

Your college . . . your campus . . . your year . . . your annual. You, the student, are this college. You are the one who learns, who pays for the Student Union building, who keeps the grass rule, who keeps your instructors on the job, who lives and works here. Your future depends on what you obtain from the years spent and the studies taken while enrolled at this school. It is only fitting to dedicate this 1956 Klipsun to you, the student of Western, and your future.

Building for the Future . . .

The blueprints for education at Western Washington College were first drawn up in 1899. Changes and improvements were made in them, but the original plans remained-projects and ideas for a more prosperous tomorrow. Every finished product became a tool for the future.

As students, we came to Western to serve apprenticeships in higher education. The faculty and staff acted as our foremen and craftsmen, teaching us their knowledge and skills.

We worked hard at our jobs, sometimes getting nothing in return but the realization of a goal. To those of us completing our terms as apprentices, the job is one well done; yet it is only a beginning. For, like our predecessors, we are also building for the future.

1952, 1953, $1954 \ldots$ the numbers appear reflected in the sunlit marble while hurrying down Memory Walk and your feet scatter leaves left and right. There's a brisk crispness in the air. The campus is an autumn tapestry of golds, brilliant yellows, rich browns against brick buildings and silent evergreens.
But the days soon become shorter, nippier, and wetter. Christmas holidays fairly zoom by, and a new quarter begins. The winter panorama of snowy mountains in the distance are sure to thrill the hearts of every skiier and even a few non-skiiers as well. At night a few of the studious can be seen in the glow of the lights as they hurry through the rain and, sometimes, snow to the library.

The rains are suddenly warm and gentle. Still another quarter, but this one is famous for green grass and ivy, pink blooming trees, cotton dresses and graduation. Your pace slows as you soak up the sunshine and the sparkling blue bay, and your thoughts are on summer vacation.
. . . a glimpse of Western's campus scene.

For what, in the advance of our College, will the author of "The Second Fifty Years" record for the year 1955-56? Among the achievements he will likely emphasize are the enrollment of 1740, the completion of the $$ 500,000$ North Wing of Edens Hall, the conversion of the old auditorium into classrooms and offices, and, perhaps more important than the foregoing, the addition of eleven faculty members. He certainly should emphasize also the student body's efforts in behalf of the Student Union Building.

The author of "The Second Fifty Years" will find all the foregoing in the minutes, but in the interpretation of the College he will find the KLIPSUN very helpful. He will find in the yearbook the record of 1955-1956 pictorialized and made human. It is a record that each student will certainly want to keep for reference to his college days.

The trustees, the faculty, and the student body will always be grateful to Janet Soine, editor; Gail Gustafson, business manager; Mr. James Bliss, faculty consultant; and the student staff members for their sincere and competent efforts in behalf of a very acceptable yearbook. They have contributed their full measure to the presentation of another chapter in the progress of their Alma Mater.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Students and faculty members are not all that go to make up an efficiently operated and successful college. Administrators such as Mr. Burton Kingsbury, Mr. Harry A. Binzer, and Mr. Donald Eldridge who comprize the Board of Trustees devoted their time and interests to the problems and general organization of Western.

DEAN OF MEN

With his cheery smile and a big "Hello," Mr. Clyde W. McDonald, dean of men, was a familiar figure on campus. Students interested in part-time employment, either on campus or in the vicinity of Bellingham, undoubtedly found themselves treading the well-worn path up to his office on Second floor to inquire about jobs. Men's housing was also taken care of through the office of Dean McDonald.

DEAN OF WOMEN

One of the first names you became acquainted with before entering college was that of Miss Lorraine Powers, Dean of Woment. She was the recipient of many letters before and between quarters regarding housing for prospective women students. To Western's women students the approving of an "SP" to go home was one of the most important functions of Miss Power's office.

These are the people responsible for the long lines and filling out of many cards on registration day each quarter. Dr. Merle Kuder, director of student personnel services; Mrs. Dorothy Button, assistant registrar; and Mr. Donald Ferris, registrar, give the student guidance in academic planning, counseling, and veteran's affairs.

THE NEVER-ENDING TASK of keeping up our school's buildings and grounds was carried on by the maintenance crew. From working in gym lockers to mowing lawns and tending the furnaces these people were indispensable on our campus. Left to right are: Wayne Ensign, Betty Mansur, Jennie Johnston, Grace Pike, Marguerite Ehle, and Arthur Norman.BOOKS ARE A MOST IMPORTANT TOOL in the hands of any student, for from them we obtain most of our knowledge. In a library the size of Western's someone must always be on hand to order, catalogue, repair and care for these books, and assist students in searching for them. The library staff are, left to right: Mildred Herrick, Pearl Reese, Herbert Hearsey, Miriam Mathes, Magdalene Almlie, and Ralph Morse.

IMPLORING QUEEN DIDO, as rendered by Joyce Brose, to believe in his love for her is Aeneas, Prince of destroyed Troy, played by Mervin Sliger.

AFTER THE TROJANS HAVE DEPARTED
Dido falls dead at the feet of her court.

Dido and Aeneas

The libretto for this opera was based on the tragic story of Dido, Queen of Carthage and her lover Aeneas, a prince of Troy. Aeneas, asplayed by Mervin Sliger, and his crew have found refuge in Carthage where the beautiful Dido, enchantingly sung by Joyce Brose, fell in love with the Trojan Prince. But the evil ones intervened between the two lovers and a confused and unhappy Dido orders him from Carthage.

Trial by Jury

This light-hearted Gilbert and Sullivan satire on British justice was quite a contrast to the other more tragic performance of the evening.
The defendent, played by Allan Mathieson, was to have a trial by jury for breach of promise. The beautiful plaintiff, Angelina, as played by Shirley Taylor, completely captivated the entire courtroom, and the poor defendent is tried and condemned before he has time to say his piece. All ended well when the jolly judge, bouncingly played by John Sundquist, decided he would marry Angelina himself. And the defendent is allowed to continue to "play the field."
The orchestra under the direction of Dr. D'Andrea did a fine job of orchestration for two such different scores in the same evening.

Campus Day

Beginning with a special "rise and shine" committee who visited various houses of Vikingville at 6:00 a.m. the 1955 Campus Day got off to a very early start. The events of the day with a logger theme were under the chairmanship of Walt Kauzlarich and a fine, hard working committee.

Many houses and organizations participated in the skit program with the Wesvets winning the annual Campus Day skit trophy. After skits the celebration moved to Whatcom Falls Park for lunch, games, and beard judging. Much to the chagrin of the students the faculty beat them in the traditional ball game, 18 to 14 .

In the evening the festivities continued with a sock hop in the gym where the winners of the beard judging and skits were announced.
To finish the day, the Men's Glee club serenaded the girls at several of the organized houses.

MESSY, MESSY was the berry eating contest with the winners receiving as a prize, a banana cream pie.

Graduation

 1955

The end of four years of study and hard work . . commencement. More than 200 Westerners received their Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Arts in Education and 30 received their Master of Education Degrees last June as the new Alumni said farewell to professors, studies and Western's varied activities. But in return they had diplomas and many nostalgic memories of their Alma Mater.

The inspiring commencement address was given by Justice Matthew W. Hill of the Washington State Supreme Court.

Class Day

An all-senior program and the traditional placing of the class numeral on memory walk were the highlights of Class Day.

Among the awards given at the assembly, Evelyn James was selected outstanding Freshman of the Year. After the assembly the robed seniors accompanied by the Viking Band marched to Memory Walk where each class member dropped his activity card into a copper box to be placed under the class numeral. After the sealing of the marble slab over the cards the traditional event was closed by the class singing "Auld Lang Syne."

CLASS NUMERAL IS SET in place by

Summer

Term

Summers always abound in love matches but Westerners went all out as far as weddings and engagements were concerned. A week never went by without somebody showing up with a diamond or a marriage license.

