WESTERN WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE . . . BELLINGHAM, WASHINGTON

KLIPSUN

Western is the student studying and struggling, learning and laboring. Yet he is happy in his quest for knowledge. Within the distinguished buildings which form the face of Western, the student is searching for meaning, for ways to better himself. He is expressive and excitable. Yet in his excitement he expresses himself through talk and thought, through painting a picture or playing an instrument.

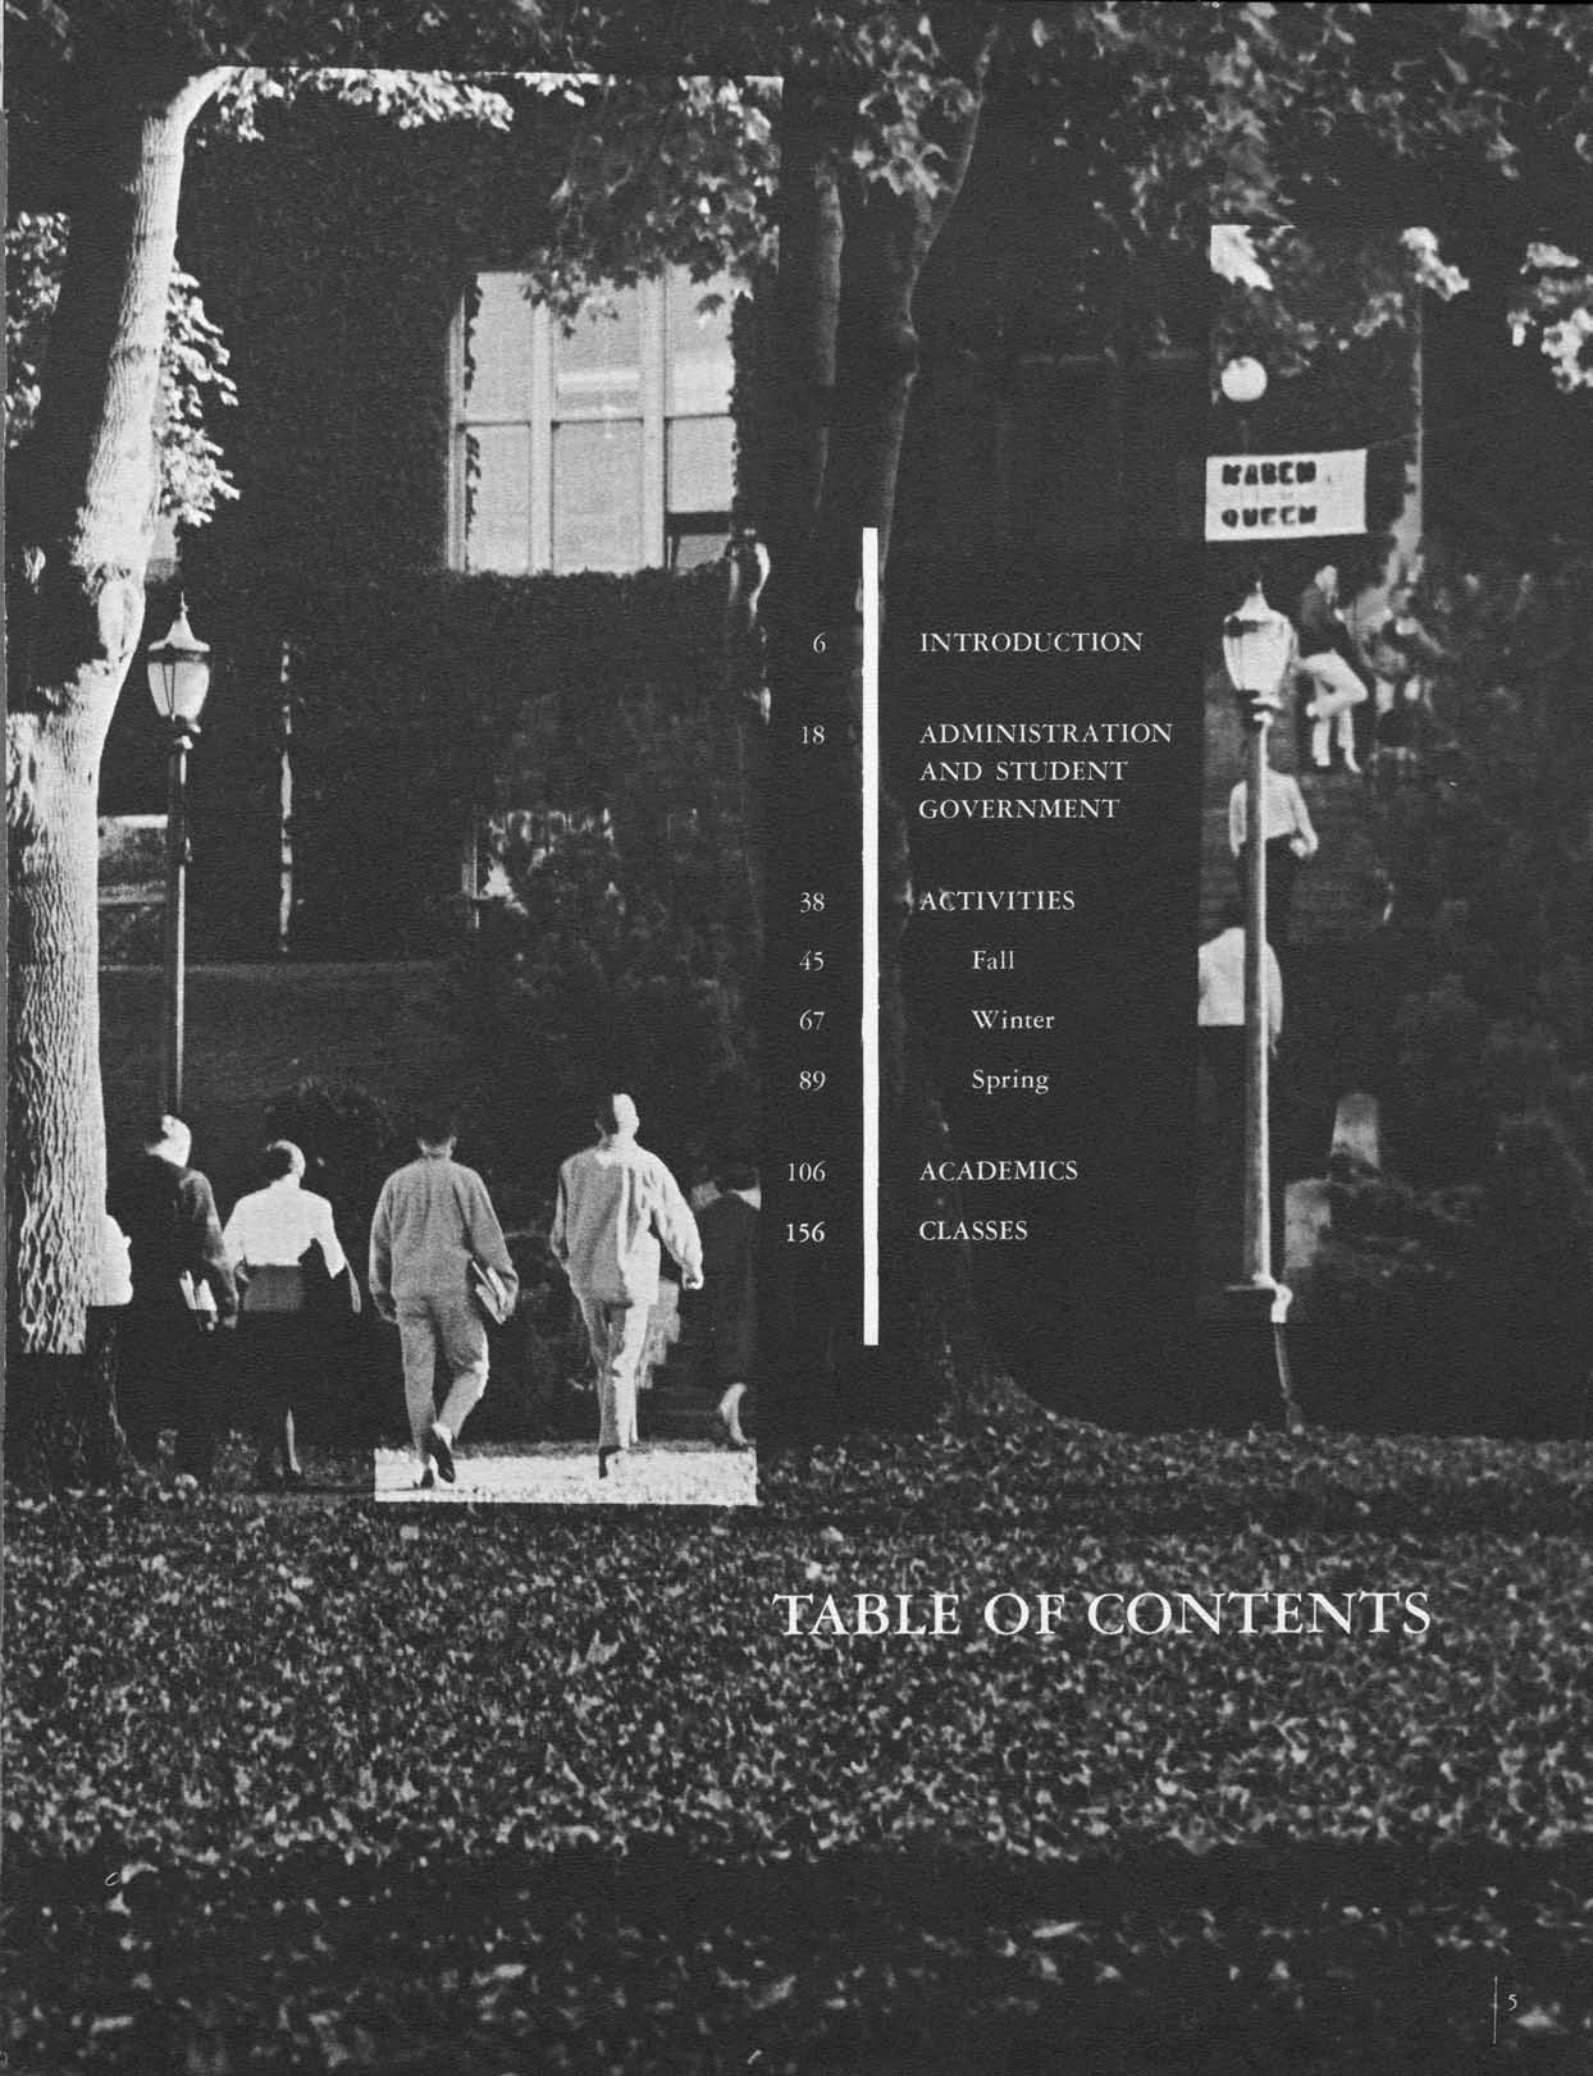

Western is the student dancing and dating, meeting new faces and living with others. Yet in his frolic he is building lasting memories. This student is you, the pillar of Western, as you are frolicking and contributing, constantly learning and constantly searching; always vigorous and versatile in creating your span of interest.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Western is the student studying and struggling, learning and laboring.

Searching and finding, learning and retaining, combine to form a never ending circle. The student will turn to books. He will find a basis in the thoughts of others. This background will form a platform on which he can formulate his own thoughts. Clues will be found in books; answers will be the sum of these findings plus original thought on the part of the individual. As the student at Western explores this vast field of knowledge through the Humanities, Arts, and Sciences, he becomes caught in this circle. There is no escape, nor is there want of escape; the process of learning is a continuum that is highly rewarding.

Spectating and participating, having fun and releasing excess energy . . . The excitement and challenge of a football game . . . the reward of helping others through World University Service . . . the satisfaction of personal skill connected with a game of pool. The student becomes well rounded in developing his personality. As the pride of achieving high grades motivates the individual to higher levels of performance, so do extra-curricular activities give a feeling of personal satisfaction as the student becomes proficient in skills outside the classroom.

Indoors or outdoors, performing a role or being yourself . . . self expression will show itself in a variety of ways.

The challenge of assuming the role of another whether in a dramatic production or slapstick skit . . . the carefreeness of letting loose on the dance floor . . . the breathlessness of skiing down snow-covered slopes . . . These provide a few of the relaxing breaks to relieve the personality from pure academic strain.

Giving and receiving, sharing and caring, living with others

. . . the dorms provide a valuable experience. The hurry and scurry of campus life at times leaves the student breathless. He will look to his room in one of the dorms or organized houses as a place of sweet reprieve.

But everything is not always quiet. Teas, Christmas parties, house meetings, and name-changing ceremonies often form a portion of dorm life — a life surrounded by rules, hours, and campuses. Despite the tribulations, life in the dorm or house will reign high on the list of memories . . . the fun of giving and receiving, sharing and caring and living with others.

Exploring and expanding limitless fields of interest enables the student to satisfy other endeavors. Scaling daring slopes where nature is his teacher or attending club meetings where each is his own guide, help to shape individual character.

The student becomes vigorous and versatile in creating his span of interest. And in his excitement the student expresses himself in other ways.

Strands of red tape unwind in the operation of a college. The administration serves to keep the tape from tangling. Someone must be around to booster the building program, to provide a channel for the student's numerous outlays of cash; to keep tab on grades, enrollment and attendance, or to direct activities and to handle public information; to offer extended programs or to find a place for those lucky enough to graduate. Someone must be around to offer personal assistance to soothe academic, monetary, and a variety of other sores. The administration stands firm and qualified as it takes care of these and many other needs.

The student too must have a voice in the operation of the college. Diverse voices are expressed in a controlled and organized manner through student government. Certain students take on added endeavors and attempt to voice opinions which parallel the interest of the majority.

ADMINISTRATION and STUDENT GOVERNMENT

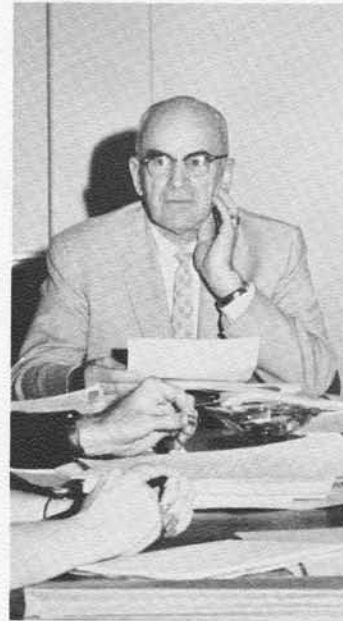

“Soon the ties must all be severed . . .” So says the school song, but we trust that this is poetic license. The “happy memories” part, though, remains the wish of all of us for the departing seniors. Many years from now, you will perhaps visit the campus and say, “Oh, I was here when the Humanities Building was going up” and “I can remember when there were just old houses where those new buildings are.” Perhaps you will say, “I wonder if old Doc Flora is still dismembering sea serpents” or “Remember the night of the big wind when they had to shut down the dance early and all those cars got blocked on the top of Sehome.” Most of all, we hope that your happy memories will include some of what you learned in college: the most important things, the true things.

Western's student government is a reflection of student interests and opinions. Through the officers, legislature, and various governmental committees, the students have an opportunity to experience self-government, to bring forth their ideas, and to take a more active part in college life. This year the student government has undergone many changes in organization, resulting in more efficient operations and better provisions for the well being of Western's students.

Actively and ably presiding over the student government was Mike Hyatt, A.S.B. President. Mike, a senior majoring in political science, was kept quite busy in his various roles, including A.S.B. President, student, husband, and father.

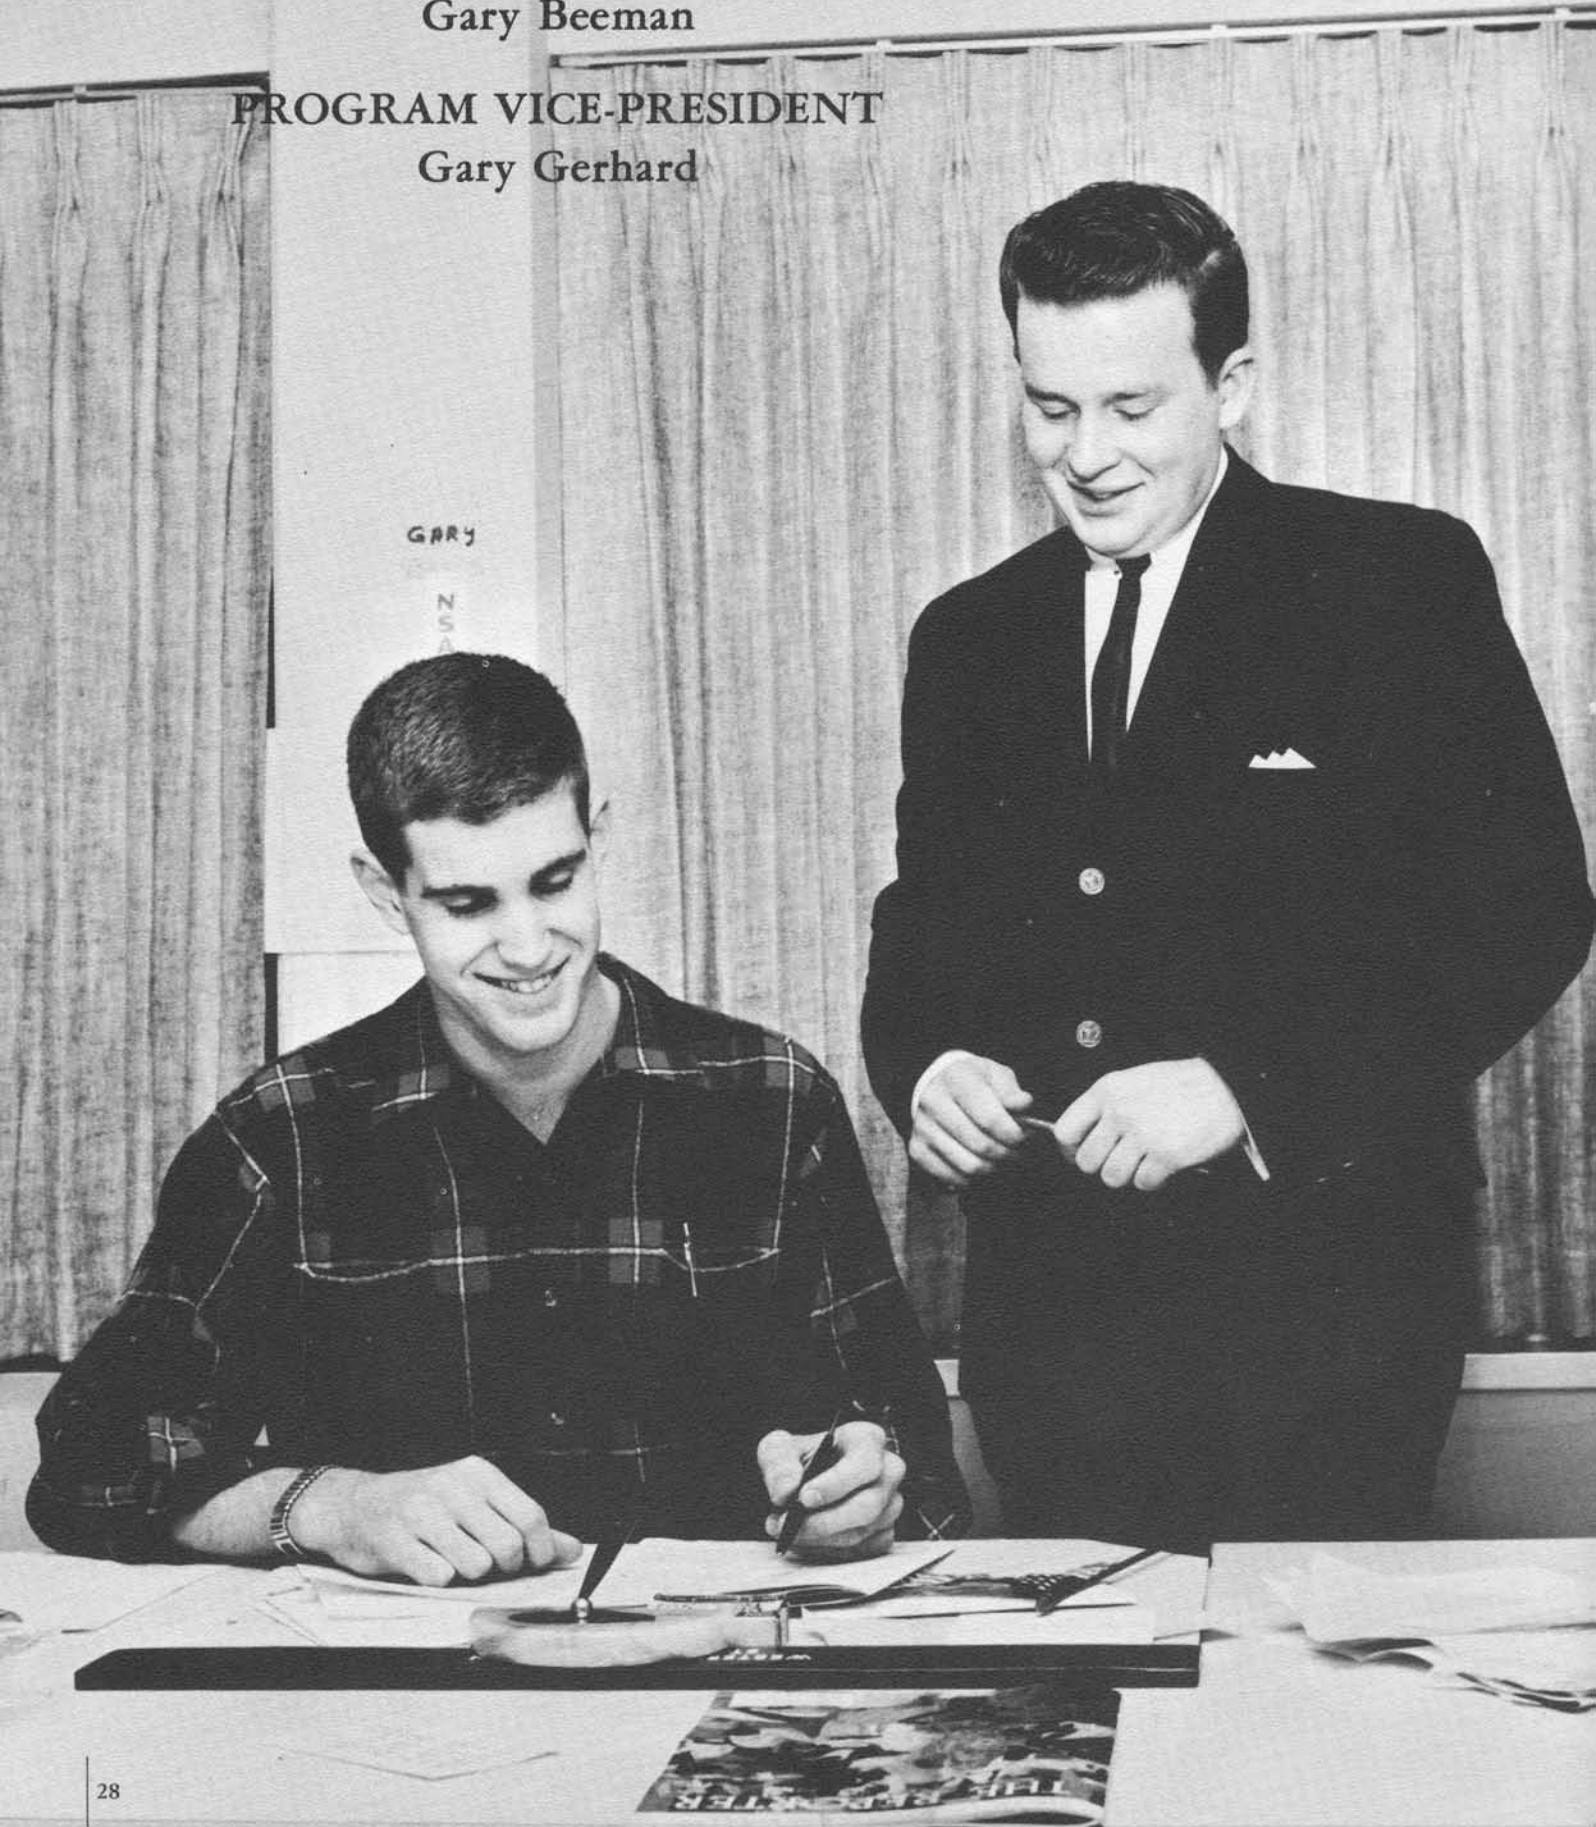

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT

Gary Beeman

PROGRAM VICE-PRESIDENT

Gary Gerhard

Among the changes in the student government this year, was the separation of the duties of the Vice-President into two distinct offices. The first is an executive vice-president, and the other is a program vice-president. The first of these was filled by Gary Beeman, a senior from Whidbey Island, majoring in sociology. Included in his many duties was chairmanship of the National Student Association, the Inter-Club Council, and freshman orientation.

