

Look ....

By WALT BAKER

...After last week's bit of sticking my neck out about this and that and the other thing, I'll start this week's LOOK by relating a humorous incident that really happened to a student of the University of Notre Dame recently. It seems that this fellow, back in the year 1940 needed a job and applied to several concerns in the city of Chicago. Just picture a neatly dressed freshman business ad major tramping into the office of an intended employer. The interview went something like this

Y. M...... I understand you have an opening for a third assistant ink salesman?

Employer.....(Very busily fussing with papers) "Have you a P.H. D., L. L. D. and a Phi Beta Kappa key?"

Y. M. "No, I ah....."

Employer: Sorry, we employ no one unless he has at least two degrees.

...TIME AS USUAL STAGGERS ON.....

Neatly dressed young man entering office...(same one).

...Employer Come right in! How does that chair fit? Your salary will be $300.00 per month and you'll work a five day a week schedule. Hours from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., with two hours off for lunch. We'll also furnish traveling expenses to and from your home. What do you say?

Y. M. Well swell, but I.....?

Employer. You'll have two private secretaries and an air conditioned office.

Y. M. "Well, I.....?"

Employer.....We'll even throw in an unlimited gasoline card and a cream convertible and eight brand new tires!

Y. M. That'd be swell, and I'd like to accept, but I just came down to tell you that I'm leaving for the army next week. (You had to use your imagination a little, but it gives one a general idea of conditions.)

DEAD END: Last weekend will go down as one of the events that will be hard to forget in life here at Western Washington.....Saturday evening, your scribe and the majority of Hospice's population, including the women, hopped into our transportation vehicle, and journeyed out to the summer home of JOHN ROBERT GERMAIN, located at Neptune Beach—A good evening salt water swim opened the proceedings, followed by a beach fire party, with heaps of potato salad, sandwiches, chicken and ice cold drinks.....This was followed with songs, recorded music, story telling, etc. The next morning a swim before a breakfast of hot stacks, etc. Climax of the weekend was that excellent barbecued salmon of MR. GERMAIN'S (I can't go on.) By the way, the Germain place is tabbed, "Dead End."

AMERICA AND COLLEGE

God built a continent with glory, filled with treasures untold. He bedecked it with soft rolling prairies and pillared it with thundering mountains. He studded it with flowing fountains and encompassed it with long winding streams. He graced it with deep and shadowed forests and glistening blue waters.

These treasures would have meant little if myriads of people, the bravest of races had not come, each

Carter Comes Tuesday

Juanita Carter, American soprano, will appear in Tuesday's assembly.

Born in Frankfort, Kentucky, Miss Carter has been singing since she was four, and when she was thirteen, she took up music as a career. Studying in New York under Oscar Seagle and later with Nadia Boulanger, she has sung with many oratorio societies and in concert. Miss Carter was the leading soprano with the Philadelphia Opera Company, and has appeared with the Boston Symphony, the National Symphony Orchestra, and the CBS orchestra, under Howard Barlow.

Next Friday's assembly is the dance recital by Eleanor King.

Remedial Meet Big Success

The conference on the Education of Exceptional Children, which was held here last Thursday and Friday, July 6 and 7, was well attended by college students and educators from off the campus. The conference was sponsored by the state department in cooperation with the college. Those who attended report that it was all very interesting and decidedly worth-while.

At 10 o'clock on the first day, President Haggard gave the address of welcome, followed by the singing of the National anthem, led by Don Bushell. Miss Emma Erickson gave a brief overview of the conference. Mr. E. L. Lindman of the state department told of the individual differences in children. Mrs. Beryl Bruff of Lowell School accepted the challenge for the schools of the state of Washington. Then followed a symposium on special service agencies and departments which are ready to help the schools: Mr. W. H. Dutton gave a summary of the morning session. Miss Erickson adjourned the meeting to go to Edens Hall for luncheon.

At one o'clock in the afternoon the Workshop in Academic Problems was conducted by Miss Erickson, and the Workshop in Problems in Vision was conducted by Miss Elizabeth Mills of the State Department.

