

Ups and Downs Of Coffee Price Bring Queries - - Editorial

"What's the price of coffee in the lounge now?"
 "Last I heard it was a nickel again."
 "How come? All last week they were charging a dime."
 "Well, the Board of Control voted to change the price back to five cents."
 "Why is that? Did sales drop when they raised the price, or did Earle raise it without their approval?"
 "The price wasn't in effect long enough to show how it would effect sales. And Earle was authorized by the board last quarter to raise the price."
 "You mean the board told him to raise the price and then when he did it, they told him not to?"
 "That's right."
 "Why did they change their minds?"
 "Too many students made too much of a howl when they discovered the price had been upped."
 "Didn't the board expect a certain amount of complaining when they originally voted the increase?"
 "If they didn't, they should have."
 "Did Earle believe that the raise was necessary?"
 "Evidently. He says he's had to put on extra help to keep the lounge clean and besides, the price of coffee has risen about 50 percent."
 "Is the lounge going in the hole?"
 "By selling coffee for a nickel it will. Expenses were about $200 over income during fall quarter."
 "Would selling coffee for a dime make them come out even?"
 "One board member hastily calculated that would make the coffee bar come out topheavy with profit."
 "It seems foolish not to charge ten cents then."
 "The lounge is a student service, and if it makes too much of a profit, students are being overcharged."
 "With the price set at a nickel again, how are they going to make up the deficit? The same way as last year?"
 "No. Last year there was a deficit of $830. Half of that came from Co-op profits."
 "Just a minute. Co-op profits paid for the lounge deficit in part. That means that our dividend slips were devalued accordingly."
 "This year they added an extra 50 cents to registration fees to cover lounge expenses. That money will be used to balance the books for the lounge."
 "But I thought the board voted to set that money aside in a separate fund earmarked for furnishing our new lounge?"
 "They did, just about three weeks ago. But they apparently decided that a cheap cup of coffee for the student in school today is more important than furnishings and a lounge that students at Western for years to come will enjoy."
 "But isn't that another case of reversing their own decisions?"
 "It is. But the board, like a woman, has the privilege of changing their minds, which they frequently do if necessary to keep in line with student opinion. Sometimes they make a decision in haste without consulting popular opinion, and later have to reverse themselves."
 "What about the student who never drinks coffee, or never uses the lounge at all. Is his four-bits being used to pay for someone else's coffee?"
 "In effect, yes. But he has as much right to drink coffee as anyone else."
 "What about faculty members? I see a lot of them in the lounge whenever I go there. Is our four-bits used to pay for the coffee they drink?"
 "Yes, but you wouldn't begrudge the poor fellows that, would you? they're human too."
 "Any place I go downtown, it costs a dime whether I drink coffee or milk. Why should milk be more expensive here than coffee? If they're going to subsidize coffee, why can't they subsidize milk?"

Soc. Class Hears Lecture on China By UW Instructor

Edward Ching-T'ien Fei, instructor of economics at the University of Washington gave a lecture to Don Irish's sociology class last Monday on the economic and cultural standards of the people of China.

Mr. Fei said that most of China is rural, but not comparable to rural America. The farmers there, said Fei, sometimes go through life without ever seeing a town. They may live on a farm of only three or four acres and have no radio, never receive a newspaper or any other report on happenings outside their own community.

Serving in the Chinese army during the war with Japan, Mr. Fei traveled extensively and had an excellent opportunity to observe the causes for the present upheaval in China.

He didn't commit himself to either side of the struggle, but said that the Communists were inheriting the troubles of the Nationalists in the areas which they have conquered.

Icy Storms Return; Classes Continue

Winter returned to Bellingham and to Western's campus early this week after a week-end of nearly normal weather conditions. Road conditions, near-zero temperatures, and deep snow forced most schools in the vicinity to close their doors. Western students enjoyed one day of mid-week vacation on Wednesday. Classes were held as usual the rest of the week, Western being on most days the only educational institution in the area remaining open.

Senior Hall Hop

Tonight in the junior high gym the annual Senior hall barn dance will be given. Phil Ager's orchestra will play popular music at the mixer which will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Jeans and plaid shirts are the usual attire for the barn dance, but if the snow continues, ski pants will be a practical substitute for the jeans. During intermission the Senior hall orchestra will be present to render a few numbers in keeping with the theme of the dance.

Contest Cancelled

Because weather conditions and uncertainty as to uniform Collegian distribution for this week, there will be no advertising puzzle contest this week. However, the contest will be resumed next week, at which time names of last week's winners will also be published. Last week's winners have already collected their prizes.