Occupying the office of program vice-president was Gary Gerhard, a senior. It was his job to administer all the cultural, educational, and social programming at Western, through the Program Council. Gerhard, a history major, is from Des Moines.

Sharon Teyler ably held the office of ASB Secretary. Keeping minutes, doing odd jobs for the president, and being office receptionist were some of the duties carried out by Miss Teyler, a speech therapy major from Seattle.

The Program Council, headed by Gary Gerhard, worked hard to provide the students with cultural, intellectual, social, and recreational activities. Movies and mixers on campus, tournaments in the Grotto, the Duke Ellington Concert, the Winter Carnival to Mt. Baker, and the student showcase series were among the Council's activities.

A division of the Program Council is the Association of College Unions which deals with the philosophy and purpose of a Student Union and what activities it should provide for the student.

The Facilities Committee, headed by Howard Tinsley, was responsible for all purchase of ASB property, and for overseeing the administration of Lakewood. Stan Pownall, chairman of the Student Finance Committee, helped formulate the ASB budget, and compiled monthly reports.

The National Student Association, with Gary Beeman as chairman, sponsored programs, speakers, information, and discussion groups on specific national and international problems.

The Inter-Club Council is a confederation of all the clubs on campus, which tries to inform the students what goes on around the campus.

WESTERN'S

Last year's nerve-shattering noise, jammed streets, and inevitable mud became this year's new Ridgeway dormitories, Humanities Building, and Library wings.

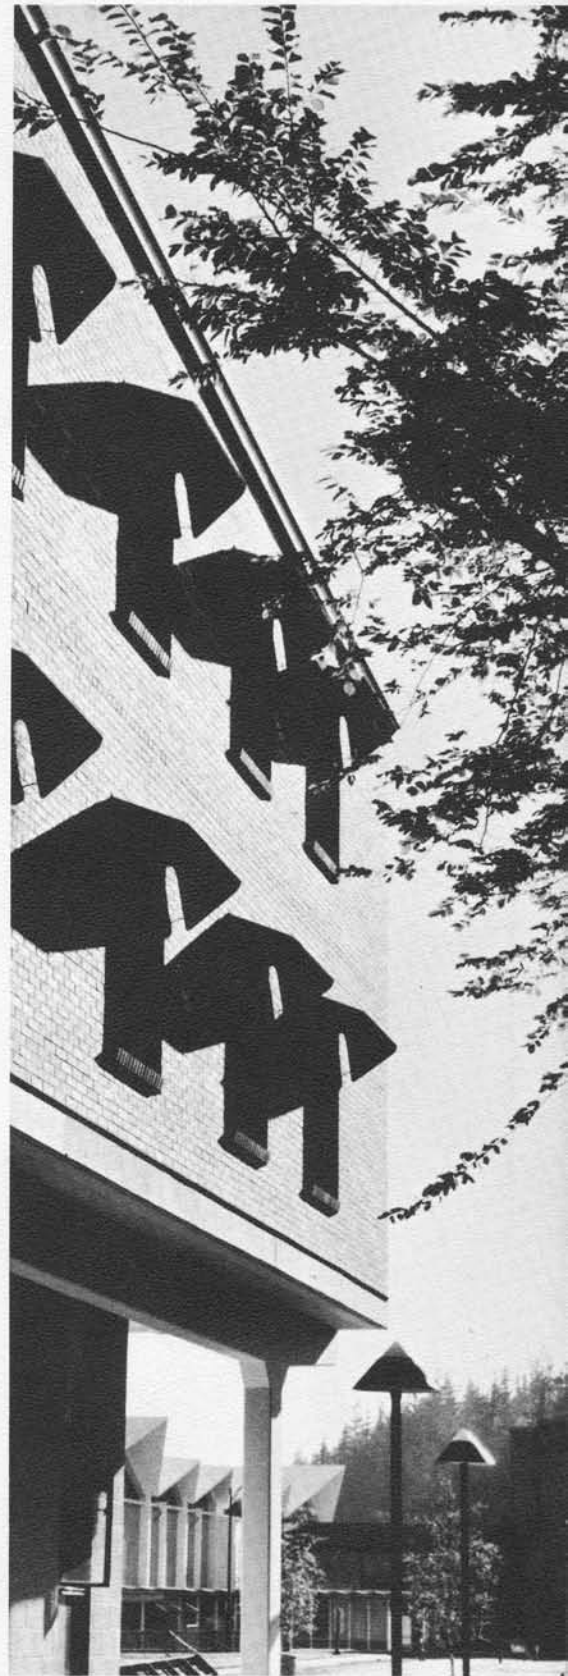

Firs, pines, and cedars provide a rustic setting for the four-building Ridgeway dormitory complex which opened this year. Seattle Architect, Fred Bassetti, gave Ridgeway an impressive touch that few campuses can match. Tucked quietly into the tree-laden hillside, its red brick structure with contrasting white pillared balconies adds a special charm to the campus. The four 100-bed units that make up Ridgeway — Alpha, Beta, Delta, and Gamma, house an equal number of men and women students to meet the growing demand for dormitory facilities.

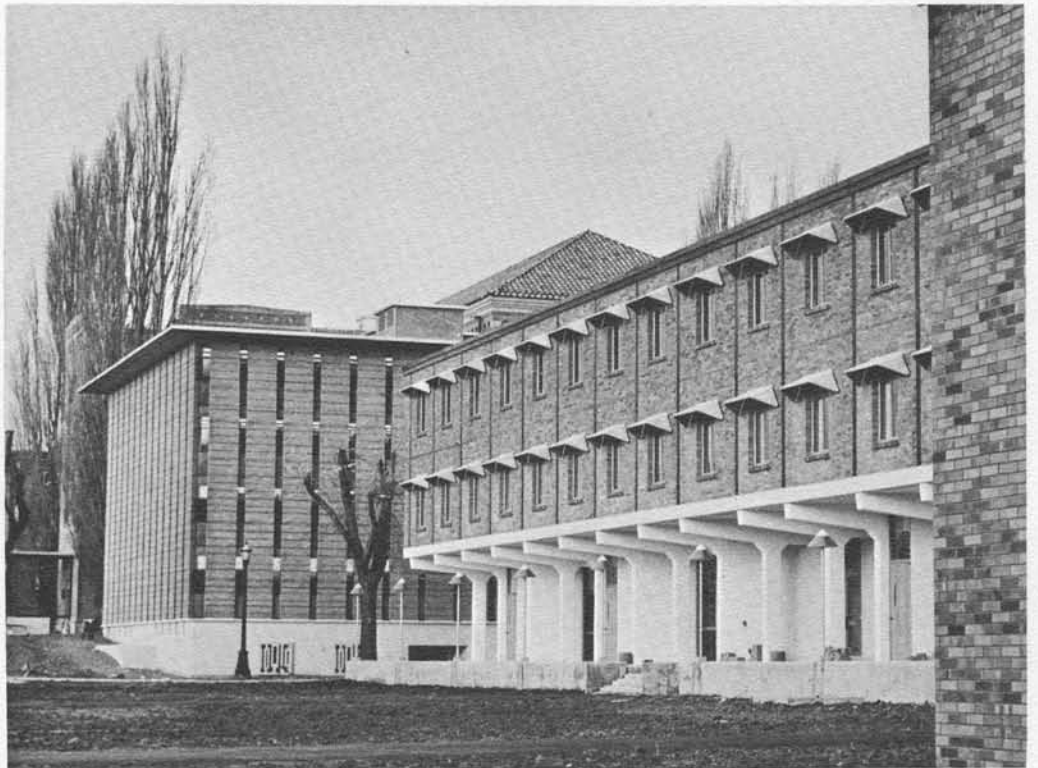

NEW BUILDINGS

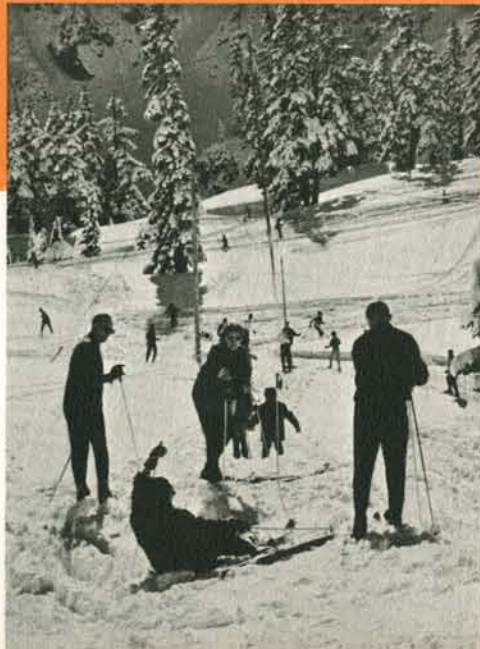

Beautiful ceramic sculptures of deer, raccoon, and other animals common to the Northwest enhance the setting at Ridgeway. The ceramic animals scattered through the trees were sculptured by Noel Osheraff of Los Angeles. Between the Campus School, Old Main, and the Library rose the $750,000 Humanities Building. Also designed by Bassetti, it houses the English, Foreign Language, Philosophy, and History Departments. Ten classrooms, 46 offices, 38-station language laboratory and 2 lecture halls eased the strain on crowded classrooms. Several unique features make this building outstanding. Outside entrances to the ground floor classrooms around the perimeter of the building, and a line of sunshades over the second and third story windows and carpeted faculty offices are aspects a bit foreign to Western's architecture. The sun shades have been dubbed "raised eyebrows" by an unknown campus humorist.

Another new look this year is the college Library. Two new wings designed by Paul Thiry of Seattle, provide room for 200,000 volumes, seating space for 800 readers, offices and classrooms. Beautiful colored windows alternating with columns on the outside of the new wings — a striking sight after dark — have attracted much comment from both campus and community.

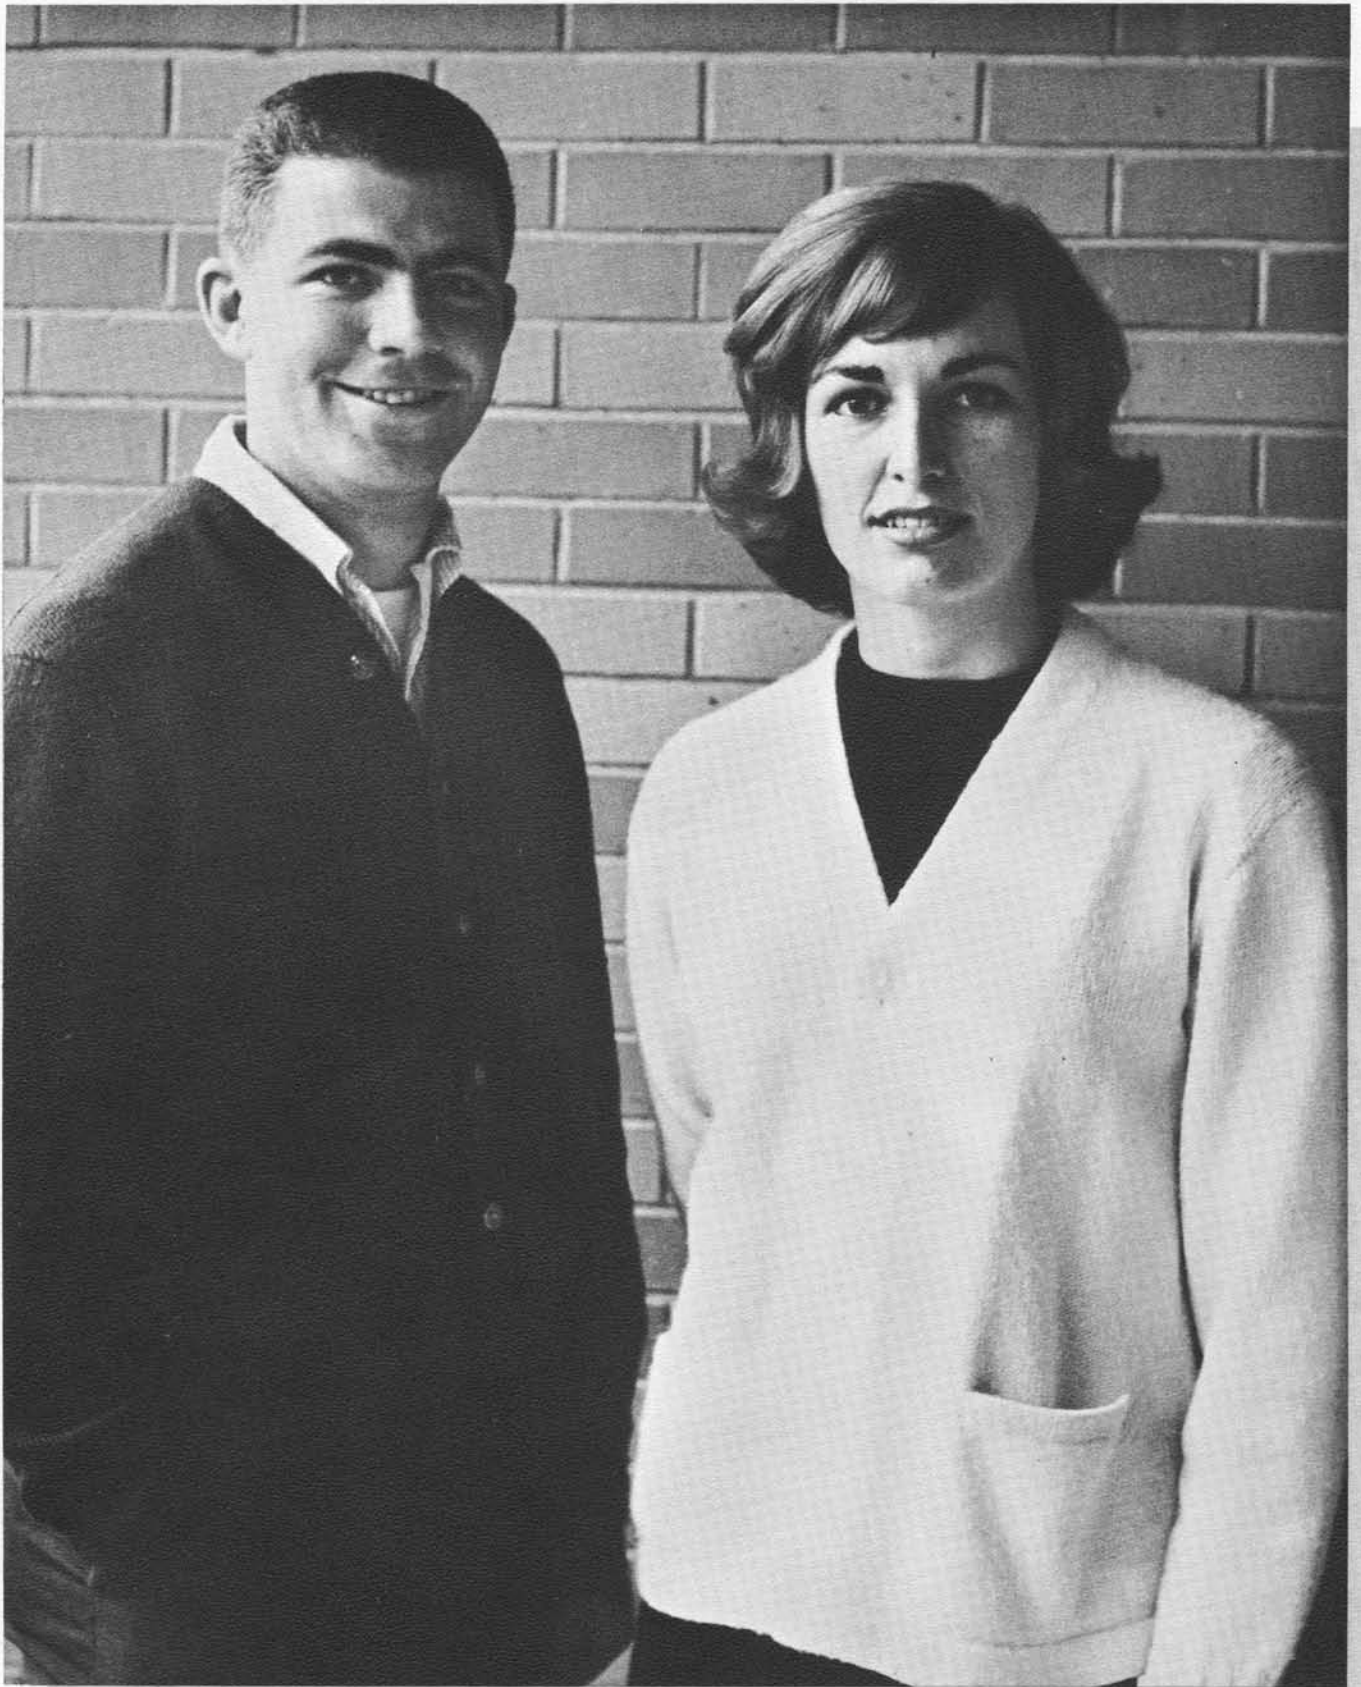

ACTIVITIES

Often activities become that force which relieves the student's mind from purely academic strain . . . that force which opens other channels of interest and stimulates and challenges the student, whether sailing on Lake Whatcom or skiing on Mount Baker. It is this force that challenges the capabilities of individuals to plan a happy homecoming, a profitable WUS drive, or a jubilant Junior Prom.

Activities often provide the necessary break and the occasion to let loose and express oneself in a variety of ways. They become multi-purpose in providing entertainment for cultural, intellectual or purely enjoyable pursuits.

FALL

FROSH REGISTRATION

The torment of a physical fitness test, the distress of reading Death of a Salesman and the college catalogue, and the agony of lines and tests and longer lines, was all part of becoming a member of Western. For an entering freshman the thought that maybe this mess isn't worth it frequently entered his head. However, after recuperating from 32 push-ups and running twice around the gym, resting up after his first test and recovering from the shock of parting with all that money, classes actually began. The first week found many students meandering through the maze called Old Main, looking for rooms which apparently were non-existent.

By October 10, each student was agreeing that college life was all right and had forgotten the anguish of orientation week. On this day every new student met with his advisor for his final initiation into college. A short time later, mid-terms began and the student was truly on his own.

