DEDICATION

A memory glows for a moment in the mind, and we hear again the voices of students who were here in the past; we see the figures moving in streams along the campus walks. Most are indistinct in outline—dream figures and dream faces that cannot be clearly recalled. But the voices persist and some of the figures become more tangible. These figures grow clearly in memory—eternally young, eternally gay—as we recall a certain pose, a movement of the hands, a smile.

Such a one was Rosemary who still lives on in the minds of those who knew her. The soft brown hair about the slender face, the very blue eyes, and bright smile cannot soon be forgotten. They formed part of a lovable personality. Rosemary was always a part of this campus, attending the campus school throughout her grade school days and eventually graduating from the college. She entered her chosen profession, teaching, but had not quite completed her first year in it when her life was suddenly cut short. Lovely and talented, she seemed especially fashioned for success.

She moves back now into the stream of dream-like figures crowding the campus walks, one of those who can never be quite forgotten. So in the year 1950 we dedicate the Klipsun to Rosemary—Rosemary Bolster.

FOREWORD

The turn of the half-century has marked for Western the first year in a new era. Expansion has been the by-word as we have watched the construction of the new Industrial Arts and Music-Auditorium buildings, additions which will set new horizons for Western's administrators. From Sunrise to Sunset we proudly watch our college grow, knowing that Western's sun is rising to ever greater Zeniths.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees has for many years given Western Washington College the inspired leadership of laymen who unselfishly devote themselves to the problems of higher education. The current board has had more than the usual number of new projects to plan for and supervise.

Many details relative to the completing and furnishing of the Arts and the Auditorium-Music buildings have required long hours of careful consideration from the Trustees this year. They have also cooperated fully with the faculty in the far reaching changes of curriculum required by the new laws permitting the training and certification of high school teachers and the granting of the general certificate.

Missing from the Board this year is Verne Branigin, who had been a member since 1933. Mr. Branigin, who died July 21, 1949, made a significant contribution to the accomplishments of the Board and the welfare of the College.

OUR PRESIDENT

To Dr. W. W. Haggard, president of WWCE, fell in 1949-50 the historic task of ushering in the second fifty years of development for the institution. With the Golden Anniversary celebration past, his attention was turned to the task of expanding the college program to fit the needs of the increasing number of students.

Ever-widening campus horizons are typical of 1950. Under President Haggard's leadership, the curriculum has been developed to include the training and certification of high school teachers. Plans are being made for the granting, after 1951, of the general certificate to all qualified graduates, a procedure which will replace the present separate classification of elementary and secondary teachers. Intensive work has been accomplished toward the enrichment of the liberal arts program.

Outstanding recognition came to the college during the year, when it was one of eighteen institutions chosen by the American Council of Education to participate in a national study of evaluation in general education.

Closely watched by President Haggard and other state educators is the coming fall vote on three bond issues, one of which would enable WWCE to share in the distribution of $20,000,000 to be used for capital outlay.

DEANS . . .

The offices of both Deans are open all year round to students with problems such as housing and part-time jobs. They also help in the planning and scheduling of campus social activities.

To freshmen who frighten easily, the towering height of C. W. McDonald, Dean of Men, can be terrifying. But they soon learn that "Big Bill" is a friend, not foe, as the "adopted father" of Western's male enrollment. McDonald divides his time between the Dean's office and the gymnasium, for he is also coach of the Viking basketball team.

Miss Lorraine Powers has the task of supervising the social activities of the students and watching over the welfare of every woman student. She has done both jobs to everyone's satisfaction, at the same time teaching in the mathematics department.

. . . ADMINISTRATORS

Dr. Merle S. Kuder, with the impressive title of Director of Student Personnel, carries on a multitude of duties connected with that office. As the title implies, students are his business and he has made it his business to be of service to them.

The details of record-keeping and registration were maintained in good order by Donald Ferris, Western's capable registrar. Mr. Ferris also found time throughout the busy year to serve on numerous committees concerned with the problems of an expanding curriculum.

Dr. Raymond Hawk has been busy keeping one eye on WWC's fine Campus School facilities and the other eye on a record number of student teachers. Widely recognized as an educational leader, Dr. Hawk is one of the most popular men on campus because of his sense of humor and ability to get along with people.

GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS

Gardener

With an expanding campus populated by an ever-increasing number of students, the problems of the maintenance staff have increased proportionately. Through their daily efforts, Westernites can study and work on a campus that ranks high among other colleges in regards to beauty and care. All the buildings are supervised and kept in good, clean order by the men of the maintenance crew.

George A. Dack, head gardener at the college since 1926, retired in 1949 after twenty-three years of faithful service in that capacity.

Mr. Dack is largely responsible for Western Washington College's beautiful campus, one of the most beautiful college settings on the Pacific coast. In 1927 he supervised the planting and replanting of the landscaping project that year and since that time devotedly conformed to the high standard of his initial enterprise.

He was known to everyone as George, yet commanded the respect of all who knew him. We wish him a pleasant retirement, which we know will be filled with many pleasant memories of his long years of service and with the satisfaction of a job well done. The evidences of his work remain as a credit to the college and a tribute to his name.

OUR LEADERS

Capable, congenial Bill Jones was 1949-50's number one man of the student body as president of the Associated Students. Heading a student body of more than 1,500 students is a big job and Bill handled it well, presiding over Board of Control meetings and representing the college at various meetings. He could always be seen during noon hours in the lounge, holding court, listening to everyone's gripes and getting action whenever possible.

Bill is a man of the world, with a colorful past behind him and a brilliant future ahead of him. He has been a baseball player, railroad engineer, and an army first sergeant, and is also a father of two children. Next to his family his second love is Western, and his unshakable faith in its future should be justified by the course of events.

The other half of the student body hierarchy is Loren Rankin, quiet and efficient vice-president. Loren proved that there is work involved in the position of student body "veep," for he has kept busy carrying on the duties of that office throughout the year. As ex-officio chairman of the election committee, one of his biggest jobs was the supervision of all student elections. It was his duty to stimulate interest in the elections, keep the voting machines in good order, and finally, to tally the final vote.

A future teacher, Loren was president of the Association for Childhood Education during his junior year and served on the Interclub Council. During the winter, he was a student delegate to the Washington Education Association convention.

BOARD OF CONTROL

Affairs of student government are handled by the Board of Control, expanded in size this year to fifteen members, twelve students and three faculty advisers. This increase in size has enabled the Board to reflect student opinion more accurately and, at the same time, has given more students an opportunity to participate directly in their student government.