Carol Brice, Negro Contralto, To Present Song Concert On Campus Stage Tues. Morn

Carol Brice, young Negro contralto, appears on the college stage next Tuesday morning, January 31.

Miss Brice, daughter of a Congregational minister and a school teacher, has been singing since she was little more than a baby. Her career began as a member of the Sedalia singers of North Carolina at the age of three.

Record Enrollment Of Fall Topped By Winter Students

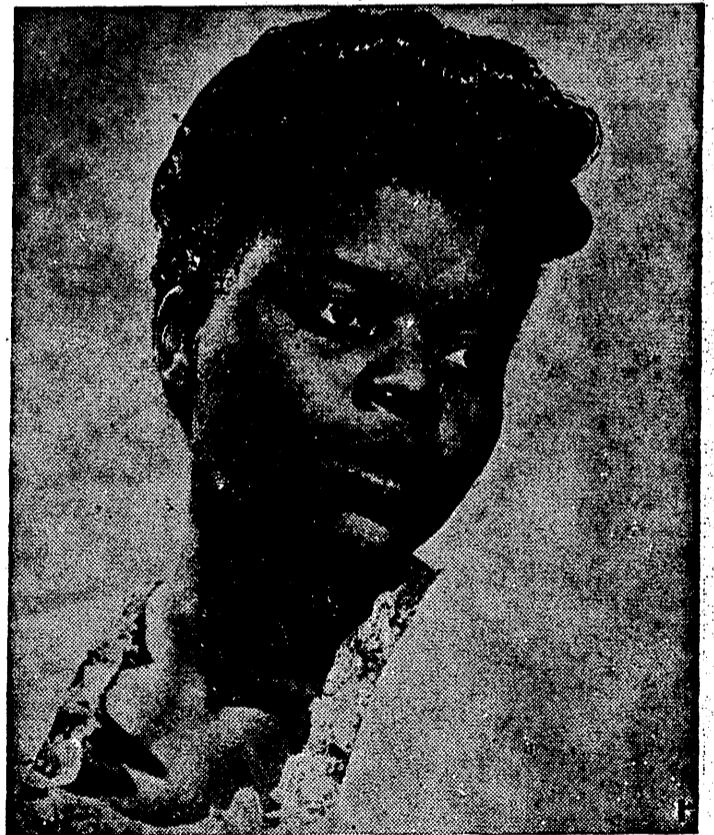

Enrollment for winter quarter at Western Washington College shows a 2½ percent increase over that of the fall quarter, according to Donald A. Ferris, registrar. Attending classes on the campus are 1,569 students, the largest number in the history of the 50-year-old institution. The ratio of men to women is approximately two to one.

Another upward trend is observed in the number of veterans enrolled, 530 as compared with 493 in the fall quarter. The 7½ percent increase in veteran registration at WWC is which show an over-all decline for the current school year.

At 15, she won first prize in a state-wide musical contest of high school students. Since then her achievements have been many. Graduating from Talladega college in Alabama with a degree in music, she came to New York that fall to win a fellowship to the Juilliard Graduate school.

Music, including her native Negro spirituals, was a natural part of Carol's daily experience both at home and school. Her two brothers both proved to have unusual talent, and there was always music when they got together.

Miss Brice was the first of her race ever to win music's coveted Naumberg Foundation award. Entitling the winner to a debut in New York's Town hall, it is given each year to three musicians. Chosen by a distinguished jury, they must have all the qualifications to face an audience of leading critics and music lovers.

In 1940 she was chosen to sing at the third inauguration of the late President Roosevelt and later at the White House for Mrs. Roosevelt. Eight years later she sang before the Democratic National convention in Philadelphia.

Carol's brother, Jonathan, is now her accompanist and appears with her in concert when she is on tour.

In private life, Miss Brice is the wife of Neil Scott, of the public relations firm that bears his name. She is the mother of a five-year-old son, Neil Jr.

Weather Forecast: Clear and Cold

In a 24-hour forecast on weather conditions released by the Bellingham weather station earlier this morning, the following data was given: Continued cold for Bellingham with north-northeast winds ranging from 15 miles per hour or more. Sky conditions are predicted to be partly cloudy to clear with the Seattle and Everett areas receiving scattered snow showers.

Attention!

Due to the short school week, the Collegian is unable to use all of the available news this week. Houses are asked to turn in news as usual next week, however.

