Hot Time at Edens Hall Last Night

Fire completely destroyed the new Edens hall annex and heavily damaged the older section of the building last night.

Bellingham firemen, after receiving the alarm at 6:45 p. m., finally got through the thousands of spectators from MRH and other men's dormitories after a four hour struggle.

The weary firefighters found Lela Haynes, housemother, and the girls toasting marshmallows on the embers and selling them to the spectators at a nickel each. The firemen immediately took advantage of the sale. Fire chief Mike Gopher summed up the opinion of his men by saying "M-good!"

When the blaze was extinguished, the mob entered the badly damaged kitchen and ate the scorched food. "Better than we could ever make it," remarked Luva Baldwin, dormitory dietician, as she took a huge bite of hamburger ashes.

Cause of the fire was attributed to a cigarette carelessly tossed from a window. Chief Gopher commented "You girls should be more careful about flipping your butts around on campus."

Across the Boarder . . . by Degree

In a surprise move this week the Board decided to eliminate the publication of "The Keyhole." The vote was 14 to 1 with the only negative vote coming from William Rodgers, a member of the "Keyhole" staff.

The mainspring of contention seems to be the policy of the "Keyhole." You will recall that in the past the "Keyhole" has printed all the campus news.

This has led, in the past, to many slander suits being filed against the paper but all suits were soon dropped because of strong evidence in support of all the material appearing in the sheet.

KEYHOLE EFFICIENT

The "Keyhole" was able to print all the news because it had agents in all departments and in all the organized houses. It also maintained a special force of agents adept at phonetapping and keyhole supervision.

Rumor has it that the BOC has suspended the operations of this work of truth as a defense measure. It is said that the staff of the paper had in its files and was in the process of obtaining from its many agents evidence of corruption and degeneration in the BOC. One of the charges seems to have been misappropriation of funds.

TAKES OTHER ACTION

The BOC also took action to dispose of the funds remaining in the Keyhole budget. They decided to take 50% of the remainder to outfit the Student Center with all the conveniences of a modern, up-to-date government. The remainder of the funds are to be equally divided between the 14 affirmative voters.

Fortunately, popular subscription has brought in enough funds to continue operation of the paper.

Haggard to Defend Title

President W. W. Haggard, horseshoe champion of WWC, challenges all comers on Campus Day.

Dr. Haggard has among his trophies two silver and two gold horseshoes, gilded of course, which he won in a contest of college presidents at an educational conference in Colorado a few summers ago. It may be true, however, that he did not have as keen a competition as he will have Campus Day.

Last year, thousands of spectators witnessed the game in which President Haggard threw a horseshoe 75 feet, the biggest fling Campus Day has ever seen.

When asked how he learned his skill at barnyard golf, he replied, "It all happened when I was a lad in the land of Davy Crockett."

Million Dollar Bookmaking Ring Smashed

Local police and officers of the Federal Bureau of Investigation made a lightning-like raid on the college yesterday, smashing the ultra-modern bookmaking facilities of Sammy Buchanan, infamous underworld character. The constabulary force crashed through the doors of room 119, and finding Sammy among a battery of telephones with which he supervised one of the largest bookie offices in the country, placed him under arrest. Others arrested in the raid include his chief assistants Ernie "Killer" Sams, and Frankie "Petty Boy" Stimson, recent graduates of San Quentin university. Also implicated in this international crime syndicate was Louis "Lightfinger" Earle who, disguised as a harmless book salesman, collected thousands of dollars in daily bets for the organization.

Doris Buchanan, alias "Ma Barker," was apprehended as she pulled a tommy gun from her purse and attempted to shoot it out with the law enforcement officers. Georgia Carr, another gun moll to the organization, was captured as she climbed through a window, taking the day's receipts with her.

Key witness for the prosecution will be "Chief" Thompson, who, for his doctorate, has been working out a mathematical system for playing the horses. He did not say how much money he had lost, but we hear, via the grapevine, that he has been living on relief for the past several months, and that his wife has threatened to file suit for divorce unless he stops gambling away his pay.