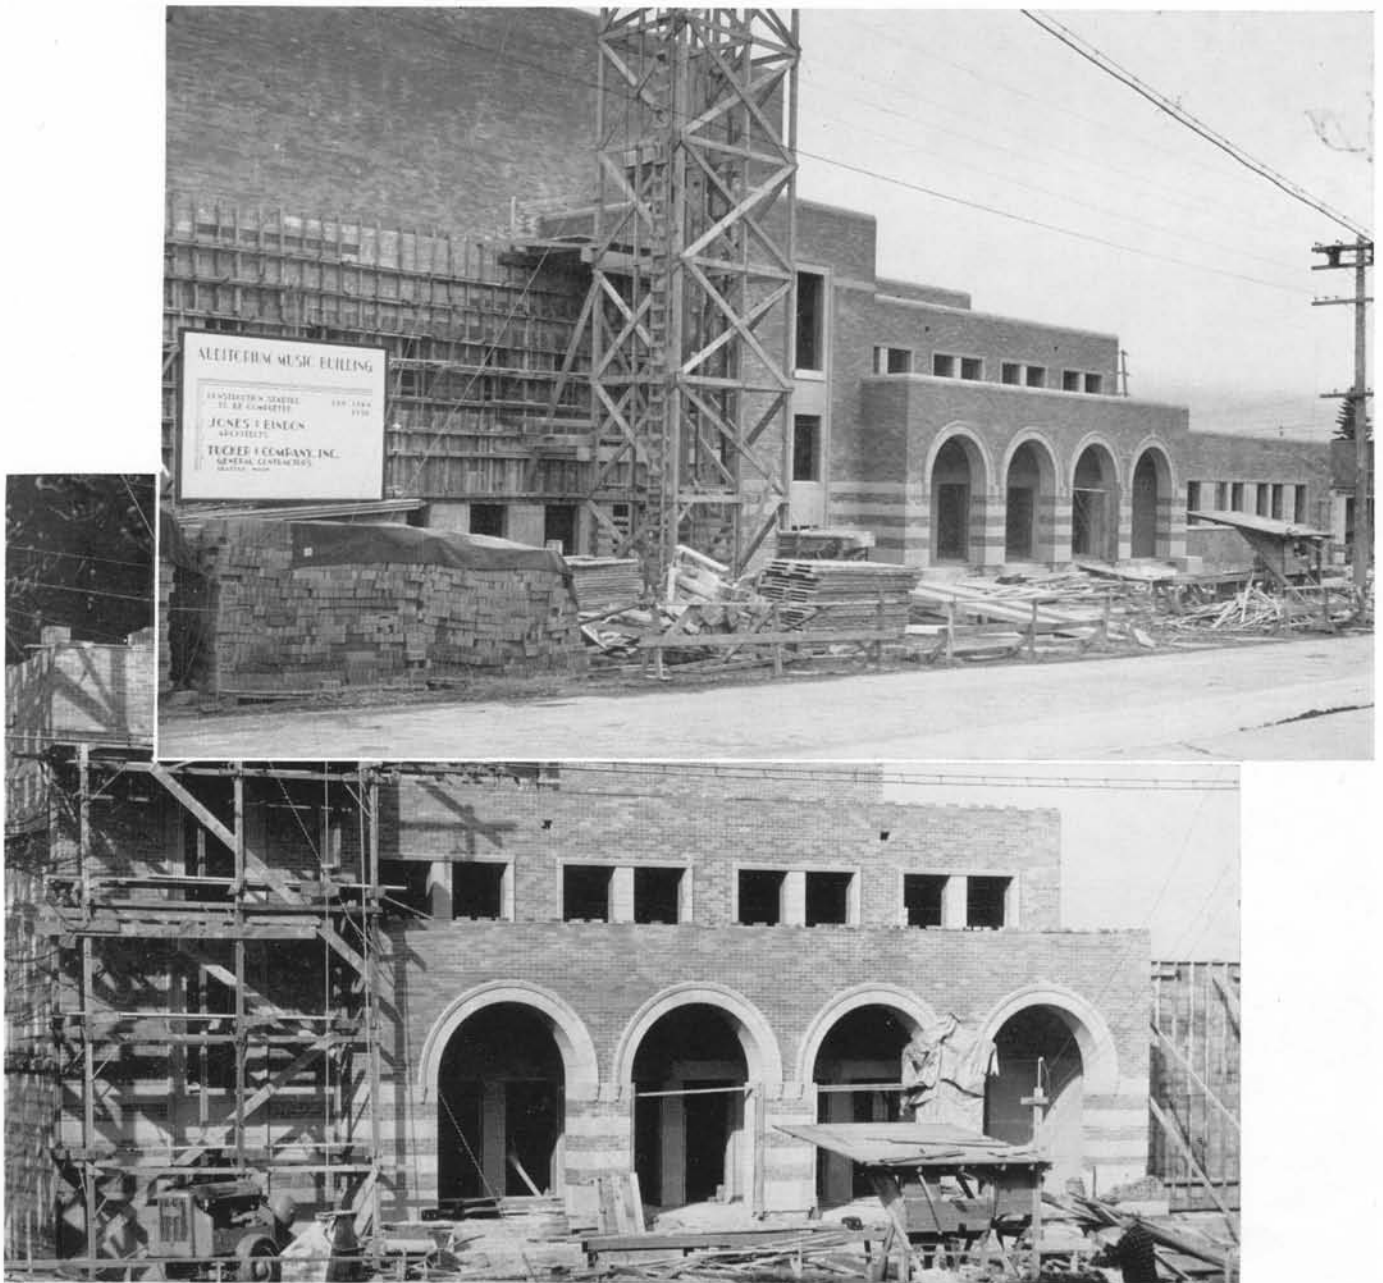

In regular Wednesday afternoon sessions, Board members took a business-like approach to the many problems confronting them. Student activity fees entrusted to their care were administered in such a way as to give every Western student the greatest value for his money. The duties of board secretary were handled by Ann Pearson during fall quarter and by Paul Gillie during winter and spring.

The Board of Control was assisted in its duties by a number of student committees, comprised of volunteers who had shown, by their eagerness to serve, an enthusiastic interest in school activities. The many thankless tasks performed by the live-wire personnel of the committees contributed to the success of this year's student body administration. Special groups were the Homecoming and Campus Day committees. Standing committees, each with specified functions, are the Social Committee, Election Committee, Properties Committee, Student Facilities Board, Contest Committee, Awards and Heraldry, and the Publicity and Pep Committee.

ARTS BUILDING

Although the finishing touches are yet to be completed, the new Arts building was occupied this year by the art department. This building is to house the Industrial Arts and Graphic Arts departments as well as the Art department.

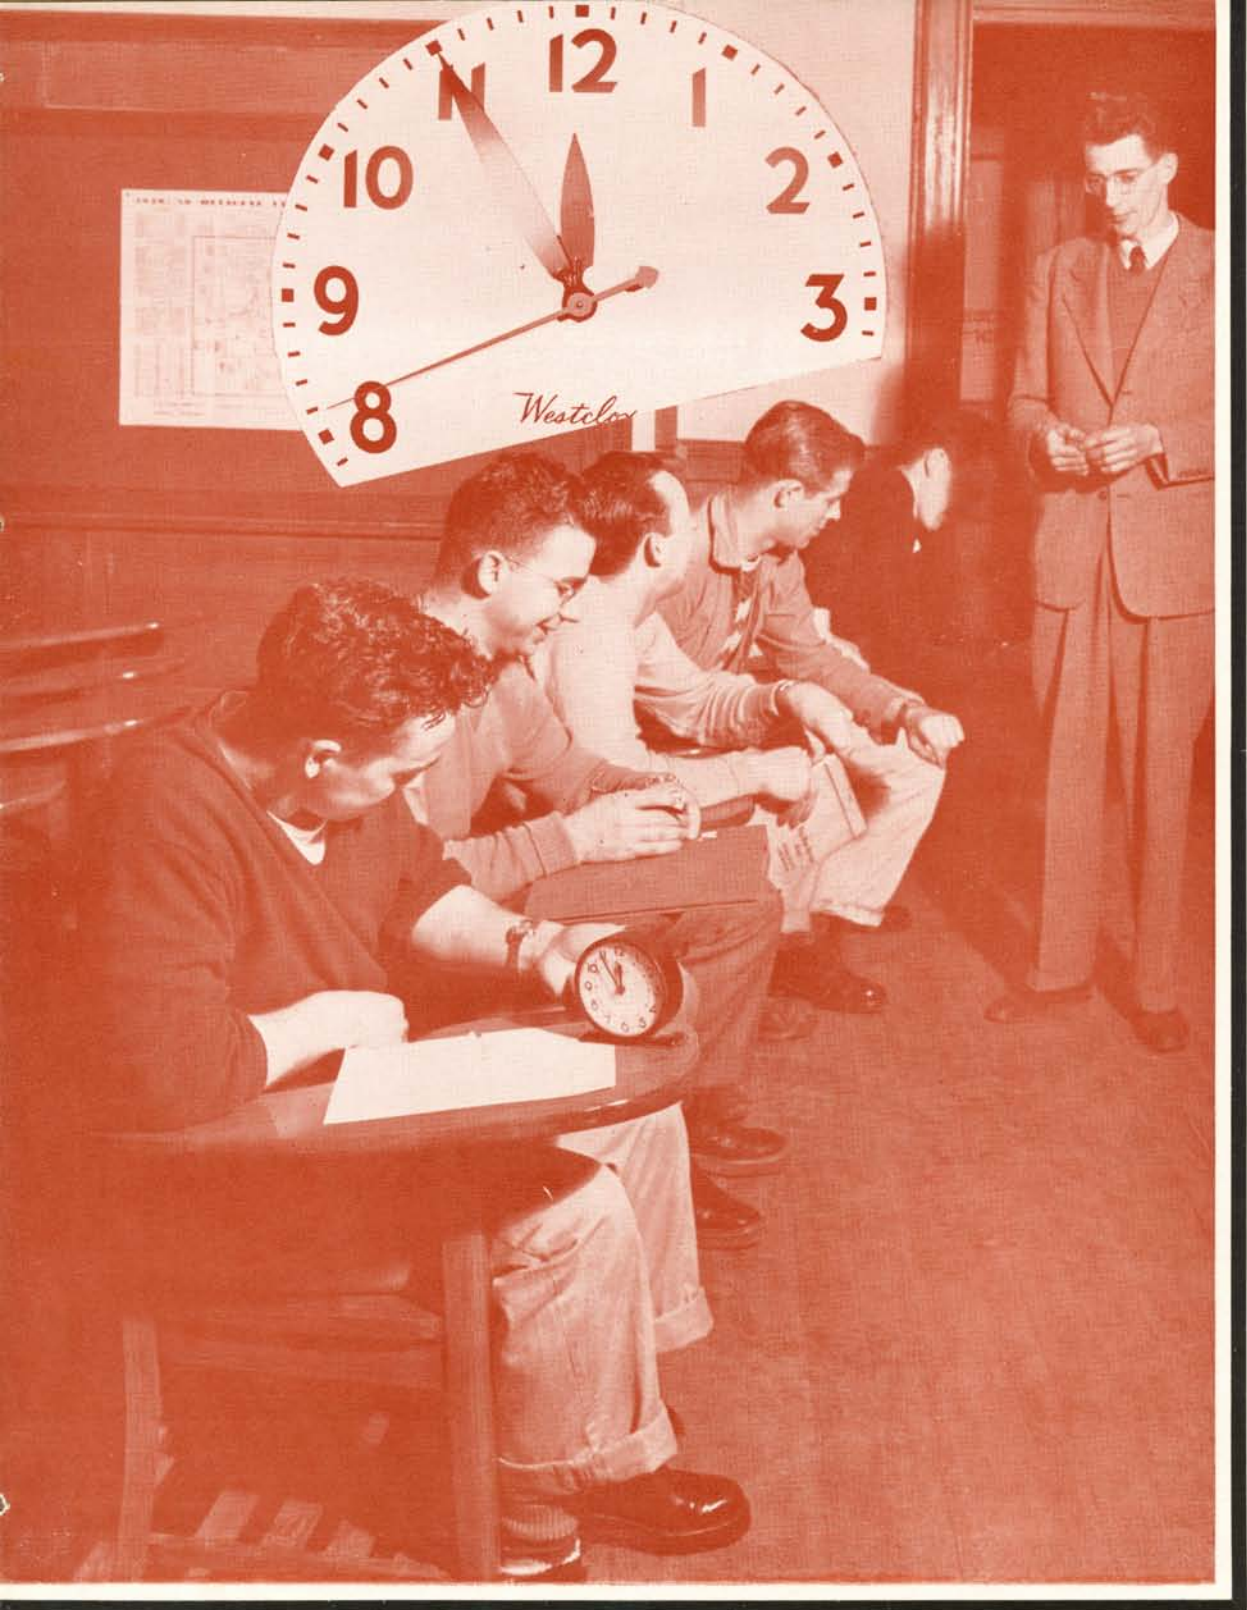

AUDITORIUM-MUSIC BUILDING

The new Auditorium-Music building has come closer to completion each day of the year and is expected to be ready for occupancy in the fall. The building will have an auditorium with 1,200 seats, a large stage, rehearsal rooms, ensemble rooms, five studios, and will house a new and modern student lounge.