Pan-American Show Concludes Today

The Pan-American Art Exhibit being shown daily in the studio of the Art Department of Western Washington College will be shown for the last time today.

The exhibit, which consists of creations from the masters of Mexico, Central and South America, has been made possible by the San Francisco Museum of Art. Some of the individual pictures have been loaned by their artists, Carlos Enriquez, Antonio Sotomayor and Felipe Orlando, others have been loaned by their owners: Miss Elise Honigbaum and Dr. Max Honigbaum and anonymous donors.

Featuring a Latin American Program of music and dancing at today's assembly was a group from the University of Washington. The group included: Virginia McCallum, pianist; Bonnie Jean Douglas, violinist, and Carmen Nelson, dancer.

Much Needed Staff Directory Board Under Construction

Do you know where to find the office of your history teacher? If a visitor asked you, could you direct him to librarian's office or the office of the janitor?

Nearly every student on the campus has at one time been in this embarrassing predicament, where he cannot locate a particular faculty member.

For the past three years plans have been projected for a guide which would solve the problem. Though none of these plans materialized, a start on a directory was made this spring by Lorna Jean Booras and Marilyn Anderson, WW Collegian staff members. This summer another staff member, Pat Bellingham, is working on this catalogue of offices.

Upon completion, the directory, which will be of wood construction, will carry the names and office numbers of all faculty and administrative assistants, listed alphabetically, under department headings. As now planned, the directory will be placed inside the entrance to the main building on the left hand side of the stairway.

Next Industrial Trip To Plywood Plant

The next industrial trip will be taken through the Plywood plant on Tuesday afternoon, July 18th. Group will meet at the plant at 3:30, and the mimeographed sheets describing the various processes may be obtained in advance from the Recreation Office.

Conference to Close Today

Closing the weeks conference with this afternoon's session will be the Junior Red Cross Workshop. The only thing of its kind being offered in our state this summer, the Workshop has been well attended.

Miss Ruth Henderson, Educational Assistant to the National Director of the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., and Dr. John Michaelis, Student Teaching director at Fresno State college have headed the weeks activities.

Among the displays of various articles made for use by the men of the armed forces, were bound stories, joke books, greeting cards, ash trays, fracture pillows, and many other articles which would

Hicks Nominated to AAUP Council

Dr. Arthur C. Hicks, acting registrar, has just received notice from Ralph E. Himstead, General Secretary of the American Association of University Professors, of his nomination for membership on the Council of the Association from District X.

One of the two nominees will be elected by the membership of the Association late this year or early in 1945. The other nominee for District X is Professor W. E. Bryan, Plant Biology, of the University of Arizona. District X includes seven western states, Hawaii and British Columbia.

Dr. Hicks was president of the local AAUP chapter during 1939-40, vice-president in 1940-41. He is now serving as secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Trustees Favor Granting BA Degrees

Trustees, Presidents, Withhold Planning; Improvements Contingent on WPB; Ellensburg Re-Modeling Also Budgeted.

Meeting in Seattle last Saturday, trustees and presidents of the three Colleges of Education discussed the proposed granting of Liberal Arts degrees, and 1945-47 budgets.

The group went on record favoring the granting of liberal arts degrees by the teacher training colleges.

PLANS DELAYED

No plans were developed at the meeting regarding procedures to secure passage of the bill. Dr. Haggard stated he felt the group would wait until after the November elections before furthering their plans.

Included in the budget plans were allotments for the proposed new buildings on the campus. Among the future structures are the men's dormitory, a new industrial arts building, and improvements to the heating plant. Ellensburg is also planning to make changes on its campus.

WPB MUST ACT

Proposed changes are contingent not only on passage of proper legislation, but also upon the War Production Board. It will be necessary not only to secure the funds, but also to wait until the school has priorities, or the war is ended.

Representing WWC, aside from Dr. W. W. Haggard at the meeting were the two trustees, Dr. W. D. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the board, and Verne Branigin, secretary. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Steve Saunders has not yet been filled. Members of the board of trustees are appointed by the governor.

Dead Lines

By PAT BELLINGHAM

Greetings again! Time for another private session with my public. Come back here public! You'll get your pay check at the first of the month.