P. van Paassen Spoke Today

Pierre van Paassen, journalist and author of "Days of Our Years" and "Earth Could be Fair," spoke on "There Is Still Time" at the assembly in the auditorium this morning.

Van Paassen firmly believes that out of the torment and anguish of our era will come a better world. His belief in the future and the eventual restoration of the dignity of man is an unshakable faith. He lives, he says, by the precept of Saint Augustine, who wrote: "Man lives by the tradition of the past, in the hope of the future, but makes his decisions in the present."

"They feel that they're doing the students a service by subsidizing coffee."

"Yes, but they're doing a service for only part of the students. Some never drink coffee. Some drink only milk. Why can't they get the same consideration as coffee drinkers? Sounds like discrimination to me."

"If you don't like the situation, complain! That's what the coffee drinkers did and they got action."

"Didn't you say that the 10-cent price would enable the coffee bar to operate with a considerable profit?"

"That was an estimate."

"Couldn't they compromise on the price of coffee, and charge maybe six or seven cents? That would cut down on the deficit and leave some of that 50 cents for the new lounge. I don't think many people would complain about paying a penny or two extra. It was the idea of having the price go up 100 percent in one leap that they didn't like."

"That sounds like a good idea to me. If you can get enough other people to agree, you might get the board to listen to you."—P.G.

If Woman Is Equal To Man, What of Co-ed Restrictions?

The senate has passed by a vote of 63-19 a proposed amendment to the constitution which would give women completely equal rights with men. It still must be passed by the house of representatives and three-fourths of the state legislatures. Here are a few pertinent questions which go unanswered in the newspaper and radio reports.

1. Does it mean that all current forms of courtesy and respect, e.g., hat-tipping and seat-giving, may be forgotten and dropped into the realm of quaint old customs?

2. Will the women, intoxicated by their new found equality forget their sex, which, indisputably, has been their number one asset through the ages? A hint of such a disaster is foretold in a recent Life magazine which featured an article on "man-tailored shirts for women." This poses the obvious question: why would any normal woman want to look like a man?

3. Will it eliminate ladies' day at the ballparks and other such masculine considerations for the "gentler" sex?

4. Is it liable to alter the conventional order of courtship? It seems likely that, with so many new money earning opportunities open to them, that the girls would soon be paying at least their share of dating expenses.

5. Will it make clouting one's husband an offense comparable in seriousness to wife-beating?

6. Will it have any effect on those colleges which still adhere to the double standard and impose a wealth of restrictions on their women students?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Coffee Crisis Critic Comments

As I entered the lounge the other day and threw down a nickel for my customary cup of coffee I was told that it was now a dime. "It's about time it was upped," I said to the girl back of the counter. You see, I buy something like three pounds of coffee a week at home plus the occasional cup in cafes and drive-ins, and I realized that the price of coffee has almost doubled in the last three months. Not only that, but I have discussed the question with several cafe owners and they were of the opinion that it was impossible to sell coffee at a nickel a cup. Therefore I thought it only reasonable to pay a dime for it.

IT WAS IN NEED OF INVESTIGATION

I'll admit right here and now that I would rather pay a nickel for coffee rather than a dime. In fact to be truthful I would rather get my coffee for nothing. And then last Friday I read on the front page of the Collegian that coffee was to be reduced to a nickel, by an order of the Board of Control. This was indeed an interesting thing if true, and in need of further investigation. So I investigated.

The first thing I discovered was that the lounge had a deficit for last quarter of $200. I was surprised that it was so low, but then I discovered that the rise in price of coffee had not begun until the quarter was half over. That would explain part of it. The condition of the lounge was deteriorating through student neglect and this had not been included in the picture. The third reason for this extremely low loss was because of the increased volume of customers in the lounge. Other commodities were supporting the coffee price. From this I came to the conclusion that the loss from this quarter's operation should be much higher.

HOW WILL LOSS BE MET?

Granted then that there will be a loss, how will it be met? I investigated this also and did not really discover the trick, but I am sure there is one. Some say it will be subsidized through the profits of the Co-op. Others who understand the situation better say that the College will support it. Still others feel that it will be financed entirely by the Board of Control. But then, who really cares where the money comes from as long as it does not come from the sale of the coffee.

The next thing I tried to discover was where the responsibilities lay in the operation of the lounge. I found that Louis Earle had been appointed manager with the responsibility of operating the lounge, but still this did not allow him to make any decisions. Then, when I inquired about the Board of Control, I discovered that they had made the decision to reduce the price.