Education in all its aspects is the central theme of the graduate division at Western Washington College of Education. In the few years that the college has granted the degree of Master of Arts in Education, its fifth-year program has progressively developed. The Graduate Council, directed by Dr. Irwin A. Hammer, has worked out a program to meet the needs of teachers, administrators, and specialists seeking professional growth. New courses to meet these needs have been devised. The approach has been both functional and personal—functional in that emphasis is placed upon understanding and proficiency in grappling with current problems of the teaching profession; personal in that the program is individually designed to suit the requirements and interests of each candidate for the Master's degree.

Each year this phase of the college's educational responsibility draws more and more students. Those who have already earned the advanced degree from here and gone out into the field give a practical demonstration of the value of the program. In the years to come, we may look for continued development and improvement of this important division of study.

EDUCATION FORUM

The newest professional organization at WWC is the Education Forum. The purpose of this club is to encourage high professional, intellectual and personal standards and to recognize outstanding contributions to education. Minimum qualifications for membership in this organization are: senior status and a grade point average in the upper quartile. Members are admitted to this group on the basis of their complete school record and their interest in education.

Senior Class Officers—Art Runestrand, president; Shirley Harrison, secretary; Jo Knowles, vice-president.

SENIORS

*"Soon the ties must all be severed,
but they leave with you
Happy memories and best wishes for the White and Blue."*

So sings the history-making Senior class of 1950. Tomorrow's teachers and leaders, they have been today's campus leaders for four years, this class of 1950.

The Senior class has filled its last year here with many memorable events. They sponsored two outstanding rec hours during the year. A Senior banquet, the first affair of its kind, was held this year, a tradition which they proudly pass on to their successors. A spring picnic and salmon bake was one of their last opportunities to meet together for the sole purpose of having fun.

Their four years at WWC has meant for them growth and wisdom and understanding as well as preparation for useful careers. They leave the college on the hill proud to be graduates of a progressive, growing institution. Likewise, whatever they do, wherever they go, the college will always be proud of its sons and daughters of the class of 1950.

SENIOR PLANNING COMMITTEE

The principal accomplishment of the Junior class this year was the first Junior Prom, a successful achievement of which the class of 1951 is truly proud. This big undertaking was supervised by Joel Barber and Marilyn Morrison who had the dependable assistance of a large group of committee members. Class adviser Declan Barron provided splendid assistance and advice.

Many of the Juniors tasted of student teaching for the first time this year, but this did not stop them from participating fully in all the college activities. They look forward now to writing a memorable final chapter next year as seniors.

SOPHOMORES

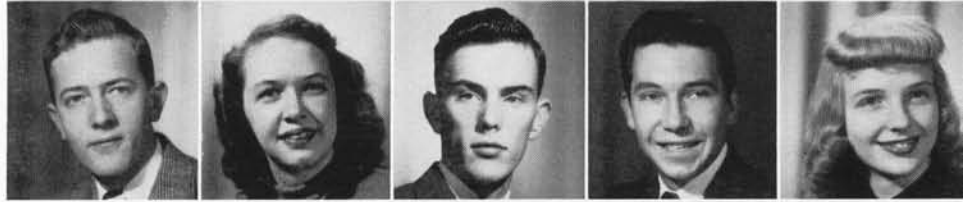

The Sophomore Class of 1949-50 entered enthusiastically into every phase of college life. This graduating class of two years hence provided Western with leadership in several fields. Sophomores were prominent on the athletic field, in social affairs, in the various student publications, on the Board of Control, in the band and the choir, in drama productions, and in the different clubs.

Advancing now to the rank of upperclassmen, the sophomores indicate that they will continue to make a name for themselves as a class and as individuals while at Western Washington College.

This year's freshman class is one of the largest in Western's recent history. Nearly half of the 616 first-year students entering in September, 1949, were enrolled in teacher education, promising great things for the teaching profession in a few years.

After the first hectic weeks of fall quarter the freshmen settled down and elected their officers for the year. Claude Walker from Port Townsend wielded the presidential gavel, assisted by vice-president Lynn Hunt of Bellingham. Louise Collins of Seattle was kept busy with her duties as secretary-treasurer and was elected to the Board of Control.

Eleanor Lycan, who reigned as freshman class princess, added her charm to Homecoming festivities in the fall.

During winter quarter the freshmen sponsored their unique all-school "Sock Hop" held in the main gym immediately after the exciting basketball game with UBC. A prize of a huge box of soap flakes was presented at intermission to the fellow wearing the loudest socks.

The class picnic on May 19 was a perfect ending for the activities of the "Frosh of Fifty."

ACTIVITIES

IN THE BEGINNING

In the week before fall quarter begins, freshmen and other new students come early for an introduction to life at WWC. They complete the details of registration and housing, take a look at the campus and its surroundings, meet their friendly faculty counselors, and take the various aptitude and achievement tests. Social activities are planned to enable the newcomers to become acquainted with each other and to establish the friendly atmosphere that prevails throughout the year at Western. By the time returning students are back on campus, the newcomers already feel quite at home at WWC.

OPENING WEEK

Before they ever attend a class new students in the fall are given an opportunity to become thoroughly familiar with their new surroundings. One of the events of opening week is a tour of Bellingham conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The bottom picture, opposite page, shows the business office on registration day, as students line up to pay registration fees and room and board.

GRADS

Homecoming, 1949 . . . a new high in school spirit was reached . . . Queen Doreen graciously reigned over the festivities . . . displays were bigger and better than ever . . . the skits were hilarious . . . the dances memorable.

RETURN

The two Williams, Jones and Haggard, at the grads' Homecoming luncheon . . . Vic the Vike showed up everywhere . . . and proved valiant and triumphant in Saturday's great game with Whitworth . . . everyone wore a Homecoming button.

CAMPUS DAY

The 1949 Campus Day, coming in the midst of the Golden Anniversary celebration, made everyone on campus aware of the meaningfulness of traditions to an institution such as this. The springtime day of frolic was marked by traditional festivities and saw the introduction of some new Campus Day features as well. The day started with a skit assembly in the auditorium, after which students and faculty journeyed en masse to Whatcom Falls Park for the day's picnic, and the games and contests that make Campus Day such a pleasant event. The beard contest, pie-eating race, student-faculty baseball game, and the other events all provided thrills and entertainment for participants and spectators alike. Campus Day closed in the evening with a dance which began on the tennis courts but ended inside because of a sudden change in the weather.

SUMMER QUARTER

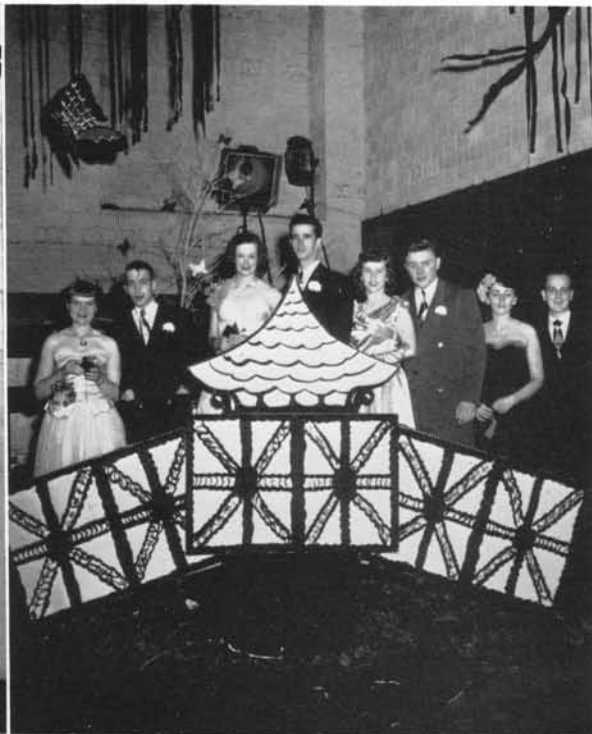

The summer session at Western is characterized by an easy-going informality that makes it a popular time and place to study. An extensive, well-rounded recreational program during the summer is carried on to take full advantage of the college's fortunate proximity to such natural features as mountains, lakes, and seashores.

Professional enrichment is offered vacationing teachers both by the curriculum and visiting guest instructors and by the program of conferences and workshops. Dr. S. M. Brownell of Yale University led the college's annual summer conferences in 1949 which had as its theme, "Emerging Practices in Education."

A special feature of the 1949 summer session was the Pacific Northwest Field Course in Science. Students enrolled in this course combined camping and learning in the out-of-doors, making trips to Mount Baker, Eastern Washington, Grand Coulee Dam, Southern Oregon, the Olympic Peninsula, and Northern California.

LOWER LEFT: Among the decorations was an incense burner that helped to carry out the theme of "Shangri-La."