Critchfield Missing

A telegram from the U. S. Government was received by the college this morning informing us that Dr. Howard Critchfield had secretly left Bellingham and gone to Bremerton, where he lied about his age and joined the navy. Said Critchfield, "Ever since I started teaching geography I've wanted to see the

Paul Bunyan Legend Disproved

In a recent article published in the Charles Skookum-Mount Baker enterprizes, a startling observation was made as to the authenticity of one of the age-old legends of Paul Bunyan, who we are remembering this Campus Day, 1955.

The article, written by W. W. Hubert Hoch, tells of an interesting discovery made by geologist Maurice Blatz which points out that Mount Rainier is not the only result of the astounding Mr. Bunyan's scooping out of Puget Sound.

As the story goes, the late Mr. Bunyan used one of the great Alaskan glaciers as a scoop, and with the aid of his faithful blue ox, Babe, proceeded to gouge out harbors and inlets along with the major project—Puget Sound. After gouging, he removed the remains with his trusty shovel.

The contractor who hired Bunyan was a man named Rainier. He had the famous excavator pile the scoopings in a large heap far enough away from the water so that it would not obstruct the view of the sunsets in Seattle City, another project planned by Rainier to exploit Beer and Baseball.

In the history books since the time of excavation it has been claimed that Mount Rainier is the soul result of Bunyan's work.

This is not true according to Blatz. Studying geologic formations in the Mount Rainier area, Blatz, a Bellingham resident, discovered that the geologic strata of Mount Rainier is exactly the same as that of Sehome Hill—with one exception; the Sehome formation is upside down from that of Mount Rainier.

In the final analysis, Blatz postulated that Bunyan faced south when he dug, with one foot on Whidbey Island, and one foot on the mainland. As he shoveled he piled the majority of the dredgings in front of him—on the spot where Mount Rainier now stands.

Now and then, however, he would throw a shovelful over his shoulder and as a result there now stands in the Bellingham area the same geologic formation as Mount Rainier, upside down—Sehome Hill.

world, and this is the best way I can think of to fulfill my dreams."

The startling news was further verified by "Howie's" wife who sobbed tearfully as she explained that her husband had always loved to sail toy boats in the bathtub.

On last report, seaman Critchfield was recuperating in the U. S. Naval Hospital at Pearl Harbor, after having sprained his hip while, like a man possessed with spirits, he was dancing the hula on Waikiki Beach with the girls.

What Sehome Sees . . .

The boys of MRH had another party last night. It was going fine until Big Mac broke it up. He also broke up all the beer bottles.

It is rumored that you know who, was seen you know where, doing you know what, with you know who. Sounds just a wee bit like one of Griswold's finals, doesn't it?

The Board of Control is considering a motion to pave the road to Clayton Bay. It seems that "Deacon" Everson and that runt he runs around with have threatened to take their parties to the roof of Edens hall. Ken "Ollie" Olson suggests holding them at Senior hall, since there isn't enough room at Edens, but that might demoralize those sweet, innocent, and studious Spencer hall girls next door.

"Many students have generously donated their money, time, and reputation to make Clayton Bay what it is today. We can't disappoint them," said ASB president, Ray Cohrs.

A point under investigation is that certain profs are bootlegging grades and tests to the students. How else can they afford those new cars. Of course Dr. Taylor would show up with a new Nash. What else?

Nancy, "The Red Menace" Baker is sporting a new diamond, given to her by fiance, Dick Tisdall. Although the date hasn't been set, we feel that the marriage will be a success since they have so much in common.

The faculty "Bombs" have been secretly turning out for the past several weeks, getting in shape for the big Campus Day game against the students.

"The Lip" boasted, "We'll murder de bums!" as he looked over his superior battery combo of "Rapid" John Kubitski on the mound, and "Killer" Paige behind the plate.

Faculty Out For Blood

"The faculty softball team will be out to avenge its last year's defeat at the hands of the students," said "Leo the Lip" McDonald. "This year the faculty will be carrying a concealed weapon which will be revealed during the game. The students will be crying for mercy at the end of the first inning," "The Lip" said.

"Leo" stated that his team will have no pity on the students. In fact, they are out to humiliate the students. They have been on a strict training schedule and are really taking this year's contest seriously.

How could the faculty lose with such tremendous power as displayed by "Killer" Paige, "Slippery" Saunders, and "Shifty" Haggard during recent practices.