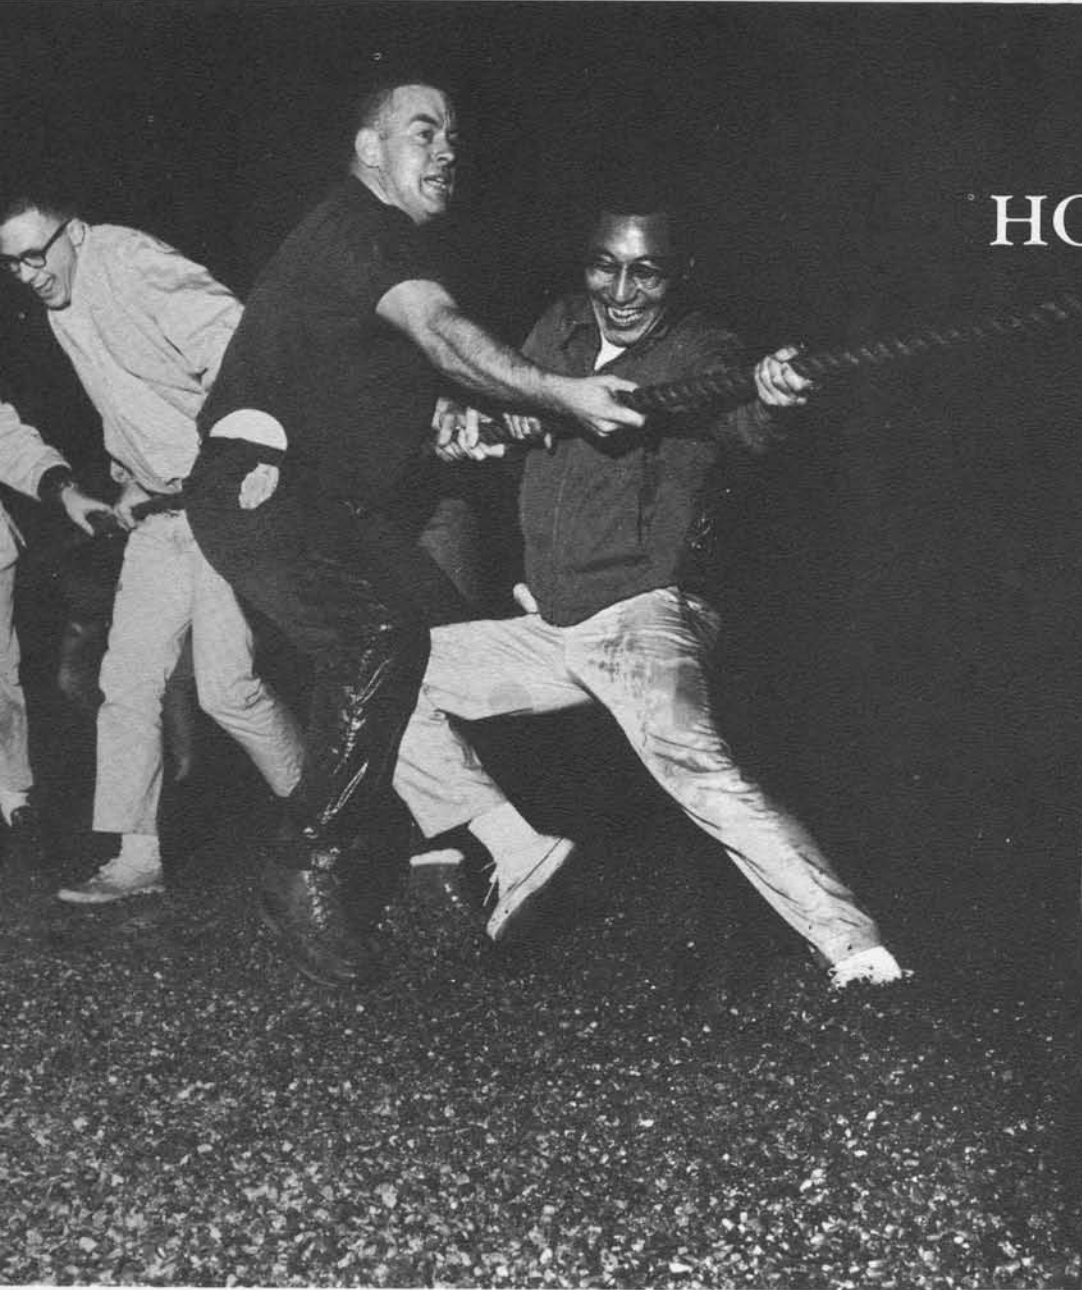

NORSEMEN'S BALL

Joe Ferrie and his band from British Columbia supplied the music for the Norsemen's Ball this October 19th. The Elks' Club, where the dance was held, was decorated with randomly placed pictures of autumn scenes. Frank Ceteznik was the chairman for the dance.

"Ain't She Sweet" was the word from Homecomers after gazing upon the array of beautiful girls vying for Queen and Princess honors during the Presentation Assembly. The next day saw the student vote turn out in large numbers as Homecoming co-Chairmen Russ Carlson and Heather Forney noted: "It All Depends on You!"

"Five-Foot-Two, Eyes of Blue," proved to be at least partially accurate when the queen and her court actually did average out to "Five-Foot-Two." Eyes of blue, however, did not hold up quite so well. Pert and pretty Janet Meier from Tacoma carried away the crown and the title of "Homecoming Queen" for 1962. "Sitting on Top of the World" with Queen Janet were the four lovely class princesses: Karla Anderson, Senior; Sue Meier, Junior; Marilyn Grimm, Sophomore; and Jeanne Pulver, Freshman.

QUEEN

PRESENTATION

Homecoming, 1962 was graced with the best of weather, but there were those who still managed to get thoroughly soaked. The losers of the Homecoming tug-of-war had "That Certain Feeling" when tons of water from fire department hoses sent them scurrying.

House displays suffered little from the elements, making them a more competitive area of interest. Various themes from the "Roaring 20's," including "Crazy Rhythm" and "My Blue Heaven" along with a 6-foot-2 cardboard chap that took up four floors of Higginson Hall flung Western's campus into a full-dress scene from the 20's. Stills and bars (the musical variety) were everywhere.

"Ain't We Got Fun," was not only the theme of Skit Night, but the cry of spectators and participants alike as this year's activity caught everyone's fancy. Jim Stipes and Carolyn Waugh, co-chairmen of the event, started the proverbial "... ball rolling" with their own skit. The Yell Staff copped top honors with their "Spirit Through the Years" routine. Jeanne Kelly mesmerized her audience with a flashing baton as she captured the individual act trophy.

The chow line for hungry "Homecomers" formed after the game at the Commons. "Prohibition Paradise" greeted visitors and students alike as they filled their plates with roast beef, fresh crab, roast turkey and ham. Adding to the success of the food was the excellent entertainment. It was a resounding "Oh Kay!" as the excitement spread to the diners.

Western's newly formed Marching Band cleared the way for a long train of colorfully decorated floats as this year's Homecoming parade wound its way through downtown Bellingham. Many original ideas sparked this year's parade, as judges found naming the winner a chore.

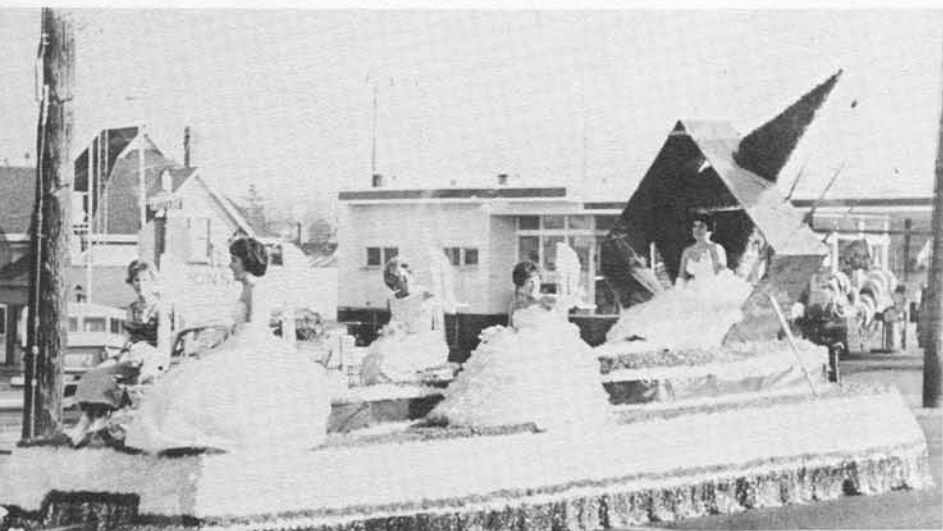

"East is East, and West is West," but "West" is better! This was the consensus before Eastern and Western met in the Homecoming Game, and the final score verified the fact. The Vik's downed Cheney's Savages 13 to 6 to bring the capacity Homecoming crowd to its feet in the new Civic Athletic Field. Half-time activities for the game highlighted Western's Marching Band as they saluted the Homecoming theme, "Say It With Music." A chorus line of shapely girls joined in, dressed in chic Twenties style. The girls made the most of their short appearance, making the Charleston "swing" in honor of the graduates of 1922, guests of Homecoming.

Homecoming ended with an elaborate Queen's Ball that saw the new gymnasium for the first time in the role of a gigantic dance area. Western truly did "Say It With Music" as hundreds of couples packed into the gym for the affair, appropriately titled, "The Song Is You."

As another Homecoming went into the memory book, those who worked long and hard took a fleeting look at what had passed. Hundreds of hours of labor on floats, house displays, and the organizational efforts by countless Homecoming committees made Homecoming the success it was. Russ Carlson and Heather Forney, the co-chairmen, dismissed their hours of labor with a single comment: Everyone at Western made Homecoming. We all did it "Together."

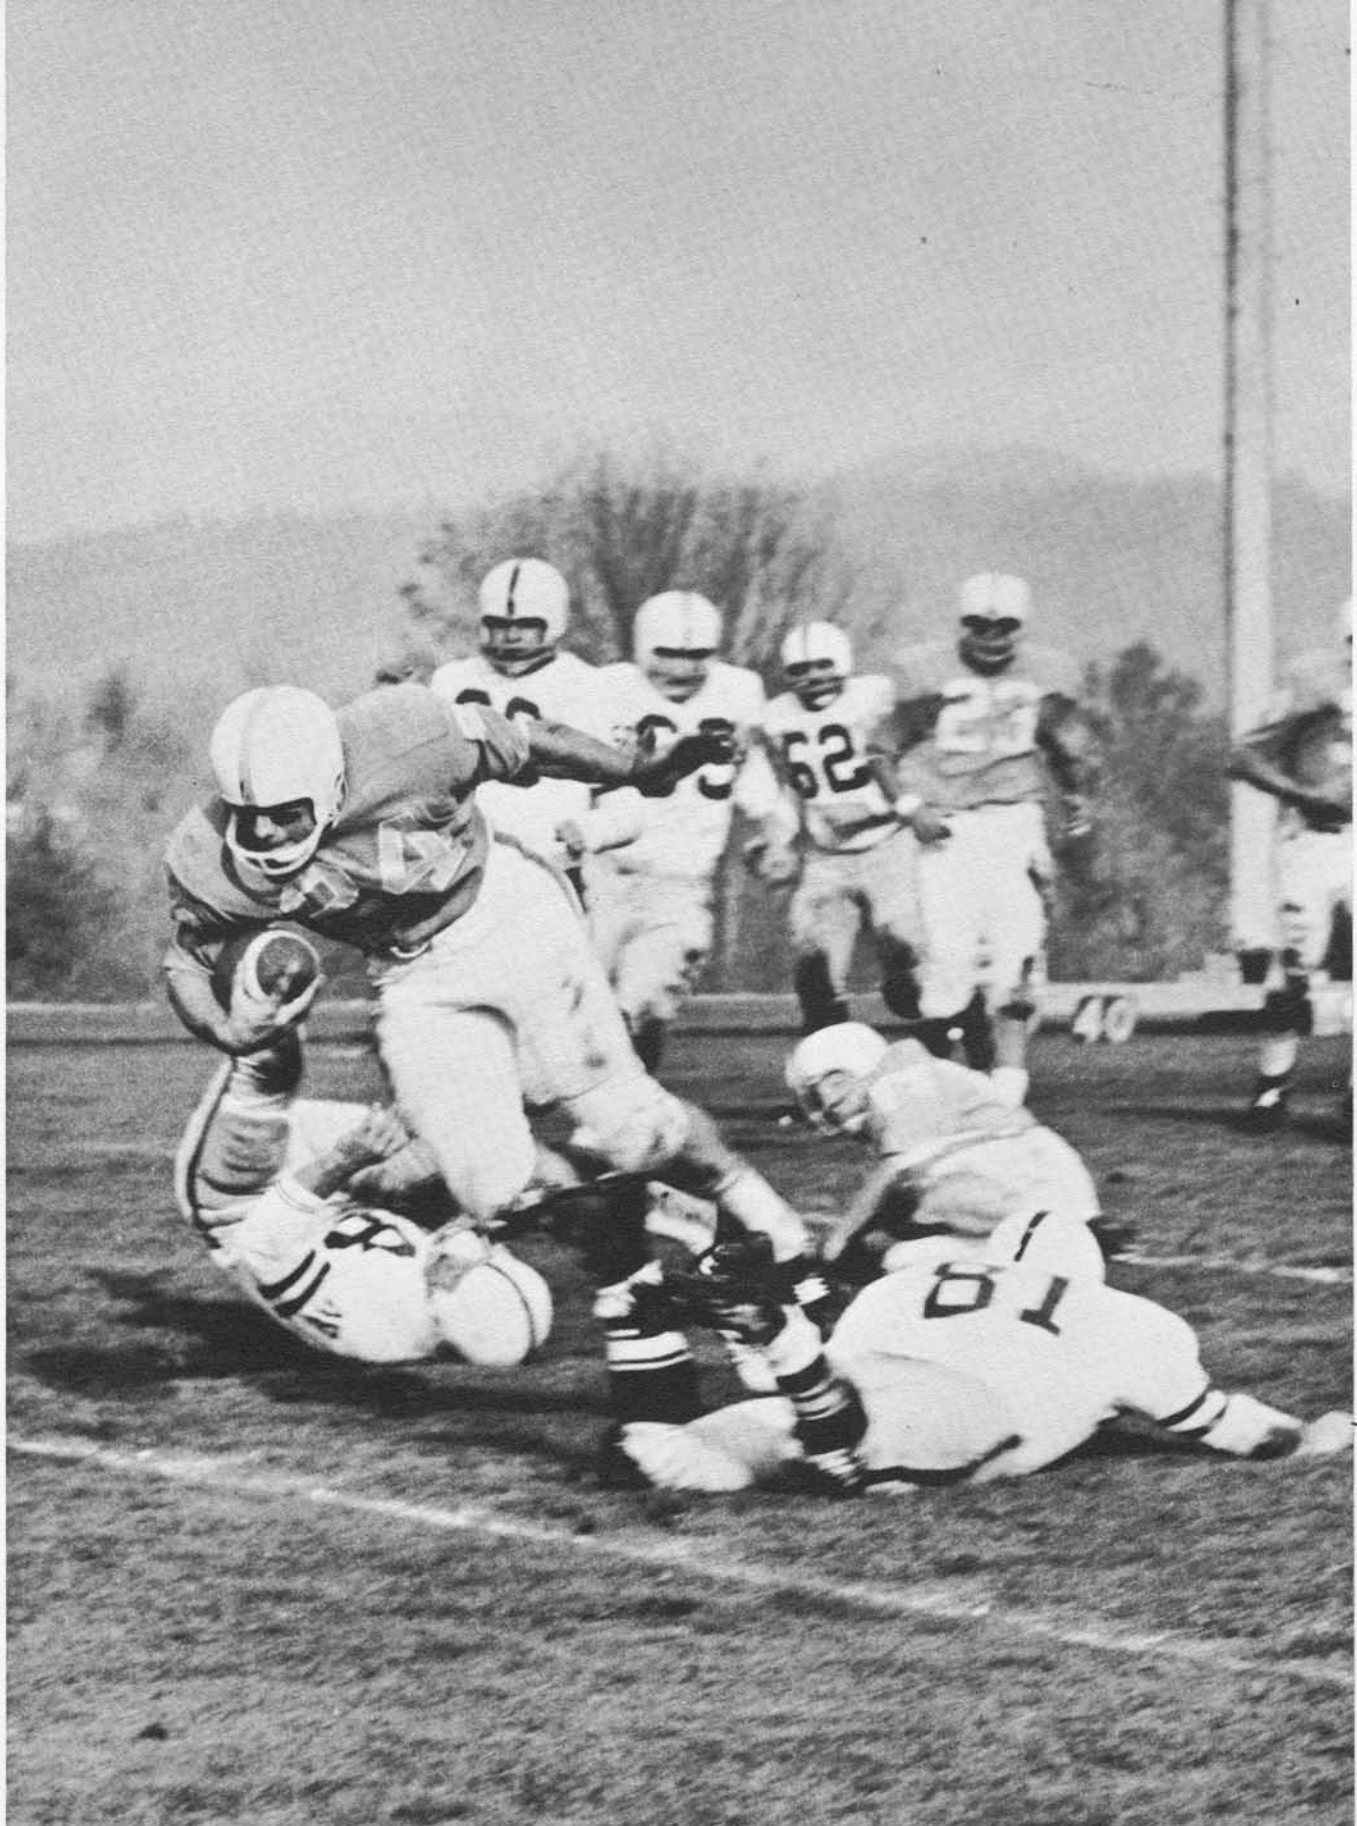

"SAY IT WITH

MUSIC''

FOOTBALL

With the completion of the new Civic Field came a greater interest in football on the Western Campus. Captained for the second straight year by Gary Fumano, center, the Viks played a strong season. Ending with a record of 4-4-1, Western tied for third place with CWSC in the Evergreen Conference.

Sophomore quarterback Terry Parker kept Western moving in the air with 42% average of completions and a net gain of 729 yards. Halfbacks Ron Roe, Ken Fry, and Dick Nicholls led in rushing with better than 45 yards per game. Following close behind in yardage gained were Bob Plotts and Gary Moore. Defensively, linebackers Gary Fumano and Larry Kosoff played havoc with the opposing teams, getting better than 15 tackles per game. Tackle Myles Phipps and Guard Dave Alfred gave the outstanding kind of line support so necessary for successful backfield activity.

Added honors were given to our All-Conference players Bob Plotts, John Fullerton, Dave Alfred, Gary Fumano, Ken Fry, and Doug Ringenbach.

With a young team this year, Coach Jim Lounsberry's Viks may be a power to be reckoned with in the 1963 Evergreen Conference.

Students sailed, scaled and twirled, releasing energy stored while sitting in class, listening to a lecture, or studying in the library.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Diverse clubs provided a convenient means to release this energy as fall activities took care of a variety of interests and were a succulent appetizer for the greater entrees to come. Sailing Club held a regatta, while daring members of Alpine Club scaled greater heights. Hawaiian Club brought life to Western in the form of grass skirts and hula dancers at their annual fall festival, while members of the Folk and Square Dance Club swirled and swung.

MALCOLM MUGGERIDGE

ROY I. MUMME

COLLEGE CHAMBER ORCHESTRA, DR. PAUL STONER, Director

For you, the student, the onslaught of activities as the school year proceeds is tremendous.

A varied program of music and speakers graced your Concert-Lecture Series roster this fall. The William Hall Chorale raised its collective voice in song to open the season. British journalist, Malcolm Muggeridge, spiced the air with his lecture on humor in the world, and Betty Ruth Tomfohrde performed a series of semi-classical and classical numbers on the piano. Virgilia Peterson, a literary critic; Adolph Baller-Gabor Retjo, a piano-cello duet; and Dutch adventurer Henrik Scholte completed the list of talent presented in the fall series.

DUKE ELLINGTON

If thinking is your forte, the "faculty speaks" series is for you. The topic for the Fall quarter was "Educated Man, Moral Man?," and nearly every professor who spoke answered, "Yes."

The Music Department presented two student recitals, a wind ensemble, and a college-civic orchestra concert.

The Associated Students presented two programs during the fall. The first was the Walter-Mann-Chapman Trio, a comic-musical group of two men and a woman. The quarter's highlight, however, consisted of a 15-piece band led by one of the world's great jazz pianists. Combining scintillating brass in crashing rhythm with a sharp drummer providing the offbeat, Duke Ellington swung into his concert of progressive jazz. His versatility was demonstrated several times — in his Gypsy Love Song Cha-Cha-Cha, which incorporated a violin plus maracas, clogs, and the rest of the percussion section. The two vocalists — including a "comic" — relieved the sophisticated jazz.

"Death of a Salesman"

To be defined as a tragedy in the classical tradition, a play must concern itself with the tragic, predetermined fate of a great man who has one fatal flaw. Willy Loman, the main character in the play, "Death of a Salesman," is characterized as a great man by his saintly wife, Linda, in her undying love for him. Throughout the production, Lawrence Brewster as the main character exhibits the fatal flaw; he lies to himself, to Adele Gilliard as his wife, and to James Walker and Richard Stephens as his sons Happy and Biff. The feeling of predestined tragedy persists through the play until the climax, when Willy becomes completely mad and kills himself.

Lighting and set design were tremendously done as the backdrop changed—effected by the spotlights—with the change from past to present. A red spot caused the background to look like a city, and a green one made trees appear.

Also sponsored by the Speech Department were three one-act plays by Albee: "American Dream," "The Sandbox" and "The Zoo Story." Absurdity was used to heighten a feeling of tragicomedy and although they were presented as different plays, each succeeding act seemed a continuation of the one before.

The Art Department sponsored a series of exhibits of various artists. The first to be shown was Bill Cummings' modern art. In November Joseph Domjan, wood cutting expert, lent his talents to Western. The brilliant colors and provincial designs, which characterize his work, brightened the Viking Union Lounges. December found the faculty's objects d'art exhibited. Many different styles were shown and many different pieces offered.

