Hash Pilots as Art Class Sees Seattle Museum

Seattle Art Museum was the target for the thirty-three students and Miss Ruth Kelsey when they all piled into the college bus November 17 at 8:00 a. m.

At 8:45 a. m. the bus, driven by Norm Hash, finally left the blacktop and they were on their way. Except for a few discordant voices raised in song, the trip down was quiet and uneventful. All of the students spent the noon hour at Woodland park looking at the animals and eating lunch. After giving the monkeys a good look at them, the students climbed back on the bus and after a drive of fifteen minutes, arrived at the Museum.

The group was lead on a guided tour of the Japanese art treasures by Mrs. Tupper, registrar of the museum. The group left the museum at 2:20 p. m. and except for a stop at Marysville for lunch, where the size of some of the appetites astounded the waitress, the trip home was accomplished without mishap.

In the opinion of most of the students the trip was a huge success and while most of them had never been in a museum of art before, they all said they would make it a point to see one again soon.

Mount Baker is again becoming the center of winter activities, following recent snowfalls which have brought the appearance of early skiers. The lodge was open for the first time last week-end. Besides skiing attraction, the scenic beauty and grandeur of the mountain and its surrounding domain, calls people to view it. (Story on page 4.)

Racial Prejudice Dangerous to American Security, Says White

By PAUL GILLIE

Dynamic Walter White, a zealous crusader for human rights who for many years has been secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, addressed a large audience in the college auditorium Friday morning on the subject, "Lincoln's Unfinished Business."

Speaking as an American first of all, and as a representative of the American Negro only secondarily, White stressed the importance to America's security of eliminating racial bigotry and discrimination within the nation's borders. The "world-wide skepticism and distrust of the United States" which White found prevalent in his travels as a war correspondent and member of the globe-trotting unit of American Town Meeting of the Air, will continue until we demonstrate our sincerity in professing democracy by giving full rights to the minority groups in this country.

Every instance of violation of human rights in America supplies the Soviet propagandists with effective weapons to be used against us in the cold war. News of a lynching or race riot, an attack on minority groups, or any unfavorable incident is quickly relayed by the Moscow radio to the peoples of the world.

"It is the job of all of us here, students, teachers, and citizens, to finish Lincoln's unfinished business," concluded White. He emphasized that we must learn to live together in peace with all people, no matter what color their skin or where they worship, or, he predicts, "we will all go down in the holocaust that will follow because of our failure to

College Church Survey Begins

To find out more about the religious needs of the modern college student is the purpose of a survey being conducted by members of the St. James Presbyterian church college club. A questionnaire prepared by the group is being mailed to a large number of Western students.

The questionnaire and survey was prepared by a student committee headed by Annabelle Butts, assisted by Bill Franks, Jane Blake, Marion James, and Paul Gillie, and by Fred Knapman, club adviser.

Members of the committee urge every student who receives the questionnaire to cooperate by giving it serious consideration, and by giving honest, thoughtful replies.

Information obtained by this survey will be used to expand St. James' program for college students.

James First Recipient Of Hudson Scholarship

Committee Finds Selection Difficult

Award of the Leonard Hudson scholarship for winter and spring quarters, 1950, was made to Bessie James, Saturday, November 19, by the Leonard Hudson scholarship committee.

Miss James was selected from a number of candidates who were all well qualified for the award. Selection of the winner was difficult because of the close competition among the candidates. A great deal of time and consideration was given to each applicant, and the eventual decision was given only after the merits of each person had been carefully weighed.

Western Prof. Attends Meets On East Coast

Dr. Lucy Kangley of WWC's English department, will be off the campus until early in December attending meetings in New York and Pennsylvania. In Buffalo, November 23-26, she will attend the annual meeting of the National Council of English Teachers. From there she will travel to Pittsburg to work on the planning committee for the cooperative study of evaluation in general education of the American Council on Education.

Western Washington college is one of twenty colleges throughout the country which have been invited to send delegates to the project in Pittsburg. This meeting will be significant because the conclusions arrived at there could have a marked effect on curricular decisions in many schools. Dr. Kangley will return to the campus December 6.

Western Musician Gives Concert At Grays Harbor

Bernard Regier, choir director and professor of voice, will present a concert at Aberdeen, Friday night, November 25.

The concert is being sponsored by the Grays Harbor chapter of the Washington State Music Teachers association. Regier is state president of the association. Mrs. Regier will serve as his accompanist.

The committee would like to express their thanks to all persons who applied for the award.

Lloyd Williams, chairman, stated that applications for the Leonard Hudson scholarship award for the academic year, 1950-51, will be accepted after the beginning of spring quarter, 1950.

The amount of the scholarship is $150 for full college year or $50 per quarter.

FULL SIZE NEXT WEEK

Because of shortening of the week for Thanksgiving vacation, the Collegian is being reduced to half size this week.