The big Board of Control issue of the summer was a 20 -cent raise for students employed by the college. But the $$ 1.00$ wage was given the cold shoulder by that governmental group. BOC also approved a group insurance plan for Western students which went into effect during the fall quarter.

Classes in the south wing were often disturbed by the noise of workmen who began early in June to convert the old auditorium into a bevy of modern new offices and classrooms.

The summer schedule furnished many unique classes and workshops. Miss Lucy McCormack, director of home economics in the Spokane public schools, conducted a workshop on teaching home economics on junior and senior high levels. Over 100 students registered for a teaching technique course in penmanship taught by Miss Ruth Kittle. Dr Knapman and Dr. Critchfield jointly conducted a workshop on Conservation and Outdoor Education (pictured above). Students enrolled found themselves wandering from Day Creek on the upper Skagit, where somebody's sleeping bag was washed away, to Chief Joseph's Dam and Gingko petrified forest in the Columbia Basin, to the peaks on the Olympic Peninsula. (This is school??)

Under the watchful eye of Chet Ullin, twenty-seven Westerners scaled Mt. Baker in July. However, on the way down tragedy struck. Don Wallace, glissading down a slope, swerved and fell into a fifty foot crevasse, smashing his arm and injuring his back. Rescued by fellow climbers and the rangers, he was hospitalized in Bellingham. Western students rallied to his aid by establishing a Don Wallace Fund.

Intramural sport activities were rather curtailed by an abundance of rainy weather. But when the sun struggled through the clouds the tennis courts and baseballs really got a workout. Don Mahaffey was intramural tennis champ.

The majority of summer students were experienced teachers who had returned for their fifth year. Many brought their families along. And so a family picnic was a fitting climax to summer recreation.

BOSS MAN OVER WESTERN'S CAMPUS this year is Roland Sayler. With a friendly smile and a cheery word, this Associated Student Body president has always been ready to lead and advise whenever he is needed. Rol's policy has been to delegate responsibility to others as much as possible so that more people might participate in student government and activities here at Western. Presiding as chairman of the Board of Control is one of his main jobs. He appoints all standing and special committees of the ASB and must serve as a member on each of them. He is responsible for student body finances, mainly concerning those of student facilities, social activities, and administration. In his free moments, Rol participates in Wesvet's activities. Last year Rol received his letter in tennis. After graduation this Spring, Rol hopes to attend law school at Lincoln's Inn, near London.

THIS YEAR'S STUDENT BODY VICE-PRESIDENT, Kay MacKenzie, was one of the leading personalities at Western. Some of her activities included Valkyrie, IVCF, and Kappa Delta Pi. Kay's job as veep included attending all BOC meetings, emceeing assemblies and social events, and representing ASB on Inter-Club Council.
"RESPECTIVELY SUBMITTED, Carolyn Brewer." As secretary for the Associated Student Body, Carolyn kept the minutes of all Board of Control meetings and was the secretary to the ASB president. In addition she typed all general correspondence for ASB and records for student-accident insurance.

In spite of many length debates and difference of opinion, this year's Board of Control made much progress in student affairs.

With a great deal of the credit due to Dave Northrup, planning for Western's Student Union Building got underway with hopes that the building would be ready for use by 1958. To bring the "SUB" closer to reality the student body voted into action a proposal which added all co-op dividends to the fund and another which raised the student fees.

One oft he most disputed subjects, not only by Board members, but by all of Western, was the athletic program with major emphasis on football. Ken Moffett headed the newly formed Athletic Committee which suggested additions and changes in the athletic program. To further promote athletics at Western, $$ 1800$ was appropriated by the Board for athletic scholarships for 1956-1957.

TAKING CARE OF THE CLERICAL WORK of student finances and being secretary for the Finance Committee constituted the main parts of Sharon Andreason's job as Finance Secretary. Working on the ASB budget for next year was one of the biggest responsibilities of this appointed position.

Football at Western

Football had few bright moments this year for Western fans. It tooks five games before the Viks could register a score and a victory, and this was a non-conference affair. Finishing at the bottom of the Evergreen Conference, the Vikings never did get a scoring punch assembled, but did turn in some fine defensive games.

Several factors contributed to Western's bad season. The big reason was the small turnout at the first of the year, and when they were hit by lime burns at the College of Puget Sound field, the team was practically knocked out of competition. Injuries to key players Kays, Stoa, Lapp, and Randall left a generally inexperienced squad for most of the games.

In the Shrine Benefit opener, the team was edged 6-0 by Eastern Washington. They next went against Whitworth, the ' 55 league champions, and lost an outstanding defensive struggle by a 13-0 score. Lime burns during the 20-0 loss to college of Puget Sound showed up in the next encounter as the University of British Columbia gained their first conference victory in history, 6-0.

Stepping out of the conference the only time during the season, the Vikings drubbed a strong Southern Oregon team by a 19-6 score. Pacific Lutheran was nearly upset by the Vikmen in the Homecoming tilt, but the Gladiators rallied during the second half and won 14-7. Western was dealt a severe blow during this contest when Bruce Randall suffered a broken leg. Traveling for the last two games, Western was stopped $32-6$ by Eastern and hit hard by Central Washington, 32-0.

Despite the dismal season, Western rooters were thrilled by several of the Viking defensive performances.

THE VIKING SQUAD numbered thirty-five this season.
Among them were eleven lettermen, four of whom had conference honors from the 1954 grid season. This year Willis Ball was nominated as a candidate for Little All-America from the Northwest, and Jim Stoa was selected to the second team all-conference squad. Left to right, back row: Valkman, Ball, Moore, Ferguson, Humphries, Hundley, Randall, Davies, Moore, Kleinschmidt, Coach Kulbitski, Coach Lappenbusch. Second row: Stone, Clement, Harvey, Parker, Cabe, Wilkinson, McLain, Hollingsworth, Morse, Bradley, Weinbrecht, Thomsen. Front row: Krainick, Krainick, Strickland, Rasmussen, Bruno, Osborne, Olson, McNab, Donahue, Melbourne, Nitzinger, Stoa, Kays, Trainer Peterson.

AFTER 23 YEARS at Western's football helm, Coach Charles Lappenbusch resigned the head coach job this year. He came to Western from Lewis and Clark, then called Albany College, in 1933 after spending two years there. A graduate of the University of Washington, Lappenbusch received many athletic awards during his college career including a card of merit for All-American.

This year marked the end of a long and outstanding coaching career for the head man as he asked relief from his football duties at the end of the 1955 season. (He remains at Western as Director of Athletics.) This year was a bad one for Lappenbusch's team; his teams usually maintain a strong position in the Evergreen Conference.

Lappenbusch is nationally known as founder of the straight line theory of football. He has lectured at national coaches' conventions on this subject and has also written books on the straight line philosophy. Being an excellent lecturer he is usually in demand for banquets and luncheons. Lappenbusch has been the granddaddy of the Evergreen, in number of coaching years, for quite a few seasons. He is one of the most colorful sports figures in the Northwest.

HORSEPLAY IN THE LOCKER ROOM the week after the Vikings had taken their first win of the season over SOC. Willie Ball is showing a few squad members the art of washing before taking a shower while Don Donahue shows he is a real artist at untying shoe laces. He follows through beautifully with his tongue. This scene was typical for the Viking grid squad. They didn't let a losing season dull their sense of humor and showed this spirit throughout the games and practices.

"WITH A W, with a W, with a C, with an E! Familiar words from familiar faces as Western's yell leaders led the cheering section at this year's football and basketball games. Dressed in the Viking colors of blue and white Barby Berry, Wilma Patton, Gay Little and Phyllis Bower added color and spirit to the games.

Hailing from Everett, Bellingham, Port Angeles and Carlsborg respectively, each had previous yell leading experience in high school. Gay, a senior, and Phyllis, a sophomore were old hands as college cheerleaders this year, and the Freshman class was well represented by Barby and Wilma.