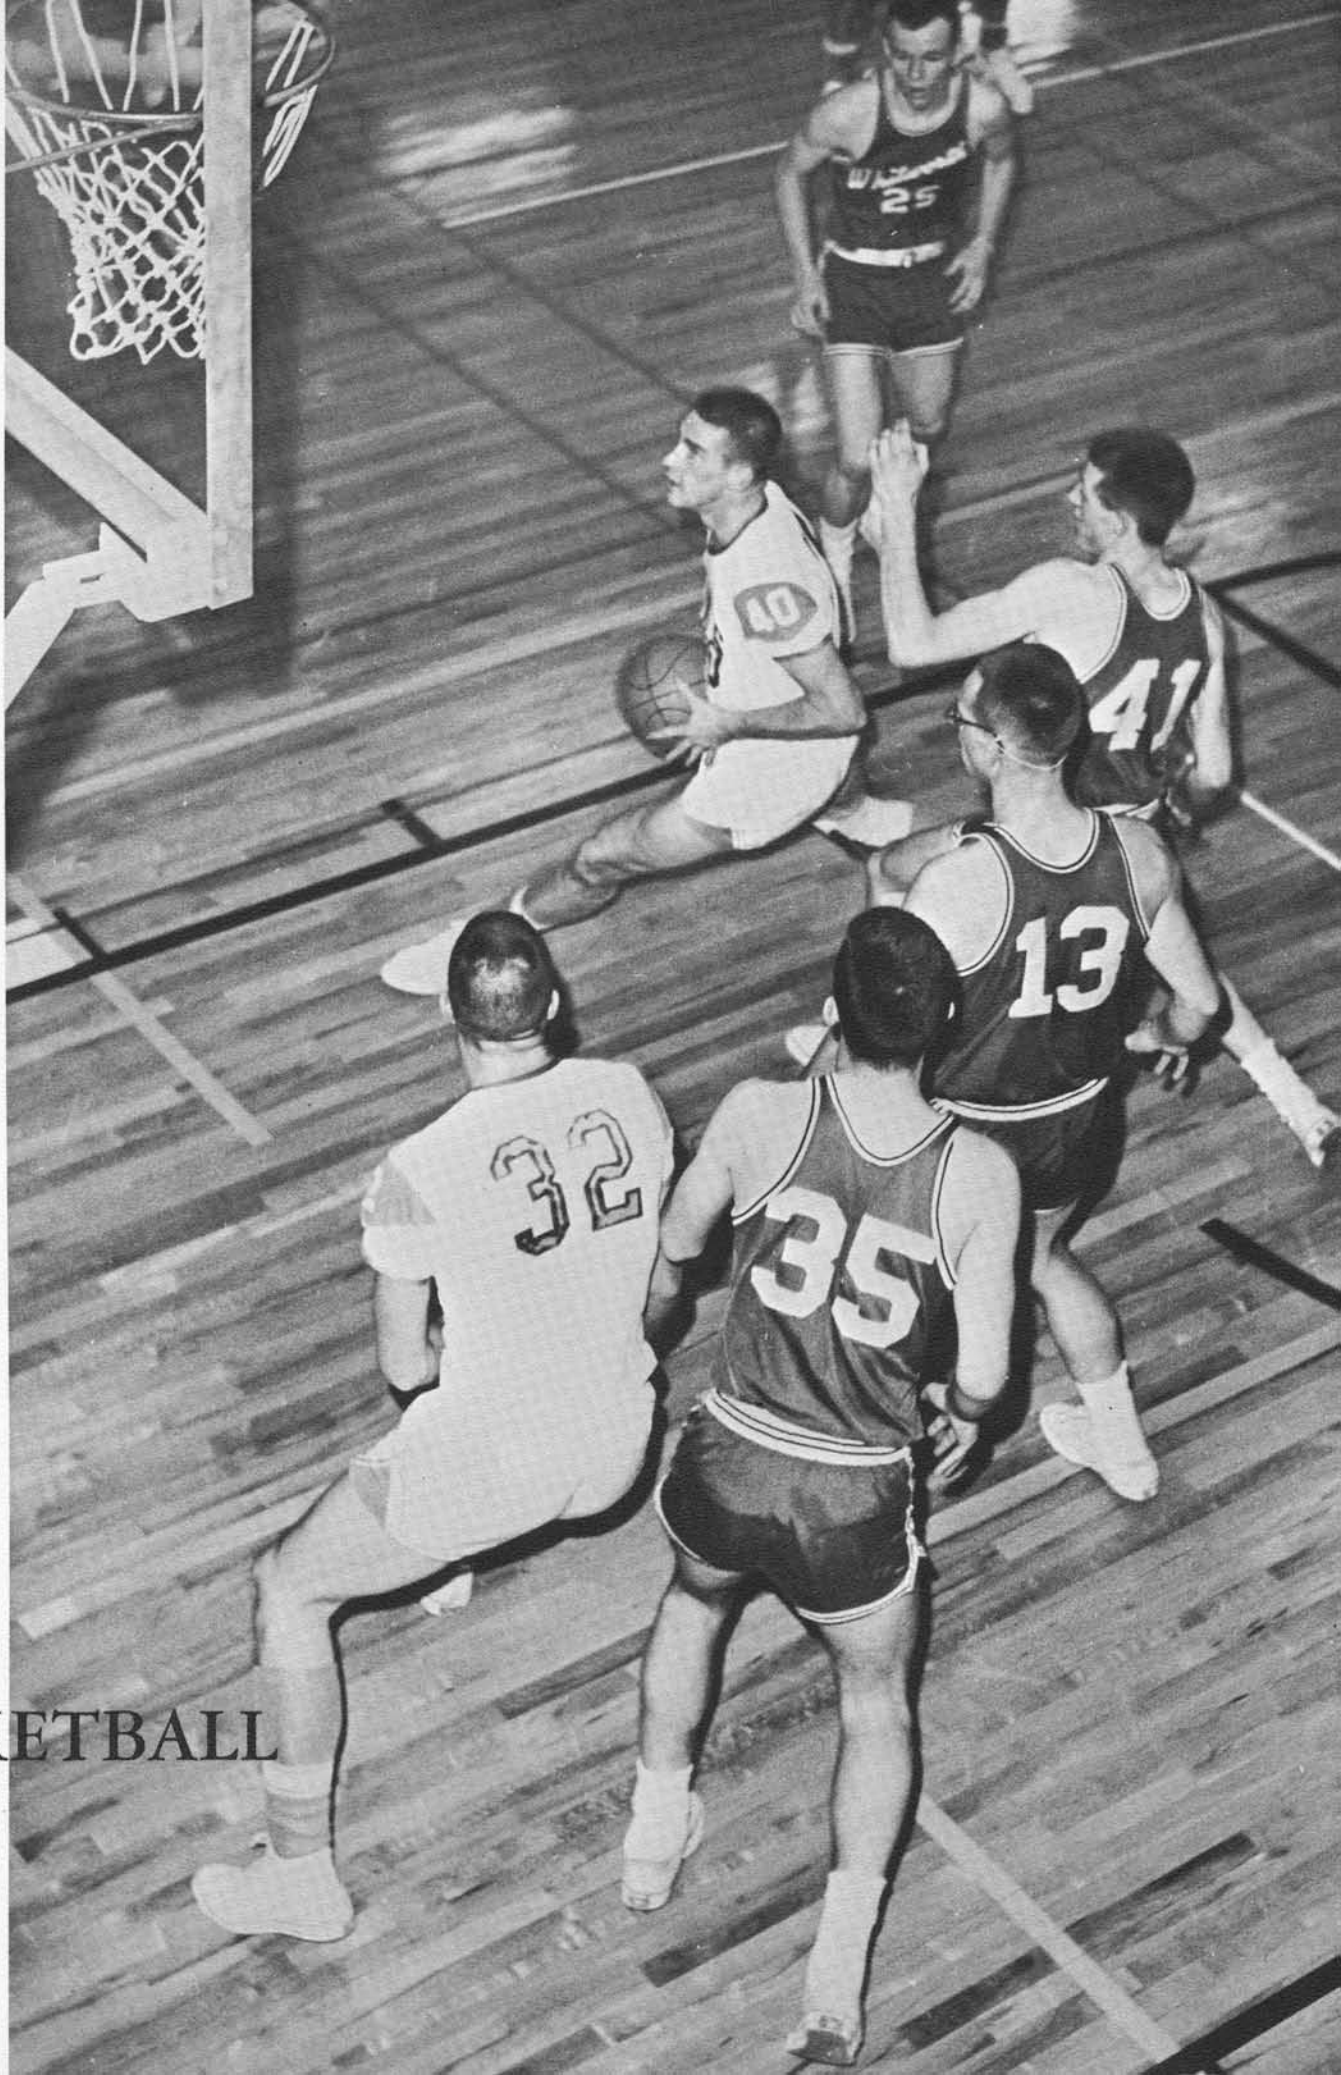

AWS TOLO

The theme of the Associated Women Students' tolo—a winter chalet—was depicted by snowflakes, a winter pond with animals, and a child on a sled, all decorating the Viking Union. Coat-check girls and those who served the hot, spiced punch wore ski sweaters, carrying one further into the wintery wonderland. The college dance band supplied the music, and as Bob Plotts was crowned tolo king, Sue Cauffman sang "Mr. Wonderful." Co-chairmen for the dance were Patsy Wilson and Marcia Taylor.

WINTER

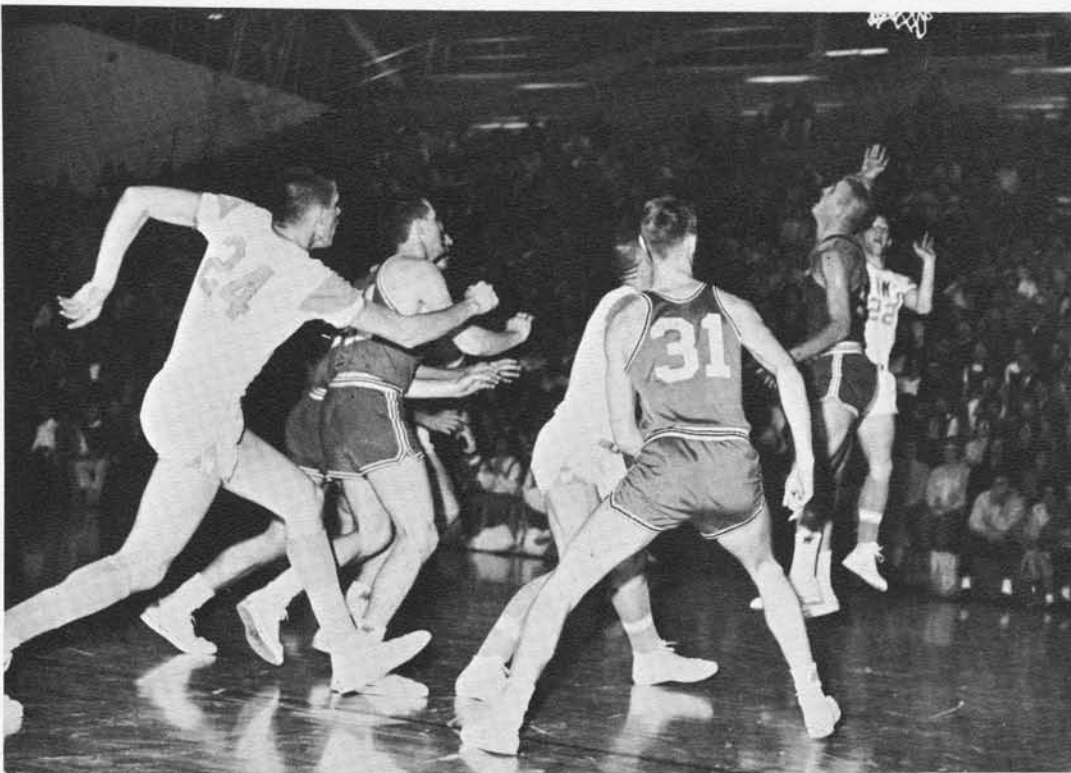

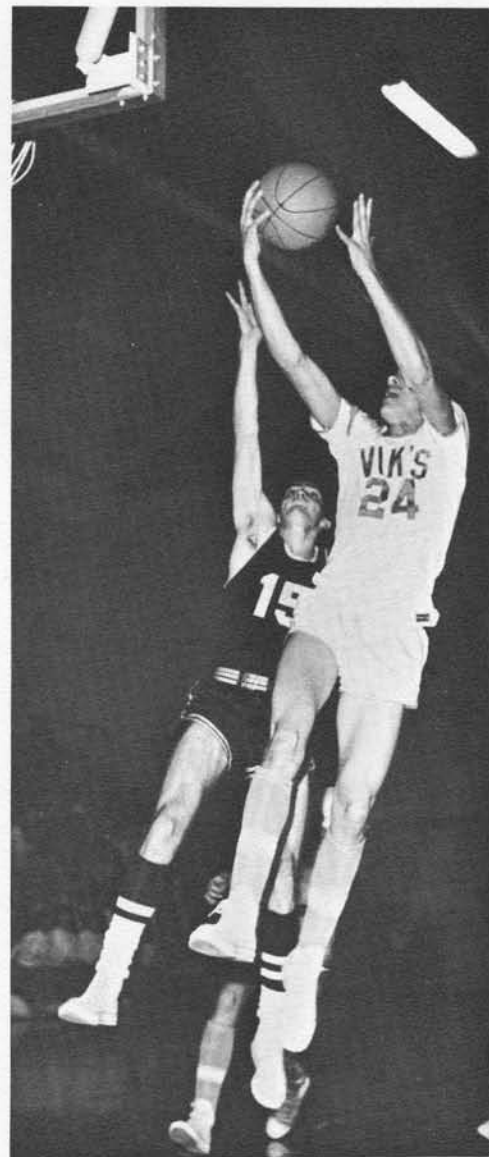

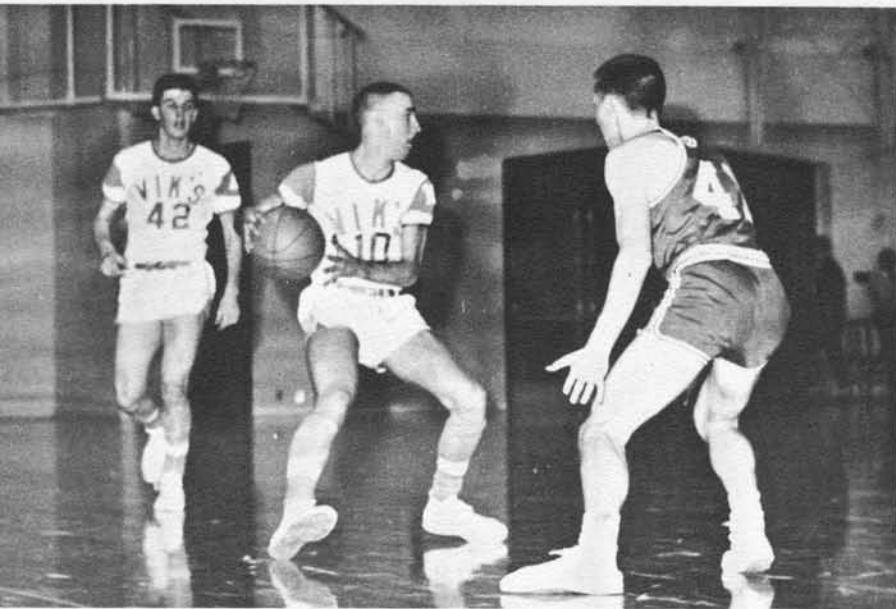

BASKETBALL

Stirring excitement and intense competition were alive in the Evergreen Conference games during the 1963 season. Ending up with a respectable 19-9 record, the Western Vikings appeared to be the basis for the majority of this excitement. Going into the EVCO tournament as the second place team, the Viks spurred to a tournament victory and a chance to play P.L.U. for a trip to Kansas City. The Viks went down to defeat, but not without a good battle. The outstanding player was Captain Jim Adams, who, with his tremendous athletic ability and excellent leadership, gave our team the inspiration to continue to fight. All-conference guard, Mike Kirk gave superb performances all season, and was particularly outstanding with his 26 points in the Central game. Under a new coach, Chuck Randall, the Vikings looked excellent and the credit must extend to the out-standing coaching.

RUGBY

Western's scrappy rugby team fought their way through the season to the California Invitational Rugby Tournament at Monterey. Following the fine tradition of all Western sports, the Vikings came through in grand style. After winning one game and losing the second, the Viks tied the third. This tie was broken by a flip of the coin, and the Viks lost. With a 5-1 season record, these men really gave the fans an exciting show wherever they performed. The one game they lost was to a bigger and more powerful U.B.C. team. This unique sport is becoming increasingly popular in the Northwest, and next year there promises to be more of this same top-notch competition.

SWIMMING

Coach Don Wiseman

Emery is the name synonymous with swimming team — at least as far as Western is concerned for the 1963 season. He took first place in the 200 yard-butterfly for the Evergreen Conference, and this qualified him for a trip to the Nationals. The Vikings herald Dave Emery for taking two fifth places at this meet. Under the auspices of Coach Don Wiseman, this young team looks toward next year as their year. With only two returning lettermen this year, Bill Williams and Dave Emery, the squad had some bad luck in conference meets. However, with their undeniable desire to continue to improve, Western should have another outstanding year in the realm of swimming.

Coach Bill Tomaras

Sportsmanship — Academic achievement — freshmen — these are the terms that describe the W.W.S.C. wrestling team for the 1963 season. Under the excellent coaching of Dr. Tomaras, the wrestlers quickly matured from a relatively young team to one which all opponents feared. We can be proud of this team that came within three points of beating the University of Washington. Many praises are in order, especially to the inspirational winner Jim Chapman, and the scholarship award winner, Dudley Cowan. With seven starting freshmen at the end of the season, we can see excellent chances and potentialities for the Viking wrestlers in the coming years. Although the seasons record was 4-won, 6-lost, we still applaud this year's team as bringing glory and awards to the Western athletic program.

CHRISTMAS

Even with finals looming large in the minds of most Westernites, the Christmas season was launched when the big tree was lit in the Viking Union lounge. Students studied rigorously under it, seemingly unaffected by its warming glow. The special Christmas buffet at SAGA found the connecting doors opened to blend the tree's light with the candles gleaming above the white tablecloths. After the meal, many students gathered around Tannenbaum to join in the caroling at the Christmas sing. Voices blended harmoniously, invoking memories of Christmas trees long past at the annual Christmas concert. Parties were often centered around the presents under the tree; Santa Claus was the order of the day at the children's party for faculty and student's children. Wandering bands of carollers sang under giant, living trees and often brought the day to a close; except for cramming for the next day's final, one knew Christmas was one day closer.

With an emphasis on music, music, music, winter quarter began with the brilliant glare from Jerry Sun and his trio. This instrumental group romped its way through a diversified program of progressive jazz, "Misty," and several mambos. To continue with music, the Four Freshmen, in an ASB-sponsored event, added their high—low musical talents to the Western scene. Another important special event, although not musical, was the AWS-sponsored series of Faculty speakers discussing a topic of interest to all — "The Nature of a Woman."

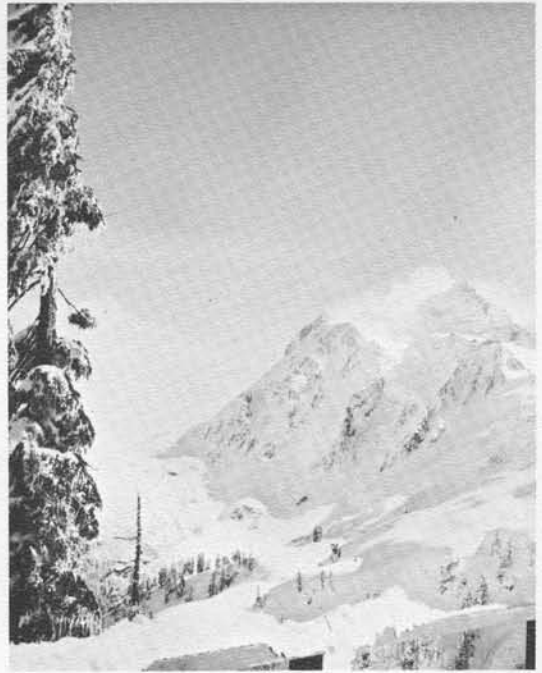

"Riverboat Days" were revived during a week of WUS activities with stars, gambling, and talent. Culminating a week of soliciting funds for WUS, it was announced at the talent show that Rex Silvernail was Western's first "Ugly Man." To raise money to send students in low-income countries to college, a legalized gambling night was held on campus. "The Night People" provided entertainment for the gamblers, and upstairs Les Brown's "band of renown" supplied the music for the mixer held the same night.

WESTERN'S FIRST ANNUAL
"Snow Festival"

Snow-covered Mount Baker was the scene for Western's first annual "Snow Festival." Those students who ventured the trek up the mountain were greeted by sixteen inches of new snow, a variety of activities for skier and non-skier alike, and a tiring but exhilarating two days of fun. The Program Council, with the aid of the Ski Club sponsored this event. A major highlight of the weekend was another first, the crowning of the first snow queen and king. These honors went to Michael Jones and Kent Dolmseth respectively. Chaperones for the event were Dr. and Mrs. Neuzil, Dr. and Mrs. Ellis, and Reverend and Mrs. Sellards. For those fortified few who went, this weekend will remain a pleasant college memory.

