of the Rangers, the Vikings journeyed to Ellensburg to tangle with the Wildcats. Then remained only the return games with the Frosh and St. Martin's diamond aggregations.

Track

Four meets were scheduled for the Viking cinder artists during the season of 1929. The first of these meets was at Seattle on May 4, when Coach Carver sent a medley relay team to participate in the Washington Relay Carnival.

The second meet came on Wednesday, May eighth, also at Seattle, where the Viking team met the University of Washington Freshmen.

Following the Freshman meet, the College of Puget Sound sent a team to Bellingham to attempt another defeat of the Vikings. The meet with C. P. S. was expected to be a hard and close one, with the visitors as the favorites.

With the first three meets out of the way, the fourth came along on the twenty-fourth of May. This time the Norsemen traveled all the way across the state to Cheney, where they entered the Tri-Normal meet.

At the very first of the season, track prospects were good for a well-balanced squad. It looked as if there were plenty of weight men in school to go along with the runners. Later it developed that the weight men were falling far short of early expectations.

Outstanding in their track and field work are: Erickson, who is getting his javelin out over 180 feet, and is doing a little over nineteen feet in the broad-jump; Carboneau, who is doing the mile in about 4'40"2; Bey, in the pole-vault is getting right up in the air; and the sprinters are led by veteran Earl Hemmi. Bright, who is last year's record holder of the mile event, is still in championship form, and promises to make things for any competition.

In the middle distances, Howell, Axelson, and Eagan are the leading contenders, while Brinkman is going strong in the two-mile event.

Looking ahead into the latter part of the season, it might be safe to say that Viking hopes for championship are brighter than they have been for several seasons.

Women's Athletics

Women's athletics has continued to be one of the major activities of this school through a very busy and interesting year. The goal, "A sport for every girl," is indeed being realized. To Miss Kathleen Skalley, Miss Helen Dozier, and Miss Grace Sullivan, much credit is due for their enthusiastic leadership and skillful coaching.

New sports which may prove popular are introduced each season. This year serve-us ball, badminton and speedball were added to the sports program.

To provide for the most effective practice, the girls turning out for each sport are divided into intramural teams which play off a series of games. From this group, class teams are selected. At the end of the season, those girls who have been outstanding in skill, accuracy and sportsmanship are given places on the all star team.

The Women's Athletic Association, which is the center of the activities, was very efficiently directed by Dot Sollie and her crew. Banquets at the end of each sport season, a kid party, masquerade, carnival are some of the activities which will be remembered with pleasure.

Viqueen Lodge, the camp site on Sinclair Island, which is owned by the Women's Athletic Association, was inhabited by many jolly groups during every season of the year. When the spring days arrived, the girls wore their working clothes and prepared for days of landscaping and general improvement around their cabin.

A campaign to earn money for the Lodge was heartily entered into by the girls. They did every kind of job from shining shoes and tutoring to staging a very successful student-faculty program.

An International Play Day was sponsored June 1 by the Normal school, when women from the University of British Columbia and the University of Washington were our guests.

A FAST DRIBBLE

Hockey

Armed with shin guards, hockey sticks and much determination, about thirty aspirants prepared to master the art of dribbling a hockey ball down the field, of passing successfully before being attacked, of backing up the forward line.

The group was divided into two intramural teams, the Bumps and Smashers. In the three games which were played, the Bumps won the series with scores of 2-1, 1-4, 3-2.

With everyone in good form from practice, the interclass series were initiated by a scoreless, hard fought battle on a frozen field.

The second game ended with a 5-1 victory over the Sophomores. This game gave the championship to the freshmen for the final game was again a tie.

Basketball

Cries of "Slick shot," "Pretty pass," "Good guarding" could be heard from the basketball side lines after the teams had gone through carefully coached practice turnouts for accuracy.

Before securing a coveted place on the class teams, each member was required to pass a rigid test with a grade of B or better.

The Freshmen, backed by the stellar playing of Sue McMillan and Berdette Harter at center, won the interclass championship. The games were 30-25 and 21-19 at the close of the contest.

NET PLAY

Volleyball

"Don't let it land"—the old cry of the volleyball player as she knocks the ball back and forth across the net with speed and accuracy, issued from the gym with unusual emphasis this season.

The intramural series was played off between the Servites, Stretchers, Parameciums, and Net

Nymphs. Although the competition was fired and keen, the Net Nymphs won the series undefeated.