LEADING THE VIKINGS TO VICTORY with their snappy songs and winning smiles, three of Western's song leaders pose for the photographer. They are Bonnie Kennedy, Mickey Hiatt, and Arlene Werson. Pictureshy Pat Brown hid.
Selected in the fall by various campus organizations, these girls represent different classes and home towns. The two Seattleites, both freshmen, are Bonnie Kennedy and Mickey Hiatt. They lived at Spencer Hall. Representing Burlington was Sophomore Arlene Werson. She was a resident of Senior Hall. Taking over Mickey's place when she resigned was Pat Brown, a sophomore from Bellingham.

A busy schedule was followed this year by the majorettes. In addition to entertaining at assemblies, the girls held clinic sessions for high school twirlers during the winter quarter band tour. Lyla Bonney, also a majorette last year, graduated fall quarter. The two sophomores, Donna Rhodes and Sally Joubert, hail from Senior Hall and Spencer Hall respectively. Margaret Young is a freshman from Bellingham.

Half-time entertainment and pre-game "spirit building" as the Viking band takes to the field.

In addition to auditorium-performing and concerts, the Viking Band spreads spirit and enjoyment from one end of the football field to the other and throughout the stands during this season of the year.

An average of eight-five students compose the Viking

Band-eighty-five students who, on the football field, march in such formations as a Viking ship moving down the field as they play "Sailing, Sailing," and inspire the grandstand observers to stand as they play the "Alma Mater" after the games, win or lose.

The well-known fight songs of Western are even more inspired when backed up by the Viking Band as it marches through its various formations.

THE ARTISTIC STROKE OF A BATON and a friendly smile signify to band members and audience alike that Dr. Don C. Walter has stepped onto the podium to direct the Viking Band.

A CONCERT-FILLED YEAR including a program with assistant artist Sigurd Rascher, Saxophonist, made for an extremely busy season. The week-long winter tour of middle and southern Washington high schools highlighted the year's activities.

Music by the Viking Band

On many occasions throughout the year it has been proven that not only quantity but also quality characterize Western's eighty-five piece band, under the direction of Dr. Don C. Walter.

On December 9 the Viking band carried good will across the border, giving one concert in Burnaby at South Burnaby High School and two concerts in Vancouver at John Oliver High School. While in Vancouver they were guests of the Vancouver Junior Band.

The winter tour highlighted the band's activities in the early months of 1956. Touring February 6 through February 11, the band visited Ballard High School in Seattle, Stadium High School in Tacoma, Shelton, Elma, Raymond, Aberdeen, Montesano, Ilwaco, Cathlamet, Kelso, Vancouver, Evergreen and Winlock.

During the tour Western's three majorettes, Donna Rhodes, Sally Joubert and Margaret Young, held clinic sessions for high school twirlers.

Football games were given color by the Viking band. Precision marching and unusual formations were a specialty of the band, with Jerome Glass, assistant director, and Wally Rants, drum major, aiding Dr. Walter in the planning. The Homecoming Parade was also participated in by the band.

Sigurd Rascher, internationally celebrated saxophonist, was the guest artist of the Symphonic Band. Giving two concerts February 3, the "Paganini of the Saxophone" was received enthusiastically by the audience.

In January a clinic was held for the band by Mr. Glenn Bainum, a guest conductor who formerly was band director at Northwestern University.

Besides the May concert of original compositions by Western students which was held for the third consecutive year, the band participated in many springtime festivals.

An organization such as the band needs leadership. For this purpose Burke Hatfield was elected president, with Frank Nielson serving as vice-president. Council members include Bob Neisinger, freshman; Pat Havens, sophomore; Ken Copeland, juinor, and Don Daverin, senior. Also included are Bob Duvall, business manager, and Wally Rants, drum major.

Living

Groups

$\square$
A day in the life of a typical Western student.

The day for all college residents begins and ends in the dorm or house where they live-their "home away from home." If a student lives at MRH or Edens Hall the cafeteria at Edens is a place of appeal three times a day. Some living in privately owned college residences have the delightful job of cooking their own meals.

A student's room and residence may be a place for relaxation, fun, and study. Day in and day out the everstudying, always-learning student sits for endless hours with books piled around him thinking about cramming for tomorrow's exam.

No matter what the student's room is used for, it is considered his, (and his roommate's), for the duration of the college year. The house is his too, and this he shares with the other two, ten, or two hundred and twenty students who live there with him.

This year's officers and housemothers were, back row: Janet Christianson, vice president; Mrs. Melinda Billman, housemother of North Hall; Mrs. Lela Haynes, South Hall housemother; and Lucille Grace, president. Front row: Carolyn Munch, treasurer; and Ruth Morical, secretary.

Edens Hall

Excitement loomed high at the beginning of fall quarter, as construction of the new annex onto Edens Hall neared completion. A month of living four in a room, clothes crammed into closets, and two girls per desk had its reward when part of the girls moved into the new section of the dorm with modern rooms and a beautiful new social room.

Among the activities of the gals during fall quarter were open house on Parents' Day and Homecoming decorations and skits. The holiday seasons rolled into full swing with the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas banquets. Ending the quarter's activities and as a prelude to the long awaited Christmas vacation, the girls partook in the Edens Hall tradition of Christmas caroling.

With the coming of spring, the residents' days were kept busy with the Freshman Pansy Breakfast and Mother's Day weekend including a dinner and tea. As summer vacation drew near, the Campus Day skits and graduation activities put a finishing touch on the fun-filled year.

Men's Residence Hall

MRH has been alternately praised and cussed for their activities as spectators extraordinaire, magna cum enthusiasm, and as protesters magna cum over Eden's Hall cuisine. As pep boosters Mrs. Anderson's social lions followed the basketball team on trips, cheering wildly, and engaged in a vote-getting contest with Eden's Hall during the ASB elections. Work began in January of '56 on a $$ 250,000$ addition to the MRH building.

Senior Hall

For a decade the halls of the house at 1201 Garden have been ringing with the sounds of college girls' voices, laughter, and, at times, tears. When thinking of Senior Hall, one night the girls will never forget is that of the Christmas buffet, after which many of them danced 'til two. The next morning at four-thirty comes caroling, breakfast, and then, the Christmas tree party. Winter quarter they bring the craziest of songs into the house while planning the intermission entertainment for their annual Barn Dance mixer. In the spring comes the Mardi Gras in New Orleans style and picnics and drives in the country. Just behind the scene always ready to help in their activities is Mrs. Ethel Anderson, housemother. Directing house functions are the house officers. Back row: Shirley Saad, veep; Carol Muffly, president. Front row: Deanna Swenson, secretary-treasurer; Carolyn Brewer, social chairman.

Kluane Hall

Spirit seems to abound from this house at the corner of Chestnut and High. Always ready to participate in school activities, the girls have earned the reputation of being ready and willing to promote school spirit. Kluane sponsored a dance in the spring. Due to the housing shortage, it was held in an unusual place-a barn.
Engagements also seem to appear rather frequently here. Seven girls received their diamonds this school year. Pretty good percentage! Looking at the governing body we find they are Marilyn Tharp, president; Margie Wallrof, vice president; Mrs. G.D. Todd, housemother; and Liz Carlson, secretary-treasurer.

Hospice Inn

A "dog's life" is lead at the corner of High and Cedar. Always known for their dog mascots, Hospice had two different mascots during the year. Aside from their dogs, Hospice brags of its scholastic ability. It is said that they are manufacturing another great scientist to take Einstein's place. Maybe even an electronic brain.

There is also a rumor around campus that those Hospice men are fearless competitors on the basketball court and the bowling alley.

Hospice's officers include Don Lyle, president; Mrs. Clifford Bannerman, housemother; and Dave Johnson, vice president.

Watson's

At 1219 Garden Street everyone seems to be occupied with sports, intramural bowling and football seeming to draw the most participants. In their sleep, so it's told, the men at Watson's often relive the games they play. "Pass it here, men!"
The officer standing; John Tolan, president. Seated are Bill Gladsjo, vice president; and Mrs. Margaret Watson, housemother.