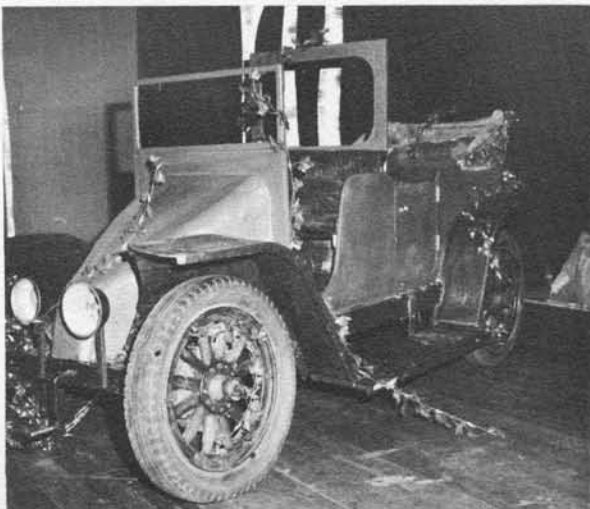

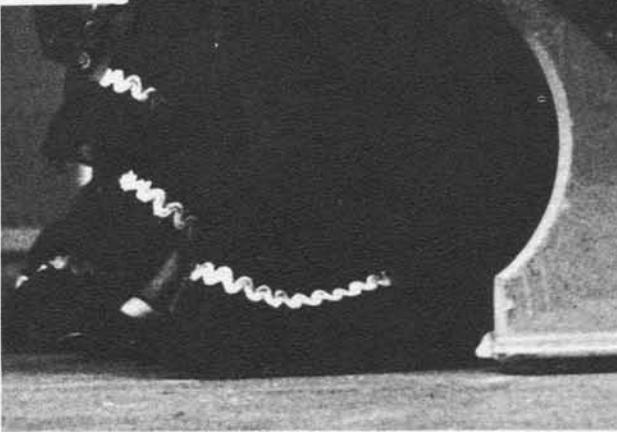

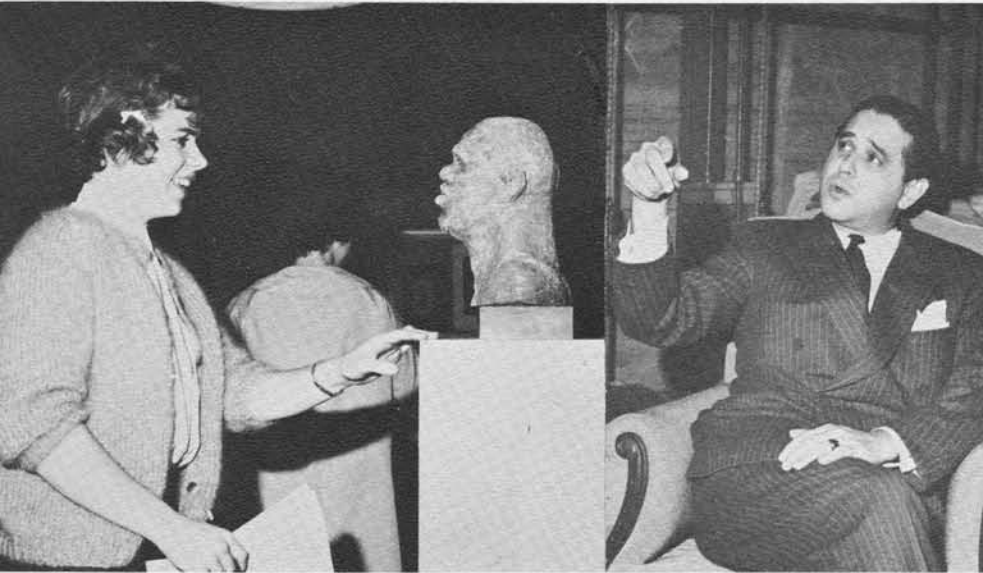

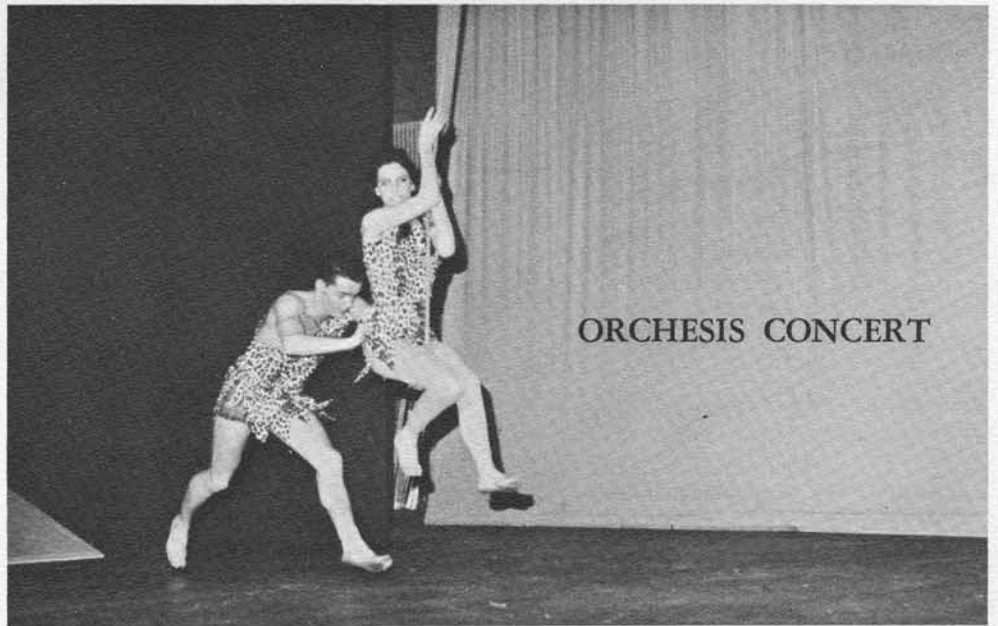

WINTER QUARTER PLAYS

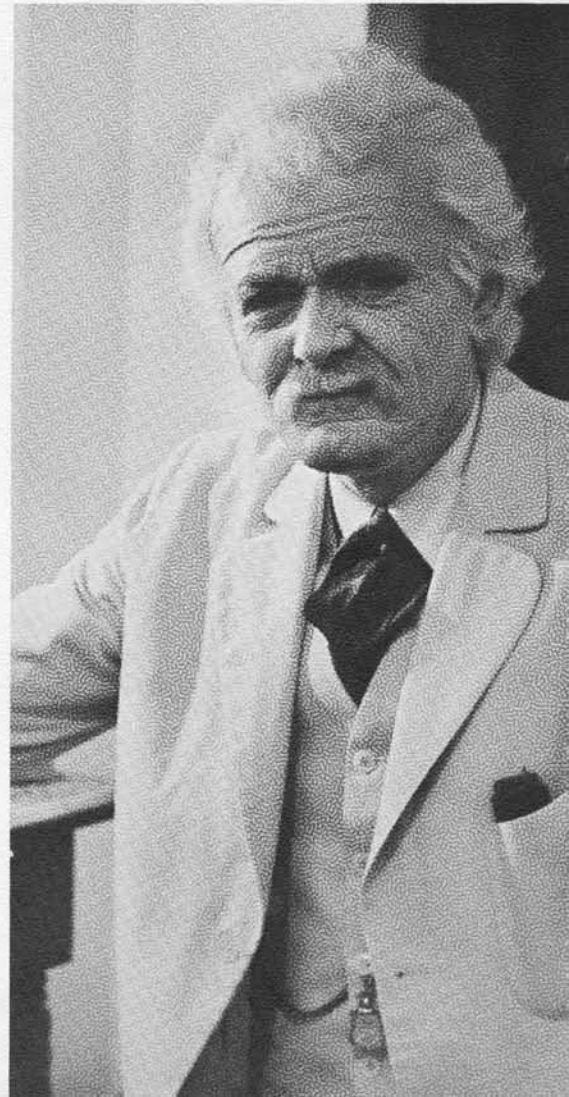

The fourth dimension was prominently featured in the winter quarter plays. Culminating Renaissance week, the morality play, "Everyman," was presented. "Time Remembered," a French drama, was set in the late eighteen hundreds. Having a slightly later time setting, "The Four Poster" depicted the troubles sustained in the course of a couple's life together. The most interesting play, as far as setting goes, was the modern passion play, "Let Man Live," which was presented without costumes or scenery. Thus, the range from Renaissance to modern day added the fourth dimension to Western's speech department's selections for winter quarter.

Diversity was the keynote to the fine arts program winter quarter. Art exhibits ranged from the abstract to the very real — as exemplified by the Hiroshima exhibit. A student event was the Orchesis Concert. It featured modern dance, round dances, and several folk dances of the Renaissance period. Costumes ranged from simple leotards to bow bedecked sixteenth century English country-style outfits. The Concert-Lecture series featured speakers, a pianist, and entertainers. One of the first to be presented was Sergio Rojas speaking on the South American crisis.

If entertainment was one's goal, Hal Holbrook impersonating Mark Twain, was the program to see. Mr. Holbrook ran the gamut of emotions from side-splitting funny to thought-provokingly serious. For true diversity and richness of program, Western's winter quarter held one's attention.

Merely walking through the door or wearing a pair of fancy socks put one in line for a prize at the W.R.A. Carnival and sock hop. A gay atmosphere encircled such carnivalistic events as a cake walk, dart game, and a silhouette stand. Stuffed animals were awarded to lucky winners, while everyone was able to enjoy a sock hop and the antics of the KPUG disc jockey who provided music.

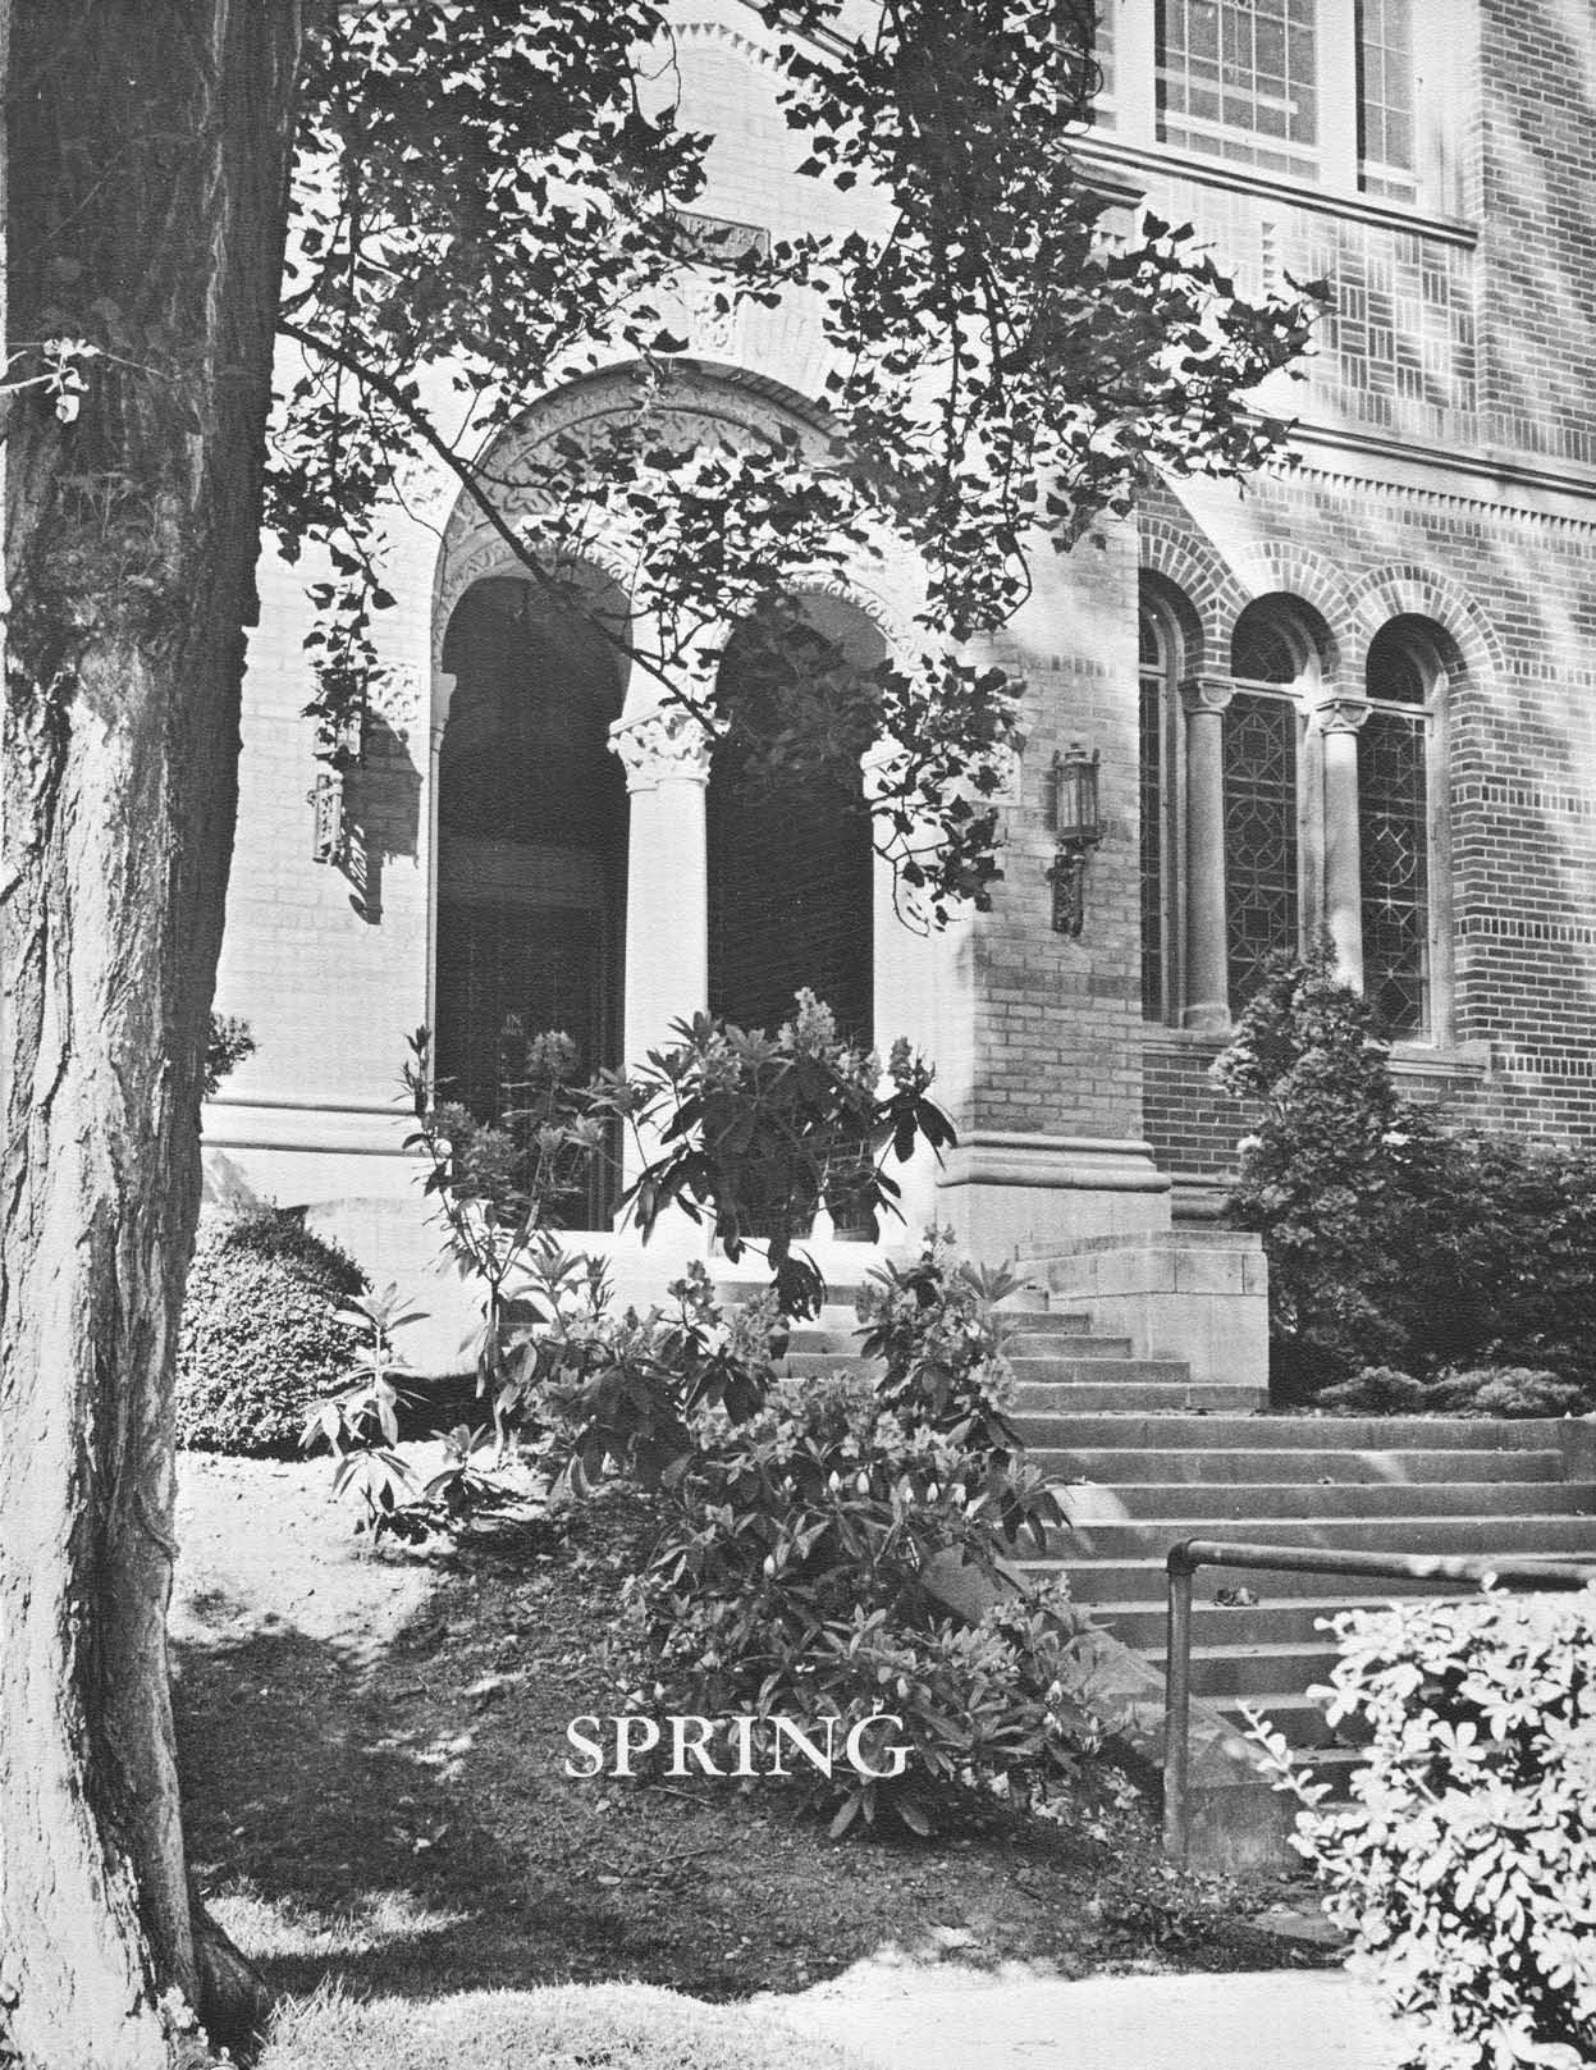

While people were carnivalizing, others enjoyed a calmer type of entertainment at the Senior Hall Name Changing Ceremony, as the house officially became Donovan Hall.