Suppose you are all ready for the big tests next week.

I, for one, would like to see the sculpturing class's test. Maybe Miss Burley could show us a model exam.....

It's rumored that Miss Countryman's nutrition classes are developing B-complexes. Could that be the reason for Allene Rue's blushing countenance?

Especially you people who haven't gone on the rec trips before should now be interested in the Orcas Island trip. It's an ideal vacation all sewed up and a chance to swim and hike to romantic places. Bargain price of four dollars is good for this weekend only.

The Hospice "Dead-End Kids" should be just in the mood for such a jaunt after their visit to Neptune Beach.

Classified advertisement: Have you applied for the job as student lounges manager? Well, why haven't you? Don't you like to have coke bottles thrown at you? Or perhaps the blaring music doesn't appeal to your artistic sense. Don't let that faze you though. Betty Ann Groger wants YOU (don't crowd) to apply for this position. P. S. The position pays, too.

Have you heard the one about the lady who told the unwelcome guest to get out of her house and never darken her guest towel again?

Marvelous what electricity has accomplished.....

For instance, it makes all night studying possible (marvelous that a little illumination on the subject is all it takes.)

Don't take this to heart, kids, I don't want to have to be like the Watchbird and ask, "Were you an Exam-Crammer this week?"

Well, gotta go now, public. I need to hit the sack for an hour before that 7:30 class..... Remember how we all used to kick about 8 o'clock? Them were the days!

Campus Browser Uncovers Hoard

While browsing around on the campus Monday afternoon I came across several members of the art classes sitting on the knoll behind the librar building sketching.

Some were drawing pictures of the Campus School building—others were trying to draw the library building. Still others were making pictures of trees.

Mr. John Paul Jones, architect, was here Thursday, July 13, at the Campus school building making final decisions. Painting of the inside walls of the school will begin immediately following close of the Campus school, July 19.

Did you know that we have $40,000 hoarded away under lock and key. No, it isn't in cash, it's in boilers—more or less. Yes, it's our new boilers. But—we don't use them for the duration of the war because of lack of materials to use them with.

The above cross-section is a part of Next Wednesday the first term of summer quarter ends. Many of you are leaving WWC for the final time, with that long coveted degree tucked under your arm. The Collegian staff wishes you the fulfillment of your dreams and ambitions. However, we hope you will not forget the fun, the friends, the frolics you've had at WWC, and that these things will remain in your memories.

By WALTER BAKER

Just five years ago today six gay, young graduate teachers of Western Washington College had their lives snuffed out by one of the most terrible catastrophes that ever befell a mountain hiking party anywhere in the world.

With no more warning than an almost inaudible swish, a portion of Mt. Baker swooped down upon an unexpected party of young collegiate hikers. When the slide had completed its mission of death, a count of the party revealed that six of its members were missing. JULIUS DORNBLUT, ALICE JAMES, MAYNARD HOWATT, HOPE WEITMAN, VENE FISHER, and BEULAH LINDBERG did not answer roll call which was sounded off by hike leaders, L. A. McGee, Chet Ullin and Don Cross. They were dead.

Death is a five letter word that means a lot. Not only does it mean just dying, but what after that. Those six young people, climbing Mt. Baker, full of happy thoughts, didn't want to die, but that's the way death is. You never know. That's why out of due respect and in memory of those people, we, who are still alive, should think more about the meaning of the word. Maybe it's just fear that doesn't let us think too strongly on the subject. If it is fear that does it, let it be so. For it is not a fear that deprives one of the use of his reason, but rather a fear that clarifies the atmosphere of the mind and sharpens the powers of reason itself. It is not fear that causes the mind to be "sicklied" with the pale cast of thought, but rather the mind that has become sluggish through unrestrained passion, the mind of the person that adopts the philosophy of eat, drink and be merry, but without the thought that tomorrow one may die. He is satisfied to know that he is alive and well. He rarely reflects on why he is at all or on what is the ultimate meaning and purpose of life.

