Foreword

Typical of the progress Western Washington College of Education has made in recent years is the opening of the new Arts building, a center for instruction in the arts and crafts. This has been another year of progress, although marked by the uncertainties of a world not at peace. Recorded in this book are the events and personalities of the year. It is our hope that our skippers—the members of the faculty—and our fellow crew members—the students—will find this book in years to come a cherished remembrance of the fruitful 1951 voyage of the stalwart Viking ship.

Dr. Haggard

Important discussions pertaining to the completion and furnishing of the new Auditorium-Music building headed the lengthy list of projects carried on by the Board of Trustees during the past year.

Capable representation from the College was assured by the presence of the Board at the many education meetings throughout the state. Preparation and presentation of the 1951-1953 budget and active participation on the joint board of trustees of the three Washington colleges of education accentuated fully the accomplishments of the present board.

Under President W. W. Haggard's leadership, WWCE has successfully carried forward its purpose of providing for the educational needs of the state. Highlight of the year for the president was the completion of the $1,200,000 Auditorium-Music building. Always busy with educational and civic responsibilities, Dr. Haggard found time during the year to accept the honor of serving on a special committee of the American Association of Teachers Colleges for the purpose of re-evaluating teacher training institution accreditation.

Making

Sharing adjacent offices and sharing in the duties of student supervision are Western's two friendly deans, C. W. McDonald for the men and Miss Lorraine Powers for the women. Finding part-time jobs for self-supporting students is the big task of Dean McDonald, while Dean Powers lends much of her time to the direction of social activities and organized living groups.

... The Wheels

Conferring frequently on personnel problems this year were Dr. Merle Kuder, director of student personnel; Registrar Donald Ferris, and his new assistant, William O'Neil. Every student at Western is assured of courteous consideration from this hard-working trio.

... Go 'Round

Although the junior high section of the Campus School was closed this year, there has been no let-up in responsibilities for Dr. Raymond F. Hawk. The number of student teachers reached a new high and student teachers were in a greater number of city and county schools than ever before.

The Ship's Crew

Mayor Jack Mulhern welcomes Freshmen and new students.

Freshmen . . . Heirs to a Challenge

A trifle bewildered, but eager to learn and to play an important part in college life, 500 new freshmen entered Western Washington College of Education this year. They found at Western a ready welcome and a satisfying personal attention through the College's counseling system.

The new life offered no insurmountable obstacles for this vigorous group of students. The class quickly organized, elected officers and an adviser, and prepared for its role in the Homecoming celebration. When freshman bonfire time rolled around, every freshman, as well as every student and grad who had ever been a freshman, was thrilled by the way this class defended its bonfire.

The freshmen found themselves heirs to a twenty-one year-old challenge. The challenge was written as the dedication of the 1929 edition of this yearbook: "All the bright successes and darker shortcomings of present students may seem to future students but idle play. Today's students here offer a challenge to the class assembled twenty-five years hence to surpass the achievement of today. To that class of 1954 we respectfully dedicate this yearbook."

The class of 1954—this year's freshmen—set out to surpass the "bright successes" of a generation ago. Individually, and as a group, they contributed to all phases of college life. They added a welcome touch of youth and buoyancy to their classes, to pep rallies, and to all the activities they entered.

Sophomores . . . Looking Ahead

The largest freshman class ever enrolled in Western College became, in the fall of 1950, one of Western's most distinguished sophomore classes.

Continuing to build on the progress they had made as freshmen, the sophomores found an opportunity to start the year off right in the "Real Western" Homecoming. The class took second place in the window display competition with their display in the Sears-Roebuck window. Attractive Shirley Simpson of Enumclaw was the sophomore princess in Queen Sigrid's royal court.

Sophomores provided an answer to the problem of "The Thing" winter quarter in a mixer which they sponsored. Decorations paid tribute to the mythical thing, and a contest provided additional enjoyment. Phil Ager's band provided the music.

Spring quarter brought the traditional class picnic which supplied hot dogs, fun, and recreation for all.

Popular Martin Smith of Bremerton was selected to serve as class president, with Clyde Hobbs, Kent, vice-president. Peggy Strauss of Tacoma held the position of secretary-treasurer. The class was advised by Harvey Gelder of the mathematics department. Ralph Bennett of Battleground was a sophomore delegate to the Interclub Council.

Goals became clearly defined for most sophomores during their second year. A majority—250 students—were enrolled in teacher education. Fifty-four were in the junior college curriculum, intending to transfer to some other college at the end of the year. Another fifty were seeking to gain the Bachelor of Arts degree in arts and sciences.

Juniors . . . Ready for Leadership

In spite of large numbers who were doing their student teaching for the first time, the Junior class again proved itself possessed of initiative. Last year's class inaugurated the Junior Prom, while this year's class went one step further by electing a prince and princess to rule over the affair.

The entire college elected royalty from a group of eight, nominated by the Junior class. Those nominated were: Lois French, Betty Bru-seth, Mildred Peter, and Beverly Carlson for princess; and Pat "Spider" Clyde, Arnie Klug, Dick Pedersen and Tom Springer for prince.

Those who finally reigned were Mildred Peter and Dick Pedersen.

The class boasted a few outstanding members: a Homecoming queen, Mary Elbie, and a co-winner of the football inspirational award, Norm Hash. Bud Scott did some outstanding playing on the first string in basketball. The class also sponsored a mixer.

Under the benevolent and inspiring leadership of Dr. David McDonald the officers of the Junior class found much cooperation in their work. Dick Pedersen served as president, Chuck Gesdahl as vice president, Mary Pagels as treasurer, and Mildred Peter as secretary.

Seniors . . . Ready for the World

Another four-year cycle has ended and WWCE offers to the world another stalwart group of graduates—trained for leadership, education and democracy.

This graduating class has witnessed several major transformations in its four years on campus. As freshmen they saw the final stages of construction of the new heating plant and the Mens Residence Hall and the first award of the Bachelor of Arts and Master of Education degrees. Their second year began and ended with celebrations climaxing the college's historic first fifty years. The junior year was also one of construction progress as the Arts Building was completed and occupied and construction of the Auditorium-Music Building went rapidly ahead. In their third year the class as a whole manifested their social abilities by staging the first Junior Prom. Four years of growth was completed by the final dedication of the Auditorium-Music Building, from which this class is to be the first to graduate.