In the interclass games, a series of six games was played. The Sophomores won all the honors of the volleyball court, taking every interclass game on the season's schedule.

FAST PLAY ON THE SOCCER FIELD

Soccer

Although besmeared with mud and water, the soccer enthusiasts would never stop lauding this popular sport. Hard fought games, most of them ending scoreless, or in a tie, were evidences of the whole-hearted competition in the games. The entire turnout gained effective practice during the intramural series.

The Freshmen, although hampered by the exceptional playing of Dot Sollie, sophomore, won the first interclass game by a 2-1 score. In the two remaining games of the series, the teams had to leave the battlefield because of darkness, with a 1-1, 0-0 tie, thus giving the championship to the Freshmen.

Swimming

Speed, good form, and correct methods of life saving were displayed at the swimming meet which was the grand finale of a successful swimming season.

The Sophomores, by winning the exciting relay races, took the championship.

The Life Saving team demonstrated their work in carries and holds.

March second, many of the girls went to the U. of W. to a Play Day for the Normal school and U. of British Columbia. They had a very interesting and delightful time.

SPEEDBALL IN THE AIR

Speed Ball

Speedball, a combination of soccer and basketball, was introduced into the sports activities Spring quarter. The great deal of enthusiasm with which the girls turn out for this sport verifies its popularity. The game is based on speed. The girls learned rapidly the tactics of getting the ball down the field in the least amount of time.

Baseball

"Batter up!" Thus were many exciting games started during the baseball season. Many of the organized houses formed teams and a series of games were played off. This gave many more girls the opportunity to play than is afforded by the regular turnout. The classes were tied for honors when the yearbook went to press.

A PRACTICE GAME

Dancing at Fairhaven Park

Natural Dancing

One of the most popular recreational activities as well as a regular Physical Education subject is Natural Dancing.

The aims are to develop graceful movements and body poise through a natural, enjoyable means.

Each spring the girls exhibit the work they have done in Natural Dancing in a dance program.

Miss Dozier has done much to help develop a keen appreciation of natural beauty in dancing.

Hiking

*"There's a long, long trail a-winding
Into the land of my dreams. . ."*

Our hiker sings these lines and smiles contentedly, as memory brings back pictures ever filled with fascination. Once again, with happy comrades, she follows Miss George over the trail, (winding through mid-Autumn's warm, sunlit forest, while leaves of russet, burnt-orange, and gold are rustling and dancing around her feet.

In winter, the trail leads through fairy wonders untold, for Jack Frost has draped trees, bushes, and ferns in fluffy, white lace, glittering and sparkling where the sunlight reaches. How quiet the woodland seems now!

With spring, comes the thought of Mt. Constitution. When once on its summit, the hiker imagines the Sound, dotted with numberless islands, truly tilted on edge, all for her to behold.

Wherever she be, on Mt. Baker's still snows, or by windswept Puget Sound with its waves dashing high, the hiker learns to know Nature. She scarcely needs think of the All-Star Hiking Team as an incentive when Saturday comes. She is heartily glad that these wonderful hikes are for every girl in school!

Queen Louise

A "Dance of the Nations" was given by the Frosh, November 10th. Effective decorations of the flags of different nations were a feature of the party. During the intermission a program of representative folk dances further carried out the Nations idea.

Cupid crowned Louise Griffin, Queen of Hearts of the Freshman Party February 15. Joyce Arnold and Rosalie Strong were the Maids of Honor, and Mildred Kent, Norma Freeman, Mary Clearwater and Ruth Irwin, her other attendants. Bobby Kessler was the charming Cupid.

The Sophomore "Jingle - Bells" dance on Friday, December 14, was a decided success. The holiday spirit prevailed and the gym was decked with holly greens and Christmas trees. During the intermission Santa passed out gifts to the guests.

The gymnasium was transformed into a floating palace with port holes, fog horns, a twelve mile limit and a bar, for the Sophomore "Sea Going" party on April 5. A deck was equipped with card tables for those who did not dance, and a gypsy fortune teller entertained the curious.

Women's League Quarterly Informals

This year six informals were given, two each quarter, one by the Women's League and one by the Dormitory girls. These dances were very cleverly planned and the effects were most attractive. The dances carried out distinctive ideas for the different seasons. Catherine Morse, Social Chairman of the Women's League, deserves much credit for these successful functions.