Grand Ol' Opry . . . by Paul

8:16 p. m.—It was raining hard. Babe and I decided to take in that opera, whatever that is. When the curtain went up there stood a lot of people. They must have gotten the costumes mixed up. The men were dressed in short skirts—did they look silly! The girls wore old-fashioned dresses that hung clear to the floor. This one lady singer must have been up late the night before 'cause she was sittin' down when the curtain went up.

Rested, she opened her mouth and began to beller about the fact that she was a lonesome ol' polecat—or somethin'. The crowd must have felt sorry for her 'cause they started, all at once, to give her advice as to how to cure that empty feelin'. They told her to gather illusion flowers. Not very filling.

Soon a gentleman in a long, green skirt that hung to his knees came in. At least it covered his bony legs. Some guys in parts of pots and pans came with him. This must have been the polecat she was waitin' for 'cause she was able to get out of her chair.

The scene changed and we saw some "people" dance in red light all over the stage. All they could do was laugh and say that they liked to break things.

The scene changed again. At least the view is interesting. The lady must be worn out 'cause she's sitting down again. It started to rain so they all ran off for a cup of coffee. Then this "thing" appears and tells the hero he's gotta ship out. He gripes. "Ye Gods! I just get chummy with this girl and the brass sends me off."

In the next scene he tells the girl. She says, "I'm as resolved as you. If you go, you go." He says, "I'll stay!" Now she wants to get rid of him—she can't stand him. After he leaves she is so tired she collapses on the stage.

2:17 a. m.—They start the other half of the program. It was a Trial! It seems that this bright boy jilted this girl and she is suing him. Like

Rare Birds Found

Two interesting specimens of bird life have been added to the stuffed wild life display on the second floor of the administration building. They were captured in the vicinity of the Campus school by Miss Ruth Platt, commissar of the Audubon society.

The stuffed birds include a Hawk and a Crow. The Crow is a descendant of Old Crow himself. Stuffing the Hawk was a bit difficult, said Miss Platt, because the Hawk protested that "I am no stuffed shirt."

"We couldn't possibly put the Old Crow and the Hawk in the same display case," she declared, "for the Old Crow would soon be gone."

any red-blooded English boy he had a roving eye. She doesn't like it—naturally! Neither do the spectators or the jury—free of "pre-ju-dice" of course. The judge is an amiable fellow. There is nothing he likes better than to talk. And talk he does! He tells everybody his life history.

The girl is a sorry state and everybody is on her side, in more ways than one. They call the boy "Monster"—they like him, you see, and have an open "mind." Not deterred the girl says she loves him, and throws her arms around him. To keep him from the other girls, of course. The boy says he's no good for her—he smokes—he drinks—in short, he's no good for her! The judge concurs. He throws him a bottle to make him "tipsy." Unfortunately, the bottle is empty.

Finally, the judge gives up. He marries the girl himself. Even after committing himself he still talks about himself!

8:16 a. m.—The show is over. I have one statement. "SO WHAT!"

A&L Series To Improve

Some of the world's greatest entertainers and speakers will be featured on our Artist and Lecturers series next year," announces Dr. Frank D'Andrea, chairman of the A&L committee.

The series will include, among others:

"Ike" Eisenhower, who will speak on the "Virtues of the Democratic Party."

Dr. Alfred Kinsey, giving a report on "The Sex Life of an Average American College Student."

The Broadway production of "The Moon Is Blue," with the original cast and script.

Martha Raye, the last of the "Red-hot Grandmas," displaying her world famed talents.

"Sex Life of An Atom," a talk by J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Georgi Malenkov, who will deliver a lecture in which he denounces the Communistic form of free love.

"The Love Life of a Liver Fluke," a topic to be discussed by Bob Hope, "America's laugh sensation of the 20th century."

Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher singing several popular numbers together.

And Gypsy Rose Lee, presenting a cultured demonstration entitled, "Nine Ways to Undress." She intends to bring out the bare facts of this important topic.

Some girls go to such lengths to get a mink coat that when they finally get one, they have trouble buttoning it.

Sports Writer Visits Western Washington

My old buddy Willie Savvy was visiting me the other day. Willie is the sports writer for one of the big dailies in Seattle. He stayed overnight with me, so I had the opportunity of treating him to one of the super-delectable breakfasts at Edens Hall.

"Say Pal," he says, "this here now cremated monkey tongues, cold patch, and battery acid reminds me of the army, but the burned toast tastes homemade — real George!"