JUNIOR PROM

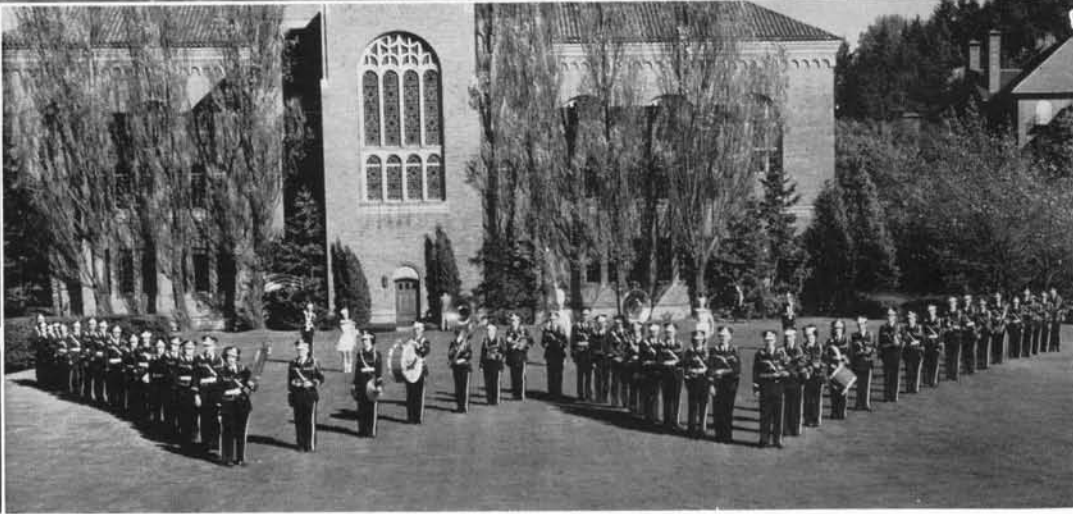

The night of March 4th will live long in the memories of the happy couples who attended the first annual Junior Prom that night. With the Publications Prom tradition ended after eleven successful performances, the class of 1951 assumed the responsibility of staging the outstanding social event of winter quarter. Their effort, the "Shangri-La" Junior Prom, established a worthy tradition for the college and furnished the juniors of the future with a challenging standard to equal.

The gym was the scene of the big affair and it was transformed into a beautiful and enchanting Shangri-La by the hard-working crew which handled the decorations. An Oriental mood and atmosphere was effectively created, to the delighted fascination of everyone attending.

The Prom was planned in every detail by members of the Junior class and their adviser, Declan Barron. Joel Barber and Marilyn Morrison were the co-chairmen, assisted by an enthusiastic group of students who will always have the satisfaction of knowing that the first Junior Prom was a success because of their work.

BAND

Another successful year has been completed by the popular Viking band, directed by Don C. Walter. The versatile organization performed adequately both as a marching unit and as a concert band.

Attired in their blue-and-white uniforms, the band provided spirited music for the football and basketball games. They displayed their marching skill in the football halftime ceremonies. The band formed part of the Western delegation to spoil CWC's Homecoming celebration with a hard-fought gridiron triumph. During winter quarter, Mr. Walter took the band on a five-day concert tour. For their fourteen concert appearances they presented a program containing a variety of selections ranging from timeless classics to the latest popular numbers. Throughout the year, the band and the various instrumental ensembles appeared in student assemblies and pep rallies.

Two freshmen girls, Joanne Hovde and Carol Irwin, contributed to the band's popularity with some flashy baton twirling.

Brass Ensembles

This year band director Don Walter also turned his attention to developing some outstanding instrumental ensembles. The trombone quartet, saxophone quartet, and the brass sextet appeared together in assemblies and on the concert tour.

CHOIR

The Western Washington A Cappella Choir was a musical organization of which the college could be justly proud this year. Director Bernard Regier did a superb job of blending more than sixty student voices into a beautiful and pleasing chorus. They appeared in assemblies with special programs for the holidays, Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter and never failed to delight all who heard them.

During their busy year, the choir made a concert tour, singing at several high schools in the state. They sang over Seattle radio station KOMO while on tour and later in the year were heard on a nationwide program over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Whatever their specialty, college musicians can find some activity at Western to meet their interests. Besides the band and the choir, smaller organizations provide an opportunity for musical experience and at the same time, prove to be popular sources of entertainment.

The men's quartet is a popular group, being much in demand for public appearances. This year, Eric Hoglund, Art Runestrand, Don Olson, and Gene Langill combined their voices in the four-man group, with Ken Stowe as their accompanist.

The Vocolegians, or madrigal singers, have easily become recognized as one of the music department's most important and active groups. The trumpet quartet is another ensemble of specialists, whose talents have provided pleasing entertainment.

"YEARS AGO"

For its fall quarter offering, the Division of Drama returned to penthouse style production, presenting Ruth Gordon's comedy of family life, "Years Ago," in the Edens Hall Blue room. This innovation provided added enjoyment for those who prefer that type of production. In the play authoress Ruth Gordon dramatized her own family history in a delightful story about herself and her youthful ambitions to go on the stage.

Playing the part of Ruth to perfection was Clarena Fenton. Ben Cary skillfully played the role of her beau, Fred. Betty Anne Zurschmiede as the mother and Norris McHefsey as the father were outstanding in their parts. Ruth's girl friends and high school classmates were Lelia Brown and Anne Ansley. Frazier Sutton had the part of Mr. Bagley and Evelyn Wulff, the role of Miss Glavin.

Capably handling the dual role of Mr. Sparrow and assistant director was Neil Johnston, who was able to give director Victor H. Hoppe valuable assistance. Dale Pierson was technical director and Alex Davies served as stage manager.

Although the winter quarter production had its moments of wry humor, it was not the usual comedy. The pathetic story which is the basis for the plot of "The Glass Menagerie" left many of those who saw it with lumps in their throats and tears in their eyes.

Tennessee Williams' famous two hour production was carried by four people. The audience saw the play through the memory of Tom Wingfield (Lex Milton), who relates his unhappy story from a fire escape overlooking the dingy apartment which had been his home. His mother, Amanda (Nita Clothier), is a faded southern belle who had been deserted by her husband many years ago. Laura (Persis Seafeldt) is the crippled daughter. She is very shy, and often retreats from reality into her world of little glass animals known as her "Glass Menagerie." Jim O'Conner (Allen Reamer) is the Gentleman Caller.

The play was directed by Victor Hoppe, and was under the assistant directorship of Jim McHeffey. The unusual settings and lights were done by Carl Lindell and Dale Pierson, while Leila Brown was responsible for script and props.

THESPIAN CLUB

Celebrating their first anniversary this spring, the Thespians Club has completed its first full year of service to the school. The Thespians have definitely established themselves as one of the most active of campus organizations. Members are interested in all phases of dramatics and meet together to learn more about theatre lore and display their talents to one another. They provided valuable services to the college in caring for the auditorium, advising organizations about skit and play production, producing entertainment for assemblies, and reviewing the Artist and Lecture series in the WWCollegian.

WHO'S WHO

Recognition of merit and achievement is given the outstanding leaders of student life each year by the selection of names to appear in the annual directory of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Those who are included in the directory are upperclassmen who have proved themselves worthy of this coveted honor by their scholastic record and their participation in college activities. Selection is made each year by an impartial faculty-student committee.

In fall quarter of 1949, the names of fifteen WWC students were added to this roster of achievement. These students, along with those chosen in previous years, are the leaders of campus life.

NORSEMEN

By far the largest organization on campus is the Norsemen's Club, which is composed of every male student enrolled at the college. With the men outnumbering the women by a ratio of almost two to one, the management of affairs for the large organization has been a big task, but capably done by prexy Cliff McCullem. He has been assisted by the other officers and by the Norsemen's Commission, which has a representative from each of the four classes.

Every year, the Norsemen start social activities rolling with a semi-formal dance early in the fall. This year's successful affair was held at the Chuckanut Shell with some 150 couples attending.

At least once a quarter the club holds a meeting during the 10 a. m. assembly hour. The program is always one of special interest to the male students. In April, the Norsemen collaborated with the AWS to produce "Gaslight Follies," an all-school talent show.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

With a membership comprised of every woman student of WWC, the AWS has completed an active year under the leadership of Donelle Mosier. The activities of the AWS touched every phase of college life. Their Thursday afternoon teas increased in popularity, attracting many students and faculty for a bit of welcome refreshment.

The AWS contributed to the World Student Service Fund by selling apples and also launched a charitable project of its own by starting a drive to bring a displaced European student to the WWC campus. The organization again staged a high school leaders' conference, welcoming representatives from the high schools in the vicinity and giving them a glimpse of college life.

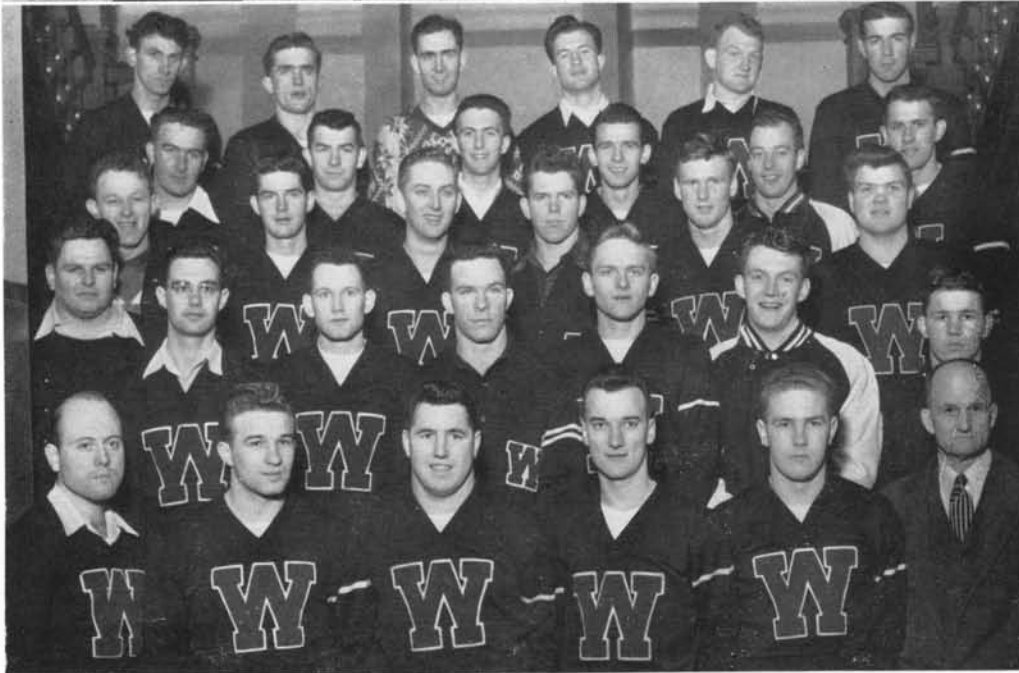

Spring quarter found the women students as industrious as ever. They sponsored a cotton-and-cords informal tolo and joined with the Norsemen in the production of the fun show, "Gaslight Follies."