Marquis Hall

The men of Marquis Hall seem to lead lives of "live, love, laugh and be happy." Keeping them happy are the activities of band and intramural sports. The rest of their activities may be easily discerned by the above quotation. The residents here are, back row:

The Palace

Co-ed Cottage

Bayview

The gals living at this house are true bachelor girls who do their own cooking and housekeeping. They are, in the back row: Diane Seeley, president; Carrol Talbott, Gail Smith, Sharon Mathews, and Jeannie Njos. In the front are: Charlotte Rolie, Valerie Solie, Mary Nelson, Mrs. Beasley, housemother; Marilyn Poole, and Nancy Anderson.

At 250 North Forest the more bizarre the trick played, the better. Nancy Bergeson returned one night from a date and found her room filled to the ceiling with crumpled newspapers. Living here this year are, in the back row: Arlene Overhus, Noel Hendrix, Carol Cahail, secretary; Nancy Bereson, and Emileen Bloomfield, president. In the front row are: Myth-er Edward, house mascot; Chloe Arbogast, Mrs. Axel Sundquist, housemother, and Janet Soine.

Leslie House

Pre-Med., I.A., Engineering, P.E., and Education comprise the majors of the six "guys" living in Leslie House this year. They are, back row: Gary Hanson, Trevor Barrett, Jack Avery, Max Greustad. Front row: Don Gagnes, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie, housemother and housefather, and Skip Lampman.

Terrace Hall

Mrs. Josephine Lowery, housemother at Terrace Hall was very pleased because one of "her boys" received straight " A " Fall Quarter. She will also be very sad as two will graduate and leave after Spring Quarter. Living here are, back row: Ted Crosby, Charles Kamps, reporter; Ron Stadick, Al Bowers. Front row: Joe Kilkenny, Lyle Stilwell, president; Mrs. Josephine Lowery, housemother; Jim Mason, and Lee Campbell.

College View Apartments

Forest Lane

Halls of Ivy

Birthday dunkings and water fights are two of the activities carried on at Halls of lvy. Among those who participate in these sports are, back row: Georgia Irish and Ruth Walker. Front row: Nadine Schilling, Ruth Britt, Shirley Widner, Lois Lawson, Janet Glass and Joan Plank.

Tamerlane

Alki Lodge

Thinking the Indian word "Alki" meant "the best" and because the residence is located on Indian Street, the fellows living here in 1949 christened et Alki Hall. The name eventually became slurred and because it sounded too much like a certain type of beverage, the next year it was changed to Alki Lodge. The fellows living here this year are, back row: Peter Grande, Jim DeMonbrun, Fred Jamison, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Marie Cornell, housemother. Front row: Neil Purvis, Robert Payne, and Edward Barcott, president.

Glovers

Daniel's Hall

As in previous year, Daniel's Hall gathered in a prize for their Homecoming display, tying for third with Edens Hall. Their display consisted of a sideshow featuring animated dancing girls. Such a talented house! The men of 1020 High Street also proved to be formidable opponents in intramural sports as bowling and basketball.
Officers for the year were elected at the beginning of fall quarter. They are Don Christiansen, secretary-treasurer; and Harv Taylor, reporter. Front row: officers are Cliff Torset, vice president; Mrs. John Laviolette, housemother; and Joel Carlson, president.

Mathes House

The men of Mathes House have many and varied occupations. Some are duck hunters, some camera fiends, and others are "brains." There is also the matter of a Halloween "spook." It seems he made off with a few car keys, a industrious student's " $A$," and a bed. Wonder if he pays rent!

Among their VIP are class officers, a Homecoming Cochairman, and several members of the Collegian staff.

Spencer Hall

Highlighted by their annual house party at Twin Gables, February 25, Spencer Hall has been busy with many activities throughout the school year. Jane O'Malley who was president during Winter Quarter, had charge of many of their affairs.

Many of the girls were active in AWS. And Spencer boasts of having had two song leaders and also a majorette in their midst. It is also known that many "ski bums" hang out there.

Stephan's

McGinnis

With a variety of interests and studies, the girls of McGinnis' house find that there is rarely a dull moment. This is especially true for the housemother who has two children and is a co-ed at Western. Residents at McGinnis are-Back row: Arlene Pearson, Patty Mellquist, president. Front row: Jackie Foster, Mrs. McGinnis, Carole Frederickson.

Gilmore

Omega

Whitjack Hall

These two freshman girls from Whitjack Hall are studying to be teachers. Members of this house are Marilyn Jackson, Mrs. Crimmins, housemother; Peggy Witte.

Appletree Inn

Cowles

Service seems to be the theme of the girls at Cowles with girls belonging to Valkyrie and participating in almost every activity at Western. These girls are-back row: Kay Kellogg, Joanne Mattson, Sandra Hall, and Rosalee Swedberg. Front row: Carolyn Grindrod, president; Mrs. Cowles, housemother; and Sandra Meyers.

Collins

In this house with a charming housemother and a jolly cook, the fellows are noted for scholastic abilities. Back row: Robert Brookings, Ross Tabor, president; and John Wightman. In the front row: Robert Hanson, Miss Sarah Collins, housemother, and Harley Stafford.

Bottom left: 1. Senior Hall's lectures on culture. 2. Don's advice: Don't make fun of your landlady's cooking and then let Chuck Stutz snap your picture. 3. Jungle woman! 4. Just a few songs the gals at Edens have learned. 5 . Them old morning after blues. 6. MRH's creative talent with paint, hammer, and thumb tacks.

GREAT CAESAR! These freshettes, through a well appreciated display of . . . their acting talents walked off with first prize in the 1955 Homecoming Skits. Their effort depicted an ancient Roman festival, the likes of which contributed to the fall of the empire.
"PASS THE PICKLES, PLEASE." Easily identifiable, Dean C. W. MacDonald refuels at the Eden's Hall smorgabord, one of the highlights of the Homecoming ceremonies. Big Mac seems to have a covetous look for that tid-bit the lady in front is forking away.

Welcome home Grads-to a campus as gay as a 'Carousel!' Throughout Western's campus during the 1955 homecoming week ending October 29, scenes and gaiety were as delightful as the theme suggests.
Assisted by 25 committee chairmen, Marilyn Scribner and Bill Elwood, co-chairmen, began making plans last spring for the gala event.
The Carousel began to whirl at the kickoff assembly, October 14. Then came the weekend with the coronation of Queen Sigrid, skit night, the football game with PLC, alumni smorgasbord and the big climax of the Queen's Ball.

THE WINNAHS!! Living up to the old tradition every other house said "We wuz robbed," but Forest Lane blithely ignored them and basked in the glory attached to winning the display competition. Daniels Hall will be remembered too, for its fifteen foot high, ah, stomach dancers.

A FEW YARDS GAINED as a PLC tackle downs a Viking at the 1955 Homecoming game.
It was a heartbreaking 14-7 loss on a muddy field as the Viks were plagued by injuries. A 72 -yard scoring play spirited Western's only touchdown as Bruce Randall, fading to pass, elected to run and lateralled to Jim Stoa who galloped the remaining distance to paydirt. Randall kicked the conversion point to make the score 7-0.

Injuries in the first quarter and Gladiator Td's in the second and third periods upset the Viks although a well-fought game was played for the Grads.

"HAIL QUEEN SIGRID XVIII!" A royal smile by the 1955 Homecoming Queen, Pat Putnam, as she receives a bouquet of roses from little Nancy Hall at her coronation. Queen Pat was escorted to her throne by Rol Sayler, A. S. B. president, and crowned by co-captain of the football team, Willie Ball.

Pat, a senior at Western, attended by her four lovely princesses, reigned over the events of the thirty-second annual homecoming weekend.