An Indian Summer Frolic, the fall informal of the Women's League, was given November 2nd in the Edens Hall dining room. Amidst relics and some of the symbols of American Indians, a hundred and twenty couples enjoyed a most delightful evening. A cunning wigwam in one corner was the well concealed punch booth. The appropriate decorations were due to the efforts of Ouida Davidson and her committee.

A modernistic dance with gorgeously colored octagonal lamp shades gave a weird and unusual glow to the Edens Hall dining-room when the Outside Girls had their Informal, March 9th. Jay Curtis and his Melody Makers played behind a cream curtain and the red lights and vividly painted panels gave much modernistic atmosphere.

The "Dance of Dreams" was the theme of the Women's League Informal given May 3rd in the Edens Hall dining-room, which was transformed into a dream room with balloons, wisteria and billowy affairs—depictive of growing things. Lattice work and wisteria formed the punch booth from which girls in natural dancing costumes served refreshments.

Edens Hall Quarterly Informals

"Wintertime" was the atmosphere in which the "dorm" girls enjoyed their first informal of the year, December 8th. Decorations of icicles, snow and evergreens were cleverly arranged by Virginia Schmitt and her committee. The Melody Makers furnished the music which lent much pleasure to the occasion.

In a typically Irish setting with lights of a medieval castle shining from the background, the girls at Edens Hall gave a Blarney Dance, March 2nd in the Blue Room. Punch was served from a rustic well by two Irish girls in their green costumes. Irish dances were printed in the green pigs, the programs. This interesting and enjoyable Irish Wake was in charge of Virginia Schmitt, Edens Hall Social Chairman.

A huge likeness of the Oriental Buddah looked down upon the Edens Hall Spring Informal. Garlands of wisteria and lighted Japanese lanterns festooned the hall, transforming it into an Oriental summer garden. Colorful panels picturing mandarins and fire-expelling dragons gazed at the party from behind the wisteria.

Jane L'Eveque, social chairman of Edens Hall, was commended highly for the success of this informal.

There were two informals last summer, one for the Edens Hall girls and one planned by the Women's League. The former featured a Japanese theme, and the latter transformed the hall into a summer day in Hawaii.

Kid Party

The Women's League annual Kid Party in honor of the incoming freshmen girls took place in the "Big Gym," October 5th.

Decorations of pink and blue were effective and the "kid" costumes added much gayety to the scene. The evening's diversion was dancing; the music was furnished by a girls' orchestra.

Catherine Morse, Social Chairman of the Women's League, was in charge of the affair.

W. A. A. Dance

The W. A. A. Dance December 7th, under the direction of Rose Brooks was a clever affair at which part of the girls were dressed as boys. Prizes were awarded the three best impersonators. Dancing was the chief diversion of the evening and music was furnished by a girls' orchestra. A program of folk dances, a pianologue, natural dancing and piano solos were also enjoyed by the girls. During the Spring quarter the W. A. A. presented a novel all-girls' carnival dance.

"Rec" Hour

The students gather together every Friday afternoon for an hour of Recreational Dancing in the Big Gym. The music is furnished by Jay Curtis and his Music Makers.

Fifth Annual Home-Coming

The fifth annual Home-Coming was an enjoyable week-end of renewing old friendships and making new ones. The success of the affair was largely due to Joe Hermsen, the general chairman, who was assisted by Glen Goddard, bonfire chairman; Eleanore Brown, luncheon chairman, and Dorothy Sasse, dance chairman.

The celebration started with a huge bonfire and Pep Rally, Friday night, October 26. Luncheon was served at Edens Hall and the Cafeteria, after which was the football struggle between Bellingham and Cheney.

The grand climax was the dance at the armory Saturday evening, where Grads gathered together beneath banners for their own classes. The music was furnished by Ralph Hennes' orchestra.

Men's Club Dance

The men of the school entertained in the Eden's Hall dining room on February 8th. Under the soft glow of shaded lights and greenery, one hundred couples danced to the music of the "Washington Ramblers." Joe Hermsen, social chairman, was in charge of the enjoyable affair.

Winter Tea

The All-school Tea, sponsored by the Women's League, was given at Edens Hall, Thursday, January 3rd, from 4:00 to 5:30.

An interesting musical program was presented by talented students of the school. Miss Leona Sundquist, Miss Kathleen Skally, Miss Hazel Plympton and Miss Ruth Platt, faculty members, poured.

The tea is the annual custom for the all-school mixers in the Winter quarter.