OFF-CAMPUS WOMEN

All women students not living in an organized house or dormitory are united in the Off-Campus Women's Club. This organization entered into various activities throughout the year. Included among their variety of social activities was an all-school rec hour during spring quarter.

"W" CLUB

Members of the W Club are men students who have won athletic letters and are interested in promoting the principles of good sportsmanship. With Norm Hash as president, the club carried on a full program of activities this year. The Homecoming Queen's Ball was successfully managed by W Members. They again sponsored a smoker, which proved to be an exciting display of the art of boxing. The members of the W Club can take great pride in their accomplishments this year, one of which was the beginning of a program of visiting high schools with movies of the college and its football triumphs.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Social Science Club was founded three years ago to establish a group for discussing domestic social issues. During the 1949-50 year, the club had a program of speakers and informal discussions on such topics as "Hospitals for the Mentally Deficient," "Hospitals for the Mentally Ill," "A Day in the Life of a Probation Officer," and "Re-chastening of the City Government of Bellingham." Field trips included a sociological tour of Vancouver, B. C., Northern State Hospital at Sedro Woolley, and a field study of Bellingham.

ASSOCIATION FOR CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The Association for Childhood Education is a professional organization comprised of students with a common interest in educational problems and issues. During the year this group sponsored mixers, talks, and panels of educational value. Jesse Winders, Clarice Smith, and Kathy Niemela were delegates to the Northwest ACE convention held at Ellensburg. Jesse Winders represented the organization at State Board meetings and at the Inland Empire Association convention in Spokane.

The Campus Shutter Bugs, formerly known as the Camera Club, are devoted to the fascinating hobby of photography. Both to beginners and skilled photographers the club provides an opportunity to learn more about photography. The club has excellent darkroom facilities and other equipment. "Armed" with various types of cameras, they embarked on several hunting trips this year to various local points of interest, happy hunting grounds for the shutter bug.

COLLEGE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

As a group on campus devoted to the spiritual development of its members, the College Christian Fellowship has concluded another prosperous and beneficial year. They have affirmed a belief in the necessity for ever-present Christian ideals in a hectic world. The faithful group's many activities have included Bible studies, noon meetings and singspirations. On the lighter side, they have enjoyed the fellowship of various social affairs throughout the year.

SKI CLUB

Nearby Mount Baker was the scene of many a rendezvous throughout the year for the enthusiastic members of the Shussken Ski Club. Every weekend when snow conditions were favorable for this thrilling—and spilling—sport, members of the club could be found engaged in their favorite form of recreation. They were able to make several overnight trips as well as many one-day excursions.

VALKYRIE

The Valkyrie emblem and uniform have become symbols for school spirit and enthusiasm and of high standards of social conduct and womanliness. This reliable organization ushered at assemblies, provided a loyal rooting section at football and basketball contests, and in many other ways contributed vastly to college life.

PRESS CLUB

For students interested in publications, the WWC Press Club has been organized. It brings together staff members of the different student publications, including the WWColegian, Klipsun, Profile, and Navigator, to exchange ideas and information and to meet socially. This year the club saw the Northwest Intercollegiate Press Conference, which it organized, meet with success in its efforts to bring together representatives of the student publications of the Evergreen Conference.

SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

Recognition of scholastic achievement is the purpose of the Scholarship society, composed of those WWC students who have maintained exceptionally high grade point averages. New members are rewarded for their achievement by the presentation of pins at an initiation banquet. As membership in the society is a deserved recognition of merit, it serves to stimulate high scholastic ideals at the college.

COLHECONOMIST CLUB

The Colheconomist Club is composed of women students whose interest lies in such fine domestic arts as cooking, sewing, and homemaking. In regular meetings throughout the year members discussed, studied, and practiced the various phases of home economics. Janneke Burhans was president for the year and Helen Leaf, vice-president. Miss Linda Countryman and Mrs. Lucille Barron are the faculty advisers.

One of the outstanding events of winter quarter was the annual waffle supper, an activity of the Colheconomists. The supper was for the benefit of the World Student Service Fund and was attended by a large group of faculty, students, and townspeople, being held in conjunction with the Faculty Hobby Show. Members of the club made good use of this opportunity to display their talents and contribute to a worthy cause.

UNITED STUDENTS' CHRISTIAN COUNCIL

The United Student Christian Council, working in close cooperation with the churches of Bellingham, is devoted to the promotion of religious life on campus and the maintenance of the Christian way of life. An interdenominational organization, its members are from all churches. During the year, the council held two retreats, sponsored an International Banquet, and held firesides, forums, and Sunday morning breakfasts every month. The faculty adviser was Dr. Arthur C. Hicks. Officers were Chuck Messenger, president; Irwin Knapp, vice-president; Nona Cochran, secretary; and Louise Collins, treasurer.

CHESS CLUB

Chess enthusiasts have their own organization, the Chess Club, which provides an opportunity for devotees of the game to meet informally and engage regularly in competition with one another and also to meet with similar clubs. Besides holding a tournament for club members, the club also sponsored an all-school chess tournament during the year. Officers were Ken Thiessen, president; John Graham, vice-president; and James Alexander, secretary. Dr. Stewart Johnston and Harvey Gelder, as faculty advisers, contributed to the activities of the club.

BLUE TRIANGLE

The women students of Blue Triangle, college branch of the YWCA, have completed a year of worthwhile activity. The big project of the club was the coordination of the campus World Student Service Fund drive and with the help of many generous clubs, and groups on campus, a successful campaign for aid to fellow students overseas was realized.

During the yuletide season the girls turned their hands to the crafts and made linoleum block Christmas cards, under the capable supervision of the faculty adviser, Miss Edna Channer. Miss Hazel Plympton also lent her services to the club. This year's officers were Patsy Addington, president; Lillian Favero, vice-president; Virginia Willemsen, treasurer; and Donna Yeend, secretary.

INTER-CLUB COUNCIL

The purpose of the Interclub Council is to promote the activities and interests of all clubs and organizations on campus. The council formulates the yearly club calendar of activities and organizes the student body primary election each quarter. Membership in ICC consists of the president or authorized representative of each organization and class in the college.

Jesse Winders was council president for the year. Other officers were Ken Thiessen, vice-president; Pat Wright Kloes, recording secretary; Patsy Addington, corresponding secretary. Miss Nora Cummins and Miss Lorraine Powers are the faculty advisers.

IRC

The International Relations Club, oldest club on campus, continued this year to study and analyze the problems of international affairs, thus enabling its members to take an active and enlightened stand on the perplexing problems of the modern world. Throughout the year, meetings were held featuring group discussions and outside speakers as the club members sought to expand their knowledge of world affairs in their quest for world peace. Faculty adviser is Miss Nora B. Cummins.

FORENSIC CLUB

In 1950, for the first time in more than 20 years, Western Washington College could boast a debate team. Under the guidance of speech instructor Sene Carlile, a group of debaters organized during winter quarter and lost no time in entering the field of intercollegiate competition. They found their competitors keen and able, but the fledgling group provided all comers with courageous and spirited opposition. In various tournaments the group also engaged in other activities of a forensic nature such as extemporaneous and after-dinner reading and interpretive reading. Expansion of this activity in future years is to be expected, for the efforts of this group have furnished a good beginning.

The eventful 1949-50 year will not soon be forgotten by anyone of WWC, especially those who lived in close daily contact with all the historical events of the year, the students who comprised the staff of the college's weekly newspaper, the WWColegian. Throughout the year the Collegian faithfully reported the activities and opinions of the student body. But behind the printed page there lies a deeper story—the story of a group of students working together, sharing success and disappointment, laughs and sorrows, while engaged in the demanding and often thankless task of producing a newspaper worthy of the standards of the college.

It was a small but competent crew that made up the Collegian staff this year. Likeable, friendly Cecil Thomas, as editor, directed the production of each issue, making story and staff assignments and supervising the Thursday night task of make-up at the print shop. Al Magnuson, business manager, kept the paper out of financial trouble by his diligent work of soliciting ads and keeping accurate accounts. Burt Horman, the efficient copy editor, checked every word of copy that was turned in and constantly reminded staff writers of the weekly deadline.

The page editors, Gary Brandner, Rod Cardwell, Barbara Cozza, Ken Forseth, Paul Gillie, John Keilty, Shirley McMicken, Shirley Sharpe, and Keith Stearns, provided the reliable backbone of the staff. Eugene Williams and Perry Smith on the advertising staff, and Jean Baylor, Hal Gronseth, Roger Knoop, Morrie Knutzen, Vernon Lestrud, Bernard May, Bill Stiles, Mary Lou Thomas, Frank Ward, and Mary Jane Zuanich, as writers, all were part of the team that made it possible for the WWColegian to appear on the stands every Friday.