This was an interesting decision and here is how it came about:

First, the question was brought up and discussed. It went something like this: The members of the board who were familiar with the operation of the lounge were in favor of leaving the price at 10 cents. The members who were not familiar with the operation of the lounge could not see why it should not be cut to a nickel. This is called a debate. Then the proposition was voted on and the majority were in favor of a cut. Now majority rule is all right if the majority is informed, but what of this? Earle sent word to the board that he would come up and explain the situation but he was not invited.

Attempts were made to shelve the issue until a thorough study was made, but the majority overruled even this. Later, I discussed the question with members of the board who told me that they were compelled to do as they did because of student body pressure. This puts the responsibility directly on the student body. Maybe it's time decisions were founded on complete knowledge of the question involved.

Sincerely,

JOHN GRAHAM.

Forest Inn Lodges 7 Edens Holds Party For Alicia Legg

Forest inn is conveniently located at 250 North Forest street, across from St. Joseph's hospital. Mrs. Axel Sundquist is the housemother and provides for the seven girls who live here the very best food at all times. The girls who make this their home while attending WWC are Pat Hume, president; Lora Casteel, secretary; Ruth Fleming, Betty Jo Sargent, Carolyn Runyard, JoAnn Steinbrunner, and Mary Clark.

A pajama party was held Tuesday evening, January 24. The food enjoyed was provided by Betty Jo Sargent's mother. It seems that Betty Jo had written a letter home which contained just a little note of despondency and the treat box was the result. We all benefitted and we may be able to persuade her to write a similar letter sometime in the future.

Harborview Harem Has House Hubub

The gals at Harborview hall held an informal house meeting January 19. Fed up with the snow and icy conditions, the girls were entertained by tales and experiences of the upperclassmen during previous spring quarters. Those picnics and beach parties sure sound like fun.

On January 23, the girls held a general business meeting, where several announcements were made. Colleen Morse has been chosen as chairman for the forthcoming paper drive. Lanny Stone has been elected president of the Blue Barnacles, and Kay Lanahan was chosen as a representative of the committee to model clothes at the High School Leader conference to be held at the college, February 17.

Sunday night Alicia Legg announced her engagement to Donald Foster of Tacoma. The announcement party took place in the Blue room and Alicia and her room mate, Bev Dustin, served cookies and ice cream, after which favors and a box of candy were passed around. Norma Jones, captain of the frosh basketball team at Edens, announced that they beat the upper classmen, 19-11, the other night. Life hasn't been worth living for the upper-classmen since then. Knitting of socks and sweaters has hit an all-time high. Sandy Gwynn even brought hers to the council meeting the other night. Janis Olson is finishing a pair of argyles, which are her Dad's 1949 Christmas present. Mary Elbie is finishing her third pair of socks in a row.

Library At MRH

MRH is trying to build up a collection of books for its library. A good start has been made. Mrs. Macgregor, the housemother, gave two books at Christmas. Oscar Olson, a house member, recently contributed a volume of Shakespeare. The house has bookplates on which to put donors' names. This is a good way to get your name before the public. No volume is too large or small.

Three house members are turning out for swimming. They are Bob Silverman, Kenny German, and Don Sayan. It is hoped they will get to participate in the meet here against Grays Harbor Junior college.

The men of MRH are thinking of sponsoring a hog calling contest. Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Hawk were dinner guests last Sunday, and Wednesday, Declan Barron was dinner guest. After dinner a bull session was held in the lounge.

Wesley Foundation dinner, originally scheduled for January 18, has been postponed until February 1. Taking place at the Garden Street Methodist church, the dinner begins at 6:30 p. m. Tickets can be obtained from any club member for $1.00. Children (up to junior high age) are admitted for 50 cents.

VALKYRIE CLUB

The girls of Valkyrie have been placed in charge of the March of Dimes campaign. Chairman for this activity is Marion James, assisted by Wilma Peters, Lois Currie, Arlene Brown, Dwan Thompson and Joanne Arsanto. Plans are now underway for the carrying out of this drive.

PLANS FOR CONFERENCE

AWS are well underway with their plans for the annual High School Leaders conference to be held at the college February 17. The chairman for this activity is Phyllis Armstrong. The conference will consist of a campus tour, a luncheon, discussion groups, a fashion show, and a tea which will take place in Edens hall Blue room.

SUPPER POSTPONED

The Colheconomist club have announced that the waffle supper, previously planned for January 26, is postponed until February 9. Tickets that have already been sold can be refunded or they will be accepted at the later date.