A CLIMAX GAY as the ballooned ceiling itself, the Queen's Ball ended the 1955 Homecoming events. Approximately 700 couples whirled around the clown-bedecked armory to the music of Charlie Barnet's twelve-piece band.

Norsemen's Ball

Beams from the mirrored chandelier and colorful semi-formal dresses gave a gay atmosphere to the annual Norsemen's Ball, held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Leopold Hotel. Some 125 couples attended the October 14th dance, the first big social event of the year.

Tom Romerdahl, chairman of the affair, and his committee, were responsible for the success of the evening.

THE PUNCHBOWL is the "object in point" here as male escorts fetch their lady-fairs a refreshing drink during intermission.

DANCE LESSON or FLOORSHOW? Whichever it is, Liz Carlson and Paul McKelvie seem to be entertaining Ray Norman, Patty Melquist, Sandra Meyers and Georgia lrish during a break in the dancing.

Fred Ritter is completely unstrung by his wife's acting. The Ritters were charmingly played by Bob Saxvik and Sarah Hess. After the play Paula promises never to act again, much to Fred's great relief

During a rehearsal at the Ritter's Mrs. Pampinelli, played by Lorraine Letson, coaches Paula for her important scene. In her youth Mrs. Pampinelli's "acting career" was thwarted by a sensible husband. She advises Paula to disregard Fred's remarks and objections and launch herself on a career on the stage.

The Torch-Bearers

First drama presentation of the year was "The TorchBearers," a sparkling satire about the amateur stage. The proceeds of the "play within a play" were to go to the Sailors' Institute "for recreation equipment to keep sailors off the streets and away from bad company." And because of the death of the husband of the leading lady, Paula Ritter is asked to take the part. The delightful second act, played backstage with all the small catastrophes of the amateur theater, was fully enjoyed by those who had done amateur acting.

Mistle-Tolo

Mistletoe, snowfiakes and a sleigh depicted the coming of winter and the holiday season at the annual AWS Mistle-Tolo, in December. About 250 couples danced to the music of Don Poole's band in the Elks Club Ballroom.

During intermission Ken Schaefer was crowned Tolo King by Nadine Schilling, AWS president. Jan Kleinsorge and Barbara Hansen were co-chairmen of the dance.

MISTLE-TOLO COMMITTEE MEMBERS busily cover the sleigh in which the Tolo King, Ken Schaefer, began his reign.

Viking Round Table

"It's ten o'clock by the clock on the wall and time for us to spin a little music for you."
This characteristic take-off has been heard by many listening to "Viking Round Table," a musical program sponsored by Western's Associated Students. Emcees for the broadcast are Buzz Lawrence and Duane Trecker. These two, who originated the program last fall, have been placing platters of "pop" and semiclassical music on the turntable.

To help publicize various ASB activities many have appeared on the program, including members of the faculty, members of campus productions, and students in the news at Western. Among the notable people whom Buzz and Duane have interviewed on the air were Eleanor Roosevelt and Carmen Dragon.

Snow-laden trees cast lengthy shadows in the afternoon sun at picturesque Heather Meadows on Mount Baker. Scenes such as this are found at any one of the slopes of this popular ski area where enthusiasts of the great outdoor sport come from miles around to try their talents on skis.
Ability varies on the snow-covered slopes. There are those who stand at the bottom of the rope tow on Peanut trying to get courage to grab onto that menacing rope. They finally reach the top and stand for an even longer time with knees knocking and terrified looks as they watch the braver souls cautiously feel their way down the hill. Having found their "ski legs" after a little practice, these beginners become intermediates and try the steeper hills. Again practice makes for perfection and the more talented skiers hop onto the chair and go all the way up. The beauty and serenity of the surrounding hills lends itself to the mounting excitement and pleasures of skiing.

Despite the possibility of broken legs and sprains, a true skier always comes back for more. Relaxation and food go hand in hand in the lodge in the late afternoon as everyone discusses the fun and achievements of a day of skiing at Heather Meadows.

ANTICIPATION is reflected on the face of this skier as she stops for a moment to rest and gaze at the scenery.

MEMBERS OF ONE OF THE MANY SKI CLASSES at Heather Meadows prepare to descend the slope after a few words of caution from their instructor on how to do it and how not to do it, followed by a lesson on getting up procedure if you don't do it.

Basketball

Only four lettermen were among the hopefuls that greeted new head coach Jack Hubbard this year. And no tall members were included in this bunch. But Hubbard turned them into a conference threat, and they figured prominently in the title picture. They knocked over University of British Columbia twice, dropped

Eastern from a playoff berth, and upset Whitworth's chances for a title shot. Hubbard kept the squad in top shape throughout and used a hustling defense and fast breaks to thwart the opponents. Their jinx team was the College of Puget Sound as the Loggers beat them three times to pull Western into a tie for sixth place in the final conference standings.

Champ Loudmouths

MRH whoops it up for the basketball team. Tremendous support was given the Viking cage squad this year by several organized houses. Helmsmen sponsored a "Loudest House" contest to encourage the noisemaking. Leading the enthusiasm was the Men's Residence Hall who put together a German band along with a big rooting section, and was awarded the special trophy. The Vikings responded to the support with some exceptional performances at home.

REBOUNDING leader Howard Brooks goes high against Central Washington members to help the Vikings dump the Wildcats during their second meeting early in the season.

THE YEAR MARKED THE COLLEGE COACHING DEBUT OF JACK HUBBARD who came to Western from Everett High School. His first year at the Viking helm he kept the Western five hustling all year. The team's lack of height never bothered Hubbard. He kept them going all the way, using hustle to make up for shortness. He displayed to the Evergreen Conference a fighting ball club, and coaching circles will see much of this sparkling personality in years to come.

STUNNING A WHITWORTH SQUAD out of two points is Armin Jahr, who contributed a lot of drive to upsetting the Pirates. Jahr, a senior, will be lost to the squad next year.

THE BASKETBALL SQUAD with hustle and determinatoin carried themselves a lot farther than pre-season sportcasters expected. Lacking any tall players, the squad used all-around scoring and good defensive work to make up for it. Howard Brooks, top scorer with 259 points, was voted to honorary captaincy by his teammates this year while the inspirational player award went to Gary Radliff. Radliff took second in scoring with 191 points. Other Vikings hitting over 100 points were Don Smith, 188; Aldo Anderson, 157; Rod Schott, 140; and Darrow Nelson, 116. Pictured, left to right, are: Leo Marty, manager; Gary Radliff, Jerry Schiele, Floyd (Topper) LaCroix, Howard Brooks, Shelby Price, Rod Schott, Darrow Nelson, Jim Baker, Armin Jahr, Verne Smutz, Don Smith and Aldo Anderson.

Evergreen Conference Winners

Western broke the University of British Columbia's domination over Evergreen swim meets this year by trouncing the Thunderbirds and all other opposition in the league meet at Cheney. They ran over all competition with some outstanding individual performances. After dropping their first meet to the UBC team, which they revenged the next week, the splash squad went undefeated in the Evergreen Conference. They dropped two decision to the University of Washington who were the Northern Division champions this year. Western will lose five men through graduation this year. There were many promising sophomores on the team showing good future prospects. The Vikings last won the conference meet in 1951. They took second to UBC last year.

EVERGREEN SWIM TROPHY held by swim coach John Kulbitski and team captain Ed Papin.

HOWARD ARNOLD-Concentrated on the back stroke during the season. Was a dependable man for John Kulbitski's squad. First year on the team.

HANS LORENTZEN-Transfer from Grays Harbor College, Hans was a consistent top winner all year. Swam the breaststroke and took a first in the Evergreen meet.

RON BARBER-Second year on the splash squad. Specialized in the backstroke and was one of the top scorers for Western. Did an outstanding job in the conference meet.

Choir Led by Returning Director

Bernard Regier, after a year's leave of absence from Western, returned to direct the 1955-1956 choir. They began their year of performances by singing in the annual Parents' Day program, October 23. The Christmas Concert, December 12, featured Thanksgiving and fall numbers as well as traditional Christmas music.