KLIPSUN

Progression and hard work were the key-words as the plans were laid for the 1950 Klipsun. It was early decided to have individual photos for all students—seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen. Although this decision meant an increased volume of work, it marked a definite step in the growth of the year-book. This year also saw twenty more pages added to the Klipsun, the total now being one hundred sixty-four.

The best-laid plans are only good, however, when an ambitious and capable staff are on hand to push the work along. Certainly, this year the Klipsun staff deserves a sincere compliment for the excellent job that they did. The editor, Robert Safsten, had many capable assistants, who, with Nancy Merrick, the business manager, helped carry the load of publishing the book. A great deal of work was done by the ever-loyal assistant editors Joyce Munden and George Maser, who helped in all departments. Paul Gillie very ably stepped into the job of copy editor. Ray Fjellman designed the football section and Babs Whitehead and Patti Winger also assisted in the sports department. Verlene Pease, Peggy Sires and Gerry Berg worked hard on the schedules of the students' pictures as well as helping in other departments. Frank Adams was our chauffeur and Earl Clark was a general handyman. Ron Kerr and Gerry Zaat were invaluable in their ability to do any job assigned to them.

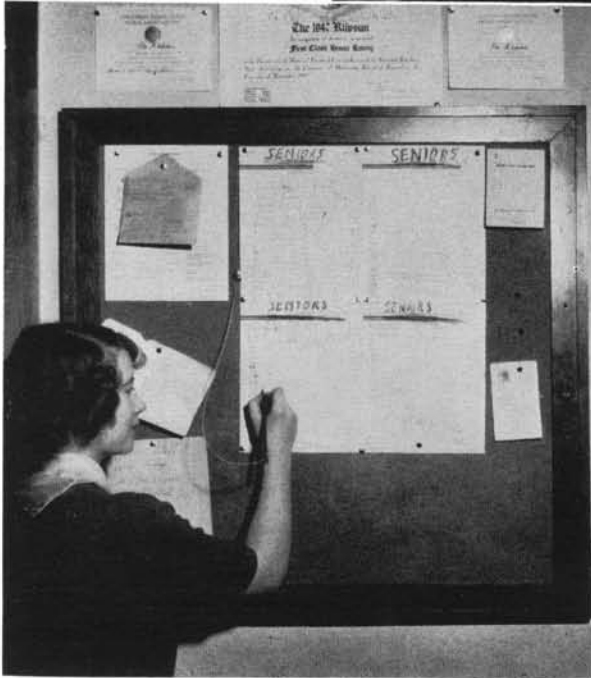

Although the Publication's Prom is a thing of the past, the staff found plenty of work to do until the year was closed at the Publications banquet when awards for outstanding work were presented.

WE LIVE HERE

One notable characteristic of WWCE's large student population this year was its cosmopolitanism. Students from all over the country and a few from other countries came to Western to continue their education. These students from far and near found new homes in the many organized houses and dormitories on campus and in the vicinity of the college. Living together, studying together, and playing together, the students residing in organized houses found this kind of fellowship enriched their college experience, as they formed lasting friendships with one another through daily contact. The organized houses varied in size, from groups of five or six under the same roof, to the 120 women students of Edens Hall.

All the living groups maintained a lively "esprit de corps" that enabled them to enter enthusiastically into the activities of college life. In the Homecoming and Campus Day display contests and skit assemblies, they engaged in friendly but spirited rivalry that added considerably to the success of these traditional festivities. Many houses entered teams in the various intramural leagues.

In the social realm, the organized living groups contributed to the enjoyment of the entire college and provided special recreation for their own members in small house parties. Outstanding events of the year were the Edens Hall "Melody Time" open house and the Senior Hall Barn Dance. The firesides and exchange dinners at MRH and Daniels were successful events.

FOOTBALL

Skipper of the 1949 Viking squad was the hard-running back-field man and passer, Jerry Karnofski, who was also the inspirational award winner. It was a strong and capable team which entered the Evergreen League this year. A combination of running plays by backs Karnofski, Tommy Taylor, Roy Richardson and Norm Hash brought a great deal of success to the fighting Blue and White squad. Jack Roberts and Roy Richardson stood out on both the offensive and defensive roles. Among the leading ground gainers for Western were Jerry Karnofski, Tommy Taylor and Norm Hash. The place-kicking performances and point-conversions were again handled skillfully by Walt Clayton.

Coach Lappenbusch began the 1949 season by explaining his revolutionary and highly effective "Straight-line Defense." He worked his team into shape and although the Western squad lost their first two non-conference games, Coach Lappenbusch soon had a strong and skillful team of men who loved to play football.

With such outstanding players as Hal Partlow, Howard Breivik, Ron Rasmussen, Slats Salsgiver and many others, the Vikings had a good season in the Evergreen Conference. The coaching of Coach Lappenbusch and Assistant Coach Ray Cizek plus the work of Trainer Ron Dodge and Manager Al Harris, provided the necessary basis for a sound, hard-fighting team.

At Coach Lappenbusch's suggestion, the Evergreen Conference this year selected both defensive and offensive All-Star teams. Norm Hash made honorable mention on the All-Coast and Little All-America teams as well as the All-Northwest team. Tiland and Yonlick made the all-conference defensive first team for their fine play this year. Seniors Bill Currier, Jerry Karnofski, Hal Partlow, Mel Lindbloom, and Gerald Salsgiver were among the many Western men to be given honorable mention.