The memory of those six young people will live long in the hearts of the faculty and the school. You just don't forget things such as that. A memorial has been erected to commemorate the occasion of their deaths. Whenever you pass that memorial, today and any other day, but today especially, just mutter a prayer for the six students, whose names will be placed on separate plaques as soon as the war ceases.

The following is a short poem written especially for BEULAH LINDBERG, ALICE JAMES, HOPE WEITMAN, JULIUS DORNBLUT, VENE FISHER and MAYNARD HOWATT. The author is Charles E. Butler. Former WWC Reference Librarian.

MEMORIAL POEM

Now you will be forever young:
 Now you will never grow old in a silence, knowing the early music sung.
 For you now there will never be the slow breaking
 Of the early dream, the abandoned undertaking,
 The fine plans forgotten and put aside.....
 There will be none of this for you now: you were young when you died.
 You will never listen now for music finished:
 For you the song ends on the high note, unflinching, undiminished.
 And you will be forever climbing upward now, the long splendid climb:
 Weariness can never hold you back, nor the world, nor Time.
 Goodbye: the dream endures.
 You will be young forever; the heights will be forever yours.

An architect's plans of a Memorial for those students who lost their lives on the slopes of Mt. Baker five years ago are now almost completely fulfilled. Situated on the hillside between Edens Hall and the administrative building on the Campus, this memorial lacks only the addition of mountain shrubbery and the bronze name plates.

Name plaques for the six students will be placed on the inside of the rock wall which has been so designed as to form a bench. Bronze, which will be used for the plates will not be purchased until after the war.

The memorial has been planned with the thought that students will use the memorial as a place for lounging, sun bathing, or studying.

A committee, composed of WWC students and Miss Hazel Plympton, art department, and Mr. Herbert C. Ruckmick, who was a member of the industrial arts staff, worked with architects to plan this monument. Money was raised by the student body, and through donations.

Tragic Outing Remembered

Today is the fifth anniversary of the Mt. Baker tragedy, which killed six former members of the student body during a summer quarter hike up the steep slopes of the mountain.

The accident occurred on a Sunday morning in the month of July. The party of 25 WWC students were trudging their way along beneath the Roman Wall on the last stage of the hike. Six of the party were swept to their death with only two bodies being recovered. As it gathered up momentum the avalanche gave no quarter and swallowed all twenty-five members of the group. Early reports had it that the six victims were in a group when struck were discounted by stories of the survivors, who told of the almost selecting nature of the disaster.

The body of Alice James, then president of Edens Hall, was located at the foot of a forty-foot icy overhang, while the body of former Collegian editor, Julius Dornblut was discovered in a crevasse some hundred feet beyond the cliff of ice.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS WELL UNDERWAY

George Dack, WWC head gardener for WWC has done a swell job of "blacktopping" the road over to the PE building from the parking lot at the side of the main building.

Healy Moves

A change of address for Murray Healy can be noted. Moving from a member of the coaching staff of the Everett school system, Healy has accepted a position as head coach at Bellarmine high school, Tacoma.

Healy, a '41 graduate of WWC, was in charge of the school intramural sports while a student. He also served as Norseman president and Homecoming chairman.

bearing a gift and a hope. They had the glow of adventure in their eyes and the glory of hope in their souls, and out of these was fashioned a nation blessed with a purpose sublime. They called it AMERICA.

STUDENT AND COLLEGE:

Today the majority of the young descendants of those people are fighting and dying to keep alive those grand ideals.....Some think THAT WE PEOPLE ON THE HOME FRONT shouldn't be attending college during these troubled times. Some think that it is a waste of time to study history, English and music at a time when we should be learning how to man the ships and learning to shoot the guns that will bring us the ultimate victory.

BACKER-UPPERS:

No, I believe it is the men and women behind them who will eventually produce victory. They will do it not by weapons but by their thinking. Therefore, we must have well-trained men and women schooled in good ideas and ideals, with right motives and a clear understanding of the truths we hold to be self-evident: That every man is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and these men and women must be and will be ready to do die, if need be, for these principles, in order that a lasting and permanent peace will be the result of this terrible debacle.

Orcas Trip Closes Term

Highlighting the first term recreation program will be the overnight trip to Orcas Island Saturday, July 15, on the Osage. Students should be on the dock well before 7 o'clock, the scheduled hour for leaving.