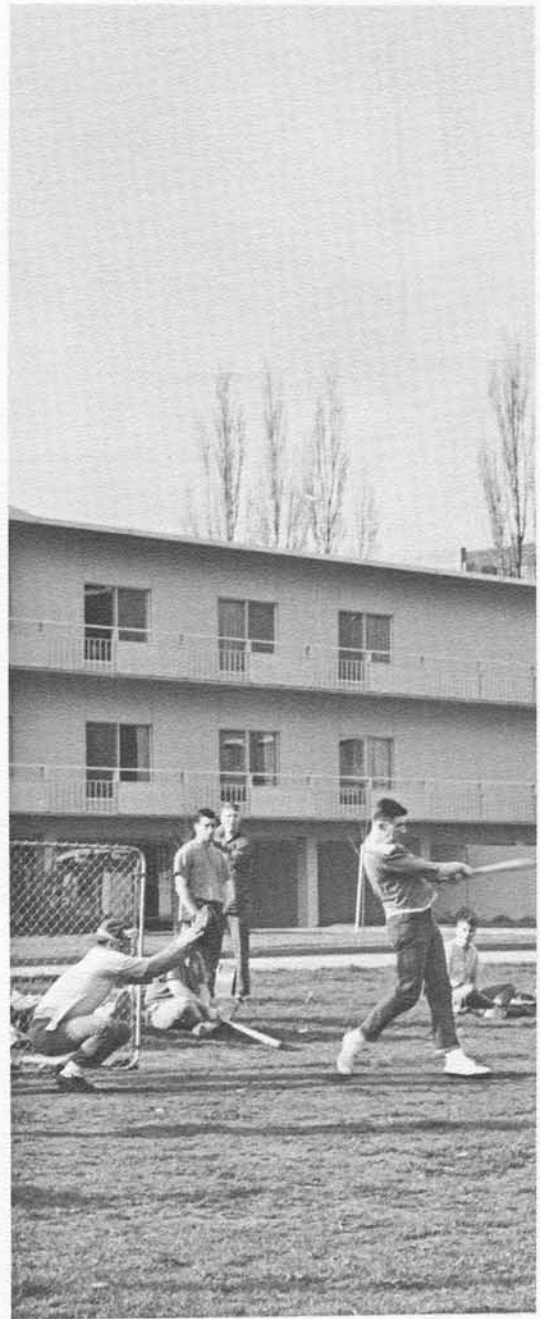

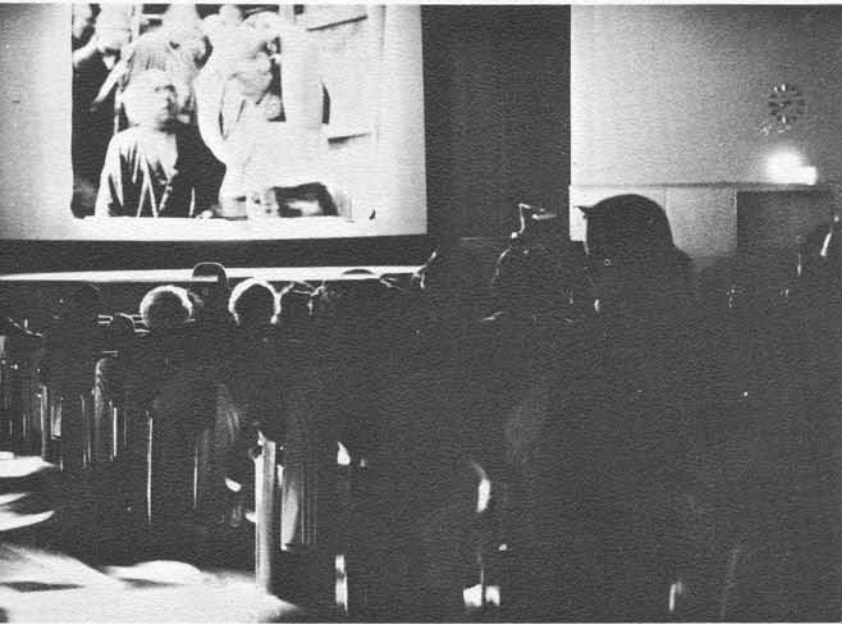

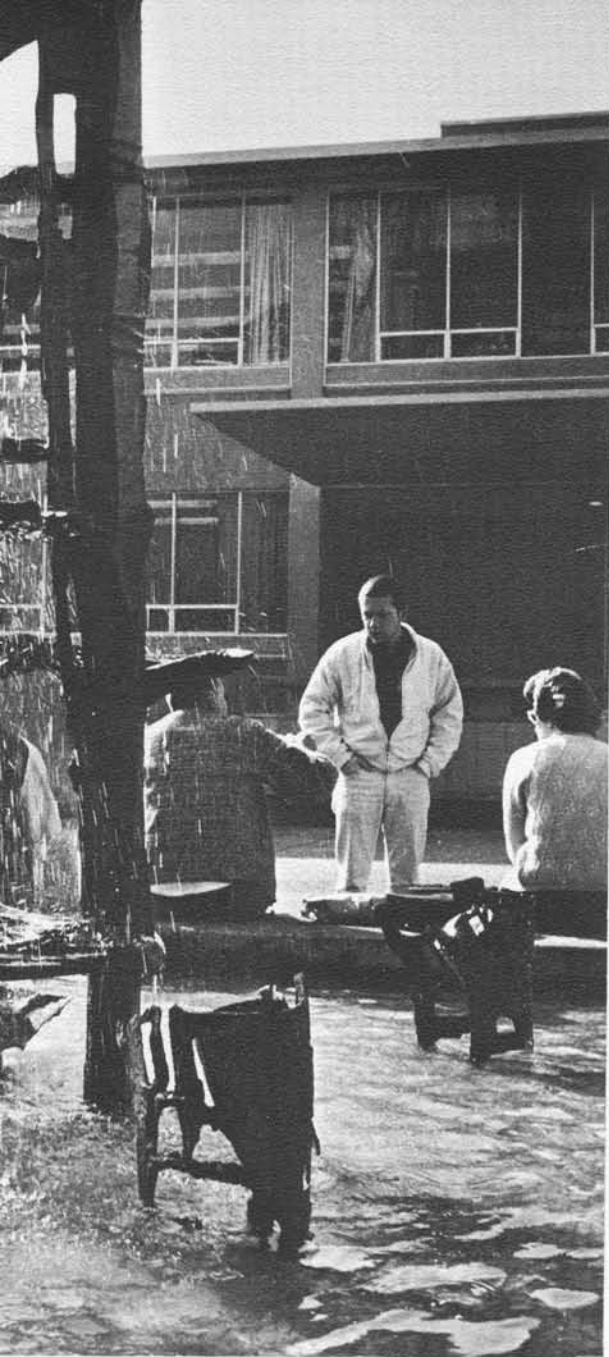

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was the romantic theme of this year's AWS-Norsemen sponsored Sweetheart's Ball. Fluffy white hearts hung from the ceiling and little red hearts decorated the pillars. Ernie Marshall and his combo supplied the music; Sue Hall and Phil Robicheau were co-chairmen. Lenore Stakulson and Frank Ceteznik were voted as Sweetheart Couple.

SPRING

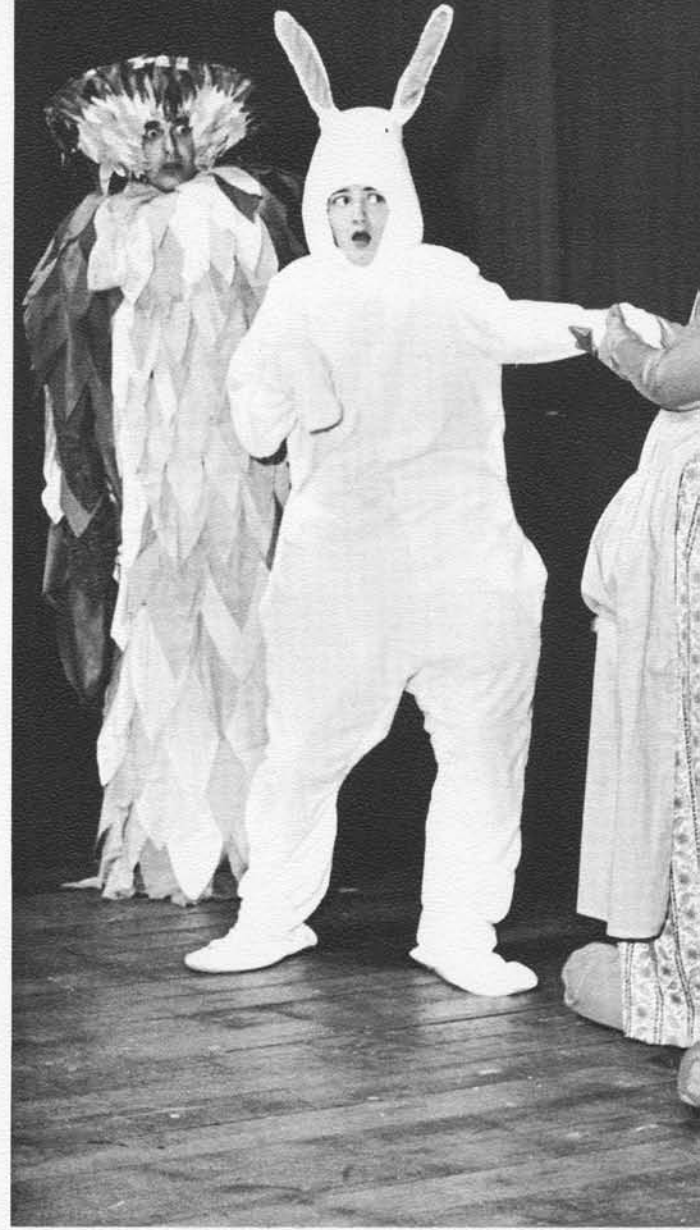

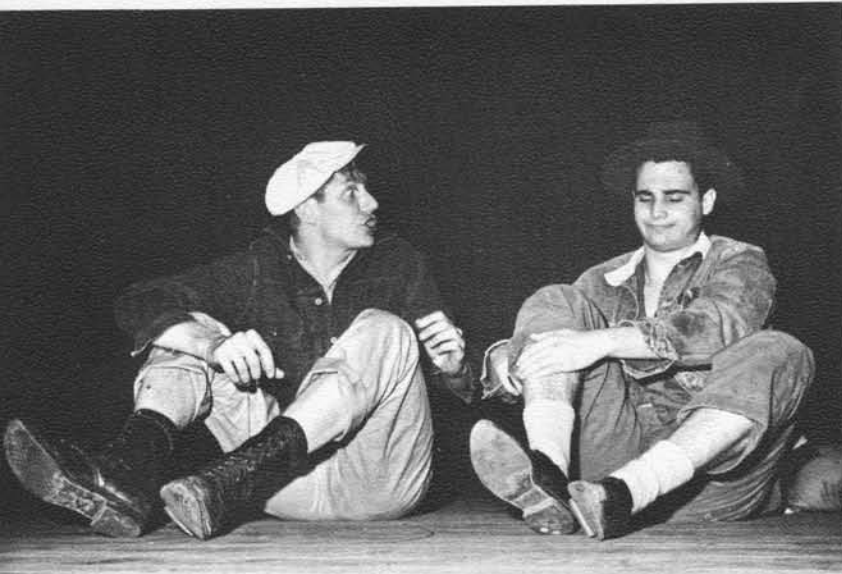

The ways that a college student can find to avoid studying are many and varied. They may also be, quite by accident, educational in themselves. Some students relax by watching good foreign films, others by taking advantage of the Concert and Lecture series which provides entertainment such as the group of Haitian dancers that began the Spring 1963 program. For many, spring means the outdoors. No one wants to stay inside when the sun is shining and one of the first signs is a baseball game in front of the Campus School. Intramural baseball is both popular and competitive at Western Spring quarter. For the less athletic, there is always conversation while seated around the Rain Forest. And have you ever tried getting some friends together and breaking up a piano?

PLAYS

"Of Mice and Men"

"Winnie-the-Pooh"

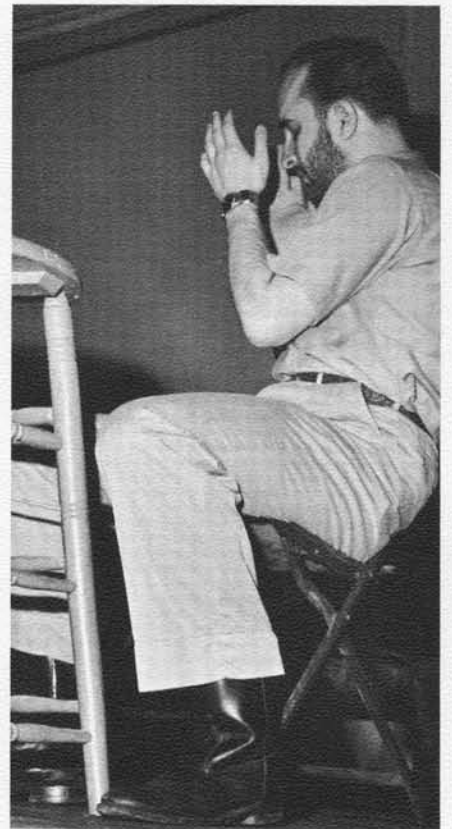

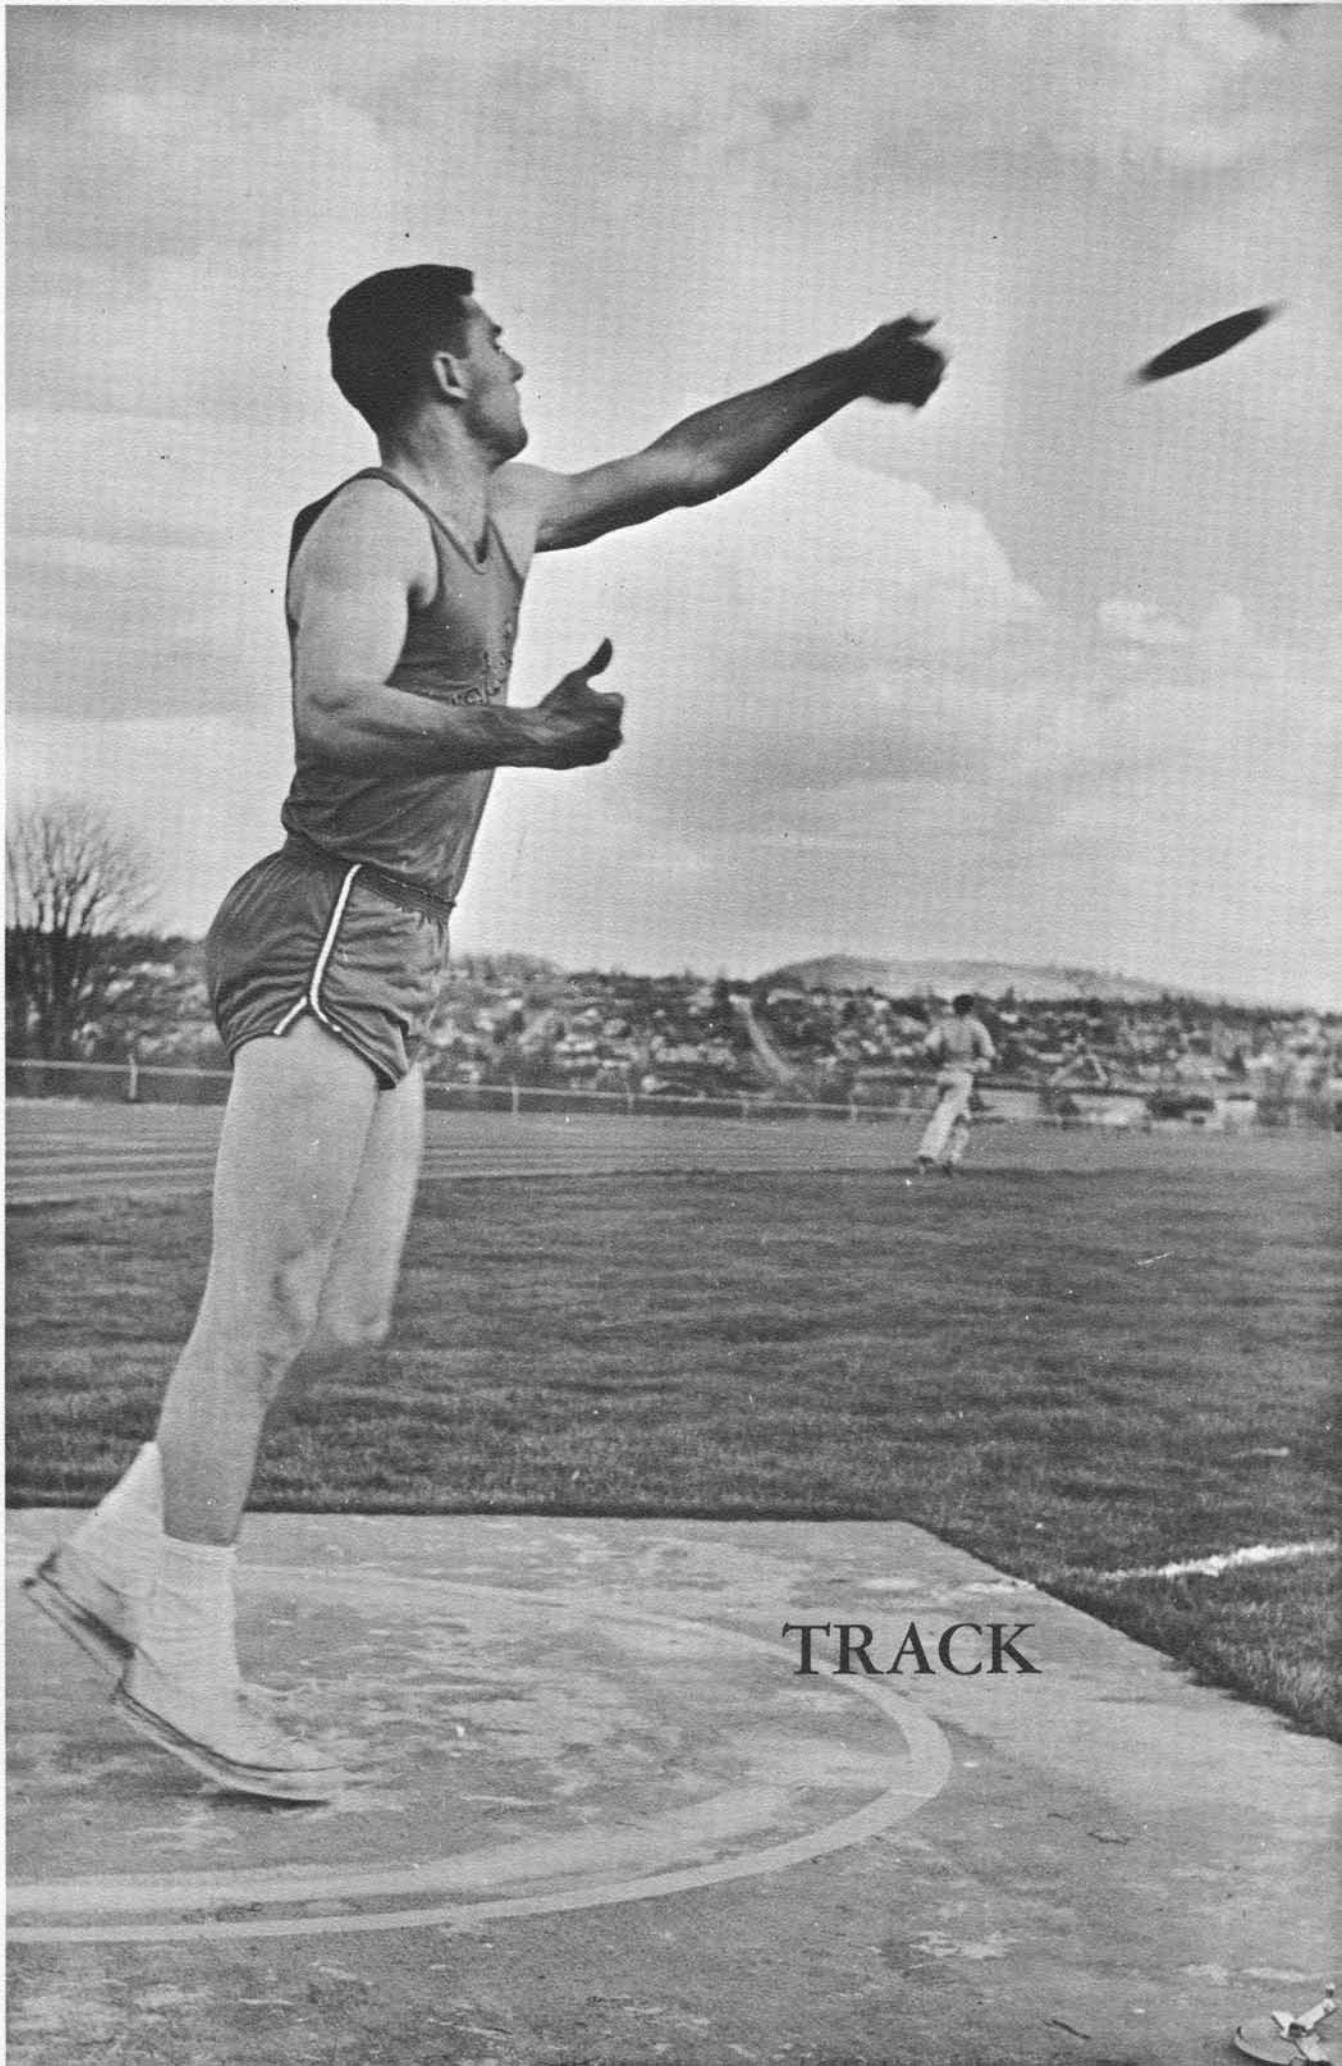

"H. M. S. Pinafore"

Spring quarter blossomed out into a bouquet of plays at Western's sunny campus. Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" was given first. Presented on a stage with only the barest set, the production proved very dramatic. Arranged in close proximity to this play was "Crimes and Crimes." Next, two delightful plays guaranteed to put springtime in one's heart were "Winnie-the-Pooh," a children's show, and "H.M.S. Pinafore," the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. The latter was presented by the departments of Speech and Music.

TRACK

With their strong distance team, the Viking track squad looked like it could be a contender for honors in the Evergreen Conference. Though they lacked strength in sprinting events, they were fairly strong in field events. The reason stemmed from Dick Nicholl and his outstanding performances in the shotput and discus events. Under the coaching of Jim Lounsberry, the team looked like it could be a year away from a championship. They lost to a strong U. of Wash. team early in the season and again to a well-balanced Central squad but came back strong against the Eastern Savages. Applause must be extended to Jim Freeman, Mike Jones, Ken Copeland and Dave Brown for their tremendous strength and ability in the distance events.

BASEBALL

Evergreen Conference Championship—this was the goal of the Viking baseball team for the 1963 season—Spirit was high as the Viks attempt to keep control of the Championship crown for another year. Early in the season, they suffered two losses to Seattle University, but this did not harm their aspirations. With many returning lettermen, the addition of new material, and the excellent coaching of Chuck Randall the squad looked well-balanced and strong. Stalwarts of the team included Ken Schulz, Fred Shull, Chuck Lindberg and Kim Wilson.

Strongest among the spring sports early in the season appeared to be the golf team. With Mr. Lappenbusch as the coach, the team was very optimistic about repeating its conference championship. On top of the five man squad is Paul Rudis, followed by Rick Wiehe, Tom Bearman, Jim Jorgenson, Joey Richards, and Ted King.