In this fourth year, the climax of college life, the seniors have been occupied with earnest preparations for their lives after graduation. The many functions of the class have been directed by the senior planning board. The class sponsored a mixer which was held in November. A memorable class banquet was held in February, followed by a salmon bake in May.

A fitting climax to four complete years of study, activities, and social life is the graduation of this class of 1951, equipped by the College to become the leaders, educators, and guardians of democracy in a troubled world.

Activities

Shore Leave

Learning Democracy

To this group fell the trust of student activity funds and the task of reflecting student opinion in its dealings with the college administration. The Board began the year by purchasing a television set for the lounge. Purchase of equipment for the lounge in the new Auditorium-Music building was also an accomplishment of the governing council this year. Budget problems confronted the Board when enrollment failed to come up to the estimated figure and departmental allotments had to be revised. With some well-planned slashing, the student body administration managed to steer clear of red ink and deficit financing. An exchange of talent shows with Central Washington college was planned and carried out by the Board.

President Hickenbottom, besides wielding the gavel at weekly board meetings, made various committee appointments, kept the student government in smooth functioning order, and kept the student body informed through his weekly "Fireside Chat."

Harry Pagels, vice-president, proved his capabilities as a showman in supervising student assemblies and helped get out the vote in the quarterly elections.

Promotion of the welfare of all clubs and their membership is the aim of the Interclub Council. Delegates to the ICC are the presidents or authorized representatives of each club and class on campus. The council this year admitted two new clubs, the Industrial Arts Club and the Future Teachers of America.

A major problem for the council was the determination of standards for national honorary societies, which were admitted for the first time this year.

Miss Nora Cummins and Miss Lorraine Powers, advisers, assisted the council in its important relations with the faculty student affairs committee.

For the Men . . .
Norsemen

Norsemen Commission—C. Hodder, D. Minahan (pres.), C. Brown, W. Peterson, B. Ward, J. Jensen (vice-pres.).

The Norsemen's Club, an organization consisting of all male students enrolled at WWCE, endeavors to unite and plan special social activities for the male population of the college, and to serve their common interests. The officers work in harmony with the Interclub Council and the Dean of Men in their activities.

The business and social affairs of the club have been conducted this year under the capable leadership of President Don Minahan and the Norsemen Commission. The commission, governing body of the club, consists of the elected officers and one representative from each of the four classes. This group plans the yearly program and conducts the business affairs of the association between the regularly scheduled meetings.

High on the list of yearly social affairs is the semi-formal dance sponsored each fall quarter by the Norsemen. The Leopold Hotel's Crystal Ballroom was the scene of the 1950 affair, held on October 20. Guests danced to the music of Phil Ager and his orchestra. Each guest of a Norseman received a carnation corsage.

Climaxing the year's social activities was the Norsemen Spring informal dance, Friday, April 20.

For the Women . . .

A. W. S.

Anchored firmly in the memories of this year at WWCE will be a bright picture of the active Associated Women Students organization. Ruby Johnson, president, piloted the college-wide feminine organization as it sailed through a sea of successful activities.

Along with the many events which filled the year's calendar, the AWS carried on, throughout the year, a drive to finance the education of a displaced student from Europe. As a result of this drive, Western expects to have a European student on campus in the fall. Fund-raising projects included a student talent assembly, decorated Christmas tree, popcorn sales, and solicitations from civic organizations. The drive, which began under the direction of Zona Daverin, was carried forward this year by June Dillman.

The AWS successfully staged the High School

Leaders' Conference, which was held on campus February 23. Under the direction of Marian Stefani, the organization welcomed and played host to approximately 100 high school girls representing schools in Whatcom, Skagit, King, Snohomish, San Juan, and Island counties. The theme of the conference, "Art of Living," was carried out in group discussions on club activities and finances and profitable recreation hours. The visitors toured the campus, attended a fashion show, and were entertained by the Music Department, the Thespians, Home Economics Department, and the Square and Circle Club.

Throughout the year, teas were held in the friendly atmosphere of the AWS lounge on Thursday afternoons. A tolo in Edens Hall, directed by Gerry Berg, marked the end of fall quarter.

Student Voice

Business Manager Eugene Williams and Editor Paul Gillie led the Collegian staff through an eventful year.

Leading the Collegian through a year of budget slashings caused by a drop in enrollment added new grey hairs to the heads of Editor Paul Gillie and Business Manager Eugene Williams. With Williams soliciting revenue and keeping the books straight, the paper was able to keep out of the red ink. Gillie supervised the editorial staff in gathering the news and putting the paper into its final form. Published each Friday, the eight-page tabloid reviewed the events of the week and reflected student opinion on current topics.

Versatile Elaine Daverin stepped into the business manager's post in spring quarter after Williams resigned.

STAFF

Providing an accurate and interesting weekly account of college events was the primary aim of the Western Washington Collegian this year. This aim was accomplished by a staff which was well equipped, in training and in interest, to perform the weekly assignments.

Editor Gillie's right-hand man was Managing Editor Keith Stearns, whose experience the editor found valuable in all phases of production. Other reliable, hard-working assistants who worked throughout the year were Jean Olson, society editor; Mort Gronseth, sports editor; and Clint Doherty, news editor. Elaine Daverin, who was at home in all phases of newspaper work, devoted many hours to the Collegian. The camera of Ed Mapes caught glimpses of student activities for the press.

The ultimate in cooperation between the two major student publications was assured this year with the two top editorial positions being held by a husband-and-wife team. While Collegian editor Paul Gillie directed the publication of the college weekly, his wife, Joyce, worked in the adjacent office at the task of producing the 1951 Klipsun. Keith Stearns capably filled the post of Klipsun business manager.

STAFF

Two problems plagued the Klipsun staff this year: finances and deadlines. The annual was originally planned a year ago, before the outbreak of the Korean war, when WWCE was expecting a record enrollment. Then came the war, the draft, and the slump in enrollment. Plans for the expansion of the book had to be shelved; several revisions eliminated non-essential pages; economy became a watchword.

The other obstacle, deadlines, was met with success by the industrious staff, although deadlines seemed to come all too soon and all too frequently.

Assistants to the editor were Audrey Adams and Jo Ann Hoyt. Section editors were Muriel Weber and Bill Haycock, classes; Mort Gronseth, sports; and Carol Methven, women's sports. Ed Mapes, as staff photographer, covered with his camera the activities of the year. The compiling editors, Donna Seldomridge and Laura Lee Sovde, indexed the names of everyone pictured in the book. Copy was written by Cecil Thomas, Eugene Williams, Pat Somers, and was edited by Paul Gillie.