In March the choral group presented a program for the Rotary Club dinner at the Leopold Hotel.

The annual tour, a long awaited event, took place in April. The choir performed in numerous Western Washington high schools besides two evening concerts at Pacific Lutheran College and the University Congregational Church in Seattle. They also appeared on KING-TV.

Ensembles

Under the expert direction of Mr. Glass and Mr. Regier these groups made many appearances both on tour and on the stage at Western. The Vikordettes, a new group on campus this year, was formed from the older nonette. The Men's Glee Club in November sang at the homecoming coronation. All members of these ensembles figured prominently in the opera "Of Thee I Sing," which was produced in March.

MEN'S QUARTET are Gene Langill, John Sundquist, Bob Harden and John Schermerhorn. Accompanist is Arlene Dyck.

String Orchestra

Under the direction of Dr. D'Andrea, the College String Orchestra made many student programs complete. The group's first appearance was at the coronation of the Homecoming queen in November. During the year it furnished the accompaniment for many nationally known artists through the Artists-Lecturers

Series. In March the orchestra was the backbone for the musical portion of the production "Of Thee I Sing." As a fitting climax for an eventful year the group's final performance was at graduation exercises. Many members of the orchestra also performed in the Bellingham Civic Symphony Orchestra which is comprised of townspeople as well as Western students. Dr. D'Andrea also conducted this group.

In the back row are: Elizabeth Carlson, Donna Nielsen, Dr. D'Andrea, Jon Speck, Frederick Strom, Murella DeVries, Juanita Lapp, Peter Hoervegel, Darlene Isaacson, Marilyn Tucker and Caroline Goff.

Second row: Vernita R. Michelsen, Florence Lampropulos, Lucille Grace, Jerome Johnson, Gayle Sparks, Dolphine Glover, Don Six and Jewel Williams.

Clubs and Organizations

Interclub Council

DONNA NUGENT SERVES, of all things, waffles! at the Colhecon Waffle Supper on Valentine's Day.

All of Western's clubs and organizations are under the control of the Interclub Council, which is composed of club representatives and faculty advisers. This organization is the central core of the clubs. It handles the problems of the organizations and sets the standards which must be followed by each group. The annual Club Review held during fall quarter for new and returning students provided an over-all view of Western's clubs and gave students an idea of the groups

Future Teachers of America

Organized to discuss and review education problems and obtain an inside view into the teaching profession, the Future Teachers of America are an active group on Western's Campus. ANOTHER VOTE IS CAST for Athlete of the Year, the outcome of which was announced at the Spring Sports Informal, one of the many activities sponsored by the Helmsmen.

Der Deutsche Studentenverein

Newly formed this year this club is for the benefit of students interested in the German Language and German Culture. Under the leadership of president Vern Loland and advisor Dr. Eleanor King, meetings were both interesting and informative with lectures in German and games designed to improve conversation.

Rheba D. Nickerson Club

Ambitious health, physical education, and recreation majors and minors were seen this year washing cars, selling apples, and attending, conventions. These were members of the Rheba D. Nickerson Club. Meetings featured guest speakers. During fall quarter a party for new members and a Christmas dinner were held.

Alpha Rho Tau

This club, newly formed this year at Western, is for those talented people with Art Majors and for those who are interested in art. Alternating business meetings with work nights to help each other, this club also sponsored art exhibits and guest speakers. Back

A W S Commission

Always an active group, this year's Associated Women Students were exceptionally busy. Under the leadership of Nadine Schilling, president; Lynda Samuelson, vice president; Ruth Britt, secretary; and Sharon Andresen, treasurer, AWS began each new quarter with a coffee hour for new and returning students. Fall Quarter activities included a fashion show, the Christmas tree in Old Main and the star sale for WUS and also a tolo. In March, delegates went to the state

AWS convention at Gonzaga, and Nadine Schilling, Sharon Andreasen, and Shirley Widner attended the regional IAWS meet at Colorado A&M in April. The organization also sponsored a Spring tolo. Back row: Jan Kleinsorge, Jane Haugen, Janet Glass, Miss Powers, Pat Putnam, Helen Snowden. Second row: Marilyn Ogdon, Nadine Schilling, Lynda Samuelson, Sharon Andreasen, Ruth Ann Britt, Marilee Weaver. Front row: Evalyn Bickers, Eleanor Guerin, Elaine Sharp, and Patsy Staggs.

Norsemen Commission

Organizing the yearly program and holding down the business end of the Norsemen's Club on campus is the Norsemen's Commission. Planning special and social events for Western's male students is their main activity. The Club sponsored assemblies and the annual Norsemen's Ball which was held during Fall Quarter. Officers this year were Ted Whan, president; Bill Elwood, vice president; Tom Romerdahl, secretary; and Terry O'Brien, treasurer. Back row: Bill Elwood, Ted Whan, Dick Kolkana, Dean McDonald, Jim Kreiss, Terry O'Brien, and Tom Romerdahl.

BASKETBALL CONCESSION draws many fellows all eager to prove their skill with that ball.

WRA Carnival

One of the easiest ways to fleece poor struggling college students . . . sponsor a carnival! But the WRA annual event furnished all kinds of prizes from ashtrays to fishing poles, and a whole lot of enjoyment. Under the leadership of president Harriet Allen the club turned the Rec Hall into a bustling midway with a variety of concessions.

Of Thee I Sing

"Wintergreen for President! He'll put love in the Whiee House!" And so rose the curtain on Act I of "Of Thee I Sing." Running on a platform of love, Presidential candidate John P. Wintergreen, played by Don Sundquist, found himself torn between corn muffins baked by Mary Turner, played by Nancy Shields, and the winner for the Miss America beauty contest, Miss Dianna Devereaux, as played by Joyce Brose.

Trouble arose for candidate Wintergreen when he married Mary because she made "the best' corn muffins . . . without corn. Miss "I bin jilted" Dianna threatened to sue him for breach of promise as he was to marry the contest winner. All ended well with the defeat of Miss Devereaux as Mary gave birth to twins.

THE OUTCOME!-Victorious and with a broad grin newly elected ASB President Ken Moffett receives congratulations.

SHE DECIDES! - With a look of triumph upon arriving at a decision, Ruth Ann stands on the threshold of recording her vote.

BROAD-JUMPER Darrow Nelson took first place with this outstanding jump against the Vancouver Olympic Club. Nelson transferred to Wester from Skagit Valley JC this year and turned out to be one of Coach Ciszek's top winners.

1956 Cindermen

Plentiful

A record turnout greeted Coach Ray Ciszek for this year's edition of the Viking track squad. Eleven lettermen returned to help bolster the Western running and field attack.

Ciszek returned to the track head spot after a year's absence. He studied at Boston University last year for his doctorate.

Loss of top winners through graduation hurt the Viking chances greatly. Several top performers, including Ted Whan, an NAIA finalist last year, were able to take up the slack. Whan has been all-conference for three years in a row and played a big role in Coach Ciszek's squad's performances.

A ' 100 Mile Club' was set up this year to give an added incentive to get into the best of shape. Candidates had to go three and four miles a day to meet the deadline on running. Track for 1956 looked good, according to Ciszek, and he expected a strong contender for the Evergreen crown.

LOOSENING UP LEG MUSCLES are the Western middle distance men who picked up many points for Western this spring. Running the practice jaunt are Gary Phillips, Jim Kennett, Jerry Johnson, and all-conference Ted Whan.

ALL HIS EFFORT is going into this toss. Discus-man Skipper Lampman helped the Viking cause this year in this event.

UP AND OVER go Western's three hurdlers. The high hurdles was a strong event for the Vikings this year through the consistent winning of Bill Kendrick, Darrow Nelson, and Dave Langley.