THANKS GIVEN

The WRA wishes to express its thanks towards Janis Peoples and Janice Davis for their hard work in making the carnival the big success it was. Without subtracting the expenses, the total proceeds for the evening were $128.

The WRA basketball tournament is already underway. So far seven teams have been entered and will practice one night a week.

Casa Laetae Gals Hold Elections

During a January meeting at Casa Laetae, elections were held. The new president is Jean Rogers. The other officers are: vice-president, Sue Beardsley; secretary, Joyce Anderson; and treasurer, Nancy Brown.

Tuesday, a few of the girls who live at Casa Laetae, and the star boarders, prepared a dinner for Mrs. Cowles, the housemother. Sue Nelson, Marlene (Molly) Jones, and Sue Beardsley were all very busy in the kitchen, while Joyce Anderson spent the day in bed with a sudden touch of the flu.

March of Dimes Ball by Viks Saturday Night

The Bellingham high school gym will be the scene of an interesting encounter Saturday night for Western's Vikings when they meet the Pacific Trails, a Northwest conference team coached by Sam White, in a March of Dimes benefit game. George Livesey, city March of Dimes campaign chairman, announced the Trails are coming up from Seattle for less than bare expenses instead of the usual 50 or 60 percent cut.

HEIGHT AND SPEED
Probable Trail starters are Joe Pehanick, Art Anderson, Lou Morse, Glen Young, and Dale Hume. Joe Pehanick, a 6 foot 8 inch man, tallied 18 points against the Enumclaw Silver Bears on his last outing. Teaming with Joe is Art Anderson, another large boy who will give the Vikings plenty of trouble under the rebound planks. In Lou Morse, Glen Young, and Dale Hume, Coach Sammy White has plenty of speed to make his double pivot style of basketball quite effective.

To meet this challenge Coach McDonald will probable start Dick Ravenhorst at center, Jerry Starr and Jeff Russell at forward, and Stan Peterson and Norm Bamer in the guard positions.

A preliminary game starts at 6:45 p. m. between Western's junior varsity squad and Daniels hall team. Varsity game time is 8:15 p. m. So more dimes will go into the net profit kitty, officials Hank Chamberlain, Frank Chorvot, Frank Trotto, and Sid Van Sinderen have donated their services for this game.

DIMES CAMPAIGN BENEFITS
Admission price for adults is 75 cents. Student activity tickets and four thin dimes will admit a student. All proceeds go to the March of Dimes drive.

Last week 10 more games of the intramural basketball schedule were completed. All of the teams have now participated although there were a few forfeits due to an insufficient number of players.

In the "A" league the Queers, leaders of the league, defeated the Torpedoes in a close game, 26-23. The Winoes trounced the Cracker Jacks, 39-30, the South Siders overcame the Has Beens, 37-30, and the Torpedoes took a forfeit from the Has Beens.

The games in the "B" league consisted of a thriller between the Schmoes and Hilltoppers, the Schmoes coming out on top of a 24-23 score, a victory for the Hilltoppers over the Comets, 33-29, and a victory for Hospice over the Spooks, 33-24.

Two close games were played in the "C" league last week, a two point win for the Columbians over the Mathes, 23-21, and a one point thriller, White Mice over the Stubbies, 20-19. The Columbians also won a forfeit over the Blimps.

Hoopsters Break Even on Road

Hilltoppers Lose To Loggers Squad

The inability of Western's Vikings to find the basket resulted in a conference victory for the College of Puget Sound Loggers Saturday night at Tacoma.

The Loggers went out in front and stayed there all the way, building up a 35-19 halftime lead. Dick Brown paced the Loggers with 12 points and Jerry Starr, Dick Ravenhorst, and Stan Peterson shared Western's scoring honors with 9 each.

This makes the fourth logger victory against two defeats.

Snow Stops Eastern

Too much snow was responsible for the postponement of the tilt between the league-leading Central Wildcats and second place Eastern Washington, Friday night.

Ravenhorst Leads Vikings to Win

Led by rangy Dick Ravenhorst, Western's Vikings notched their first conference victory Friday night by defeating the St. Martin's Rangers, 62-48.

At the end of ten minutes play Western was out in front 14-13. They increased this one point lead to 29-18 by halftime.

Coming back for the second half St. Martin's closed the gap to four points but their rally soon went out when the McDonaldmen started hitting from everywhere on their end of the court.

Dick Ravenhorst took scoring honors with 14 points.

The game was called off after the Eastern squad became delayed by snowbound roads. This game will be played sometime in February.