Articles required for each person are: lunch, sleeping bag, blankets, toilet articles, and eating utensils. Other essentials are hiking boots or heavy walking shoes. Toeless and heelless sandals are definitely out. Swimming suits are optional.

Small knapsacks, and waterproof covering for blankets are obtainable from Mrs. Orpha Christenson in the PE building.

ment. At 2:30 tea was served in the Associated Women's Students room.

General assembly was called at 9 a. m. Friday in the Campus school auditorium by Miss Erickson. Then followed observation of classroom procedure in which special attention was given to individual differences among pupils. There were nine groups of observers, each group going to a different classroom in the Campus school. Dr. Grim conducted a tour of the whole Campus Elementary School Building before luncheon.

The afternoon session was a Workshop in the Problems of Hearing and a Workshop in the Problems of Speech. The conference was adjourned at 5 o'clock.

Since Docey Does How About You?

On Monday evening at 7:30 our reporter set out to cover the first square dance of the quarter which took place in the gym of the P. E. building. Before the evening was over she covered quite a bit of territory and really got hep to this folk-five.

With Marilyn Wike at the piano, Mrs. Christenson first led the goup through the Rye Waltz. Next came the Schottische followed by a number of the moe familiar square dances.

So, pleased as punch and a little out of breath, our reporter came back from her evening of fun.

Howard Roy Snider, son of Arlo V. Snider of 1201 Garden street, has been advanced to a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps. He formerly attended WWC and entered the Marine Corps Aviation in August 1942, receiving his commission in July, 1943.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Lt. Albert E. Bowman and Miss Lorraine Lampe, June 27 at Eugene, Oregon. Lt. Bowman is a former WWC student and is now in the U. S. Army stationed in Canada. Mrs. Bowman is from Chatfield, Minn., and is a graduate of the Winona, Minnesota Teachers' College.

Received a letter from Mildred Twedt, WARD, last week.

In it she said "Last week, I had a pleasant surprise when I accidentally ran into Lt. Ruckmick on the street near the University. Can't say that we didn't "hash" over old times. In fact, for the first time in my life I felt no qualms about cutting a class.

Nostalgia—even after all these years.

I left the Islands in February, but expect to return in a few months.

Aloha nui oe."

Signed Mildred Twedt, '42.

From James Paris at Moses Lake Army Air Field in Moses Lake, Washington, comes a thank-you note for sending him the Collegian. James is a Warrant Officer in the Army now.

Lt. Harry Kluge, former WWC Collegian editor, and his wife (Helen Cory) are home on a short leave. Lt. Kluge is with the Air Forces in Texas.

Office Staff Picnics, Sails, Entertains

Because we are always telling you what the faculty is doing we decided this week to give you some inside "dope" on what the administrative staff are doing for excitement.

After coaxing and pleading the best we could find out from the Registrar's Office was that Marjorie Kingsley and Myrtle Burnham went on the Deep Water Bay boat trip, last Monday night. Other than that, according to "Marmie" they haven't been doing "nuttin." Myrtle Burnham from Vancouver, Washington was her guest.

Mildred Tremain of the Dean of Women's Office, had a houseguest last week, in the person of Staff Sergeant Margaret M. Zurbrick of the Army Air Corps. Sergeant Zurbrick is a former WWC'er and a former member of the Library staff here. She is now stationed in Monroe, California.

Vida Greenleaf, Research Department, wouldn't give out with any information either. She did say that she had been going on picnics and had been doing quite a bit of entertaining.

Returning this week after a year's residence in Florida and Oklahoma with her husband, Lt. Phil Campbell, Mrs. Campbell (Joan Hoppe) will make her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hoppe.

Joan is a graduate of WWC and former editor of the Collegian.

We had a letter from James Junkin (known to us as Big Jug) the other day. Jimmy is out in the Pacific and writes us that he is really seeing action.

"I have been in several bombing raids and it is ..... a very helpless feeling. The best thing to do is hit the foxhole and stay down. The Japanese are in for a lot of trouble in the next few months. As the news indicates we are doing all right out here. It is impossible to defeat an outfit like the United States Armed Forces. We have something to fight for and the enemy lacks that one factor."