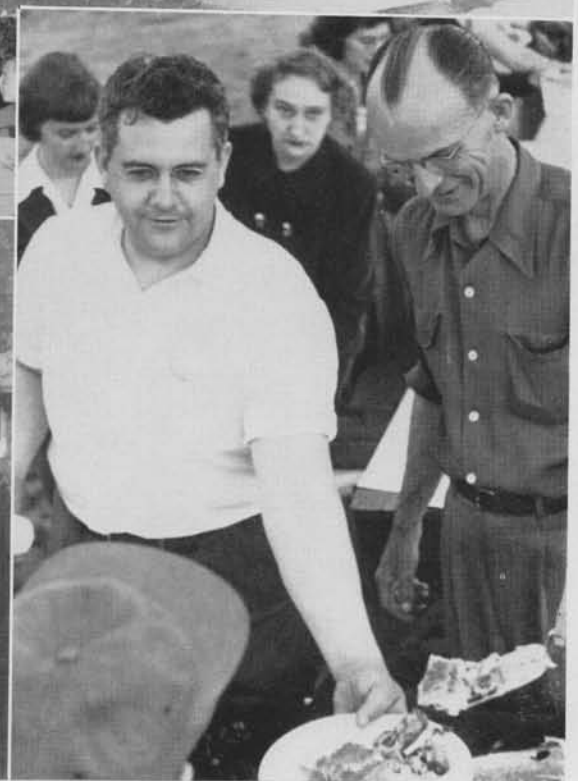

Joining the Crew

Joining the Viking crew involves careful preparations which are completed during the period known as Opening Week. Individual guidance is offered by the personal counseling system which provides each newcomer with his own friendly faculty adviser. As a group, the new crew is afforded welcome glimpses of the road ahead.

The four-year voyage is ended, and each of the crew of learners is ready to become a pilot of youth—teachers—themselves. Products of Western Washington College of Education's "New era," the senior class of 1951 will be the first to graduate from the Auditorium-Music Building, the latest of the many physical and curricular additions they have witnessed.

A Real Western Homecoming

Homecoming in the fall of 1950 found the campus converted into a Western ranch and Vic, the stalwart Viking, disguised as a gun-totin' cowhand. Capitalizing on the "Western" in WWCE's title, co-chairmen Leila Brown and Bud Hill selected "Western Roundup" as the theme of the year's colorful celebration.

Grads were designated as "strays" and rounded up for a return visit to the old corral, which bore the name of "Rocking W Ranch" for the weekend festivities. Plaid shirts, jeans, ten-gallon hats, and other ranch duds were in style throughout the celebration.

The perfect choice for Homecoming Queen was blonde, blue-eyed Mary Elbie, who wore the crown of Queen Sigrid XIII. Her court was composed of four of Western's most lovely co-eds: Ruby Johnson, Mildred Peter, Shirley Simpson, and Jeanne Lambert.

Competition among clubs and houses in the skit and display contests kept the Homecoming spirit soaring. At the freshman bonfire, the Eastern Savage was burned in effigy, but his ghost returned to haunt the Vikings the next day, as they dropped a thrilling, but heart-breaking, decision to their cross-state rivals.

Amid the merriment and excitement, grads paused for a reunion luncheon at Edens hall. The celebration ended with the Queen's Ball at the armory, sponsored by the W Club.

Anything goes in a Homecoming skit . . . zany musicians, Charlie Chaplin, or enticing dancers . . . all the skits were delightful and hilarious . . . but Lunde and Hawk in "Lollipop Aria" (CENTER, LEFT) took the prize.

Rustlers

"Sheriff" Hickenbottom rests up from chasing rustlers . . . the Savage is tossed in the fire . . . Amber Daniels feeds her returning athletes . . . behind those swinging doors is the lounge and Queen Mary is seeing that no minors enter.

With an enticing "Blue Moon" theme, Western's second annual Junior Prom proved to be the outstanding social event of winter quarter. In the pictures above, intermission time and dancing crowds are shown. The royal court consisted of Beverly Carlson, Betty Bruseth Agar, Lois French, Mildred Peter, Dick Pederson, Tom Springer, and Arnie Klug.

Shussken

Those who love the excitement and exhilaration of skiing share their experiences and companionship through the Shussken Ski Club. Saturday trips to nearby Mount Baker were a weekly event for club members, as long as weather conditions were good for skiing. On two occasions during the year club members made overnight trips to Baker Lodge. Besides indulging in their favorite sport, ski enthusiasts enjoyed square dancing and fireside singing on their trips. Ski movies were shown at most meetings of the club. The club benefits its members by offering special rates on bus fare, ski insurance, and lessons.

Shutter Bugs

Open to all students with an interest in photography is the Camera Club. Darkroom facilities are provided for those who are just beginning in photography and for those who are more advanced. Club-sponsored hunting expeditions to the scenic areas around Bellingham found members "armed" with their well-loaded cameras looking for big game. Club members exhibited their best pictures at a salon in the Arts Building during April. Using equipment purchased by the Associated Students, club members do photographic work for the student publications.

Press Club

Campus journalists are united in the WWCE Press Club, which draws its membership from the Collegian and Klipsun staffs. The club serves to bring together the staff members of the student publications for social activities and discussion of matters of mutual interest.

Rushing the season the club chose a date in the middle of February for a picnic at Lakewood. The indoor affair was rated as successful by everyone present. To show their support of the football team and to promote good relations with the athletic department, the Press Club donated a thermos jug to the team during football season.

Hoedown

The "hoedown," or more formally, Square and Circle Club, continues the early American practice of gathering for both formal and informal social dance affairs. Though new to the campus, being first organized last year, the club has expanded rapidly and carries on a full program of activities.

Club members presented a skit for Homecoming, sponsored an all-school dance for the benefit of WSSF, and visited nearby communities and granges. The club party this year was held at Conway where the entire club took part in a Legion dance.

Valkyrie

The Valkyrie emblem is worn proudly on the sweaters of a select group of women students who are prominent in student activities and who are elected to membership by the club.

Valkyrie began the year by assisting the administration in soliciting funds and signatures for the Crusade for Freedom and the Freedom Scroll. Valkyrie members who attend football and basketball games usually sit together. They also assist as ushers at various functions.