BASKETBALL

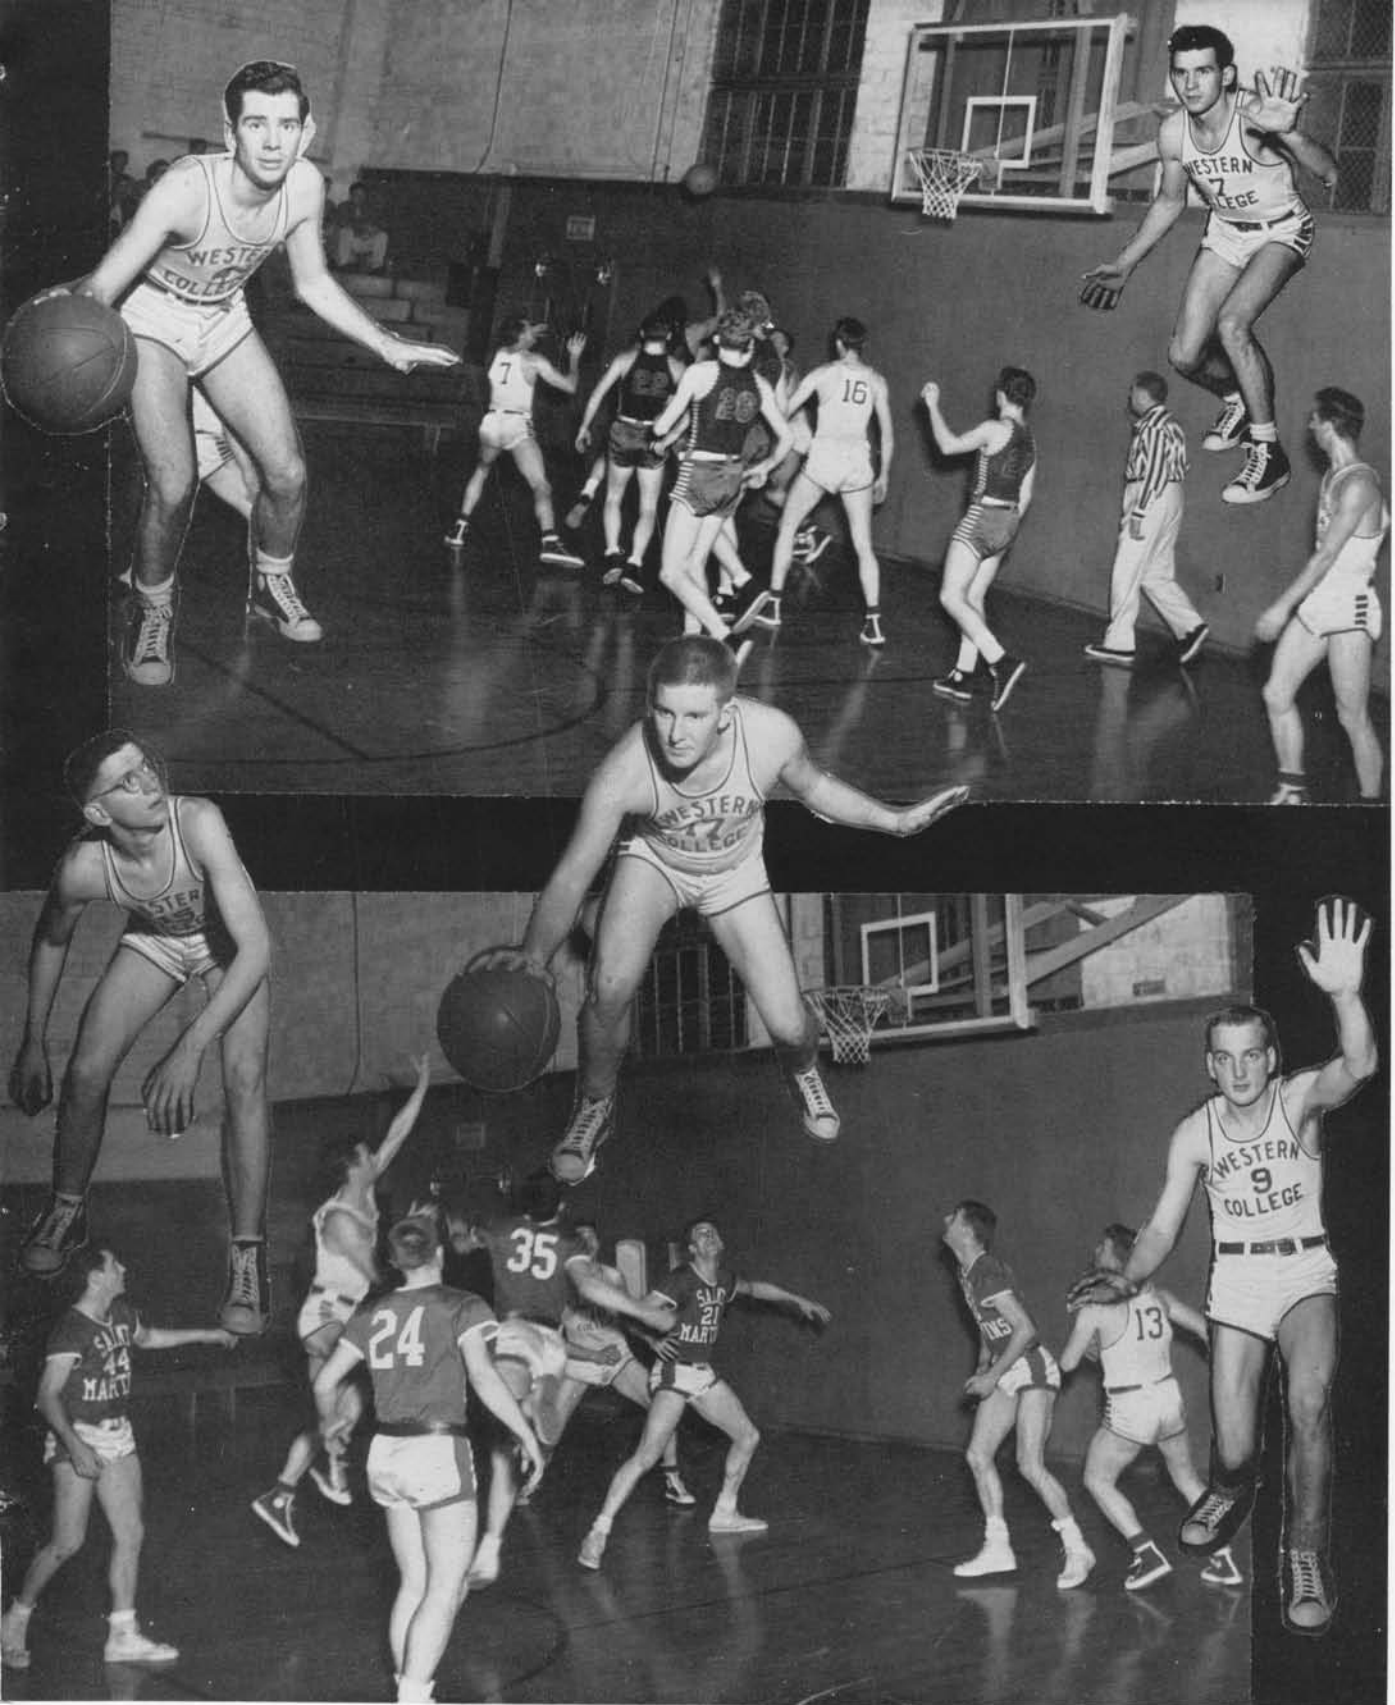

From the very first game, the varsity squad displayed the drive and defense that supplied plenty of action for the hoop fans in the Evergreen conference. Sparked by Dick Ravenhorst, and Stan Peterson, "Big Bill" MacDonald's team realized good success in its pre-conference games. Sweeping aside good opposition in their first three non-conference games, Western displayed ability which was to carry them through a minimum of success in the Evergreen League.

Although Western came out on the short end of the score in their first four conference games, they were victorious by a score of 62 to 48 against St. Martins. Though many of the games were close enough to go either way, the league was too powerful for the Vikings and they had a hard time winning ball games until late in the season.

The team will be weakened by the loss of Jerry Starr, all-conference forward of 1948 and Tom Green, who was one of the fastest men on the squad. Green was also the Inspirational Award winner. However, with many promising men coming up from the Freshman squad, Western's team should be strong next year.

FROSH BASKETBALL

This year's freshman varsity squad, coached by Jack Ross, completed a successful year. An efficient group of yearling hoopsters was chosen after a smooth-running series of practices and eliminations, to battle in competition with strong independent quintets and junior college teams located throughout the vicinity.

From the high-stepping squad three young aspirants, Rufus Winter, Jack Roberts, and Chuck Lindberg, will probably be seen next year pounding the hardwood floor for Western's varsity squad.

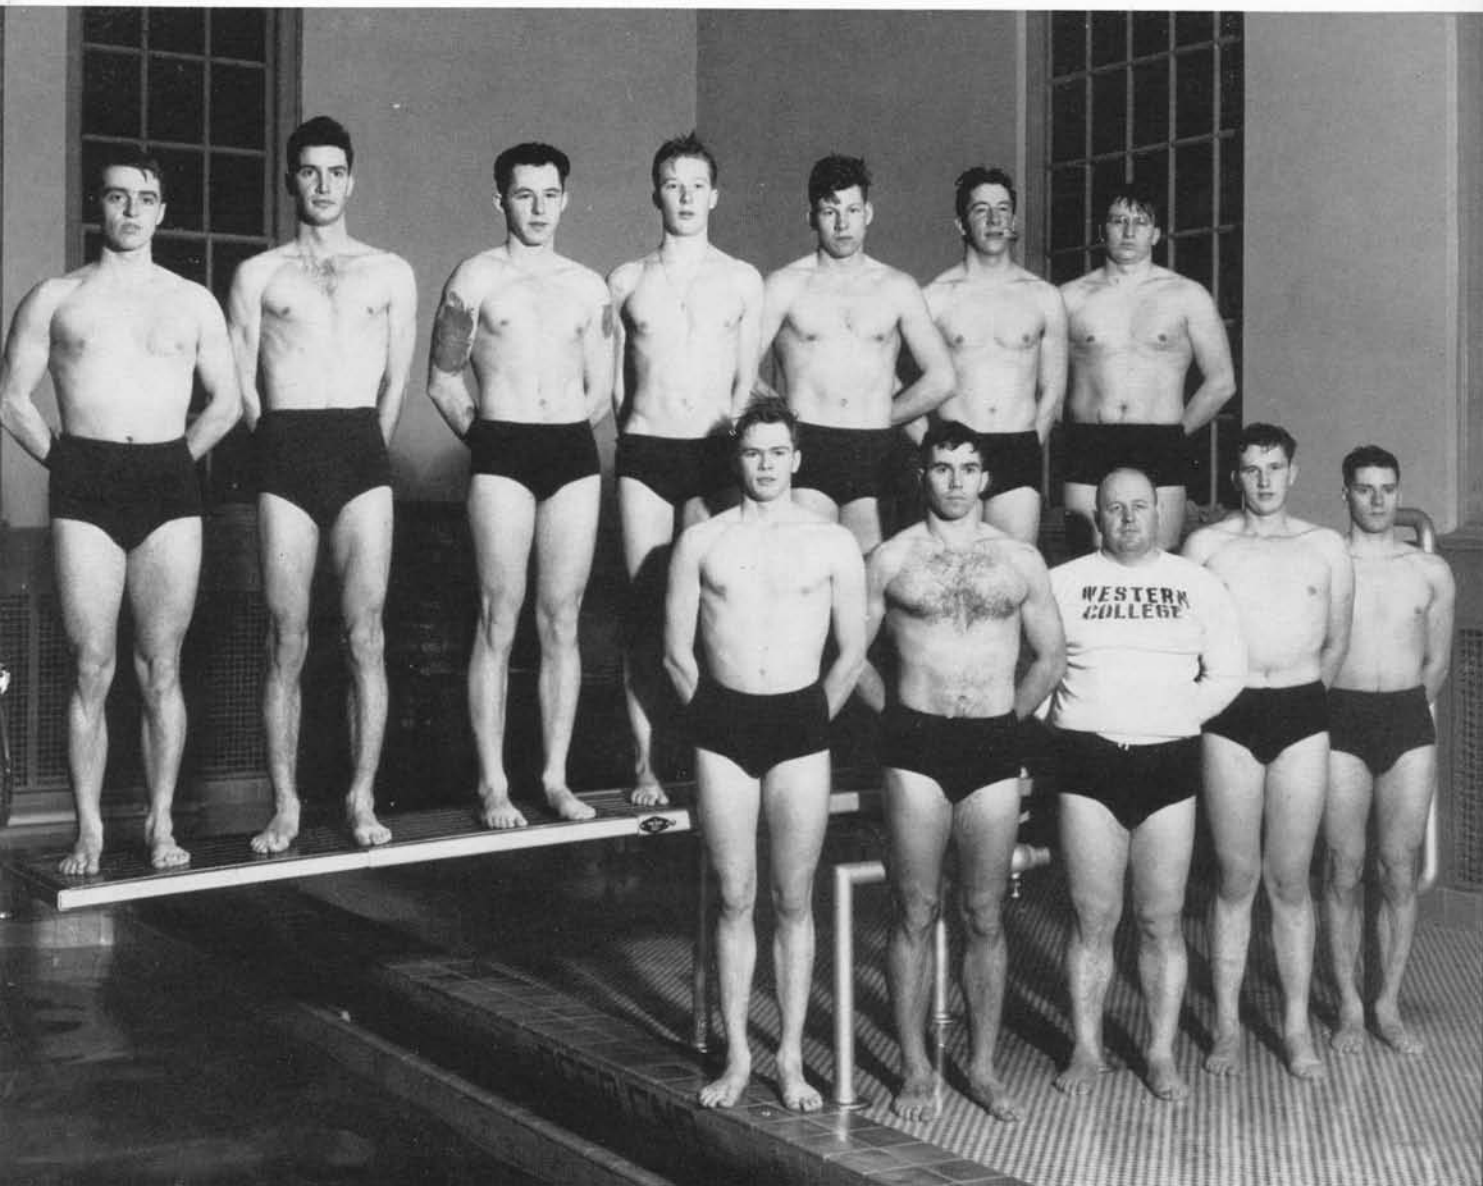

The 1950 schedule included games with Skagit Junior College, Olympic Junior College, UBC Freshmen, and leading independent teams from Seattle and Bellingham.