Jim's address is First Lieutenant James Junkin, USMCR, Hdq. Co. 3rd Bn., 1st Mar., Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, California.

Lt. Alan Ross of the USNR and formerly the eighth grade teacher in the Campus School writes us that he misses our cool Puget Sound weather. Lt. Ross is stationed in Arlington, Virginia.

In his letter Lt. Ross says "My work will be in Washington for a few months. The officers in my outfit rotate between field and office work. We use men who have been out in the fleet for editing and processing work since they know the situation. Two of our analysts just returned from participation in the invasion. Observations such as theirs are extremely valuable in shaping a practical and effective training program."

Second Lt. Ray E. Fullner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fullner, Lawrence, RFD 2, Everson, has been awarded the air medal and Oak Leaf Cluster for his participation in the aerial offensive against the Japanese in the Central Pacific. Lt. Fullner is a co-pilot of a B-24 Bomber, is stationed at a Seventh Army Air Force Base in the Marshalls. He attended WWC in 1940.

Frank J. Lovegren, former WWC student stationed on Indian Island, Port Townsend, and his wife will spend the weekend with his mother, Ms. May Lovegren.

Ex-Collegian Editor Visits Old Haunts

Sandy-haired, scholarly Barney Chichester, 1928-29 Collegian editor (it was known as the Northwest Viking then) paid a visit to his former haunts last week, noting a number of changes about the building.

"At the time I went to school the Viking office was located in the science wing," he mused.

Admiring the new Collegian headquarters, Barney commented on the special office for the Klipsun and Navigator. His eyes lit up as he reminisced about the Bluebook, the name of the student guide book in the 20's.

"One year," he recalled, "I obtained permission from the board of control to print a directory of student names, addresses and telephone numbers. As I remember, I had to drop this undertaking business because I was earning too much money."

Barney is at present principal of the Hawthorne School and supervisor of the Youth Centers of Seattle Public Schools. During the regular school year, 38 centers are established but only 17 centers operate through the summer.

On the Double .. .

Last night at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lt. and Mrs. Ralph Moncrief became the parents of identical twin boys. Mrs. Moncrief is the former Maybelle Henderson. Lt. Moncrief, now stationed in Texas, is a pilot in the Army Air Corps.

Many Weddings In Grad News

Evelyn Shepard, second class specialist technician in the Waves, married Lewis Nelson, radio technician with the same rating in the Navy, May 7, in Miami, Florida. The wedding was a double ring ceremony, and was officiated by Lt. Commander Robinson of the Navy. Evelyn attended WWC about three years ago.

Kathryn Alvord, former WWC student, will be married to Warrant Officer James Perkins July 16, in the Centralia Methodist Church. After the ceremony they intend to honeymoon for 15 days. Their home is on Bainbridge Island where James is stationed with the Navy.

Mrs. Lois Faucher and Miss Virginia Krueger, students at WWC, are planning to go to Centralia for the wedding of Kathryn Alvord.

Margaret Haggard, recent WSC graduate, reported July 10 to Bushnell Hospital, Brigham, Utah, where she is working as an assistant in physiotherapy.

Remedial Courses Headed by Catey

Joining the faculty of WWC last fall as an instructor in Remedial Education, Mrs. Waneta S. Catey divides her time at WWC working with the teachers and student teachers in the city, as well as with college classes. WWC has extended the program courses for the teacher who wishes to be certified as a remedial instructor since last fall.

Mrs. Catey previously was associated with the Illinois State Normal University, at Normal, Illinois. A graduate of the Colorado College of Education, she is especially trained in the teaching of exceptional children.

To the remedial teacher, an exceptional child is one who "deviates from the average or so-called normal child in mental, physical, emotional or social characteristics and abilities to the degree that they require specialized care or instruction in order to attain the maximum of their abilities or capacities."

One of the aims of the conference has been to point out to educators ways in which these much needed articles can be integrated with the curriculum of the elementary school.