Future Teachers

Newly organized on campus this year was the Dr. E. A. Bond chapter of the Future Teachers of America, an affiliate of the Washington Education Association. In its first year the organization attained a membership of forty students interested in the field of education.

The organization seeks to encourage in its members a professional point of view and a sense of professional obligations. The local chapter is named for Dr. E. A. Bond, a retired WWCE professor.

The local organization led the way in organizing a state-wide FTA federation and sponsored a regional convention for this purpose during April.

Debaters

Along with the increasing interest in intercollegiate debate and forensic activities has come the development of the campus Forensic Club. The club is open to participants in forensic events such as debate, oratory, interpretive reading, and extemporaneous speaking.

Members who have participated in at least one successful intercollegiate debate are honored by the club with the presentation of a key. These awards were presented this year at a banquet held during winter quarter. Scrolls were also awarded in recognition of the three degrees of achievement: fraternity, proficiency, and honor.

... and Actors

Continuing this year to function as an organization for dramatically inclined students is the Thespian Club. The club seeks to achieve three goals: growth and practice in dramatics and stagecraft, recreation for members, and service to the college.

The first two purposes were accomplished through club meetings and social affairs. Demonstrations, talks, and discussions were held dealing with theatrical subjects.

Service to the college was performed by the club which cared for stage properties and sponsored assemblies. The club conducted the WSSF kick-off assembly and performed for the High School Leaders' Conference.

Off-campus Women

One of the liveliest feminine organizations is the club for Off-Campus Women—those who do not live in organized houses or dormitories. Through this organization, co-eds who do not live in organized residence houses may participate in college activities. The club has been successful in bringing together the many women students residing off-campus.

Among the club's activities this year were a candy sale, Sunday movie for WSSF, a rec hour, swimming parties, and a hike and picnic.

Colheconomists

Best known for their annual waffle supper are the Colheconomists, an organization of women interested in home economics. The proceeds of the waffle supper are donated to WSSF. The club had a busy season this year, beginning with a tea for freshman girls. A school in Japan received from the club a Christmas gift subscription to a home economics magazine.

A special honor came to the club and to the college when Claretta Erdman was elected state president of the organization at a convention in Seattle.

Chess Club

The game of chess holds a special fascination for the members of the college Chess Club, all of whom share a devotion to the pastime. Nearly every spare moment the chess players have, they can be found huddling over a chess board, engrossed in the moves and strategy of the game. Club members engage in zestful competition with one another and in interclub rivalry with other enthusiasts. Each year a trophy is awarded to the student taking highest honors in an all-college tournament.

International Relations

Included in a very successful year of activities for the oldest club on campus were an international banquet, the annual conference at the College of Puget Sound, and a spring picnic. At International Relations club meetings, discussions of important current topics were held. The club heard several outstanding speakers during the year, including Dr. Frederick T. Rope, United Nations educational liaison officer.

Bob Royce, a member of Western's IRC, is serving as secretary of the Northwest Regional International Relations conference.

Social Science

Sociological problems of a national and local nature were studied by members of the Social Science Club this year. The club discussed initiative and referendum measures on the November ballot during fall quarter. Speakers informed club members concerning racial issues, with attention being given to American Indians and American Negroes.

Through the active program carried on by this club, its members received a deeper understanding of some of the most important issues of human living today.

Blue Triangle

The biggest task of the Blue Triangle each year is the coordination of the World Student Service Fund drive. This year found the club carrying on a successful drive, enlisting the assistance of other clubs and organizations for the annual drive in behalf of college students in war-torn countries abroad.

Blue Triangle is the college branch of the Young Women's Christian Association. The organization devotes itself to service projects and holds occasional social meetings.

Scholarship Society

For many years Western's only honorary society, the Scholarship Society continued this year to recognize those students who had achieved outstanding success in their academic work. Membership in the society is offered to those who have maintained a grade point average of 3.5 for three consecutive quarters and who have an overall average of 3.2.

This accomplishment is rewarded with the presentation of scholarship pins at the society's regular banquets. Impressive but simple ceremonies are held to initiate new members, who are acquainted with the standards and ethics of the organization.

Kappa Delta Pi

Western's first national honorary society, Kappa Delta Pi, was chartered this year, with an original membership of twenty-five upperclassmen and graduates in the field of education. The organization of this group is considered to be a significant step forward in the development of the graduate school in education, which has been in existence for only a few years.

Kappa Delta Pi is a coeducational organization, open to education majors who have attained a 3.0 grade point average. It seeks to develop and encourage excellence in the field of education.

Industrial Arts

As the Industrial Arts department moved into larger and more modern quarters this year in the new Arts Building, and as a larger number of students were enrolled in some phases of the I.A. curriculum, the need arose for a new club for the many students interested in this subject. This need was met by the organization of the Industrial Arts club, which soon became one of the largest clubs on campus.

The new club provided an adequate program for those who share a common interest in creative craftsmanship, offering enriching experiences through a schedule of demonstrations, speakers, and discussions.

Childhood Education

Prospective primary teachers find the Association for Childhood Education to be a club which offers stimulating meetings and activities. This has been a busy year for the club, with the ACE international convention held this spring at Seattle. Several members of the local organization attended the convention and took an active part in it.

Workshop meetings and demonstrations contributed to the professional growth of the club members. ACE contributed to the life of the college by sponsoring the year's first all-school mixer, by assisting in the Education Week program, and by soliciting faculty contributions to WSSF.

Distinguished Service . . . Who's Who

Receiving a special form of recognition this year were twenty members of the junior and senior classes, who were selected for inclusion in the annual directory of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." The group represents those who have been outstanding in extra-curricular activities, scholarship, and citizenship. Selection is made by a joint student-faculty committee.

Chosen for the first time this year were:

Joan Brown, Leila Brown, June Carrick, Nita Clothier, Gail Dillon, Lois French, Mort Gronseth, Norm Hash, Ed Hickenbottom, Ruby Johnson, Art Larsson, Lola Loreen, Norris McHeffey, Don Minahan, Harry Pagels, Dick Pedersen, Eugenia Puckett, Cecil Thomas, Helen Wiik, and Charmaine Wing.

Four students, chosen last year as juniors, were also included in this year's directory: Donelle Bain, Zona Daverin, Dave Grocott, and Marion James.