Coach Ray Ciszek had a big squad of men to pick from this year. With three time all-conference and NAIA winner Ted Whan leading the runners, the cindermen faced a rugged schedule with optimism this spring. Many new faces were included in the track squad with several of them turning out to be top performers as the season progressed. Ciszek looked for a strong contender in the 1956 track squad.

Vikings Were Defending Champions

Many lettermen and all-conference players studded the Viking baseball outfit. Les Knudsen, Bruce Randall and Don Smith received first team mention in Evergreen Conference and Gary Kohlwes was given a second-team berth. The defending titlists were strong in hitting and fielding this season but lacked depth in the pitching department.

SAFE BY A MILE is the call on this play as Aldo Anderson slides across the plate to score for Western. Anderson played outstanding ball for the Viks from the shortstop position.

HEADS UP BASEBALL is the password for these Western outfielders. Western had an all-lettermen outfield to start the year and several newcomers moved into outfield positions as the season progressed. Left to right are: Les Averill, Oliver Riekkola, Dave Bailey, Lee Ayers, Jake Thomas, Bruce Randall, and Neil Clough.

This year Jack Hubbard took over both the basketball and baseball duties at Western. A graduate of Central Washington, he is in his ninth year in the coaching circles. An outstanding athlete in high school and college Hubbard brought along an extensive background in sports when he stepped into the head baseball position.

LOTS OF CHATTER in the Viking dugout. Members of the squad watch and encourage a Viking batter during an important inning.

AS THE UMPIRE CLEANS HOUSE, the Washington Huskies get set to open an inning of action. Western dumped the " $U$ " in the first game.

DRIVING ONE OUT for Western is Don West, the Vikings' number-two golfer. West helped bring many victories into the Viking camp this spring.

Golf

With national NAIA finalist Bob Doyle to build the team around, Coach John Kulbitski embarked upon the 1956 golf season with plenty of optimism. Two other lettermen, Don West and Jerry Thone, added much strength to the divot-men's chances. Western was defending both conference and state NAIA titles this year.

The linksmen were downed in the first meet of the season but went on from there to rack up impressive victories, with Bob Doyle leading the squad. Coach Kulbitski expected Doyle to be a national finalist again this year, had hopes that other members of the golf team would make the national trip.

Low scores marked the early training for the conference meet, held at Western this year. Bob Doyle and Don West were the Viking lettermen and played number one and two all season. Several other lettermen gave the squad good depth. Left to right: Bob Doyle, Don West, Fred Ludtke, Coach John Kulbitski, Toby Scruggs, Marv Seeley, and Bud Owings.

GRIP DEMONSTRATION is given to Bob Doyle and Don West by Coach John Kulbitski. Doyle, Western's number one golf man, points out how he grips the driver.

Tennis

Coach Charles Lappenbusch stated that he had "the best tennis squad in ten years." This gives an indication of the strength displayed by the squad this season. Only two lettermen from last year's bunch were back but there were more than enough newcomers to offset this.

The squad started off badly allowing Central to beat them, 6 to 1 . But they came back strongly against CPS to win, 5 to 2. Gerald Schiele, Dick Endersbe, and Jeb Baldi combined talents to lead the squad in the initial meets. Lettermen Ken Moffett and Roger Barnhart gave much competition to any opposing netmen. And as this book went to press things looked very bright concerning the championship.

LONG STRETCH is required to return this ball. Dick Endersbe shows springboard legs in going up for this shot. Dick was a major figure in tennis successes of the year.

Lettermen were scarce when the tennis season started, but many new men came in to hold down the top five spots. Freshman Gerald Schiele, aided by Dick Endersbe and Jeb Baldi, managed to dominate play during the first of the season. It took the lettermen several matches and much practice to be able to move onto the top rungs.

Athlete

of the Year

This year's outstanding athlete, Ted Whan, carried through with the high standards and outstanding performances in sports required for the title. Ted, a senior this year majoring in physical education, has plans to become a teacher and track coach in a Washington school system.

A native of Victoria, British Columbia, Ted brought many track accomplishments with him to Western. He won the Canadian Inter-Scholastic Hop, Step, and Jump title and holds the Aggregate Trophy for the most points scored in that meet. During Ted's first year at Western he took all-conference honors in the 440 and 880. He has been all-conference ever since. In 1954 and 1955 he went to Abilene, Texas for the national NAIA meet and placed fourth in 1954.

Selected by the students of Western as the outstanding Western athlete of 1956, Ted Whan's name joined the roster of names of other Western athletes of years past.

Spring Sports Informal

In a setting of daffodils and cotton frills a new quarter of social events was officially initiated at the Spring Sports Informal held on April 13. Highlight of the evening was the presenting of the Athlete of the Year award to Ted Whan during intermission. Co-chairmen of the dance were Harold Swofford and Bob McDonald.

Spring

Intramurals

With the prevailing good weather in April and May, intramural baseball got off to a good start. Twelve teams participated, but because of the time element involved in the printing of this book not all of the teams could be pictured.

The teams were divided into two leagues of six teams of a league to make the elimination of losers speedier. The final game was between the winners of the " $A$ " League and the winners of the " $B$ " League for the championship.

Modern Dance Club

With rhythms in modern interpretation members of the Modern Dance Club pirouetted their way through an eventful year. Participating in Homecoming Skits was the first activity on the agenda. The highlight of winter quarter was the club members dancing part in the opera, "Of Thee I Sing." Under the advisorship of Miss Shirley Nelson the final event of the year was the assembly which the club presented spring quarter.

Giving their interpretation to words by dancing are the following members of the Modern Dance Club: Betty Jean Nye, Nancy Martin, Marion Kemp, Joan Hilliker, Elizabeth Jones, and Ellena Chatterton.

STARRING in the modern dance assembly were Floyd Abernathy, Joyce Crooks, Don Daverin and Phil Lewis.

Blue Barnacles

With a dive, a back dolphin and a "right-left, rightleft" the Blue Barnacles, Western's mermaids, floated and swam through the year. The first event of the year was the intramural swim meet which was held late in fall quarter and included men's and women's racing and diving competition. In the middle of winter quarter the twenty-one girls in the club began practicing for the May 10 and 11 water show, the theme of which was "Celestial and Terestrial Journey." Under the diligent coaching of Miss Shirley Nelson and the chairmanship of Elizabeth Jones, the girls floated in constellation formations and swam to the rhythms of different lands.

HOPING TO TIE THE SCORE with her foul shot is Chloe Arbogast. Standing along the key are Hisa Hayashida, Barbara Arnot, Jan Hall, and Sally King.

Women's Sports

About 200 girls participated in athletic, recreational, or social activities sponsored by Women's Recreation Association during the last year.

President of the club Harriet Allen along with Outing Chairman Chloe Arbogast planned the fall outing to Grouse Mountain and the spring outing to Sinclair Island. In charge of all the sports offered by the club was Mona Skina, general sports chairman. Activities organized by the club during the year included baseball, bowling, filed hockey, basketball, badminton, tennis, archery, volleyball, swinning and ping pong.

While participating in the Field Hockey Conference held at UBC last November the girls won two out of three games-defeating teams from the UW and WSC.

Teams were also sent to Basketball Conference at PLC this winter.

This spring 60 high school girls were present at a Sports Day sponsored by the club. Besides showing these visitors a good time, and possibly interesting some of them in Physical Education, the WRA girls got a chance to use and demonstrate some of the knowledge and skills they have gained in the last year.

FRIDAY NOON and COLLEGIANS ARE OUT! Students jam the hall as the weekly edition of the W W Collegian appears on the stand.

Among Western's minor publications this year were the Homecoming Booklet, Profile, and Navigator. The Navigator was something a new student couldn't do without as it gave the "what, when, and where" information about the campus. The "who" part of the publications was contained in the Profile-a popular student phone number list. Representing just plain fun was the Homecoming Booklet listing activities of that event-filled week. Left to right are the editors of these publications: Stan Lilian, Homecoming Booklet; Shirley Graham, Profile; and Dell Abelein, Navigator.