Other activities of the week were discussions of activities and aims, the organization of the American Junior Red Cross.

The display of work will be on exhibition in the Campus school auditorium until the end of the Workshop, late this afternoon.

RAGAN'S RAMBLINGS

Marjorie Moll and Pat Bellingham made Kent and Seattle their respective destinations last weekend. Marjorie tells us she had a very moving time helping her folks move into their new home in Kent.

Other weekend transients included Lula Bacon, Margaret Robinson and Elerine Shannon.

HOSPICE RATTLE: Another week of this glorious and shirt sleeve weather has passed into the great beyond, so let's lend an inquisitive ear toward Hospice Inn and hear what's been steaming the past week. Visitors were plentiful to the popular men's house.

The Solomon's, John, class of '37 and his charming wife are vacationing here from Port Orchard, where Mr. Solomon is an instructor.

LT. BRIAN ROBSON, '41, veteran of 54 missions in the Italian theater, breezed in for a surprise visit. Brian has 20 days leave and is going to spend it all in Bellingham.

CHET ULLIN, Western Washington's visual aid expert, now with the Seattle school system, presented an interesting program to the Hospice fold and friends in the lounge last Tuesday evening. Chet screened many of his camera shots of the Northwest and the State of California.

Interested spectators included: JEAN WHITTAKER (who by the way said a dead man is better than no man at all), MAYBELL BODE, and VIRGINIA PERKINS; all these lassies the habitants of the home of color and light, (Edens Hall).

MARY HAMMOND, summer school student from North Dakota and of course the Hospice men, boys and women. CLIFF JOHNSON, idol of the co-eds, will be an out of town guest this week. He and MARK KNOLL are going cave man on us at Mark's summer home on Whidby. HAROLD MOE, Everett's Esquire gent, may be seen life guarding at Whatcom Falls pool.

Workshop Shavings

By Jessie Plomondon

As the time approaches for our workshop to come to a close, everyone is working feverishly trying to finish projects, collect ideas and organize material for use during the coming school year.

Miss Edith Sifton, of the Seattle Public Schools, who is advisor of the mathematics group, led a discussion this morning on the teaching of mathematics. The discussion covered all levels of achievement, from kindergarten through junior high school because the various workshop groups had expressed a need for help in the teaching of mathematics, by giving examples of methods and materials. Miss Sifton made mathematics a concrete subject dealing with real life situations. Much discussion and exchange of ideas followed her remarks.

Another highlight of the closing days of the workshop will be the luncheon on Monday when Miss Breakey of the art department, will exhibit pictures which are used in the campus school, also those available from various companies. She will furnish each person with a mimeographed sheet giving prices and other information. This will satisfy a need which many of us have felt and, coming from such a reliable source, will be greatly appreciated.

Following Miss Breakey's exhibit, the audio-visual aids group will hold open house in Room 103 from 2 to 3:30 p. m. They will display after finishing an eight hour shift at Boeings. DEC BARRON, picked up a lu-lu of a burn on the recent faculty cruise. W. BAKER and J. GERMAIN worked their fingers to the bone the other nite at the Edens Hall chicken dinner picnic, for a couple of free dinners. Baker leaned on a shovel and Germain watched the coffee boil. TOMMY MARR, problem child of the house, made application to attend the University of Washington, possibly this fall. DON ELDRIDGE, Barron's sidekick in Room 4, will be in school next half. He graduates with a bachelor's this summer. Don has been associated with his father in the commercial business in Mt. Vernon during the first half of the quarter. LT. JIM JUNKIN, marine corps hero and former student viceprexy, writes from the South Pacific area that he's doing 4:0 and sends best regards to all his faculty and student friends. The RHINSMITH'S, MR. and MRS., spent an afternoon recently scanning the countryside for wild blackberries. MARGARET PURDEE, member of the CANADIAN WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS, spent a pleasant weekend with MR. and MRS. GEORGE STEARNS, Hospice rectors. We won't say much about the house shin-dig at Neptune Beach. Everyone had a rumpus time. The GERMAIN family were perfect hosts. Reckon that's all, neighbors. you don't have to lean your ear this way again 'till next week. bye bye.