Christian Youth

Sunday morning breakfasts were featured events in the schedule of activities for the United Student Christian Council this year, an interdenominational organization which brings together for fellowship and service students from various church groups. Nona Cochran led the group this year in planning its busy program, working in close cooperation with the local council of churches. The breakfasts offered inspiring messages and pleasant fellowship as did the evening fireside meetings and other council activities.

Christian Fellowship

Highlighting the social calendar of the College Christian Fellowship this year was the semi-formal Valentine's banquet which was held at Fishermen's Cove. This interdenominational organization is devoted to promoting Christian fellowship and spiritual development among its members. This year they enjoyed hearing several distinguished speakers at their regular weekly evening Bible studies and holding their periodic singspirations.

Graduate School . . . Scholars in Earnest

The graduate school has steadily increased its enrollment since the summer of 1947, the year that the state legislature authorized WWCE to grant the degree of Master in Education. At that time there were four students on campus seeking the master's degree. The number has steadily risen and now stands at 16 students for the regular school year. Last summer 87 people were engaged in some phase of meeting the stiff requirements for this honor. To date, seven master's degrees have been awarded.

Requirements for the degree are: advance approval for all courses taken in the candidate's graduate program, a grade average of "B," a thesis or field project, required courses in education, and forty-five quarter hours of graduate work of which at least three quarters must be performed in residence.

Fall Production . . . "John Loves Mary"

Produced in penthouse style in the Edens Hall Blue room, the comedy show, "John Loves Mary," attracted and delighted playgoers in the fall quarter presentation of the Division of Drama. Victor Hoppe directed the show, assisted by June Sutherland, and the leading roles were played by Bill Jones and Jerri Mosier.

Humorous romantic complications were featured in Norman Krasna's comedy. The story dealt with the romantic involvements and entanglements of a discharged soldier. Hoppe's directorial skill and the excellent performances of the cast made effective use of the humorous situations.

The informal penthouse atmosphere added to the enjoyment of the show, which was presented four times. Refreshments were served during intermission.

In addition to the two leading roles, other members of the cast were June Sutherland, Dick Molby, Leila Brown, Alice Davis, Allen Reamer, Dick Usitalo, Max McLain, Jim McHeffey, and Don Pearsall.

UPPER LEFT: "Harvey" cast—D. Wahl, B. Cary, M. Barber, D. Pearsall, J. McHeffey, J. Sutherland, N. Clothier, B. McHargue, H. Rogers, J. Mosier, A. Reamer.

Winter Comedy . . . "Harvey"

Elwood P. Dowd, portrayed by Jim McHeffey, brought many a chuckle to the capacity audiences who witnessed the Division of Drama's winter production of "Harvey," a popular comedy written by Mary Chase. More than incidental to enjoyment of the show was the levity with which it treated modern psychology and the implication that complete sanity is not necessarily complete happiness.

Harvey, the six-foot rabbit, was visible only to the amiable tippler, Elwood, but the entire audience was aware of his presence, which is a tribute to the skillful pantomiming of McHeffey and the support of others in the cast.

Showgoers found in the production the characteristic marks of Victor Hoppe's direction—appropriate casting, careful mounting, and effective timing. Five performances of "Harvey" were given in the Campus School auditorium.

Other members of the cast included Don Pearsall, Jeri Mosier, Hank Rogers, Barbara McHargue, Dick Wahl, MDarilyn Barber, Ben Cary, Nita Clothier, Allen Reamer, and June Sutherland. Roger Pederson was technical director and special art work was done by Lois French and Allen Reamer.

Viking

Viking Marching Band

Seventy strong, the 1950-51 Viking band under the direction of Don C. Walter, played for a joint state House and Senate congregation at Olympia while on a tour which took them to many schools across the state. The concert was an invitational affair and the Viks presented a very commendable performance.

Bob Pennington, Carol Irwin, and Jean Landahl filled the respective positions of drum major and majorettes when the blue and white clad band was afoot for the various parades and also for the complicated maneuvers which the band presented at half time of the Vik football contests.

Band

The band also played at most of the home basketball games, many school assemblies, and the college pep rallies.

On Monday afternoons at four o'clock, when the weather was nice, the band could be seen and heard practicing on the lawn in front of the Campus school. When the weather was inclement the band still practiced, and the strains of music could be heard coming from the music room at the same hour.

Much of the success of this hard-working outfit is due to the efforts of likeable Don Walter, the versatile Viking band master.

The College Choir

This year the A Cappella Choir, under the magnificent directing of Bernard W. Regier, brought acclaim and credit to the campus for their outstanding performances.

Of the 112 members of the Choir, 66 were chosen to perform in special assemblies and concerts. In December they gave their beautiful Christmas concert, and in May the Choric concert. The choir was in constant demand to perform at numerous service clubs.

One outstanding event for the Choir was the tour in April. They appeared at fourteen high schools and on April 15 in Seattle sang over KOMO. This year a new attraction was made available. The Choir made an outstanding set of three recordings which have been put on sale.

A very much sought-after group of singers this year is the Vocollegians. This mixed ensemble of 13 voices plays an important part in the music department at Western, and they delight all who listen to their colorful singing of madrigals.

Another prominent group of singers is the college quartet. The singers who made up the quartet were Bennett Asplund, Byron Winter, Mervin Sliger, and Clare Campbell. Their voices blend together to create an atmosphere of beautiful music.

Arion Club . . . For Music Majors

Music majors, and members of the band and choir organized this year a new club, which was known at first as the Music Club. Later in the year, the name Arion Club was selected, honoring the early Greek patron of music.

The club fulfilled several purposes and took an active part in campus affairs and social life. Among its outstanding activities was the reception given for the members of the Juilliard Quartet. The four young musicians in the quartet discussed with club members "Trends in Modern Music." Other visiting Artist and Lecture series musicians were entertained by the club.

The new club took first place in the Homecoming Skit competition with the delightful "Lollypop Aria," consisting of Alfred Lunde and Richard Hawk. This routine was popular all year, and was presented before various civic groups and was part of the exchange assembly.

Woodwind Quintet

The woodwind quintet, under the direction of Don Walter, entertained and delighted audiences locally and throughout the state during the past year. Besides appearing frequently on the winter quarter band tour, the quintet also made numerous other appearances here on radio, in schools throughout the county, and in student assemblies. Although of relatively new origin in the WWC music department, the group was given wide acclaim in all its performances.