Western's creative writing talent made its debut at the end of winter quarter and once again in spring quarter in The Writer. Under the editorship of Judson Lloyd and Pete LeCompte this booklet displayed short stories, essays and poems which were written by Western's students-some of which were awarded prizes. Covers for the magazine were designed by the art department. Members of the Writer staff pictured here are, back row: Mr. Harold Ogden, Stan Lilian, Don Martin, Phil Howell, Mr. James O'Brien, John Ryan. Front row: Kathy Garrett, Judson Lloyd and Molly Raymond.

W W Collegian

Keeping students informed on campus happenings was a big job for the Collegian staff because of the huge enrollments. Thirty-two issues were published during the year. Tom Manney served as editor fall and winter quarter but had to resign because of his health spring quarter. Ken Robertson, who will be 1956-57 editor also, moved up to the position from associate editor.

Each Friday at noon the latest in college happenings was distributed to the students through the pages of the Collegian. The English 200 class and veteran reporters made up the Collegian staff. Many hours went into the production of the paper. Each Thursday a troupe went to Cox Print Shop to make up pages, read proofs, write heads, and go over the final proof before the paper was "put to bed."

COLLEGIAN BIGSHOTS mull over plans of publication. Tom Manney handled the editorship until spring quarter when he resigned because of his health. Jim Hamilton ran the business end of Collegian this year, making sure there were plenty of ads each week along with his other duties.

PAGES TAKE FORM as the Collegian staff fills each one with type. Making up the pages are Jim Hamilton, business manager; Ken Robertson, editor; John Betrozoff, sports editor, and Dick Cox, co-owner of the print shop.

Complete coverage was the goal each week for the Collegian staff. Sometimes it was mighty hard to meet deadlines but the staff always came through with a top-notch newspaper. Back row: Shirley Graham, Jim Hamilton, Ken Robertson, Chuck Stutz, Dell Abelein, Allan Mathieson, Allen Jung, and Doug Smith. Front row: June Kellogg, Billie Bresnahan, Carol Jensen, Sandra Adams, Nadine Schilling, and John Betrozoff.

Who's Who

At the top of the list on Western's campus in 1956 were the twenty-two students selected to represent Western in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," a compilation of biographies of outstanding American students. Qualities for selection were based on excellence and sincerity in scholarship, leadership and participation in extracurricular and academic activities, citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future usefulness to

Classes

STEPPING UP to lead their fellow freshmen through the first year at Western these three students fulfilled their positions very well. The class officers were Dick Kure, vice president; Beverly Bull, secretary; and Bill Siebler, president.

Freshman Class

With high anticipation and a good deal of excitement, and under the advisorship of Dr. P. H. Atteberry, the members of the Freshman Class began the long climb upward. Their enthusiasm and talents made their first profits during Western's Homecoming activities. The Frosh won first-place honors with their Homecoming skit and float. Betty Jane Ramaila graced the Homecoming court as Freshman Princess.

As with all students who are just beginning college, the frosh had many adjustments to make to their new surroundings, but by winter quarter they were old hands at the college business. Again getting into the "swing" of things, they sponsored a mixer in February and also an assembly. One of the outstanding activities of this class in the spring was the cleaningup project at Lakewood, Western's recreation area on the shore of Lake Whatcom.

Sophomore Class

Now old hands at the college business, the Sophomore Class looked forward to another fun- and studyfilled year. Thoroughly orientated on registration procedures, "little" quizzes and finals, they found that the knee-knocking and nail-biting routines of their first college year are over.
The Sophomores entered into the Homecoming activities with a window display and float. Pat Brunhaver was Homecoming princess.
Winter quarter was fairly quiet regarding sophomore activities as everyone settled down for a season of work.

Recreation highlighted Spring Quarter's activities with the class sponsoring a mixer and ending the year with a Frosh-Soph joint picnic.

CHECKING LAST MINUTE PLANS for "Club Manhattan" are the officers who presided over this year's Junior Class: Dorothy Flora, secretary-treasurer; Pat Hollingsworth, president; and Charlotte Rolie, vice president.

Junior Class

Two years behind them and two ahead as the members of the Junior Class began another year last fall. This is the year, when, as Juniors, they begin student teaching and looking forward to stepping up another rung of the ladder to take their places as graduating Seniors. As with most classes, fall quarter activities are mostly concerned with Homecoming. In true tradition, the Juniors entered the fun with their Homecoming skit and float. The main item on the agenda winter quarter was the Junior Prom, "Club Manhattan" which was held March 2.

As spring daze and warmer evenings rolled around, the enticing aroma of beach fires and good food filled the air as appetites were satisfied at the Junior Class Salmon Bake.

FALSE ALARM. And it's all just another fire drill. Thank goodness it wasn't a rainy day.

STUDENT TEACHING FOR JUNIORS. Ken Olson is practicing on the children from the campus school.

MUCH PLANNING AND MANY DECISIONS MUST be made by members of the Senior Class. Chosen to lead their fellow Seniors this year were Dave Northrup, president; Janet Kay Warneke, secretary-treasurer, and Bob Doyle, vice president (not pictured).

Senior Class

At the top at last, and with anticipating looks into the near future, the Seniors began their final and eventful years as undergraduates at Western. Homecoming festivities were done up well under the co-chairmenship of David Johnson and Janet Kay Warneke as the Senior Class was awarded first place in the window display in Penny's. Hereafter they will be coming back to the campus to enjoy their own homecoming. The Senior Class party was held during fall quarter and winter quarter saw the class members again partying at the Senior Banquet at the Bellingham Country Club. Dr. Carlile was the guest speaker for the occasion.
An exciting and perhaps nostalgic Spring Quarter arrived on campus as the Seniors' college days drew to a close with the advent of Class Day, Baccalaureate, and Graduation.

SOME OF THE BUSIEST STUDENTS on campus were the members of the Senior Planning Board. As graduating Seniors prepared to leave Western many plans and arrangements concerning activities, banquets, baccalaureate, and graduation had to be made. Those on this year's board were, back row: Dick Walston, Bob Doyle, Ted Whan, John Boling, and David Northrup. Front row: Evalyn Bickers, Patricia Lunde, Janet Kay Warneke, Elizabeth Carlson, Fern Valentine.

Klipsun

A college annual-the KLIPSUN-here is a pictorial record of your school year. An annual represents much hard work and time on the part of all those who are concerned with its publication. But when deadlines are made and the finished product is out for distribution, all that is forgotten. There is a great deal of satisfaction in creating a book that people will enjoy for many years.
The KLIPSUN began in 1913 and has progressed to this year's status of a bigger book with colored pictures. In future years many pleasant and fun-filled memories will be recalled as you glance through your 1956 yearbook and you will relive your college days.

BUSY, BUSY, BUSY are Billie Bresnahan, Phyllis Hirni and Shirley Graham as they trim and paste pictures onto the Klipsun dummy.

Acknowledgments

Many thanks to those who helped to collect the memories in the yearbook . . . to Business Manager Gail Gustafson, a gal with efficiency and imagination . . . to Reita Barge, my copy editor who was selected staff member of the year, with typewriter and eraser trying to keep ahead of my red pencil . . . to head photographer Ken Bale, near genius with camera and developing trays . . . to art editor Betty Harvey who created cover and color pages . . . to my section editors, Phyllis Hirni, Arline Overhus and Shirley Ziegler, with rulers, paste pots, and layouts . . . to Chuck Stutz who photographed all sports and clubs . . . to Art Mafli who helped out in emergencies . . . to the Craftsman Press and Jim Abbott who printed this annual . . . to Russ Clift and Jukes Studios . . . to the S. K. Smith Company who printed the cover . . . to James Bliss, faculty advisor . . . to staff members like Brunhilde Regel, Billie Bresnahan, and Shirley Graham who helped for the sake of helping . . . to the students of Western to whom this book really belongs.