"Quiet, Willie! That's bacon, egg and coffee."

NO DIPLOMAT!

Willie just wasn't cut out to be a diplomat.

"Well, excuse us," says Willie. "This's real good, what there is of is—I mean, there's plenty of it, such as it is. Anyhow, why are you worrying about yer football prospects fer nex' year? I predik ya'll be tops in th' league."

"Really! Hey Willie—give with some more. If that's your opinion, I want to write it up for the Collegian. All the sports fans up here follow your colyum. What makes you think we'll be tops?"

TEAM HAS ENTHUSIASM

"Well chum, any school where th' coach starts spring trainin' this early, an' where he works th' team so hard they even come t'breakfast in their uniforms, is bound to get somewhere inna league."

"Spring training? Uniforms at breakfast? Whaddaya mean, Willie?"

"Well, see fer y'self—over there in practice suits, wearin' hip and shoulder pads."

WESTERN AMAZONS

"Willie! Shhhhh! Them are some of the gals that live here. They're wearin' toreador pants an' sweaters!"

"No pads? Gawsh, looks like two guards anna fullback, t'me. Y'mean they allus look like that at breakfast?"

"Come, Willie. I gotta go to class now. Quick!"

Lappenbusch Writes Best Seller

Charles F. Lappenbusch, football coach at WWC and author of the "Two Spittoon System," has written a new book called "Straight Line Defense in the Parked Car."

Says Lappenbusch, "This is something that every girl should know."

Autographed copies of this sensational new book may be picked up in Coach Lappenbusch's office in the PE building.

Gelder Caught Red Handed

Last week found Dr. Maurice Free hill in a psychological quandry as he sought to explain the strange enigmatic behavior of one Harvey Gelder. Gelder, despite his honest appearance, has an uncontrollable urge to lift railroad trains.

TRAINS MISSING

The mysterious disappearance of the "Empire Builder" and the "Great Northern Limited" from the GNNR yards in Seattle caused the police to institute an investigation that culminated with the finger of suspicion pointing at Gelder.

A clever police trap resulted in the nabbing of the erratic mathematics professor as he made off with the Santa Fe Super-Chief. The Santa Fe Super-Chief is not to be confused with the Great High and Honored Super-Chief. In carrying out the provisions of a search warrant obtained in Judge Ed Arntzan's circuit court, detectives found the missing trains, together with a navy destroyer and a Russian T-34 tank, on Gelder's palatial country estate known as "Lakewood."

FREEHILL INTERPRETS

Freehill, Western Washington college psychologist in charge of headshrinking, is seeking to interpret the explanation given by Gelder. Said Gelder when confronted by police and faced with the evidence, "Everybody should have a hobby—I like boats, and tanks too."

conditions which could be compared with the most rugged terrain in the world. So now at long last High street will be put to good use. "If a tank will make this 'un, it's a good 'un," said General J. Lotham Crawlings.

New Courses Offered for Fall Quarter

"Five new courses of Loungeology 205½, Introduction to the Philosophy of Classical Jukebox Numbers, have been thrown open to WWC students," stated Lon Harris, registrar.

Loungeology 205½ is a one-half credit course which concerns the effect of the jukebox on Western society and how it has influenced the Aborigines with fundamental concepts on the future humanistic outlooks of clean-cut, all-American kiddies.

The course includes laboratory work in jukebox kicking, coffee drinking, and television watching. Ash tray stealing is optional.

"Each class will be offered from 12 midnight to 6 a.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, and Sunday respectively," stated Harris. "It is strongly urged," he continued, "that the student have 20 hours of classical record listening per week plus a written recommendation from Miss Tooth, music department authority on Bach, Beethoven and pop." In addition to the above requirement, two quarters of non-credit lounge experience are required.

It is rumored the course is taught

Sehome Hill Shrinking Fast

According to a report from Dr. Herbie Hind, professor of geology, Sehome Hill is gradually shrinking. He states that by the year 2955, Sehome Hill will be a mere "has been."

Professor Hind lays the blame for this disaster on the students of Western, who make regular trips to Sehome, to chip away at the rock and take samples for their classes in geology and paleontology, or as a souvenir of one of their many mountain conquests.

"Students should be more considerate and think of the consequences of their actions before chipping off a piece on Sehome," said Professor Hind.