String Quartet

The string quartet, consisting of Anne Battey, first violin; Noreen Thorsen, second violin; Dr. Frank D'Andrea, viola; and Suzanne Palmer, cello, provides ensemble experience for the advanced string players of the music department. The quartet also studies the great literature in the field, which it performs at college assemblies, recitals, broadcasts, and community programs. Besides being a member of the quartet, Dr. D'Andrea also acts as director of the group.

Brass Sextet

A relatively full schedule of events kept the brass sextet busy making appearances during the past year. These were highlighted by their playing in the band tour throughout the state during winter quarter, a Kiwanis reception, and a PTA convention. Members of the sextet include Dick Horn and Bob Brown, trumpets; Ray Moffit, French horn; Martin Smith, trombone; Marilou Milton, baritone horn; and Bruce Gillette, bass. Faculty direction is by Don Walter.

Song Leaders

WWC was proud of the three song leaders that were elected to represent the school. They deserve a compliment for their efforts to raise school spirit at the games. They really did an excellent job and the students appreciated their hard work.

Yell Leaders

This year's yells were led by six snappy yell leaders elected by the student body. They encouraged school spirit as it should be, along with boosting the morale of the football and basketball teams. They made a wonderful yell team and the College was proud of them.

Where We Live . . .

In a college famous for its friendly and democratic traditions, the role of the organized living groups is of major importance. Students coming to Western to study may find a new home in one of the campus dormitories or nearby residence houses. In these living groups they find, also, the friendly attention and counsel of a housemother, intimate and lasting friendships with housemates, and a compact social unit which helps the newcomer become accustomed to his new environment.

Many of the houses enter teams in the intramural athletic leagues. Other participate in the talent contests at Homecoming and Campus Day; nearly all of them engage in the spirited rivalry for the "biggest and best" Homecoming display. House parties, firesides, and picnics fill the year's calendar.

Some of the larger residence groups undertake to sponsor all-college activities. Senior Hall sponsored a barn dance and a Mardi Gras, with Edens Hall undertaking a Tolo Dance. Memorable mixers were sponsored by Kluane and Mens Residence Hall. Daniels Hall was active throughout the year, winning the Homecoming display cup, entering a winning team in city basketball play, and subscribing 100 per cent to the Red Cross blood drive.

The girls who make up the Women's Recreation Association can be justly proud of their work. They have provided the women of the college with an intramural program of all types of sports. This year the WRA carnival was enjoyed by the student body and faculty who attended this gala event. A high school play day was another highlight of the activities sponsored by WRA. Joan Brown was the very active president this year.

"W" Club

The "W" club of WWCE under the leadership of president Russ Nielsen, vice-president Vern Tovrea and secretary-treasurer Hal Norgaard has had a very successful year.

The club's activities started fall quarter, when members sold programs at the football games and took part in a paddle squad to keep kids off the field.

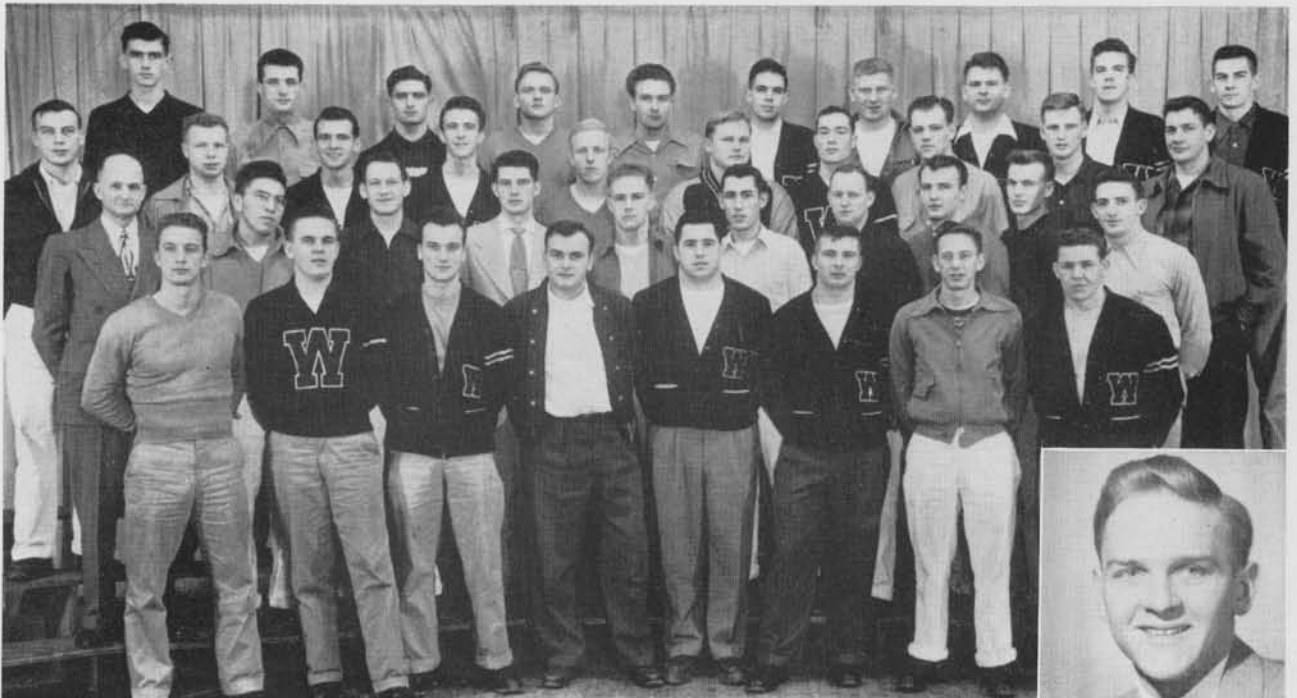

Another major activity of the club during fall quarter was the Queen's ball at Homecoming. This affair was a huge success.

The "W" club smoker, originally scheduled for late in winter quarter, was postponed because of snow, but was held in spring quarter, providing plenty of excitement for those who attended.

The annual "W" club banquet was held spring quarter. Everyone attending this event was both pleased and impressed.

Straight Line Master

In his eighteenth year of coaching at the college on the hill, head football coach Charles F. Lappenbusch had a most successful season. "Lappy," as most of the players call him, led the team to a record of seven wins, two defeats, and one tie. The team ended the season in second place in the tough Evergreen Conference, as high as any Western team has finished in this league.