News for next weeks paper should be in by Tuesday night because of the press conference in Ellensburg.

Winter in Pacific

Mrs. Florence J. Kirkpatrick, science instructor at WWC, has been granted a leave of absence for the winter quarter. She will take passage on a freighter for Manila in the Phillipine islands along with her husband, Dr. W. D. Kirkpatrick and Mr. and Mrs. John Pierce of this city. Mrs. Kirkpatrick will spend her time vacationing and visiting friends in the islands.

SMALL TOWN GIRL TO CRASH GREAT WHITE WAY

WALLASTON, Mass., June 7, 1913—Miss Ruth Gordon Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jones of 14 Elmwood Avenue, is leaving Wallaston shortly to embark on a career of acting in New York City, where she hopes to make a name for herself on the GREAT WHITE WAY. She plans to appear under the name of Ruth Gordon.

'... For a Better World'

In these continued years of world strife, there is, as President Truman put it in his Thanksgiving Day Proclamation, yet much to be thankful for:

"In accordance with our cherished custom, let us pause from our labors for one day in this autumnal season and offer prayers of thanks to the Divine Giver of our bounty. We are grateful for the plentiful harvests of our fields, for the abundance of goods produced by our industries, and for the multitude of spiritual blessings which enrich our lives. We are thankful that our resources enable us to aid the peoples of other countries in the furtherance of economic well being and security. We deeply appreciate the strength of our democratic institutions and the preservation of those ideals of liberty and justice which form the basis of national stability and international peace. The times demand more than the wisdom of man can provide. May we add to our prayers of Thanksgiving a plea for Divine guidance of the leaders of our nation and the leaders of all other nations in their efforts to promote peace and freedom for all men. Let us, on the appointed day, in our homes and in our accustomed places of worship, give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings which have signaled our lot as a nation, and let us ask for the gift of wisdom in our striving for a better world."

Campus Glances—WSC in Movies

"This is WSC," a film on that particular institution, is being released February 15. Since it is a film on student participation in activities, this reporter thinks many of the Westernites will be particularly interested in knowing that there is such an item available.

Comparison will naturally be made with WWC's fiftieth anniversary movie, in color, "Forward With Western."

Cheney has a little black book, too. The Savage directory has recently been printed.

Co-op-School's Donation to County Retail

By MARY JANE ZAUNICH

In the western corner of America's evergreen state, Washington, the ever-popular city of Bellingham is situated. Bellingham has several major retail establishments, among which are Sears Roebuck, J. C. Penney, and the Co-op at Western Washington college.

Although peculiar happenings take place in all of the aforementioned establishments, the Co-op probably has the others beat. Where else do you find freshmen on their hands and knees inspecting a coke machine, and looking for a slot to deposit their nickel in. What they don't know and later learn (sometimes) is that there is no such slot and the pop is obtained by merely opening the door on the aforementioned container. This way (they undoubtedly hope) there is no charge for their beverage and assume such until they find they are cornered by a group of employees with outstretched palms. This same machine (with the word "COKE" on the outside) contains every kind of pop made, with the exception of one—"coke."

The Co-op also has a strict rule for charging tokens—sooo in order to save breaking a penny for two tokens, candy bars are often purchased outside the door from a canteen.

Because the college is over crowded with practical jokers, it is the custom of every smart buyer who wants a hard lead pencil to get it out of the box that reads "soft lead" and vice-versa. If a medium lead pencil is desired just close your eyes and hope for the best!

Rod's Ramblin's

By ROD CARDWELL

He wasn't unlike other young men who have come of age and are faced with the problem of how to seek a fortune on life's broad byways. But he was an adventurous lad; he'd heard of America in the salty tales of English sailors at Southampton.

Thus, when the opportunity presented itself, he joined other courageous comrades and set sail for the New World.

The life was to his liking, rugged and unsettled. But a transition of character took place within the spiritual makeup of the young man. He took a responsible interest in the career of the settlement.

A tall, good looking fellow, he was the target of many maidenly sighs. However, there was only one girl for him, and the possibility of winning her seemed unlikely.

Nevertheless, when the harvest had been gathered, and a community feast was planned, the young man was garbed in his best attire, hopeful of catching her attention.

The young lady in question was the belle of the village. At the great feast her suitors numbered many, and all clamored for her affections. The young man was now despondent. He felt awkward and out of place. In the midst of her admirers, she would smile graciously at each man; upon no single person would she allow her eyes to rest.

But at the end of the third day of feasting, our young man had a rebirth of spirit. On this night there was to be community singing. He would approach her through her father, and the words he sang would be sung to her and her alone.

There on the outskirts of the community in the shadows of the leaping flames from the huge bonfire, he sang to the young maiden. And now she rested her eyes upon him.

When the singing and feasting were over at last, he took her hand in parting and said, "I—I hope that we may meet again."

"Oh yes," she said, "yes, we will."