SWIMMING TEAM

The promotion of a swimming program at Western bore fruit this year as the first conference meet was held with Western, UBC, and Eastern Washington College attending. We can be very pleased with the team and with the coach, Ray Hyatt. Minor sweaters for the sport are in the budget, but criteria for selection has not been set up. However, information is to be gathered and presented to the Board of Control for approval or alteration.

It is hoped that eventually the entire Evergreen Conference will embrace swimming as an important sport. Until then, much of the competition will come from the University of Washington and other coast schools within traveling distance.

BASEBALL

Under the leadership of Coach Joe Martin, the 1950 Viking baseball team has aimed at the Evergreen Conference championship and they have shown their ability by winning six games in a row before being defeated. Western's team has improved over last year's team, which tied for third place in the conference. The fine showing of the Blue and White is in no small part due to the excellent coaching of Joe Martin, the local merchant whose great interests are sports.

Martin was faced with the problem of lack of pitchers at the beginning of the season, but after some fine performances by Gus Franks, Russ Nielson, and Dick Patterson, it was apparent that a new core of pitchers had arrived to take the place of those that graduated last year. Bob Gates returned to take his position behind the plate, and a crop of new men turned out to challenge the veterans for positions on the first team. Outstanding among the new players so far have been Al Shireman, Clyde Brown, and Gus Franks.

Outstanding among the veteran ball players this year have been Bob Scoll and Hal Partlow besides pitchers Nielsen and Patterson. The Vikings this year have shown speed, power at the plate, and excellent pitching, a combination that usually results in championships.

SKIING

Bob Powers, former University of Washington skier, took over the coaching duties for the Western Ski team this year. The team entered three Stevens Standards races during the season and undertook to sponsor one of their own in which C.P.S., Wenatchee J. C., and Yakima J. C. participated.

Entering races during the season were Privat, Campbell, Meissner, O'Keefe, Stoner, and Wakelem. One of the promising members of the team, Bob Sarvis, broke his leg early in the season and was out of competition for the remainder of the year.

This year's competition provided the boys on the team with some good experience and most of them will be back next year for another successful season.

TRACK AND FIELD

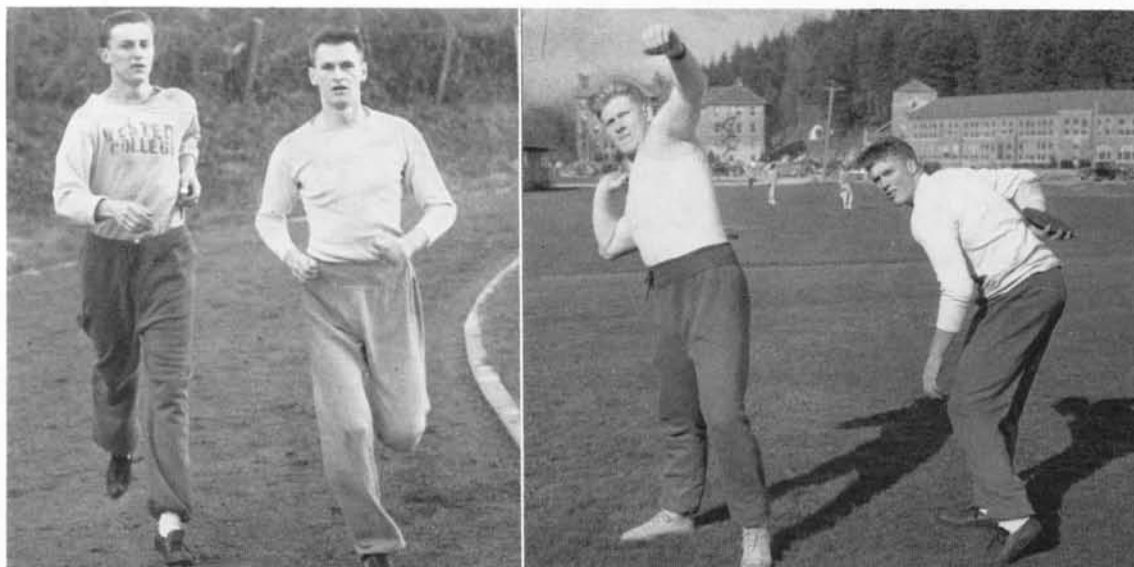

Western's trackmen moved into the Evergreen conference with high hopes for success in their contests this spring. However, these hopes were shattered with injuries causing the loss of Jack Jensen, hurdler, Bill Garrison, sprinter, and Jeff Russell, the big point-getter in Western's track machine. Injuries to other athletes during the course of the season depleted Western's effectiveness to an even greater extent and only fine coaching on the part of Ray Cizek kept the Vikings in contention this year.

There were bright spots in an otherwise gray sky for the Blue and White squad this year, as newcomers on the team have given the veterans strong competition for positions. Outstanding scorers this year have been Byron Blauman in the 440 and 880 sprints, and Paul Chenette, also in the sprints and relays. Roger Westerman, Dexter Johnson, and Bob Johnson, all runners, have also been consistent point-makers. The outlook is bright for the coming season.

TENNIS

Making a name for themselves this year, the Varsity Tennis team defeated PLC and UBC in two successive weeks. The first Conference match to be held at UBC over the nineteenth and twentieth of May, with four schools participating, may be the deciding factor for team championship and individual honors. Judging by performances so far this year, Western will be very much in contention for top positions.

Those working for positions on the team ladder this year are Borden, Davis, Ondracek, Smith, Latshaw, Saylor, Kelley, Raper, Anderson, Lunde, Lind and Pearson.

Despite the loss of all but two lettermen via graduation last spring, Coach Lappenbusch has again moulded a fine tennis squad. Although there is lack of experience, the team has made consistently fine showings against all opponents, and promises to do more of the same as the current season progresses.

Charlie Ray Borden and Don Davis, as returning lettermen, and Eric Pearson, Ray Ondracek, Ritchie Boyd, and Roland Sayler at the other team posts make an imposing aggregation as they gain in experience.

GOLF

This spring saw the return of outdoor sports activity, and not least in consideration was the Viking golf team. Many men tried out for the team, and as soon as weather permitted, a seventy-two hole play-off was held at Lakeway to decide the top six positions. These positions were finally captured by Gib Smith, LeRoy Dixon, Kenny James, Morrie Roland, Burton Giske, and Robert Skidmore. The competition among these men was very strong and the playing positions each week were never certain.

Dixon, Giske, James

When only two lettermen returned to Coach Carver's golfing fold this spring, the prospects for the usually strong Western golf squad were not good. However, due to good replacements and good coaching, the divotmen have shown themselves to be contenders for the conference championship again this year. In the last thirteen years, Coach Carver has produced eleven championship teams and so far this year's team has a record of five wins and one loss. Led by lettermen Gib Smith and LeRoy Dixon, the Viking squad appears to be on its way to another successful season.

WOMEN'S RECREATION ASSOCIATION

From Sunrise to Sunset the girls of WRA have been busy providing the co-eds of Western with a well rounded intramural sports program. During winter quarter the girls presented their annual WRA Carnival which proved to be entertaining to the student body and profitable to WRA. Spring quarter found the girls busy making preparations for their overnight trip to Sinclair Island. The WRA also sponsored a High School Play Day. President during the past year was Violet Ries.

Western Intramural program is one of the best on the coast, with the three great factors in a successful program solved. These factors, time, convenience, and cost have been taken care of and restriction of space is the biggest problem that now faces Mr. Carver, director of Intramural. All will agree, however, that Western has provided wide and varied interests in which all students can participate.

Appreciations

To personally thank every student and faculty member who helped in the production of the 1950 Klipsun would be a difficult task, indeed; so may I take this opportunity to express my thanks.

There are some who, by their understanding and generosity make a difficult job much easier. To Bradbury's Keith Studio, photographers; Cox Brothers & Williams, Inc., printing; and Artercraft Company, engravers, we extend our thanks for wonderful cooperation and a job well done. I wish to thank Mrs. Ruth Burnet and Mr. Monty Jones, advisers, for their excellent help and encouragement. Special recognition must certainly be given to the 1950 Klipsun staff, to George Maser, co-assistant editor, and to Paul Gillie, who effectively took the vacated job of copy editor in the middle of the year. Special awards went to Joyce Munden, next year's editor, who earned the Rosemary Bolster Award, and to James Stewart, winner of the Photography Plaque. To all these people go my deepest appreciations.

Photo Credits

Bradbury's Keith Studio was the Klipsun photographer this year, and took all the pictures in the 1950 Klipsun with the following exceptions:

Bernie Lipeska: 12, 86, 87, 128.

Foshaug Studios, Puyallup, Wash.: 16.