This fall Lappy had the right men for his original straight line defense system and proved his point that it is a tough nut to crack. The offense this year also had new punch and added scoring power in his single wing formation. The Lappenbusch system was the talk of the nation this fall, being featured in a nation-wide news wire service story.

Around the athletic department they say that "if you have an afternoon to spend, stop in and ask Lappy about the straight line." However, proof of the product is in the playing, and the Viking record this year plus the fact that more and more Western grads are using the straight line as coaches, is that kind of proof.

Board of Strategy

One man alone can't handle all the details of producing a winning football team; it takes competent assistants to relieve the head man of some of the headaches. Ray Ciszek, Jim Hollingsworth, and Les Smith were the men who assisted Coach Lappenbusch in the organization of the winning Viking eleven.

Ciszek took charge of the ends, teaching them to get under the passes on offense and to stop the opposing backs on defense. In his third year at Western, Ray is a "foreigner" from the University of Illinois, but a loyal supporter of the blue and white.

Hollingsworth, a guard at Western in 1938-39-40, coached the guards and tackles and took care of patching up injuries. It was Jim who fixed things if anything went wrong with some valuable muscles. Because he was always on the job, few of the players were out for long.

Another graduate of the Lappenbusch system is Les Smith. A quarterback in his playing days, Smith handled the important backfield coaching chores while assisting in the injury-fixing department.

It was the work of these three men that helped Coach Lappenbusch build the 1950 team to greatness.

A Sad, Wet Day

Homecoming, Western style . . . Everyone cooperated except the weather man and the red shirts from Cheney.

Though the rains came, the spirit of the Vikings and their rooters was never dampened. The game was scoreless until Eastern broke loose in the third quarter with two passes which were good for 94 yards and the only touch-down of the day.

The Vikings played well on both offense and defense but they just couldn't push the ball across the stripes that pay off in points.

Coach Bill McDonald's Viking basketball team showed improvement this year, taking fifth place in the final standings of the sharp Evergreen conference, with five wins and nine losses. The squad sparkled in pre-season play, taking seven of ten tests.

The team put a thrilling finish to the season's play by downing the first-place Eastern Savages in the final game of the season. The Vikings upset their cross-state rivals in the hard-fought contest by a score of 54 to 53.

Four first-string players ended their college basketball careers with the Vikings this season: Stan Peterson, Dick Ravenhorst, Jeff Russell, and Ray Scott. To high-scoring Peterson went the honor of team captain for the year. Defensive standouts Russell and Scott were named by their teammates as inspirational award winners.

Skyscraper

Coach Bill McDonald realized one ambition this year, and because of this joined the hilltop swimming team. After beating Eastern on February 24, "Big Bill" was thrown in the college pool. The victory over Eastern was on the last game of the year, and brought the season to a fitting climax.

The victory over the Savages gave the Vikings 13 victories to 12 defeats for the year, and they finished in fifth place in the tough Evergreen conference.

Coach McDonald completed his fifth year as head coach of the blue and white. This year the big coach (he is just eighty inches tall) had one of his most successful seasons.

If the draft doesn't get too many of the returning team members, as well as those from this year's successful junior varsity, the Vikings will be knocking on the door of the upper heights in the Evergreen conference in next year's play.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Coach Jerry Starr led the Junior Varsity chargers to the most successful winning season for a Western JV team. Starr's boys won 14 games while dropping only 4.

The season proved excellent experience for the freshmen and sophomores who could not break into the first team. At the end of the season the boys from the JV were giving some of the varsity men tussles for their jobs, as well as giving the varsity some tough practice sessions.

Chuck Lindberg and Jack Start were honored by the other members of the squad by being elected inspirational award winner and honorary captain for the year, respectively.

This year saw swimming develop into one of the top notch athletic activities at Western. Coach Ray Hyatt met an enthusiastic turnout of newcomers and developed them into a winning team.

Opponents this year included Grays Harbor Junior College, Eastern Washington, University of British Columbia, and the University of Washington, one of the top teams in the country. Eastern was defeated twice by the Viking swimmers.