And the young man, whose name was John Alden, watched Priscilla leave and thought that this first Thanksgiving festival held by the Plymouth colony was indeed a wonderful event.

Thirty Attend Fireside Sat.

The fireside held at Daniels hall after the Saturday night basketball game was enjoyed by all who attended. There were fifteen couples plus the sponsors, who were Dr. Keith Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carver.

Amber served open-face sandwiches, cookies, and punch. Music for dancing was furnished by records. Amber is giving us our annual Thanksgiving dinner this Tuesday. It will be attended by the house members as well as the Daniels hall city league basketball team. The dinner will consist of turkey, cranberries, pumpkin pie, and all the fixings.

Most of the boys are still hoarse from clearing the Vikings on to two basketball victories.

White was at his best in an informal question and answer period following his address which was attended by a sizeable number of interested persons. Rapidly answering a variety of questions put forth by members of the audience, he gave great evidence of the keen mind and devotion to a cause that has made him one of America's leading citizens.

IMPRESSIVE INFORMALLY

"Giving thoughtful reply to each query, speaking alternately slowly and in rapid-fire style and punctuating his remarks with frequent original gestures, White proved to be as colorful and exciting a person as the record of his career indicates. The voice which needed no microphone to carry its message to everyone in the crowded auditorium became more confidential and conversational in quality.

A busy man indeed, White has been making from two to speeches daily, in a different town each day. His life has been called "an adventure in search of democracy," and a remark that he has used everything but snow shoes to get from one place to another on this lecture tour hinted that this business of speech-making can be adventurous, too.

Tournament Nearing End

Everyone involved is filled with anxiety and enthusiasm as the volleyball tourney nears an end. This was especially true in the three games which were played November 16. The first of these was Off-Campus against Normal Drive, chalking up a score of 21-11, 19-21. Edens hall played Forest inn, coming up with 1-0, 1-0. In the third game, Klauane and Vikette rallied through with 21-9, 21-14.

Stone Engaged; Dinner Planned

On Wednesday evening, November 16, what was supposed to be a house-meeting turned out to be an engagement announcement. At this time Lanny Stone announced her betrothal to Jack Croghan.

Kappy McMullen led the procession carrying a pink, stuffed bunny with the ring on a ribbon around its neck. Joan Bartlett and Jody Habegger followed harmonizing to "I Love You Truly." After the traditional box of chocolates was passed, the girls hurled questions at Lanny.

Plans are rapidly shaping up for the dinner dance at Brownie's Cedar Chest scheduled for Friday, December 2. A smorgasbord dinner will be the menu.

The girls would like to express their most hearty appreciation to the boys who so ably serenaded them Sunday night.

Happy Thanksgiving, everyone, from Klauane hall.

Viks Juggle Seattle U, Win Second Game

Western's Viking five overcame a Seattle university halftime lead to beat the Chieftains 48-43 in a hard fought game in the Western gym last Saturday night.

Seattle U took the floor in the first half and led Western in a see-saw battle which was not ended until the halftime buzzer sounded. Spear-headed by Spangler, who copped high-point honors with 20 points for the evening, the squad from Seattle pushed the Viks around in the first half.

After halftime the Vikings took the floor and rapidly overcame the Chieftain lead. They wrapped up the game in the final quarter. Hal Norgaard led the scoring for the Vikings, with 5 field goals and 1 free throw for a total of 11 points. Stan Peterson was close on Norgaard's heels with 10 points. Peterson drew 6 of his 10 points through the free throw route and 4 points via field goals.

Freshman Bob Woodman broke into the scoring brackets above most of his teammates with 7 points. Woodman sunk 2 field goals and 3 free throws before leaving the game through the personal foul path.

The new two minute rule in regard to foul shooting helped the Vikings immeasurably last Saturday against Seattle U. Under the new regime the team fouled not only gets the shot but also takes the ball out of bounds. No more will the teams tackle and slug each other. Under this ruling a team can conceivably make three points, and still retain the ball.

FINE IDEA

X. Nady, St. Martin's sterling coach, came up with the idea of the week. He feels that the Evergreen league should promote a sports festival at which time the best intramural squads from each school would participate. A program of this type would add a real incentive to the playing of intramural sports. Perhaps a trophy could be given to the winners.

GAME OF THE WEEK

Seasoned bettors seem to give the girl's hockey team 2 points over Walt Clayton's big red team tonight. Don't sell the boys short, though—after all SMU might defeat Notre Dame.

NON PARTISAN

When the referee makes an error in judgment this year you can't make the charge that he was playing favorites. Under the new system refs are chosen according to zone and can't call games in their own section. You can say he's blind or even stupid, but not partisan.

WATCH THE HAIRDO

There is a possibility that the Husky-Vik game might be televised. The team members will have plenty of time between now and the next game to decide which profile is the best as the game isn't for two weeks.