Coach John Eckerson

John Eckerson had a young team to work with in the area of tennis. The team consisted mainly of underclassmen and the number one man was sophomore Denny Lewis. This team was a dark horse in the race for the conference championship. They were a hard-working, enthusiastic squad and with their good depth they brought honors to another sport here at Western.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

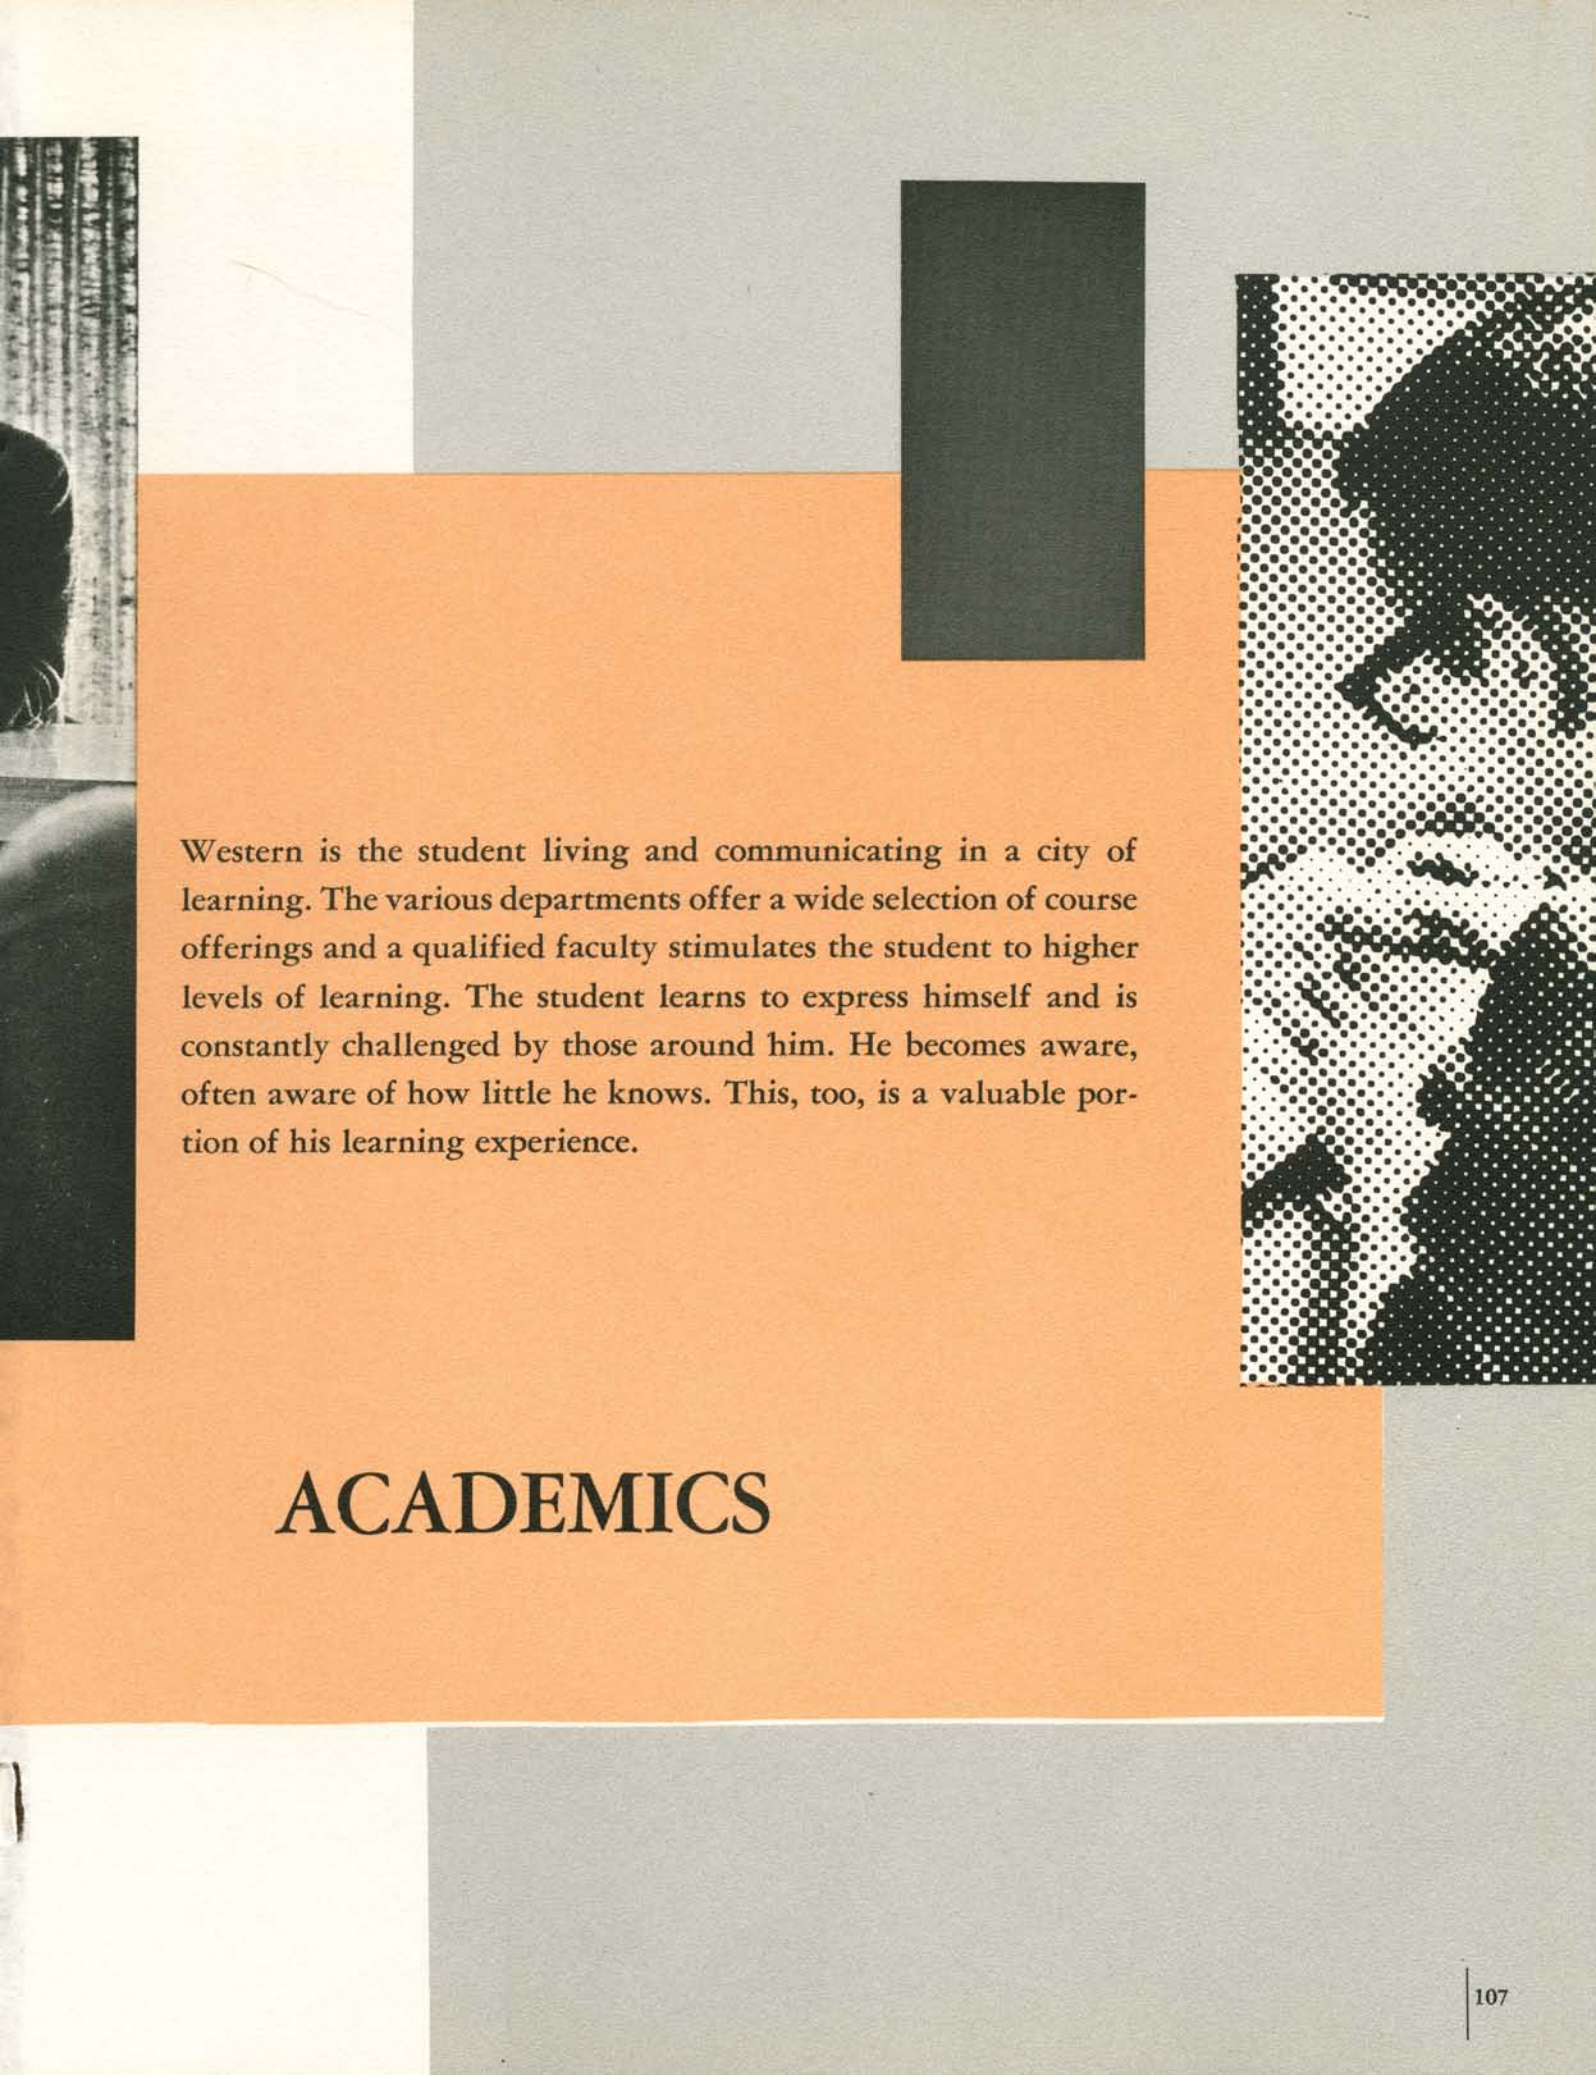

Intramural sports rate high on the Western Campus. Students find them to be a good way to let off steam and they often look like they are playing for national honors instead of inter-school recognition.

An audience knows a good game, and there is always a sizable group of spectators for any of the after-school sports. The activities run from basketball to baseball for the men, to hockey and badminton for the women. Intramurals give both a chance to compete and a chance to participate in sports to all of the students at Western.

The faculty even gets into the picture with its annual competition against the Bachelor's Club. Regardless of the team or the sport, the spirit at Western is always to win!

Western is the student living and communicating in a city of learning. The various departments offer a wide selection of course offerings and a qualified faculty stimulates the student to higher levels of learning. The student learns to express himself and is constantly challenged by those around him. He becomes aware, often aware of how little he knows. This, too, is a valuable portion of his learning experience.

Throughout a student's academic life, which does not end with college graduation, he is constantly learning and constantly searching. An atmosphere is present within Western which guides the student in this process. As Western grows various changes in her academic program are required to meet this growth. Entrance requirements were "tougher" this year. For the first time in her history Western was selective in admitting incoming freshman.

The Year in Perspective

Development of new programs, new procedures and revision of existing programs has been the concern of the Department of Education. Special education programs include the establishment of a new reading center. The office of Fifth Year Advise ment and Follow-up, combined with field services and research, has been instituted to provide for the college the kind of sustained activity in all those areas which should characterize Western's efforts to improve teacher education. Campus school teachers look ahead to 1963-64, when they will devote attention to research in a variety of fields of the elementary curriculum.

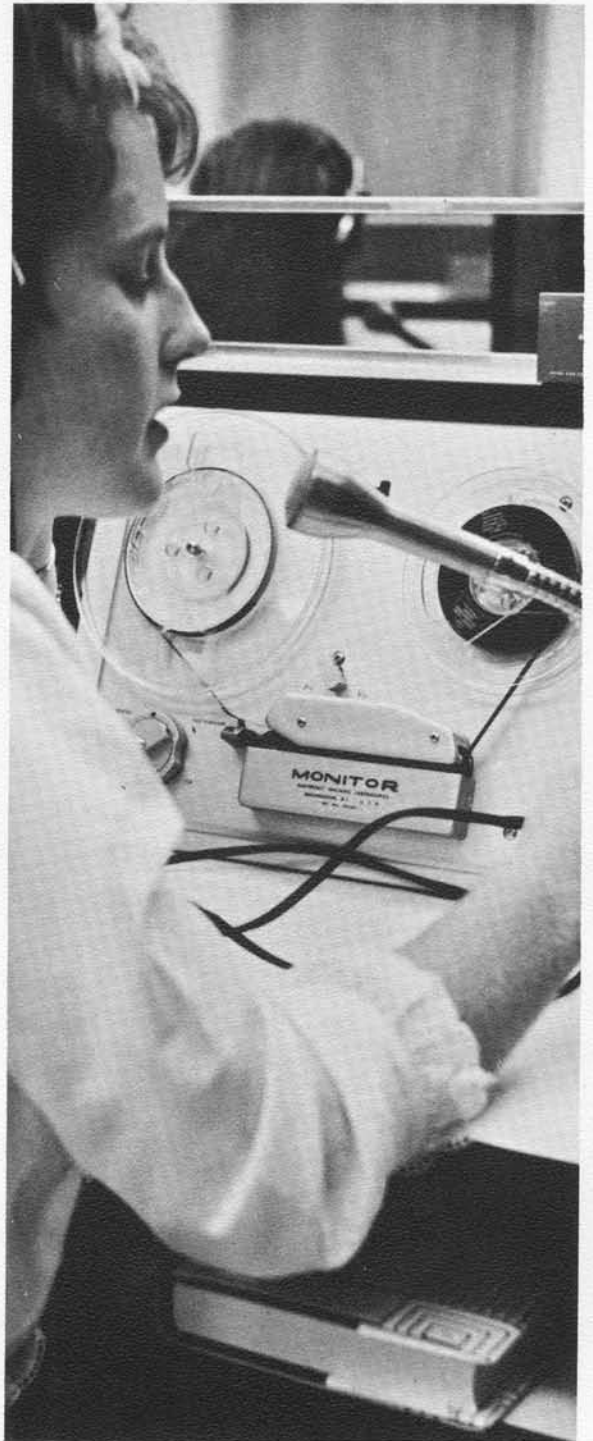

R. Waldo Emerson

Thought in verse came alive through poetry readings given by members of the English Department. Poetry readings, outside speakers, and departmental discussions contributed to form a closer relationship between the faculty and the student. Communication was further expanded as Dr. Skinner and Mr. Hovde helped to expand the literary magazine, Synchysis. Various members of the department published criticisms and Dr. Larson's book, Joyce Cary, was accepted for publication. Meanwhile Humanities students were given a multi dose of History, art, literature, and music.

Hawaii, FM radio, Winnie the Pooh, The Fourposter, neuro-muscular coordination. At first glance, these things seem rather divergent, but if one enters the hallowed heaven (top floor of Old Main) all can be readily explained. The Forensics Club orators traveled to Honolulu for a debate tournament. Facilities and equipment are being readied for the installation of an FM radio station to augment the development of the radio-TV program. Winnie the Pooh and the Fourposter were just two of the many dramatic offerings. Neuro-muscular coordination is the problem with which the speech and hearing therapists must work. All these comprise just a glimpse of the program maintained by the Speech Department.

Another department concerned with speech, although not in our native tongue is the Foreign language Department, who acquired a new 38 position electronic listen-respond-playback language laboratory as the department moved into the new Humanities Building.

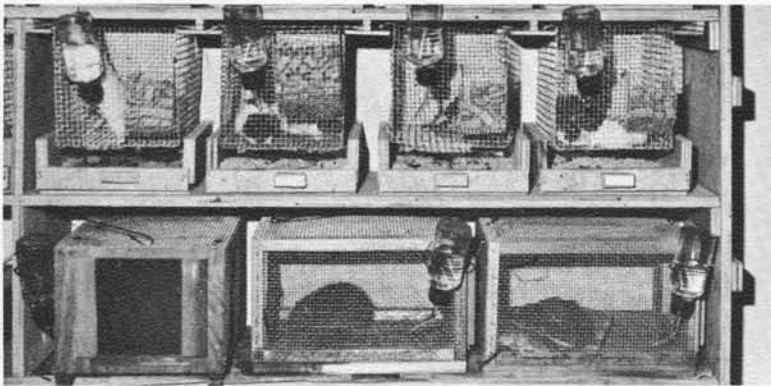

"The Impact of Transportation on Spatial Change" . . . "Plausible Inference in Mathematics" . . . "Man's position in Nature" . . . these are a few of the colloquia offered the capable student, the student who is academically talented and who constitutes a valuable resource in our society. Challenging and stimulating programs of study are available through the Honors Program. The program is oriented toward adequately developing the abilities of the academically talented individual. The lower division Honors Program began formally in 1960. This year, honors opportunities became available from college entrance to college graduation.

The nucleus of any academic institution to which all students turn is its library, a center of intellectual energy exploded by the unrelenting bombardment of ideas. Western's library gained new power and native potential with the remodeling of the old library and the construction of two five-story wings.

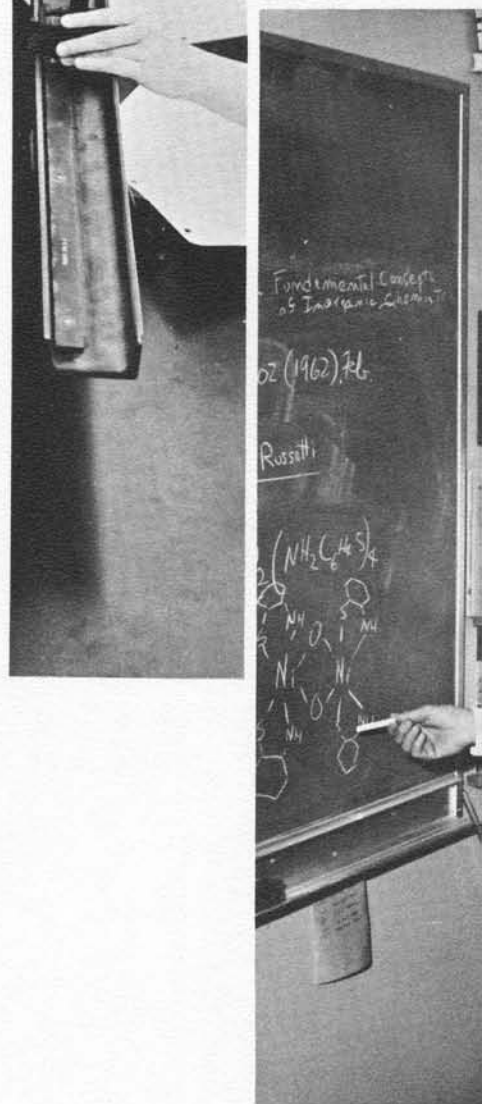

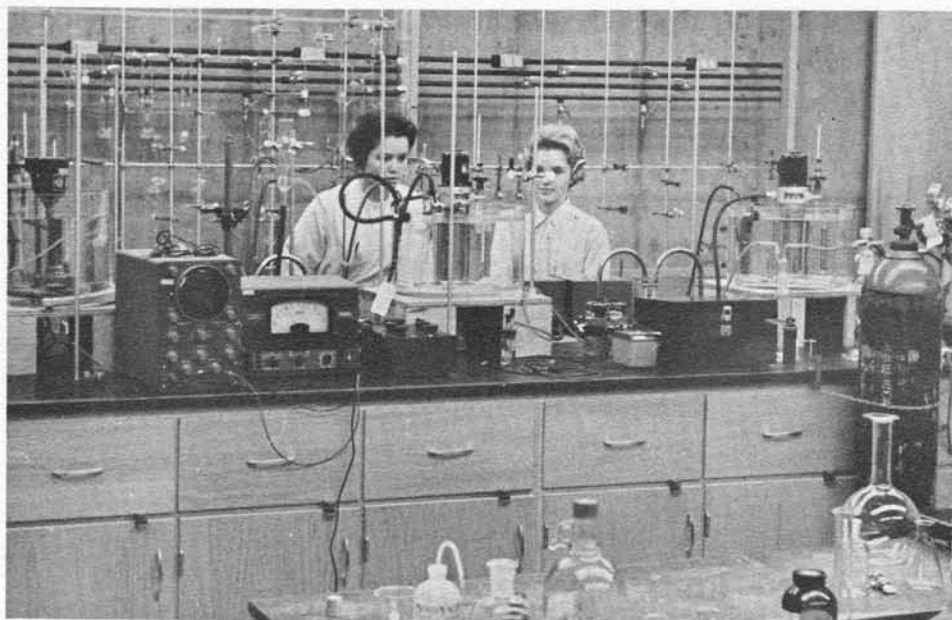

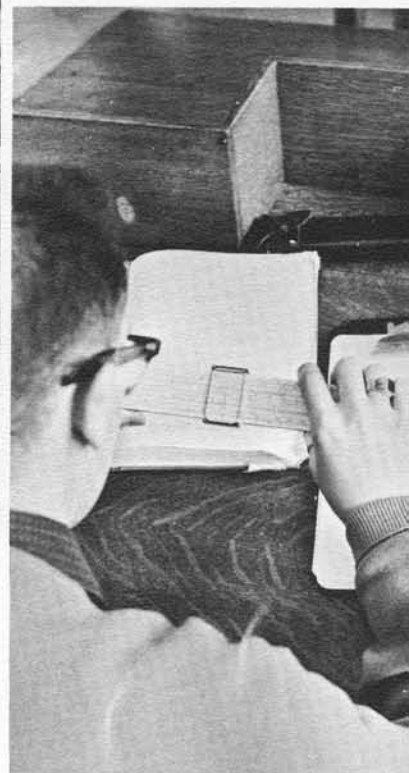

Experiment is a keystone, it seems, with the Psychology Department. An expanded and more elaborate facility has provided for a comparative laboratory in Old Main and an experimental program in the psychological foundation of education designed to allow selected sophomores in teacher education to satisfy psychology requirements by independent study and small seminar groups. This is only part of the program which provides constant improvement of the quality of education possible at Western.