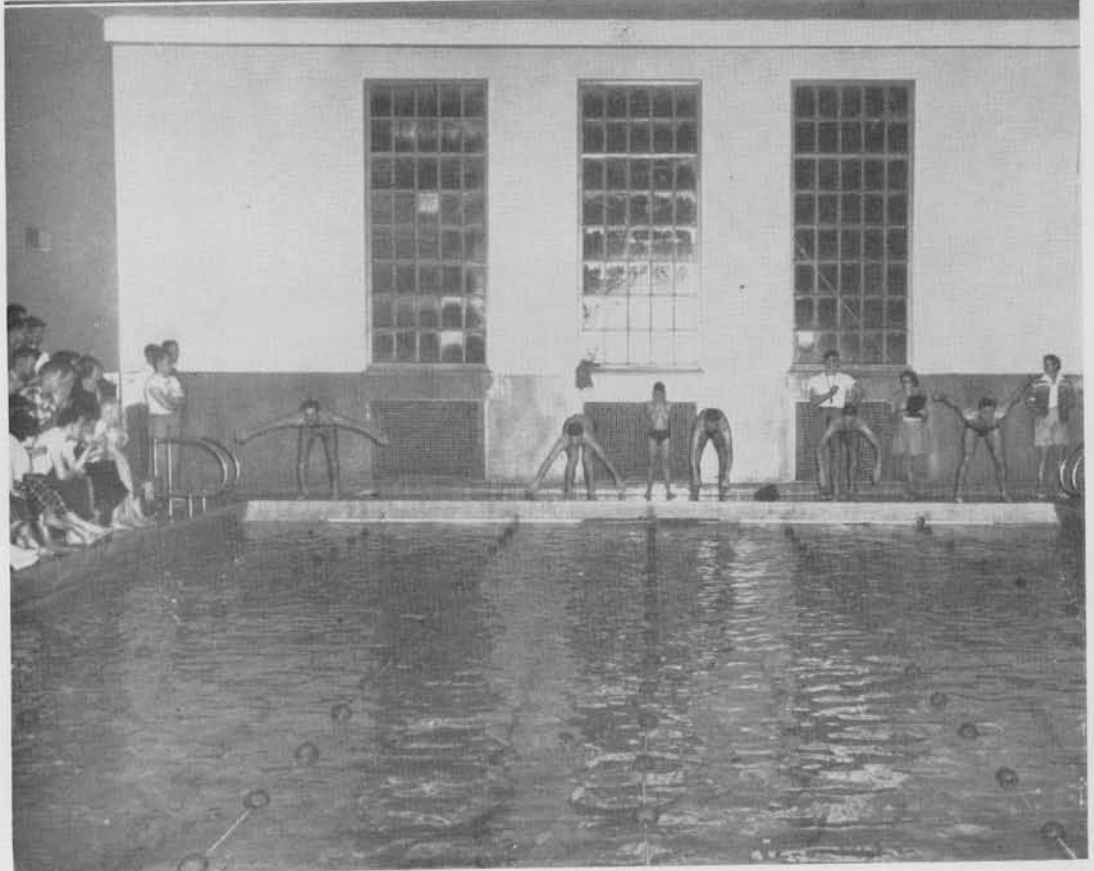

With the facilities available at Western and the professional coaching of Ray Hyatt, the local swim team may be expected to become one of the main athletic attractions in the future.

Student spectators fill the stands to watch the outcome of the meet. This distance race, a close finish was expected by eager fans, gave one and all a thrill.

On your marks, get set—

The start of a close race in the college pool. This year's team, although swimming isn't a recognized sport in the Evergreen conference, swept past all but UBC among conference teams.

Baseball

Starting with an almost new ball club of transfers and freshmen, head coach Joe Martin molded a formidable nine, which held one of the more unusual records in baseball history in their first six games. In these contests they won two games, lost two, and tied two.

For the first time in many a year, the Martinmen took on the University of Washington Huskies and gave an excellent account of themselves. In the first series at Seattle the Huskies won the first game 3 to 2, but were held to a 3 to 3 count in eight innings in the second contest.

Returning to Bellingham the following week the blue and white squad earned a split with the Huskies. "Spud" Walley, a transfer from the "U," was the boy who pitched the Western victory.

In the other series, against Seattle Pacific in Seattle, the Viks won one and tied the other in 11 innings.

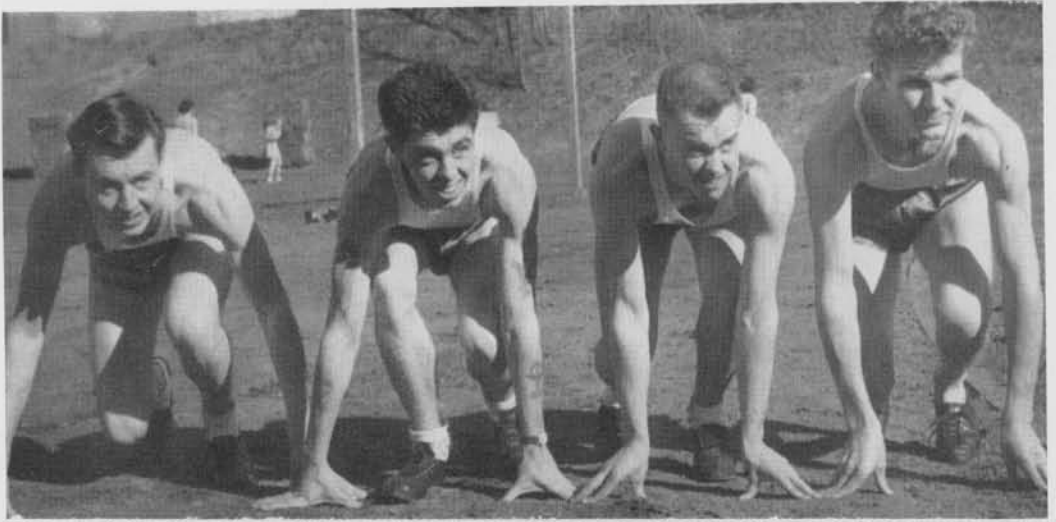

This was the extent of the season as this page went to press.

Track

Track, the only spring Evergreen conference sport to survive the slash, blossoms out with beaming rays, as Coach Ray Ciszek's squad took their first triangular meet of the year. The blue and white squad, led by record-breaking Artis Larsson, wouldn't be denied as they ran both St. Martin's and the College of Puget Sound into the ground. The final score was: Western $65\frac{1}{2}$, St. Martin's $48\frac{1}{2}$ and College of Puget Sound 48. Larsson's record was in the shot put, which he threw 45 feet $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches to establish a new record for Western Washington college.

In their two previous dual meets the Hilltoppers hadn't fared too well, but hopes were high as the Klipsun went to press for smoother sailing for the blue and white clad Viking.

Golf

Mostly a new group of men met Coach Sam Carver for their first golf turnout at the beginning of spring quarter. Gone were last year's winners, after four excellent years of Evergreen conference participation. Golf was included in the list of casualties as an Evergreen conference sport, as it was voted out by the coaches and athletic directors of the conference.

With ideal weather and an almost complete new group of golfers Coach Carver set out to mold a golf team. By the time of the first match, the boys were ready for the test. They continued to show well in the independent matches they were able to schedule.

Tennis

Coach Charles Lappenbusch had wonderful weather to get his tennis squad into condition. A young team, so far as experience is concerned, reported at the beginning of spring quarter.

One of the highlights of the season was a match against the Pacific Coast conference champions, the Washington Huskies. The purple and gold downed Western's pride in straight sets, but the Huskies have made a habit of that with coast conference schools. They couldn't break the habit.

Although tennis is not on the list of Evergreen sports this spring—it was dropped along with the major sport of baseball, and the other spring minor sport, golf—Western had a full schedule and gave those interested in varsity competition plenty of activity in their sport.

Intramurals . . . for Everyone

Intramurals for both men and women were popular last year with many Western students participating. With the early spring this year, the spring sports went over especially well.

Softball, or the new term, fastball, took all honors as fourteen teams joined the two leagues to battle it out for top rights when the dust cleared at the end of the quarter.

During fall and winter quarters the boys played basketball and bowled once a week in the intramural program. Both of these sports were popular and the boys gained a great deal of recreation and competition from their playing.

BLUE BARNACLES

An important part of the women's intramural program is swimming, carried on through the Blue Barnacles, advised by Miss Margaret Aitken. Swimming enthusiasts are admitted to the club after passing tryouts.

The club this year practiced their diving, figure swimming, and strokes, which were exhibited in a water show.