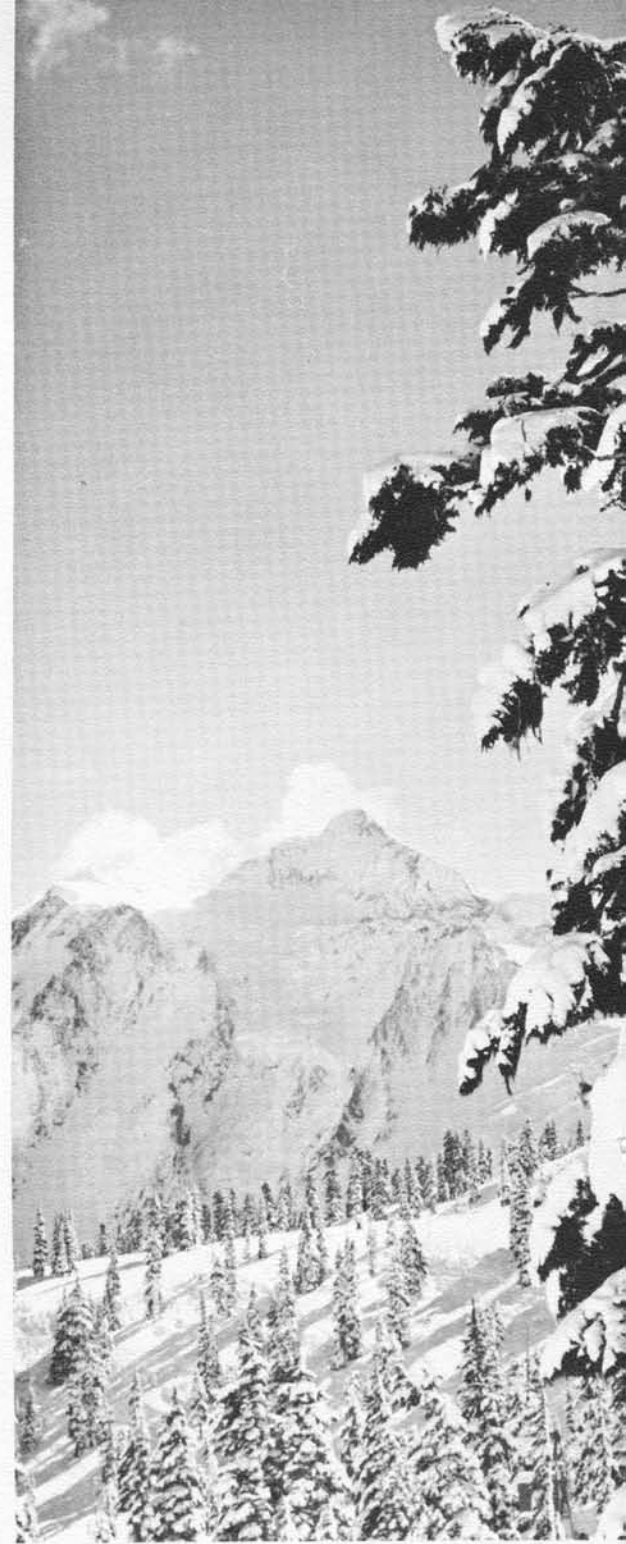

Likewise, practical experience is a keystone with the Department of Biology. The Rain Forest, the variability of Puget Sound, the Cascades, and semi-desert areas form diverse environments and make this area an exceptional place for the student of Biological Science.

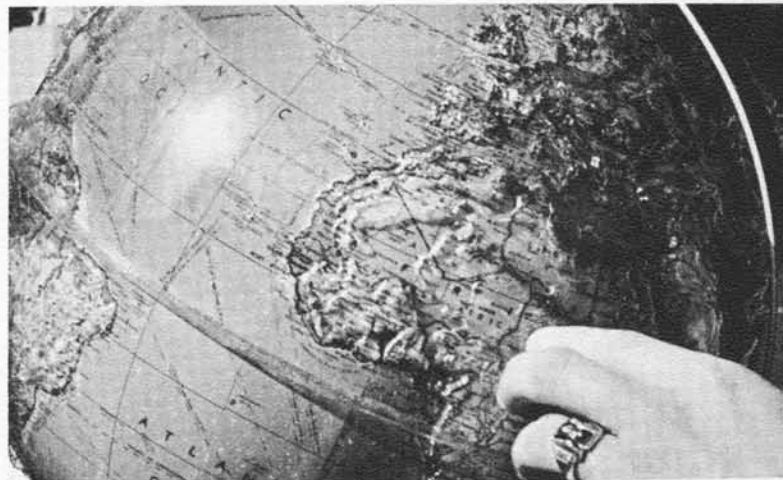

A math curriculum to meet future needs is an accomplishment of Western's Math Department. Members of the department have been concerned with the revision of mathematics involving new guidelines for the teaching of this subject in the public schools. Teachers in turn must be reeducated to be competent to instruct new and advanced subjects. Mate to the math computer is a 400-channel analyzer, a vital piece of nuclear equipment for instruction and for research. A grant from the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission was received for support of nuclear chemical research being done by Dr. Neuzil with two student participants. The curriculum has undergone further changes in both teacher education and the arts and sciences. One aspect has been the addition of Biochemistry to the subject areas.

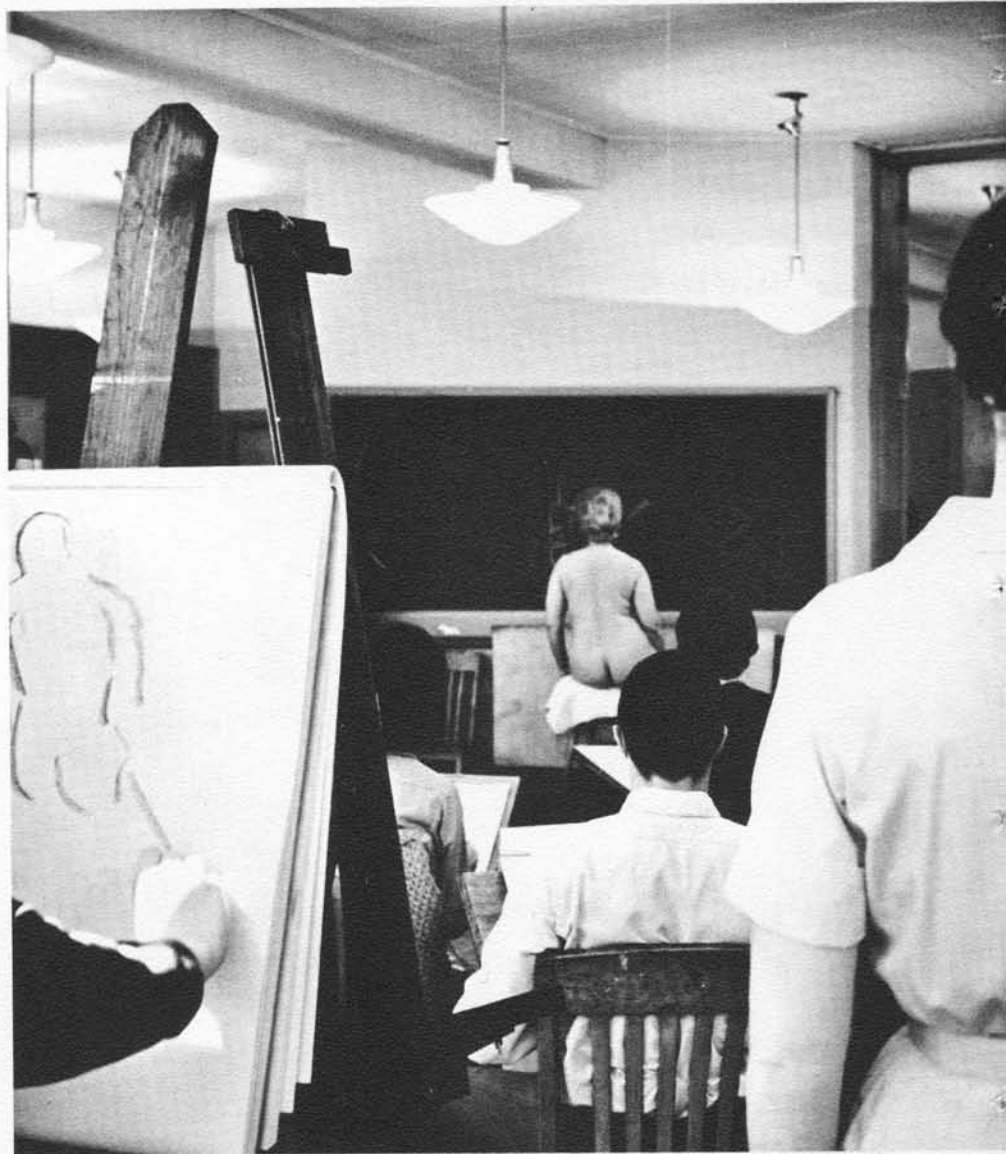

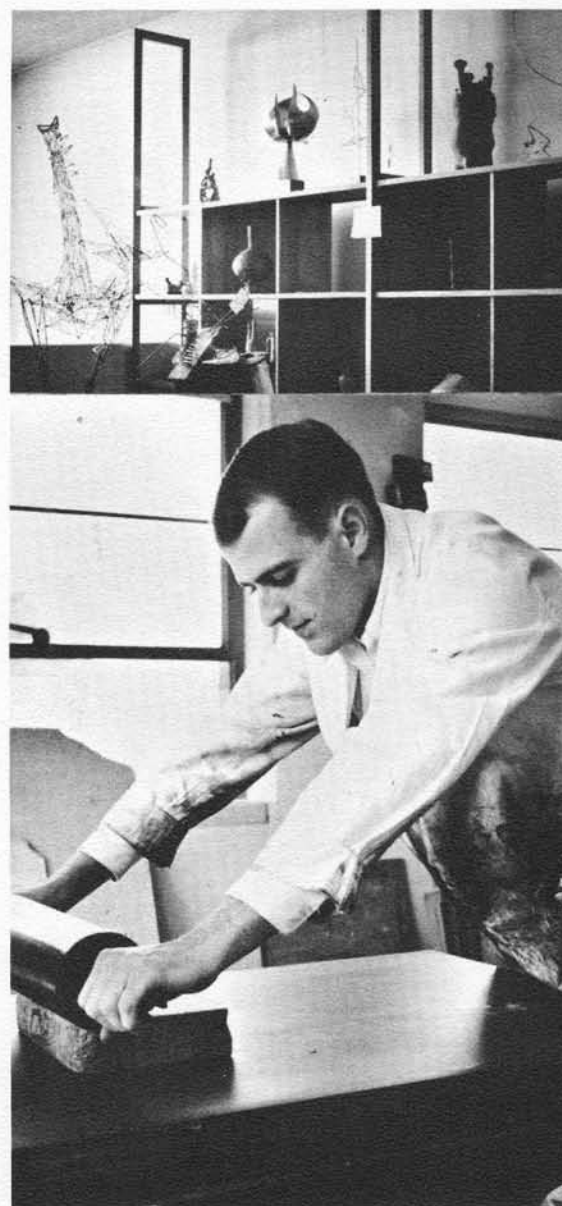

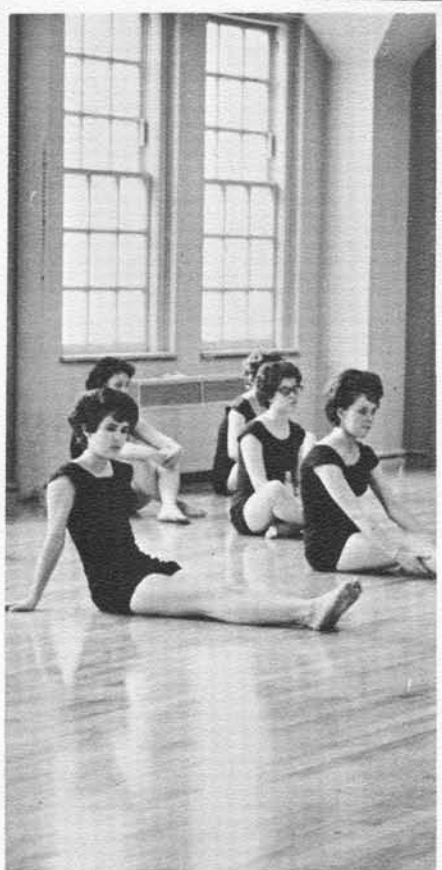

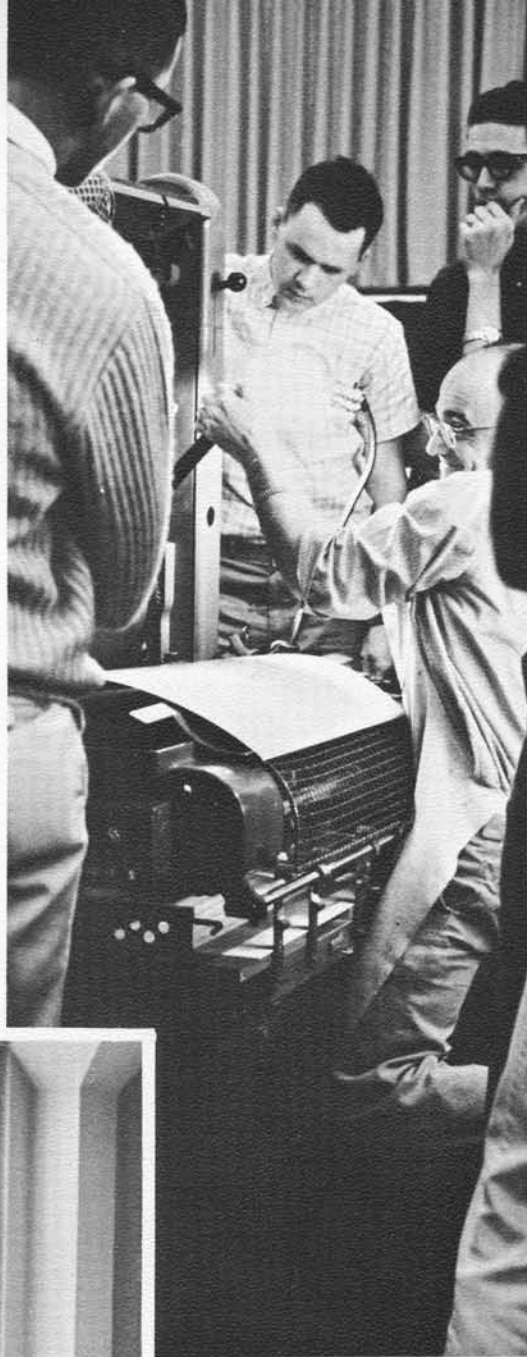

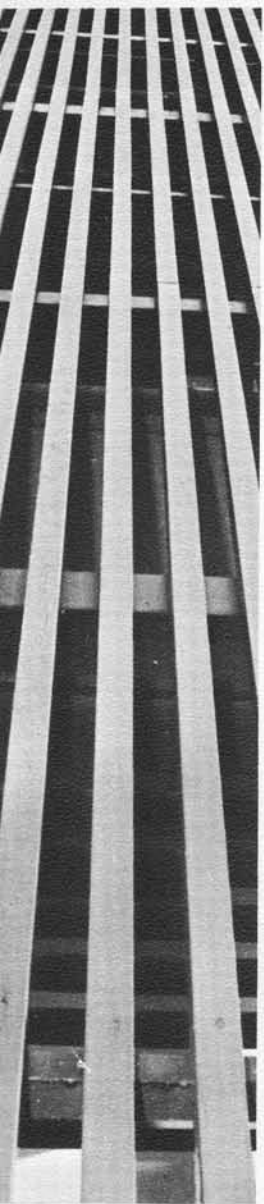

Representing the highest of the high and the lowest of the low, the Geology Department sponsored lecturers on "The Ice Ages and the Edge of the Sea" by Dr. Joseph Curray of Scripps Institute of Oceanography and on "The Biology of the Northern Cascades" by Dr. Peter Misch of the University of Washington. Continuing his studies of the glacial history of the northern Puget Sound under a National Science Foundation Grant is Dr. Don Easterbrook. Entering the portals of classical areas of geology will be Dr. Robert Christman on an international field trip financed by the National Science Foundation. To meet the demands of education, the department is offering a major in Earth Science for elementary and junior high teachers. It is obvious that the members of the Geology Department aren't letting any moss grow on their stones.

New impetus has been added to the life drawing sequences offered by the Art Department with the addition of a professional model. Students found both challenge and inspiration working with new media of lithograph, serigraph, and woodcut in a new course in printmaking. The Art Department gallery offered the usual faculty and student exhibits. No doubt practical experience is the lifeline of the arts. As the artist displays his paintings and sculptures, the music student exhibits his talents through such groups as the College Choir, Western Statesmen, or Dance Band. This serves to provide experience for the musician, while entertaining the student and enhancing his cultural and recreational life.

Male and female are seemingly segregated in certain departments. However the distinctions are becoming less defined. More men are becoming interested in various fields in Home Economics, women can be found in Industrial Arts, and most P.E. classes are mixed.

The Home Economics Department has adopted new attire in dressing its students for the dual role of marriage and a professional career.

Science as the god-head performs the theoretical function for technology but some force must translate these theories into material entities. This force is composed of engineers, designers and skilled craftsmen, all trained by the Industrial Art Department.

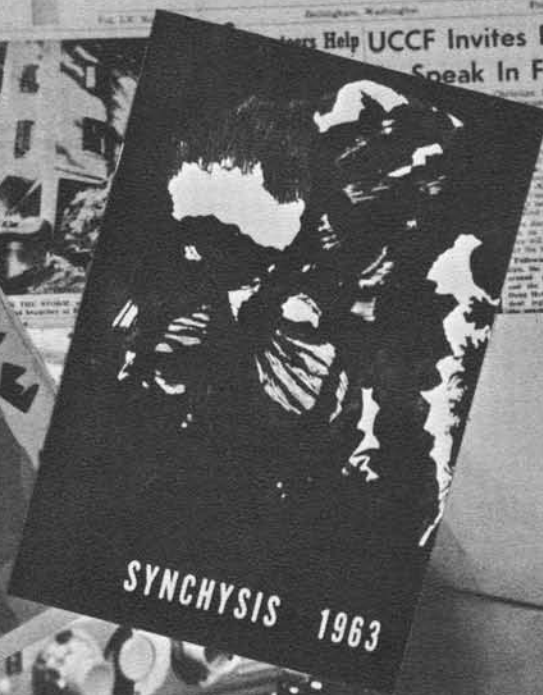

Meanwhile the Physical Education Department kept its students physically fit through activities ranging from movement fundamentals to wrestling, soccer to basketball, tennis to baseball.

Many are the changes that have occurred during the past seventy years. The teacher curriculum has progressed, the faculty has grown, the student body expanded, and buildings built along with old ones remodeled. So on the 70th anniversary of Founder's Day the college paused to pay tribute to those who through the years have been responsible for the progressive development of Western.

While Richard Nixon and "Pat" Brown were battling in California, another minor political upheaval was taking shape at Western. The Students were kept informed about this and other events through the weekly publication of the Collegian. Under the editorship of Bill Burke, the Collegian returned to the standard tabloid format. "Straight" news filled the pages as the first function of a newspaper was carried out. Opinions came out in editorials and letters to the editor.

Dick Simmons expanded on it when he took over the editorial spot at the beginning of Winter Quarter. He spent the rest of the year making the new sensational Collegian "the best college weekly in the State of Washington and points South."

KLIPSUN STAFF

Amid copy, pictures, I. D., and ever present deadlines, the Klipsun for 1963 was planned, formed, and published. Under the editorship of Gary Sirguy and his assistant, Leslie Bumgarner, the staff tried to represent you the student as you exist among the virtues and vexations of life at Western. Action in pictures and copy was the goal. Static group photos were eliminated in order to represent and describe the true character of the student whether going to class, drinking coffee in the Viking Union, or taking part in his favorite activities.

VIKING

Christmas Concerts, singing for the Rotary Club, Choral, Pop and Children's Concerts, Spring Festival, and Parent's day contribute to the world of the music student at Western. Covering wide areas in musical taste, Western's singing and instrumental groups supplement the night life of music lover and inquiring student alike. Football games and Pop Concerts are the province of the members of the Viking Band who entertained crowded stands at the Homecoming game with their marching formations. The wind ensemble is considered a band by bureaucratic decree but follows the College Chamber Orchestra in attracting the more astute student of music.

As well as performing as an entity the choir is divided into the Coed Chorus, a women's group, and the Western Statesmen the men's group. Among other activities the Coed Chorus sang for the alumni during Homecoming while the Western Statesmen entertained at other Homecoming festivities.

Concert Chorale

Dr. Bernard Regier, Director

The Vocolegians, formerly the Madrigal singers, present a diversified repertoire of works appearing in productions ranging from the Northwest Renaissance Concert and the Chamber Music Concert to singing for the Women's Music Club and the Humanities program.

The select forty-five member Concert Corale sings for Civic groups and conventions in the Bellingham area as well as making presentations on campus and making their annual tour which this year included fifteen high schools.

CLASSES

Class lines are not strongly defined except in determining who registers when. Often, however, they separate distinct personalities, such as the eager and excitable freshman questioning and often perplexed, or the more experienced and calm sophomore, still questioning but standing on firmer foundations. Then there is the junior sanctioned with a new determination which springs with the realization that he has come halfway in his college career. The senior has overcome many of the obstacles and carries with him many exciting memories experienced during his college life.

He reflects the changes he has seen and been a part of at Western; he is eager to enter a new phase of his life, still questioning, perhaps sad in leaving, but as excited as the freshman about what is to come.

For a number of students the spring of 1963 meant graduation. Whether or not this was to be end of their formal education depended upon the individual. But it is for certain, that they all remember the time spent at Western. It has been a hard course of study that has prepared them for their chosen field, but they have received much more.

They have been a part of an active student government which has allowed them to participate within its boundaries in a free and democratic manner. They have had the opportunity to use a full and active social program—a chance to learn to become at ease.

The undergraduates at Western make up the heart of the student body, and it is for this reason that they have been consolidated within this book. Every year the student moves in an upward path toward his graduation, and so it is the position of the undergraduates to carry the educational and social life of the college from one term to the next. For purposes of student government they may be divided into individual classes — but for the purpose of gaining an education they are necessarily an interdependent group.

*Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.*

*But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.*

*Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;*

*For tho' from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.*

CROSSING THE BAR
Alfred Tennyson
